The search is on for new school superintendent

Mayor's request fell on deaf ears

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann's request that an aldermen be included on the search committee for Superintendent Aaron Fink's replacement appears likely to be ignored by the School Committee.

Although the School Committee lost fiscal autonomy to the Board of Aldermen under Proposition 2 ½, no mention was made of Mann's request as the committee neared agreement on the partial makeup of the search committee this week at a meeting at Bigelow Junior High.

The request was made by Mann at the Sept. 21 meeting in light of the changes in the school budget approval process.

Fink, who has served as superintendent for 13 years, announced this September that he will resign at the end of Aug. 1982.

Broad community representation is a priority for the majority of the School Committee and tentative guidelines for the search committee call for a maximum of 15 members. This is to include a minimum of two members from each of the following groups: the PTA Council, Newton principals, teachers, high school students and central administration staff.

These representatives would be selected by their own membership.

There is less agreement on the makeup of the remainder of the search committee, which will include members of the School Committee as well various community organizations.

The majority appears to support naming four members of the current School Committee. Although there has been debate, consensus was reached at the last meeting that no incoming members elected in November would be named as School Committee representatives to the search committee.

Of the possible four members, outgoing members Sandra Fleishman and Honora Kaplan are likely to be selected because of their range of experience on the School Committee.

However, Fleishman has called the tentative guidelines for ap-

NEWTON — In the old days, it seemed much easier to find a replacement for a resigning superintendent of schools in Newton.

One former committee member in 1969 when Aaron Fink was selected, told the present committee recently, "We simply went ahead and advertised."

Fink announced this September that he will resign at the end of Aug. 1982 and the committee has begun discussing the procedure for the search for his replacement.

According to Alvin Mandell, who along with other members of the School Committee in 1969 conducted the entire search and interview process for a new superintendent, the present committee is "making it much more difficult for themselves than is actually required."

Mandell told the committee, "It sounds like you're going to Philadelphia to rewrite the Constitution."

Mandell said the process during his term involved simply setting up subcommittees to place advertisements and establish the requirements. The field of applicants was then narrowed to less than twenty who were interviewed by the entire School Committee.

'Bottle bill' rally fizzles in Newton

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — State Rep. Susan Schur (D-Newton) and other supporters of a bill designed to reduce litter by requiring deposits on beverage containers urged Governor Edward J. King to sign the legislation at an informal rally this week.

At the Newton Centre Common rally, Schur said the bottle bill would significantly reduce litter and save energy. The legislation would require a nickel or dime deposit on beverage containers. Opponents argue that the bill will result in a loss of jobs and increase prices for beer and soft drinks.

The rally, which attracted little attention from local residents passing the common, included a 25-foot high tent-like replica of a bottle that read: "Bottle Bill - Make it in Massachusetts." The rally was organized by Mass Public Interest Research Group - a non-profit research and advocacy organization.

The legislation was approved in the House by a 100 to 55 vote several weeks ago. The Senate was scheduled to take final action on the bill this seek. Both the Senate and House appear to be just short of the necessary two-thirds majority to override a King veto.

King, who vetoed a similar bill in 1979, said he would reconsider his position on the bill. King, however, has not indicated a significant shift of his position.

"People don't want to pay extra money for the returnable bottles and cans," Schur said. "They Whither Egypt without Sadat?

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — "Once again," claims Rolf Wichmann, a professor of political science at Boston College, "we're (the United States) stuck in a bad situation because we hinged all our policy on the personality of one leader."

Wichmann, who specializes in Middle Eastern studies at the Jesuit school, said Tuesday it will be very difficult for the new Egyptian regime to continue the internal and external policies of President Anwar Sadat.

He also noted that the Sadat murder may cause Saudi Arabia to re-examine her relationship vis-a-vis the United States. "There are elements within the Saudi royal family who do not enjoy the present relationship between the Saudis and the United States and they could very well use this as an excuse not to have a close association with us."

"They may conclude that Sadat's relationship with the United States was what eventually did him in," said Wichmann of the Saudi family's fear of radical Nationalists and Islamic fundamentalists.

"The Saudis," in the wake of the assassination, "will be very hesitant to go for a joint command with the United States over the AWAC planes," he said.

President Ronald Reagan is currently mobilizing Congressional support for the proposed sale of advanced radar planes to Saudi Arabia despite heated opposition both in this country and in Israel.

U.S. Rep. Barney Frank, reached in Washington yesterday afternoon, said the assassination "pointed out the irrelevance of the AWAC sale to the Saudi regime."

"In the Middle East, stability comes from within," noted Frank.

On the United States' comprehensive policy for the region, the freshman congressman said: "We have not given the Israeli-Egyptian peace accord enough support, nor have we applied enough pressure to the Saudis to join the peace process."

"An awful lot is going to happen depending on the regime that takes over," said a cautious Frank. "Both the United States and Israel should do everything they can to ensure that this new regime is committed to the peace process."

Frank also said that Israel, which is scheduled to withdraw from the Sinai in April, must be guaranteed that she will not be hurt by such a withdrawl.

Wichmann said the assassination would make Israel "reluctant" to return the rest of the Sinai desert to Egypt, unless she received "strong assurances from both Egypt and the United States."

"This is going to reinforce the belief that regimes in the Middle East are not all that stable," said Wichmann of his perception on how Washington would view the assassination.

Campaign heats up over smoke devices

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Bruce Marquis, who will face Mayor Theodore Mann in the mayoral contest Nov. 3, criticized the mayor this week for failing to install smoke detectors in municipal buildings at least two years ago.

Fire Chief Edward Reilly requested that smoke detectors be installed in all municipal buildings in October 1980. Building Commissioner Allan Fraser sent the executive department a memo outlining Reilly's concerns in December 1980.

Reilly has stressed in recent months that millions of dollars in damage could have been avoided in the three school buildings gutted by fire over the last two years if the buildings contained smoke detectors rather than antiquated heat detectors.

Smoke detectors are much more sensitive than the heat detectors, installed 25 years ago, and would have alerted firefighters much sooner, according to Reilly.

The Warren Junior High School received extensive damage from a blaze in December 1979. In addition, the Hyde Elementary School and the Charles Brown Junior High School received more than $4 million in damages as a result of fires this year.

In a prepared statement, Marquis said Mann requested the installation of smoke detectors recently "only at the prompting of the School Committee."

Mann authorized funding for the smoke detectors after the School Committee approved a resolution "urgently" requesting that the detectors be installed in all schools. The School Committee passed the resolution on May 26.

Noting that a city ordinance passed by aldermen more than two years ago which requires residents to install smoke detectors in their homes, Marquis asked: "Where was the mayor's foresight and concern for the public safety, including the safety of firefighters who were under great danger during these incidents?"

In responding to the charges, Mann pointed out that every building in the city has heat detectors. Smoke detectors have been installed in the schools recently gutted by fire.

Mann said he was "the principal architect" of the fire prevention program and the law requiring installation of smoke detectors in homes, also countered: "Where was he (Marquis) two or three years ago?...It's funny that

Smoke detectors, radio system voted

By Jonathan Greenspan

NEWTON - Aldermen, in two separate moves this week , appropriated $600,000 from surplus and "free cash" monies to enhance the fire fighting ability and safety of city firemen.

Acting on the recommendation of Fire Chief Edward Reilly, the board approved $300,000 each for the installation of smoke detectors in all municipal buildings and the purchase of a new radio system.

In another fire-related vote, aldermen extended the city's contract with Metro Fire, the fire protection network that incorportates 34 cites and towns into a cooperative fire fighting system.

The monies, which some aldermen said should have been held until the completion of revaluation, will be taken from the more than $2 million the city has in "free cash" accumulated from surplus and additional state aid. According to Deputy Mayor James Hickey, the city has about $850,000 remaining in its excess revenue account after last night's appropriations.

"There is no doubt that these items are necessary," said Alderman Richard McGrath, cautioning board members against a hasty vote, "but we're still faced with the uncertainty of revaluation."

"I'm asking that these monies be held four months until revaluation becomes certain, he continued. "Until these issues (the city also faces a possible reduction in state aid) are settled, the board is acting irresponsibly."

The city could face as much as an additional $11 million shortfall if the Department of Revenue fails to certify the city's revaluation figures. The accelerated revaluation, which is being conducted by the Acton firm of Fin-

Art should tell a story

Newton architect Nast has a philosophy

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON HIGHLANDS—William Nast has been evoking beauty in Newton with an old-fashioned approach to art.

Nast, an 80-year-old architect from Newton Highlands who has designed dozens of homes, stores, restaurants and public buildings in Newton, feels that architecture, like any form of art, should be simple and balanced, something that people can understand.

"Modern architecture doesn't relate to people," says Nast, who is also a painter and carpenter."Most people can't see what's going on."

In his attic workshop, which looks more like a memorabilia store because it's packed with old books, posters from the 1940's and 1950's, and a variety of collectables, Nast proudly displays an oil painting he did in the 1940's.

A white bulldog, who bears the typical United States Marine Corps hat is the original Marine Corp Mascot. In several weeks, the painting will be auctioned off at a black-tie affair in Los Angelas, where people such as former president Gerald Ford will make bids for the painting.

Whether paintings or architecture, art should tell a story, says Nast, who was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York and attended the Pratt Institute of Architecture.

"When you see a Saturday Evening Post cover with a Norman Rockwell picture on it, you can understand the story, without words. This is art, and this architecture the way it should be when you see it"' says Nast, who lived in Brookline for several years before moving to his present home in 1929.

Nast, who is now retired from Stone and Webster Firm, but works in private practice, is still active. He continues to paint, draw and design and is actively involved in Newton's Retired Men's Club, where he is the president.

For 17 years, he taught design to architectural students at the Boston Architectural Center, where he was a volunteer, and several years ago taught carpentry to junior high school students in Newton Public Schools, which his only son, Roger, attended.

Sitting at a work table in his shop, which he and his son built several years ago, Nast glances at pictures of work that he has done, and compares it to modern work.

"Much of it (modern designs) violates everything I was ever taught when I learned architecture. Balancing, for instance, and lack of taste, judgment and proportion."

Nast's Newton Highlands home is consistent with the way he thinks well-done architecture should look. It's a a cozy, one-story, red-brick house that

Lodge is new editor for Newton Graphic

NEWTON— Richard K. Lodge, a prize winning editor and photographer, has been named News Editor of The Newton Graphic.

Lodge assumed the post this week. Prior to coming to The Graphic he had been a news photographer for The Middlesex News of Framingham, and The Transcript in North Adams, Mass.

He had also been managing editor of the Marblehead Messenger in Marblehead, Mass.

The Graphic's new news editor has won awards from the New England Press Association for both spot news and general news as well as pictorial photography. The Messenger, with Lodge as editor, was honored for general editorial excellence in 1979. He has also been a staff instructor at The New England School of Photography in Boston.

Lodge was graduated from the Boston University School of Public Communications in 1977 and attended the New England School of Photography. He is married to Marcia Boundy. They have been residents of Ashland and are planning to move to Newton.

pointing members to the committee "heavily school loaded" and said there should be more parents, community organizations and business constituents involved.

Monday night the committee also approved an initial $10,000 budget for the search and interviewing process, a search which will be national in scope.

This amount does not include the hiring of a consultant which both Fleishman and Robert Ricles support.

Susan Silbey countered, "Unless we have to beat the bushes...it is not clear to me why we need a consultant."

Although Wellesley is currently conducting a search for a new superintendent and is planning to use a consultant, Kaplan said, "I am reluctant to allocate funds from this budget unless I see an absolute imperative to do so."

The School Committee will again discuss the process for replacing Fink at its next meeting on Oct. 26.

Big turnout is key to Marquis mayoral win

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Despite finishing 4,533 votes behind Mayor Theodore Mann in the preliminary, Waban Businessman Bruce Marquis believes with a large voter turnout he can win the November 3 election.

"What we want to do is turn out the highest vote possible throughout the city," Marquis said in a recent interview. "We believe the mayor's strength has voted...The key to us is the turnout."

The local insurance salesman said his campaign has developed a plan, which he refused to disclose, to get a large turnout of voters in the election. Marquis also said he plans to raise $10,000 to $15,000 for advertising and campaign expenses.

"I think enough people are dissatisfied to beat him (Mann)," said Marquis. "But not unless I am able to get them out to vote."

Marquis has a full campaign schedule for the next five weeks including plans to visit MBTA stations and bus stops every weekday morning.

With a sharp increase in burglaries over the last 10 years, Marquis said he will criticize Mann for allowing the police force to be "understaffed."

"This is something that affects everyone in the city," he noted. "Not just one socio-economic class...I have said all along that funding of public safety is my highest priority."

He also lashed out at the mayor for "dragging feet" on installation of smoke detectors in public buildings and revaluation. He said that millions of dollars in damage caused by school fires in the last year could have been avoided if Mann approved recommendations to install smoke detectors. Municipal and school buildings contain "heat detectors" which are outdated.

Marquis said the Mann administration has also played "political games" with revaluation. An Acton firm is currently conducting an acccelerated revaluation to bring property to "100 percent full and fair cash value" before Jan. 1. As a result, the city has received legislative approval to send out estimated tax bills. The estimated bill will come out in late October. Residents will not receive the second bill, which will show a significant jump for many, until after the November election.

Marquis called the estimated tax bills a "political smokescreen."

"If the people were to get their property tax bills before the next election, I would win easily," he said.

If the revaluation is not certified by the Department of Revenue, the city would face an additional $11 million cut from this year's municipal budget. The cut could result in the layoff of an additional 500 municipal workers.

Marquis, who admitted that Mann has a powerful political machine, said, "I think the way to beat him is to get the message out that he has made mistakes and 10 years is enough. The problems facing us now have to be solved by a new administration."

Marquis said that he will debate Mann "anytime, anyplace, day or night."

Mann also said he would welcome a debate with Marquis. "I have no objection to debating him," Mann said. "I already have several times."

Two artists show work

NEWTONVILLE — Pat Walker and Ellen Stutman will exhibit their works at the Newton Arts Center, 61 Washington Park, Newtonville, on Oct. 25 through Nov. 15.

An opening reception will be held Sunday, Oct. 25, 2-5 p.m. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9-5; Sundays 2-4 p.m.

Using acrylic and charcoal, Pat Walker creates the inages of ancient Egyptian temple art. The six by six foot paintings are presented through a series of interlocking canvases.

Ellen Stutman uses oil and watercolor on paper to express varying moods of trees, fields, and people. The pieces represent landscapes from location.

Backman hits food stamp cuts

Thousands of elderly and disabled Massachusetts residents who became eligible for food stamps on Oct. 1 will have their Supplemental Security Income (S.S.I.) benefits cut by about $10 per month according to a King Administration plan criticized by Sen. Jack Backman.

The 5,000 potential food stamp applicants whose benefits will be cut have already received notice of the reduction.

In a letter to Welfare Commissioner Thomas Spirito, Backman charged, "I know of nothing within our budget or general laws that gives you the authority to cut back on these S.S.I. recipients. It would appear that this is a callous and gross action on the part of some administrator within your department." Backman has demanded that the plan to cut benefits be cancelled.

Gov. King announced the new food stamp program at a State House gathering of senior citizens. He did not mention the S.S.I. benefit cutbacks. The Governor had asked the Legislature to postpone the start of the program for two years, but both the House and Senate rejected his proposal.

At a recent hearing before the Legislature's Joint Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs which Senator Backman chairs, Secretary of Elder Affairs Thomas Mahoney was not aware of any plan to cut benefits. According to Sen. Backman, Mahoney has now discovered that such a program was being designed but claims that it is being reviewed on the basis of Backman's objections.

Bottle bill rally fizzles in Newton

don't seem to realize they are paying extra money for the cleanup of litter and solid waste disposal."

Throughout the day, Boston College students and Mass PIRG officials manned a small table with a variety of literature and information on the bill. The organization also offered interested local residents a stamped addressed letter to King urging that he sign the bill.

Schur, who lobbied for the measure in the House, disputed claims that the bill will result in a loss of jobs. "Actually the bill will increase jobs," said Schur. Although one bottling plant in the state will be forced to close, she said that many new jobs will be created in the trucking, clerical and recycling industries by the bill.

A recent study by the state Department of Environmental Affairs contends that ultimately 2,000 to 3,000 more jobs will be created in the Massachusett than lost if the bill becomes law.

Rep. Susan Schur

Both Schur and state Rep. David Cohen (D-Newton) voted for the bill. State Rep.Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham) voted against the bill.

In a short interview, DeNucci argued that the bill would result in higher prices and a loss of jobs.

"I am concerned about the quality of our environment in Massachusetts, he said, "but at what expense? Higher prices and a loss of jobs are my concern." DeNucci, a consistent labor supporter, called the bill "an overrated issue." The state Labor Council has strongly opposed the bill.

Schur called the labor council's opposition "shortsighted."

"The unions in other states where the bottle bill has implemented are not opposed to it," she said. "They realize it makes sense and does not cost jobs."

Newton League of Women Voter's President Sandy Butzel, who attended the rally, said members have vigorously lobbied DeNucci to change his position on the bill. In addition, Schur pointed out that DeNucci could be a critical vote in a move to override a King veto.

Richard Hannigan, Boston College Mass PIRG director and coordinator of the rally, said that the organization has been mounting a massive campaign urging voters to write to King in support of the bill.

"It is important for people to let King know how they feel about this," he said. "I think he is under pressure from certain interests not to sign it (the bill). But he is up for reelection and needs votes."

Hannigan contended that support for the bill has increased considerably since 1979 because of the "success" of the law in the six states which have implemented it particularly in Michigan - a large industrial state considered a test case for Massachusetts.

we only hear from this guy when he runs for mayor."

Furthermore, Mann said that Newton has the highest fire insurance rating possible.

He also noted that Marquis, who was raised in Newton and left to attend college, only moved back into the city three years ago.

"Any registered voter has a right to run for public office," Marquis responded. "He (Mann) never disagrees with me when I bring up a problem; he just attacks me personally...I think he ought to stick to the issues and stop resting on his laurels."

Marquis, who has campaigned for full funding and staffing of Police and Fire Departments, also filed an item Monday requesting that aldermen investigate:

•public safety inspections in the last two years to check other public buildings for electrical and other deficiencies.

•safety programs now in effect in public schools and other public buildings to respond quickly to emergency situations including fire.

Marquis

Mann

In addition, Marquis urged the board to investigate the response time by the Police Department and Fire Department for the August fire at the Brown Junior High School.

Marquis said a firemen told him that the response time was delayed because the Police Department did not immediately inform the Fire Department of the possible fire.

Some have claimed that police first inspected the school to verify a report from an anonymous caller that there was a fire at the school rather than immediately informing the Fire Department.

Reilly, who investigated the charges previously, said he "did not really know" if police did not immediately inform the Fire Department. However, Reilly said he was satisfied that police did not delay after listening to tapes of the call to the Fire Department.

negan Associates, must be completed by Jan. 1.

Reilly, who requested of the executive department the installation of smoke detectors in all municipal buildings in late 1980, again expressed the importance of a change in fire detecting systems.

According to Reilly, the city could have avoided millions of dollars worth of damage this past year if both the Hyde and Charles Brown schools were equiped with smoke detectors rather than antiquated heat detectors.

"Both would have ended up minor fires," said Reilly of the school disasters. "The damage would have been considerably less at Hyde and at Meadowbrook (Charles Brown) the first fire would have tripped the alarm."

Reilly also emphasized the importance of a new radio system which will aid the city's fire fighting ability and the protection of firemen.

"The radio system at best isn't a good system," said Reilly. "The walkie talkies don't work at all in any buildings with steel beems."

He noted that the failure of the present system during the Hyde School blaze caused him to send in six to eight additional men to retrieve firefighters who were unaware of a possible roof collapse.

"In order for a ground commander to be in contact with the men inside and know where they are, we must have a new system," he continued. Reilly also mentioned that he can longer purchase parts for the system which is now 25-years-old.

Building Commissioner Allan Fraser said the city would save about 25 percent in insurance premiums with the installation of smoke detecting devices. At present, the city pays an annual premium of $125,000 for insurance on approximately $150 million worth of municipal buildings and their contents.

However, due to the more than $4 million worth of damages sustained over the past 20 months in three separate school fires, the premium could increase substantially.

"Our agent said that since the Meadowbrook fire he's been deluged with inquires on what steps the city has taken to minimize the magnitude of losses," noted Fraser. "With an early warning system, it is highly unlikely any losses would clear the deductable of $100,000."

One of six insurance companies co-insuring the city canceled (since replaced) its share in the city's policy after the Charles Brown school fire.

The $300,000 project would cover the installation ot smoke detectors in 20 schools, 15 Recreation Dept. buildings, eight fire stations, 10 libraries and eight public works buildings.

Art should tell a story, says Newton architect Nast resembles the Colonial style that he is so fond of.

In 1929, Nast designed the quaint-looking house, and hired building contractors to construct it on a lot of land that cost $800.

Nast chuckles as he remembers when he moved to Newton Highlands that year. Things have changed quite a bit.

"Why, this place was just a wilderness when I came here, my dear," Nast reminisces. There was no postal service and the Nasts had to walk to the post office to pick up their mail.

During those years, the Boston to Albany Railroad ran through the Highlands, stopping at the Highlands Circuit Station, which wasn't far from Nast's home.

He chose to live in Newton Highlands because of that train service into Boston, where he worked for Stone and Webster, one of the largest architectural firms in the world.

Unfortunately, Nast was laid off from his job when the Depression hit the country later that year, shortly after he moved into his new home with his wife and a baby boy, Roger, their only child.

"I got a job working in a drugstore on Beacon Street in Brookline," remebers Nast. "I worked seven days a week for $10."

Nast would leave work at midnight, take a train to Clevland Circle in Brighton, then walk home to the Highlands.

"I don't remember how long it took me, but it was quite a walk," Nast says quitely, as he gazes down at some papers, his thoughts taking him back 53 years.

When the economy improved, Nast returned to Stone and Webster, where his career flourished.

Nast helped to design buildings, shopping centers, hospitals, train stations and other utility projects all over the country.

In Newton, Nast designed "the first real supermarket,"Star Market. It was torn down in the mid-1950's when the Massachusetts Turnpike was constructed. A new Star Market was built at the same site, off Walnut Street in Newtonville.

"I felt rather badly about it (tearing down the market that he designed). But that's progress. It served its purpose."

Nast also designed several stores in Newton Corner, including the old Woolworth's store and Sklar's Market on Gayland Street, as well as several shops in the Gorin Leeder Building in Newton Corner.

Nast searches fruitlessly for information about the dozen or more homes he designed in Newton. In his workshop, Nast is surrounded with shelves stacked with old books and dusty logs that list hundreds of projects that he worked on. He can't remember all the homes he designed in Newton, but recalls a few in particular.

"I did a deck house on 70 Countryside Road and another house, around the corner here, at 36 Parker Avenue," Nast remembers, while he continues to flip through pages of old log.

In Newton, Nast designed "the first real supermarket,"Star Market. It was torn down in the mid-1950's when the Massachusetts Turnpike was constructed. A new Star Market was built at the same site, off Walnut Street in Newtonville.

Nast gives up and changes the conversation to some more recent work that he has done. "Are you familiar with the Yem Mee Resteraunt in Auburndale? I redesigned that."

Nast's favorite architectural design in Newton isn't one that he created. It is, however, one of the city's better-known buildings-Newton City Hall.

"In my opinion, Newton City Hall is one of the finest buildings in the city," says Nast of the appealing, red-brick colonial building that graces Commonwealth Avenue in Newton Centre. "It's a very attractive building."

Nast also stressed that city hall, which brought an award to the architectural team that designed it, also looks like it belongs in the Garden City. "It's very fitting for a city like Newton.'

Designing a building so that it fits a location is important to Nast, who favors well-done Colonial over other styles of architecture particularly because Colonial style is more indiginous to New England than other designs.

In fact, one of the reasons why Nast doesn't like most modern designs is because they usually don't compliment the location for which they're being built. He claims "many times, modern architecture doesn't fit the site. It's just a heap of concrete, not really indiginous to the area."

Newton North High School is a good example of this problem, says Nast, who was flabergasted when the former Newton High School buildings were torn down "to put up that heap of brick."

The present high school, which some people say resembles a prison because it has so few windows, is located on Lowell Avenue in Newtonville, on the opposite side of a lot where the former high school was located several years ago. The high school consisted of several cream-colored brick buildings, which were torn down when the larger building was put up . Nast doesn't understand why the plain, drab building was constructed in its place. "It does nothing for the atmosphere of the city," he explans.

Nast was not only bewildered by the construction of the unattractive school, which he says lacks any design, but also angry that the old buildings were destroyed.

"I was very distressed when they tore them down," Nasts says emotionally."They were beautiful."

Nast pauses, and shuffles aside some books on his work table, then continues to talk fervently about the destruction of the school. He talks as if someone had stolen from him something that he treasured.

"They were attractive buildings, very well-done and in good taste. They lent a good atmosphere to the city. To destroy that is shocking."

He had hoped that the buildings could have been utilized by the city as elderly housing or some form of subsidized housing. "It's unfortunate," he says, shaking his head.

Nast says that todays architects think his style of architecture is "old-fashioned" and that may be a reason for destroying it.

But Nast isn't opposed to progress. In fact he favors some recent proposals for redevelopement in Newton, and critical of the people who tried to block projects in Newton Corner and Auburndale.

"People are objecting to what other people want to do and they haven't the slightest idea what's going on," says Nast, who mentioned that the proposal by developer Ronald Druker, to revitalize Newton Corner, would be good for the area.

William Nast

"I think what these people are trying to do in Newton Corner would make Newton Corner," says Nast, who feels that the area is in desperate need of a facelift.

"There's no doubt that it's an area which has been run down for a long time. The proposal was well conceived and would have made good use of the area."

"It was the same thing at the Marriot," Nast continues. Several months ago, the Marriot Hotel in Auburndale wanted to construct additional parking at the hotel. But many Newton residents were opposed to the plan. "It would have benefited the city in many ways, because there certainly would be tax money available from these properties."

Nast describes the people who opposed the projects as "small-minded, not very intelligent people."

"They're obstructionists."

But as a whole, Nast likes Newton, both the architecture, as well as the government here, which he says has done a good job at keeping Newton a quality community, where he has also helped to make it one.

Taking a look at Mayor Mann's strengths

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Community leaders cite a variety of reasons for Mayor Theodore Mann's political strength, but nearly all of them agree that the stability of the city is one of biggest factors.

Many also noted that Mann has developed a political network of friends and supporters through his long political career that his challengers will be hard pressed to match.

Mann captured an amazing 60 percent of the vote in the Sept. 22 preliminary aganist Waban Businessman Bruce Marquis and Alderman Mark White. Marquis will face the mayor in the November 3 final.

Many local leaders emphasized that Newton residents have not seen large jumps in the tax rate over the last 10 years of the Mann administration.

Many local leaders emphasized that Newton residents have not seen large jumps in the tax rate over the last 10 years of the Mann administration.

Mann will certainly not incur the wrath of taxpayers in the November election. The city has received the green light to send out estimated tax bills (no more than last years) because an accelerated revaluation being conducted by an Acton firm will not be completed until Jan. 1.

Residents receiving a large jump in their tax bill will not see the increase until they receive the second bill after the November election. Residents will receive the first property tax bill in late October. Mann has predicted that after the election one third of the residents will see an increase in their tax bill; one third will receive a decrease and one third will see no increase or decrease.

Marquis said that if the election was to take place after the second tax bills were sent out he would win the contest "easily."

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris emphasized that Mann has avoided a political fumble on the two issues that will compel voters to turn an incumbent out of office in Newton - taxes and land use decisions affecting neighborhoods.

"I think the mayor has successfully avoided any liability for the financial situation most people face," explained Morris. "Proposition 2½ is viewed as something that was mandated from above. The general economic climate is viewed as something that is beyond local control."

Morris also pointed out that the Board of Aldermen has taken the heat on controversial land use issues such as the proposed revitalization of Newton Corner and the expansion of the Marriott Hotel. In addition, the city has successfully survived the first year of Proposition 2½ without cutting into vital services.

If voters are not upset about taxes or the land use decisions affecting their neighborhoods, Morris said, they have no reason to vote against Mann. "You need a reason to vote an incumbent out of office," he noted.

Alderman Dominic Taglienti also pointed to the city's tax rate as the primary reason for Mann's political power. "It is a very good tax rate for a city of 80,000 people," he said. "He's kept it down. What else can you ask a mayor to do?"

Alderman Robert Tennant, a longtime Mann supporter and friend, attributed the mayor's popularity to his accessibility. "He always seems to be available and I think this means a helluva lot to people," Tennant said. He also praised Mann's "hard work."

"This guy is absolutely soaked up in this city," Tennant said. "He eats it, sleeps it, and talks it."

Alderman Richard McGrath, however, maintained that it was Mann's political skill that has kept him in the second floor City Hall office. "His office has the highest visibility of any elected office in the city and he takes full advantage of it," explained McGrath. "Teddy Mann campaigns 24 hours a day, seven days a week and he leaves men like (Deputy Mayor) Jim Hickey to run the city."

"He has a good grasp of what it takes to get elected and he uses the mayor's office to get it done," McGrath added.

Many aldermen stressed that Mann has built a solid foundation of support in Ward 8 that is impossible to crack. Mann recieved 1,686 votes in ward 8 in the preliminary comparted to 223 for Marquis and 204 for White. Mann was an alderman from ward 8 from 1958 to 1965.

"He has always had a strong nucleus of support from ward 8," Alderman Paul Coletti said. "He has never failed to get a large number of votes from the ward."

Many emphasized that Newton, a wealthy and attractive bedroom community, simple does not face the problems to get people angry enough to turn out an incumbent with Mann's political power.

"The city of Newton is still one of the nicest cities to live in and you have the mayor to thank for that," said Coletti.

Sadat: A marked man

Another man of peace has fallen in a hail of bullets.

This time, however, little suprise. Less shock.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was a marked man. He knew it. His friends knew it. His enemies swore to it, and ultimately, succeeded.

A self-styled liberation group claimed "credit" for the 63-year-old statesman's assassination yesterday. While the motives of the rebel soldiers who fired upon Sadat are still to be fully explained, the message from the Mideast seems all too plain.

The price for bold statesmanship, courageous moderation and a turning away from war to peace is death.

This son of a peasant, this former revolutionary firebrand, became a marked man on a November day in 1977 when he stunned the world and incurred the wrath of most Arab nations by a daring personal visit to Jerusalem. This courageous overture led to the first peace treaty between Israel and any Arab state.

The majority of Arab states reacted predictably, villifying Sadat while breaking off relations, economic aid and moving the Arab League headquarters.

Sadat's fate was surely sealed when he humanely welcomed the dying king without a kingdom, the exiled and spurned shah of Iran. The Islamic fundamentalists, growing in power, welcomed the chance to further attack Sadat.

Sadat was an unlikely candidate to become a man of peace. He switched from battling Israelis to conquering hatred and mistrust. His arsenal became one of words rather than bullets.

From revolutionary with Gamal Nasser to statesman with Menachem Begin, his career was marked by daring. He started a war with Israel in 1973 and sat down on Christmas Day with her prime minister in 1977 to end hostilities.

He was an equally unlikely candidate to become a friend of America. There were 15,000 Soviet advisers when he took over as president in 1970. Two years later he gave them the boot.

Sadat started with the Kremlin, switched to Kissinger and Cronkite on the evening news, and capped the transition with his journey to Camp David with Jimmy Carter and Begin.

His halting but somehow captivating English became as familiar to us as the ever-present pipe.

For Sadat there was no retret, either from the road to peace with Israel, or the desire to resolve the Palestinian issue.

He achieved the first: Israel withdrew from Sinai lands conquered in the six-day war and normal relations with Egypt were established. The second goal, an autonomy scheme for 1.2 million Arabs living on Jordan's West Bank and Gaza Strip, eluded him.

Now the question for Israel, on this, the sad eighth anniversary of the 1973 war, is what happens next in Egypt. Will Sadat's reapproachment with Israel end, like his life, in gunfire?

For America, a reassessment is due on the sale of AWACS reconnaisance planes to Saudi Arabia. Lest we forget, Saudi Arabia was one of those "moderate" Arabs states that broke off relations with Egypt after Sadat reestablished normal relations with Egypt.

Capping Medicaid still in the works

By Ruth Youngblood

BOSTON (UPI) — Ten months after Gov. Edward J. King unveiled his proposed Medicaid overhaul, the administration decided to shelve the massive reform plan with officials conceding they tried to do too much, too quickly.

Although advocates for the elderly and disabled are relieved that the controversial cap on Medicaid spending has been scrapped for fiscal 1982, they now want to know just what human service officials plan to do instead.

Specific information has been slow in coming. But administration spokesmen are confident a redrafted bill with more legislative appeal than the abandoned measure will be ready in time for a hearing Oct. 7.

The months of administrative touting of a restructuring aimed at saving $250 million by setting a fixed budget for the program and farming out the care of recipients to private contractors are described by Sen. Jack H. Backman as "a waste of time."

The Newton-Brookline Democrat, who is cochairman of the Human Services Committee, said, "The administration has finally seen that its plan would be impossible to implement, but what happens next?"

Richard Rowland, executive director of the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans, agreed with Backman.

"They've wasted all this time talking about a ludicrous and unmanageable proposal," Rowland said.

"That's not so," is the retort from Kermit Morrissey, director of external affairs for the Department of Human Services.

"The public and the health care industry have had ample time to look at the implications of a fixed budget," Morrissey said.

"This idea or something very much like it is inevitable in the very near future, he said, predicting "it will appear far less radical in a year."

The months of deliberations "served an educational purpose," he maintained.

Citizens groups were more than skeptical of the claim that 25 percent of the Medicaid budget could be slashed without cutting benefits or reducing quality, and the Legislature's Health Care Committee frankly informed the administration the bill was unacceptable.

Supporters of the plan maintained that the sweeping cut could be accomplished by ridding the system of unnecessay care.

The state is still exploring less costly methods of treating the 557,000 Medicaid recipients. Under consideration is the possibility of increasing the health maintenance organizations (HMOs) from the 15 currently operational in the state.

"The HMOs illustrate one way health care can operate within a fixed budget concept," Morrissey said.

"The administration has finally seen that its plan would be impossible to implement, but what happens next?"

Sen. Jack Backman

"If we can show that the principle operates in one area, we can expand it to other pilot projects," he said.

Avoiding any dollar figures, Morrissey said officials are still expecting some savings in fiscal 1983, "but not necessarily at the earlier scope and scale."

The goals outlined in the original proposal have not been abandoned, he emphasized. "We'll be moving ahead cautiously, with the goals extended over several years instead of one."

Despite the lack of specifics, administration officials are confident the legislation King proposed to launch the sweeping reform of the $1 billion-a-year program will be rewritten to reflect the more modest proposal in time for the hearing.

"There were fundamental legislative reservations about doing something so substantial so quickly," Morrissey said.

Rowland, heading the largest advocacy group for the elderly in Massachusetts, said that with President Reagan's proposed new cutbacks in Medicaid, "It is more imperative than ever that we develop viable systems that will work well."

"The first plan was a pie in the sky approach," Rowland said. "There's no way in the world they could have put the proposal into effect without drastically cutting benefits for the elderly and disabled."

Rowland would like to see more HMOs which have "clearly demonstrated that they can significantly cut down on the length and frequency of hospitalization," programs combining Medicaid and non-Medicaid patients, additional day clinics for the elderly and expanded home care systems.

Treatment of Medicaid patients with others would be psychologically beneficial "with the receivers feeling less isolated," Rowland said, and "there would be less chance of second-class medicine."

Medicaid Director Robert Murray and Human Services Secretary William Hogan had been intensively reviewing the mammoth overhaul with King before Murray and Hogan acknowledged during a series of briefings last week that the administration had tried to do "too much, too fast."

How they voted on 'bottle bill'

THE HOUSE AND SENATE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' and senators' roll call votes for the week of September 21-25.

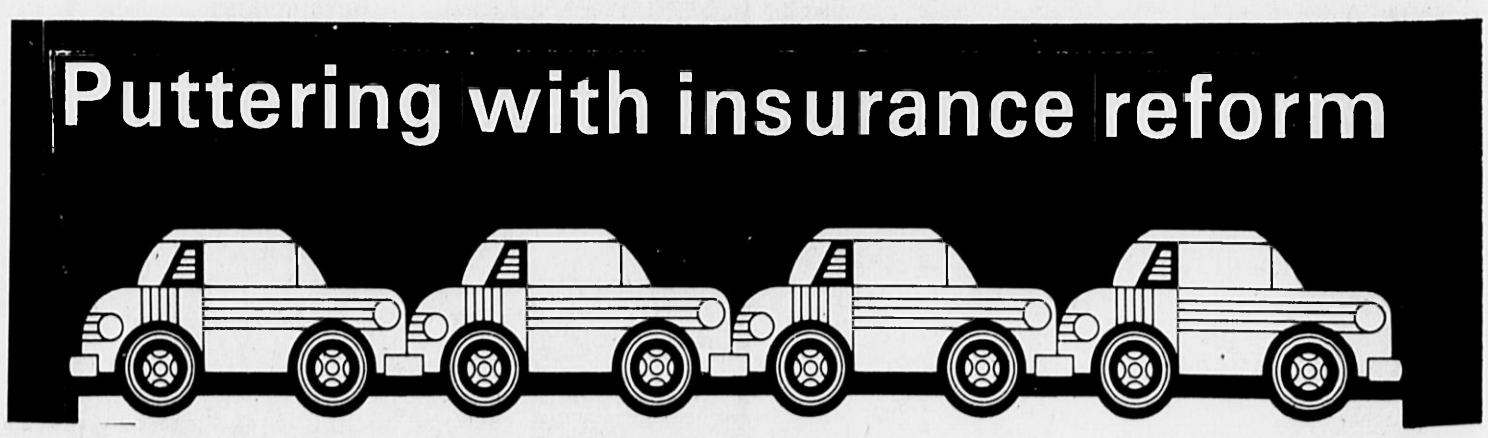

BOTTLE BILL (H 5180) House gave final approval 100-56, Senate gave initial approval 21-12, to the "bottle bill" — requiring five and ten cent deposits on beer and carbonated beverage containers. Supporters argued the bill would reduce litter, clean up the environment, create jobs, save energy, and save communities millions of dollars in solid waste collection costs. Opponents said the bill will result in increased energy use and a loss of jobs, while only solving a small part of the litter problem. (A "yes" vote is for the bill.) Rep. Sal Ciccarelli - yes; Rep. David B. Cohen - yes; Rep. Joseph DeNucci - no; Rep. Susan Schur - yes; Rep. Royal Switzler - yes; Rep. Peter Trombley - yes. Sen. Carol Amick - yes; Sen. George Bachrach - yes; Sen. Jack Backman - yes.

RETRAINING (H 5180) House rejected 115-39, a bottle bill amendment which would eliminate a section providing benefits to any bottle or can industry worker who loses his or her job because of passage of the bottle bill. The section gives displaced workers 70 percent of their wages for up to 52 weeks and provides a job retraining program — both funded by the state. Some opponents said these costs should not be borne by the state. They claimed it was also a bad precedent for the state give special benefits to displaced workers in a particular industry. (A "yes" vote is against the compensation and retraining program. A "no" vote is for it). Rep. Ciccarelli - no; Rep. Cohen - no; Rep. DeNucci - no; Rep. Schur - no; Rep. Switzler - no; Rep. Trombley - no.

VETERANS' PREFERENCE (H6500) House approved 130-25, an amendment to a bill restructuring the state's civil service system. The amendment gives absolute preference to veterans competing for civil service jobs, and replaces a section in the bill which proposed a point system giving veterans five or ten additional points on their civil service exam score. Supporters of the amendment argued it was important to give absolute preference to those who risked their lives in the service of this country. (A "yes" vote is for absolute veterans' pereference. A "no" vote is against it.) Rep. Ciccarelli - yes; Rep. Cohen - no; Rep. DeNucci - yes; Rep. Schur - no; Rep. Switzler - no; Rep. Trombley - yes.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM (H 6500) House approved 104-52, a bill making sweeping changes in the state's civil service system, but still leaving absolute veterans' preference intact. The complicated 53 page document, the product of two years of study by a special commission, includes provisions for an evaluation program and the removal of certain employees; an upgrading of the Division of Personnel Administration to departmental status; and a section allowing cities and towns to withdraw from the system and establish their own local merit system. Supporters said the bill was the first major attempt at civil service reform in 50 years. They claimed it is a compromise package which balances the needs of management and the rights of labor to provide a fair, equitable, and modern personnel system. (A "yes" vote is for the bill.) Rep. Ciccarelli - yes; Rep. Cohen - yes; Rep. DeNucci - yes; Rep. Schur - yes; Rep. Switzler - yes; Rep. Trombley - yes.

Puttering with insurance reform

By Loring Swaim, state columnist

Massachusetts drivers have this problem with their auto insurance.

On one hand, they pay the highest auto insurance premiums in the country. Of those high premiums, $75 constitutes an unofficial surcharge to underwrite the losses incurred by bad or fraudulent drivers who represent a mere 5 percent of the population.

They read stories about chop shops for which professional car theft rings steal cars at the rate of one every eight minutes because of the parts which will bring top dollar on the black market. Massachusetts in the car theft capital of the country. Torching of new cars to get insurance instead of pay for an accident is endemic. And all the while, the insurance carriers seem able to sustain the underwriting losses because they make their real money investing the income from premiums.

On the other hand, over the last four years insurance companies have sought rate increases totalling 93.8 percent. The insurance commission, weighing all the facts, has allowed yearly increases of 1 percent. How come, facing such "hardships", have none of the 110 carriers doing business in the Commonwealth pulled up stakes and moved out? Are the complaints merely camouflage for efforts to increase profits?

It is all definitely a complicated problem — with political overtones in election years.

Massachusetts happens to be one of only four states with a so-called reinsurance facility, a catchall agency into which bad-risk drivers are dumped. Under the state's companion "mandatory offer" law, all companies are obliged to insure all drivers at uniform rates regardless of their driving record. A driver with 10 at-fault accidents can still get insurance at the same rate as a driver with a crystal-clear record. The facility, it turns out, handles 46 percent of the state's 2.5 million drivers and operates at a $760 million loss.

There is a concerted industry drive under way now to "reform" some of these anomalies. While the changes sought make sense to the uninitiated, some dispassionate experts regard them as overkill. What success the industry will achieve remains a question.

Last year several major carriers put their heads together in private to map plans to change the existing patchwork of auto insurance laws and regulations. Recently a campaign began to drum up public and media support for their key recommendations which have three targets: 1) repeal of the mandatory offer law, to separate good from bad drivers; 2) replacement of the reinsurance facility with a Joint Underwriting Association empowered to escalate rates and deductibles for bad drivers; 3) reinstatement of competitive rating so drivers can shop around for bargains.

When industry officials put this "dream" bill together, Gov. King agreed to file it. It was redrafted by the House insurance committee and now sits in House Ways and Means while the leadership decides what portions to support and what priority to give it.

Meanwhile, the Insurance committee's Senate co-chairman, Sen. Allan McKinnon of Weymouth, is mulling over less dramatic proposals that would recognize the need to free good drivers from subsidizing fraudulent and bad drivers but would steer clear of competition which he thinks would not live up to its billing.

The industry, it is acknowledged, is trying to live down the experience of 1977 when Gov. Dukakis' brilliant young insurance commissioner Jim Stone installed competitive rating, only to see it fall on its face. Industry spokesmen say that was from lack of adequate preparation. Stone had to step back in and regulate unilaterally.

McKinnon observes that auto insurers are now requesting 24.5 percent increases in rates (the commission will allow 15 percent, the attorney general recommends only 6 percent). If given free rein under the proposed "reforms", he argues, won't the companies shoot for the 24 percent range, rather than the 6 percent — and what will that do to the consumer?

The automobile insurance industry, therefore, is campaigning to justify the "reforms", to build support for them and to pry them loose from the W&M committee. The King administration has done its part by filing the bill; because it is not one of their priorities, they'll let it go at that.

The Legislature is frankly ambivalent about what constitutes reform. Until that's clear, the proposals will probably remain, if not on a back burner, at least on the middle of the stove.

Meanwhile, responsible auto drivers continue to pay for the deadbeats — and to grumble.

This Newton chauffeur is in the driver's seat

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — He's not really a guest but somehow he always gets invited.

Over the past nine years David Chiampa has been in the "driver's seat," chauffeuring celebrities, newlyweds, and prom night celebrants in and around the greater Boston area.

For Chiampa, 28, driving means business. Since his graduation from the New England Institute of Anatomy in Boston, the limousine service for the Newton born Chiampa has been an integral part of his livelihood.

Yet for the commoner, there is an aura of glamour involved with the sight of a jet-black limousine cruising under the Boston skyline.

Behind the one-way windows are movie stars on their way to first-night performances, diplomats traveling to meetings of worldly importance, or lovers on their way to a secret honeymoon destination.

No matter the personality inside, onlookers fantasize about the possibilities. Chiampa, by his choice of profession, is part of that fairy tale.

Attired in a finely tailored dark-blue suit, a white button-down shirt and a black bow-tie, the boyish looking Chiampa appears dwarfed behind the wheel of a 22-foot limo. However, when he is not scooting around in his Datsun 280ZX, which he says is like "fitting into a shoebox," the limousine is his home on the road.

An assistant director at the Lyons Funeral Home in West Newton, Chiampa also picks up a large funeral business for his growing livery trade. He estimates roughly three-quarters of his limousine business is funeral related.

"I've always been interested in the business," said the Newton North alumnus. "Yet I really can't pinpoint the attraction."

Whether it was the mystique, the people he met, or the dollar appeal, Chiampa, along with Alderman Bruce Carmichael, opened their own livery service three years ago.

Today, the Garden City Livery service has grown to a mini fleet of three 1981 Buick limousines, valued at over $20,000 each.

As a chauffeur, Chiampa not only opens doors, but also conversations. For many, the back seat of a limousine - with its plush velour seats and its top grain wood - serves the same purpose as a phychiatrist's couch. A limo driver is not only a chauffeur, but also a confidant.

Although Chiampa says he never inititates a chat with a passenger, he will freely talk once a rider opens up. One of those passengers was NBC sports personality Joe Garagiola during the 1975 World Series here in Boston.

Chiampa, who was working for Chestnut Hill Livery at the time, recalls his introduction with Garagiola with the wide-eyed awe expected of a seven-year-old attending his first ballgame.

Chiampa, as luck would have it, drove Garagiola to Fenway Park for the four games played in Boston. And as a chauffeur for one of the private sedans, Chiampa was entitled to move among the dignitaries in the NBC hospitality tent.

For many, the back seat of a limousine - with its plush velour seats and its top grain wood - serves the same purpose as a phychiatrist's couch. A limo driver is not only a chauffeur, but also a confidant.

He broke protocol, however, and asked Garagiola for an autograph because as he put it, "my friends wouldn't believe it."

A second baseball related drive did not turn out as well. Scheduled to transport the Red Sox to the Baseball Writers Association banquet, Chiampa was sent to the wrong airlines and missed the connection.

The comfort of a limo from Garden City Livery costs roughly $30 per hour or a straight rate of $75 to $100 for a function. "We try to be competitive as well as flexible," says Chiampa, not ruling out the possibility of a ride for anyone. Tips, on the other hand, range from $10 to 50 percent of the tab "depending on the people."

"People on the whole are very friendly," says Chiampa of his wide range of clientele. "Weddings especially are a lot of fun. People are all geared up and they always invite you in for some drinks."

Wall to wall art
A mural of mosaic and clay pieces in colored concrete by Lilli Ann Rosenberg will be installed on the Newton Centre Greene as part of the Oct. 4 Harvest Fair celebration. At the Rosenberg's studio are, left to right, Dora Hsiung, fiber artist; Mayor Theodore Mann; Alice Aranow, artist; Frances Shrand, actress; and Judy Dore, director, senior activities for the Newton Recreation Department, which helped fund the project with a seed grant from the Massahusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Handbook about child care ready

The Watertown Multi-Service Center, in conjunction with the Watertown Free Public Library, has compiled the 9th edition of Child Care: A Resource Handbook. This is a comprehensive reference and guide for parents who are looking for child care in the community.

It lists child care resources for children from infancy to age 12, including babysitting services, family day care centers, playgroups, nursery schools, day care centers, after school day care and programs for special needs preschool children. It also has a section on resources for organizaing and setting up child care facilities.

Child Care: A Resource Handbook includes an introduction on what makes a good program and an easy check list for selecting a day care program.

The handbook offers an extensive list of related reading materials on child care at the Watertown Free Public Library.

This booklet is available at the Watertown Multi-Service Center, 926-3600, and at the Watertown Free Public Library, Main Street, 924-5390.

Gov. King turns gourmet cook for Dimes gala

DEDHAM — Gov. and Mrs. Edward J. King and a number of other local celebrities will man the cooking stations at the March of Dimes Gourmet Gala on Sunday, Oct. 11 at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Theme of the Gala is " breaking bread with friends," according to Richard Grindy of Vendome Interiors in Boston, co-chairman of the Gala's Arts and Decorations Committee. "We're hoping to combine the personality of the celebrity chef and the theme of the Gala in the design of each station," says Jackie Solomon, Grindy's co-chairman and business partner.

Assisting with the design and decoration of the cooking stations are Robert Gallagher of Martin Elinoff Associates, Inc., Judy Sandler of Sandler-Dick Associates and Marilyn Stahl of M.. B. Stahl Interiors, all of Newton.

Other celebrities participating in the Gala are Curt Gowdy, Dom DiMaggio, Boston Ballet Director Violette Verdy, Robert J. Lurtsema of WGBH, Robin Young of NBC-TV, Chet Curtis and Natalie Jacbson of WCVB-TV, James St. Clair, attorney, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cowens, Sack Theater president Alan Friedberg and Anast Giokas of Stop and Shop.

The Massachusetts Bay Chapter March of Dimes is at 865 Providence Highway, Dedham.

Patrolman honored for 30 years service

WEST NEWTON — The West Newton Breakfast Club recently honored Newton Patrolman James D. Coletti at a well attended ceremony at the Auburndale Playground.

Patrolman Coletti retired recently after 30 years' service, 20 of which were spent in the West Newton community.

Former Alderman Paul J. Burke, a life-long resident of West Newton and one of the founders of the Breakfast Club, presented an engraved Plaque to Officer Coletti citing his many years of service to West Newton.

Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci presented the guest of honor with a citation from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"Jim" Coletti was born in Newton and attended Our Lady's School. He served three years aboard the USS Cambera in the South Pacific durinq World War II.

He is a former Commander of the Italo-American War Veterans Post No. 50 and is a former past State Department Sergeant-at-Arms of the Italo-American War Veterans; past treasurer of the Newton Veterans' Organization; a former vice president of the Italian-American Organizations of Newton and currently is a member of the Sons of Italy of Newton, the D.A.V., Massachusetts Police Association, Newton Memorial Association and the Newton Police Benefit Association. He graduated from the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy on Narcotics.

"Jim" Coletti and his wife, Claire, are the parents of three children, James, Jr., Alderman Paul and Mrs. Carol Virgilio and five grandchildren.

Newton attorney promoted by Hub computer firm

BOSTON — Amy A. Pitter, of Chapel Street in Newton, has been promoted to the position of assistant treasurer for Keane, a Boston-based national computer services firm which specializes in the applications development process.

In her new position, Pitter will be responsible for Keane's cash management, accounting, planning and return preparation. In addition, she will act as the Company's in-house legal counsel. Pitter will continue to work out of Keane's corporate headquarters in Boston.

Pitter first joined Keane in 1980 as a legal and tax administrator. Prior to this, she was employed by Price Waterhouse in Boston.

Pitter is a graduate of Connecticut College and New England School of Law. She also holds a Masters in Science from the Northeastern Graduate School of Professional Accounting. Pitter is a member of the Massachusetts Bar and the Route 128 Corporate Lawyers Forum, an organization of attorneys from many high technology companies.

Highlands CDC hosts talk on cable TV

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — On Wednesday, Oct. 14, the Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation (NHCDC) will host a talk by Steven Feldman of Continental Cablevision on the potential for community programming through the Newton cable system.

The meeting will be at the Newton Highlands Branch Library and is scheduled for 8 p.m.

NHCDC has recently formed a Cable Programming. Committee of Newton Highlands residents interested in learning more about the potential of community access programming via cable and eventually producing programming of interest to local residents.

Anyone interested in working with this committee should call Meg Mansfield at 969-1479 or the NHCDC office at 244-5551.

Youth service monitors needed by area council

NEWTON — Volunteers are being sought by the West Suburban Council for Children to train this fall as monitors for programs for children and adolescents.

The evaluation reports developed by the Councils for Children make recommendations for improving services and for funding decisions. For further information, call the Area Office at 965-9810.

Nursing home proposal merits House approval

BOSTON — Legislation filed by Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham) which would protect patients of nursing homes providing dangerously substandard care has received final approval from the House.

The bill, known as the Nursing Home Receivership Bill, authorizes the Department of Public Health, the Attorney General, or the residents themselves to seek receivership when a nursing home is in poor condition or is threatening to shut down.

Rep. DeNucci stated, "The majority of nursing homes are owned and operated by responsible people. This bill has no bearing on these nursing homes. This legislation is urgently needed, however, for the few drastic and severe emergency situations in which there is danger of death or serious physical harm to patients.

"The most important immediate goal," DeNucci, House chairman of the Elderly Affairs Committee, stated, "is to assure continuity of care to patients by preventing unscrupulous owners from threatening to close a facility on short notice as a scare tactic to evade solving problems or to gain preferential treatment.

"The safety and health of nursing home patients is a legitimate public concern. This legislation seeks to insure a decent standard of care for elderly residents of nursing homes suffering severe financial crises or for any reason not meeting the basic minimum requirements for licensure," said DeNucci.

"The ultimate goal of receivership legislation," Rep. DeNucci said, "is priority attention to direct patient care so that the highest possible quality of life may be assured to our institutionalized elders.

"With this bill, the attorney general and the Department of Public Health will have a tool by which they can prevent nursing homes from closing. They will be able to have a court-appointed receiver bring the nursing home in question back into compliance with health codes and financial standards."

The bill, which had received prior Senate approval, must now return to the Senate for final approval before being sent to the governor for signature.

Newton Red Cross offering emergency first aid course

NEWTON — The Newton Branch of the West Suburban Chapter, American Red Cross will offer a standard first aid and personal safety course.

This course will be given every Monday and Thursday evening starting Oct. 15 and ending Nov. 9 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the Chapter House, 21 Foster St., Newtonville.

Designed for the general public in situtations where emergency first aid is required and medical assistance is not excessively delayed, the course incorporates personal safety and accident prevention information. Lecture, discussion, demonstrations, and skill practice compose the teaching method used.

There is a $6.25 charge for text and materials. For further information and registration call 527-6000.

The program, open to the public, is co-sponsored by the Wellesley Ecumenical Clergy Group and the Massachusetts Bible Society, oldest ecumenical agency in the nation.

Registration for the seminar is $2.50. Light refreshments will be served. For more information call 235-73)0.

CETA office merged

NEWTON — The Newton Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) office at 320 Needham St. has closed. It merged with Norwood CETA.

But a satellite CETA office will remain open Mondays and Tuesdays at Newton City Hall on Commonwealth Avenue.

Mary DeVasto, assistant Norwood-Newton CETA director, said Friday that the main CETA office has moved to Norwood. The two consortiums merged effective last Thursday, when President Reagan's budget went into effect.

"We've been working with Newton the last couple of months," said Miss DeVasto, explaining how the switchover was made. Four Newton CETA workers were hired by the Norwood office, she added.

Funding for the Norwood-Newton CETA, which is to be renamed Norwood-Newton Employment Training Administration, is $1.5 million this year. Last year the Norwood CETA alone received $1.8 million from the federal government.

In addition, Reagan's budget marks a new era for CETA, said Miss DeVasto.

"The emphasis now is on training," she said. CETA used to provide jobs for eligible youths, and the cutbacks reflect the fact that it will no longer do so.

In Waltham, a part-time office will also remain open Monday through Thursday at the Division of Employment Security on Main Street.

You probably know that with the President's Economic Recovery Plan, savers have greater tax break opportunities than ever before. But you may not know exactly what these opportunities can mean for you. Why not spend a little time reading this ad? You could save a lot of money come tax time.

How to earn federally tax free interest. Our new 12 month All Saver Certificate (available October 1) pays the highest allowable interest and lets you earn—for one time only—up to $2000 tax free interest ($1000 if you file individually). As the chart shows, the higher your income the more attractive the All Saver. In fact, at certain income levels, it would be tough to beat our yields of 20% or more. (By the way, if you're a 6 month certificate holder, you may be able to transfer that money into an All Saver without an interest penalty.)

If the monthly T-Bill yield is:	The tax free yield is:	Equivalent yield at gross yearly income of:* (%)
		$30,000	$40,000	$50,000	$60,000
12%	8.4%	11.61	13.24	14.59	16.28
14%	9.8%	13.54	15.44	17.03	18.99
16%	11.2%	15.48	17.65	19.46	21.70
17%	11.9%	16.45	18.75	20.68	23.10
18%	12.6%	17.41	19.85	21.89	24.46

*Based on a joint return with itemized deductions of 15%

How to save for retirement and save on taxes. Starting January 1,1982, you can take advantage of a tax break formerly available only to the self-employed and those not involved in a formal pension plan. So even if you now participate in a pension plan, you can still contribute up to $2000 into your own Individual Retirement Account (IRA), and really see a difference on your 1040. Because both your contributions and the interest earned are federally tax exempt until you begin withdrawals.

How to avoid confusion on the new tax breaks for savers. Not surprisingly, a flurry of often unbelievable promotions by institutions trying to get your money has accompanied the passage of these new laws. Frankly, we're interested in your money, too. But we're also interested in making sure you understand all the ramifications of these new laws before you invest a dime.

So if you're looking for a tax break, look past the fancy offers. Talk to the bank that just wants to give you the facts.

Together we'll get you started on an economic recovery act of your very own.

HOW TO PUT REAGAN'S NEW TAX LAWS TO WORK FOR YOU.

Seminary to celebrate 175th anniversary

NEWTON CENTRE — "World Mission: The Future of a Heritage" will be the focus of Andover Newton Theological School's Haystack Lectures, Oct. 13-14 commemorating the 175th anniversary of the Haystack Prayer Meeting.

The Haystack Prayer Meeting, held in a field near Williamstown, Mass., began the modern missionary movement in North America. It was through the efforts of these students and others that the Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was established.

Two of the students who participated in the Prayer Meeting later enrolled in the first entering class at Andover Theological Seminary in 1808. The first missionaries sent to Asia were graduates of this class which included Adoniram Judson.

The Haystack Lectures will address the future of the church's international ministry in historical perspective. On Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 8 p.m. the 175th anniversary commemorative service will be addressed by Dr. David Stowe of the United Church Board of Homeland Ministries. He is successor to the Board of Commissioners.

On Wednesday morning Dr. Gerald H. Anderson, Director of the Overseas Ministry Center in Ventnor, New Jersey will present a lecture entitled "Towr "Toward Century 21 in Mission." He will be followed by Dr. Lamin Sanneh, an African Christian scholar with a special interest in Christian-Islamic relations, who will discuss the future of Christian witness to the world's faiths.

During the afternoon, workshops will be presented by Drs. Anderson and Sanneh and by representatives of the more / international ministries programs of the American Baptists and the United Church of Christ. Each person attending the lectures will select one workshop.

A Service of Dedication will bring the lectures to a close.

All events are open to the public without charge.

CETA satellite office will stay

By Jack Gallagher

NEWTON — The Newton Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) office at 320 Needham St. has closed. It merged with Norwood CETA.

But a satellite CETA office will remain open Mondays and Tuesdays at Newton City Hall on Commonwealth Avenue.

Mary DeVasto, assistant Norwood-Newton CETA director, said Friday that the main CETA office has moved to Norwood. The two consortiums merged effective last Thursday, when President Reagan's budget went into effect.

"We've been working with Newton the last couple of months," said Miss DeVasto, explaining how the switchover was made. Four Newton CETA workers were hired by the Norwood office, she added.

Other services for eligible people in the area will be provided for out of the Norwood office.

Nurse, health care job fair Oct. 15-17

WESTON — In order to meet the need for nurses and allied health care professionals, Nursing Job Fair is expanding its highly successful convention concept and will sponsor the first ever Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair on Oct. 15-17 at the Boston Park Plaza Castle.

Hospitals ever-growing need for non-nursing professionals prompted the convention sponsors to include allied health specialists in this year's Boston convention on a trial basis. The expanded format will include, for the first time, non-nursing health care professionals such as physical and respiratory therapists, various technicians and technologists, and other specialist areas.

Area nurses, nursing students and allied health care professionals will have the opportunity to meet with recruiters from more than 130 hospitals, including at least 40 from the metropolitan Boston area, and all attendees will be eligible for two $250 scholarship drawings that are being offered by the Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair sponsors, one for nursing and one for allied health care.

Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair will be open free of charge on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 15 and 16, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 17, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A special feature of the convention will be free career workshops that are available to all nurses, non-nursing allied health care professionals, and students. These workshops will be offered on the following schedule:

Experienced nurses: 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., on Oct. 15 and 16; 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Oct. 17.

Nursing students: 9 a.m., noon, 3 p.m., on Oct. 15 and 16.

The main focus of the Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair convention is to allow nurses and non-nursing health care professionals, students and hospital representatives a chance to meet in an informal atmosphere to discuss salaries, benefits, working conditions, and other attractions in the metropolitan Boston area as well as cities throughout the country.

For some experienced professionals the convention is an opportunity to discover the satisfactions of remaining at their present facility with a new spark of energy and commitment because they learn that their present position meets their particular needs. For the students the convention provides a golden opportunity to begin long-term career planning by meeting and talking with recruiters from all over the country and securing first hand information on various hospitals and their communities.

Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair will also attract those individuals who have remained licensed, but are no longer active. These are the people who have left their careers to raise families, explore a different career avenue, or have chosen early retirement. Often these individuals are thinking of returning to work, and the Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair can become their most valuable decision making tool.

Overall, Nursing & Allied Health Care Job Fair is much more than a three-day employment convention because it is geared to taking a wide view of nursing careers. The convention is conerned with attendees choice for this year as well as long-term career goals.

The two $250 scholarships, available to all who attend the convention, will be selected by a drawing at the conclusion of the three-day career event.

More information can be had by contacting the sponsors at (617) 899-2702 in Massachusetts, out of state call toll free 1 (800) 225-8458.

Newton rates 50.8 in crimes per thousand

WALTHAM - "We have one of the lowest crime rates around and I want to keep it that way," Mayor Arthur J. Clark said as he announced he would add four patrolmen to the police force.

Clark left little doubt that he was disturbed by recent crimes in Waltham. "I don't want this city to get the reputation of being a soft touch'" Clark said.

Clark would not comment when asked if recent campaign publicity about crime was giving the city a bad name. But at a candidate's night before the primary, he criticized by both City Councillor Daniel Delaney and William F. Stanley for allegedly trying to characterize Waltham as "crime city."

Clark said Waltham was no worse than other cities of comparable size. A check of the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety Crime Reports indicates Clark is right—up until 1980, at any rate.

Attest to accuracy

The crime rate figure (crimes per thousand of population) "is probably the most accurate to use" says the state. Waltham's crime rate is 34 per thousand which is close to Medford's 34.2 and Malden's rate of 30.2 crimes per thousand people in 1980.

Watertown's crime rate is listed at 56.6, Newton's at 50.8, Somerville at 52.6, Framingham at 52.8, Lexington about the same as Waltham at 33.8 while Weston is 26.1. Brookline has a crime rate of 83.1 while Brockton is 90 and Boston's 134 and Cambridge 84. Lynn is 111.5, Fall River 73.5, Lawrence 62.8 and Lowell 63.1.

Crime wave

By Waltham's standards a minor crime wave hit the city in the past months. Two stores were held up on Moody Street, Beatty's Pharmacy has been hit four times this year, rapists have cut through screen windows in both north and south Waltham, the Guaranty First Trust Co. on Main Street was robbed and the manager of the Cottage Crest Restaurant was robbed in the parking lot of $9,000 by a gunman.

Clark said what he is doing is filling one vacancy that happened since the fiscal year started July 1 and he is speeding up the police contract which required that three men be added to the force next July 1.

Before Proposition 2 ½, Waltham had 141 positions on the police department. They were rarely filled at a given moment because of injuries, vacations and retirements. Through attrition that number became 123 on July 1 of this year and the police agreed to that minimum which avoided any layoffs.

Clark said he is also calling for the Civil Service department to give him a sergeants list so that the Neighborhood Crime Unit could be brought up to full strength.

When asked about financing these new positions, Clark said he would do it from "surplus."

Clark would not elaborate. Earlier in the week he had been saying the city lost $200,000 in revenue sharing and possibly another $177,000 if Reagan Administration cuts are approved.

Jacobs named JCC assistant director

NEWTON — Jerry S. Jacobs of Needham has been named assistant director of the Brookline-Brighton-Newton branch of the Jewish Community Center of Greater Boston, JCC president Abbott N. Kahn has announced.

In this capacity, Jacobs will supervise personnel and programming for the center, one of nine branches, extension sites and day camps operated by JCC.

He will also supervise the agency's Central Area Extension programs in Temple Beth El, Newton and JCC's West Area Preschool, located in Temple Shir Tikva, Wayland.

Jacobs joined the Jewish Community Center of Greater Boston in 1979 as program director of the Central and West Area Extension sites. He also served as coordinator of the 1981 Jewish Community Walkathon and Israel Independence Day Celebration, sponsored by the JCC in cooperation with the Jewish Community Council and Associated Synagogues.

Prior to joining JCC, he was acting director of the Jewish Federation of Nashville and Middle Tennessee. He was also that agency's assistant director, and was youth director of the Jewish Community Center of Nashville.

Nursing Student Fair

WESTON — Approximately 2 thousand high school juniors and seniors, as well as adults expressing an interest in nursing, are expected to attend the first annual Boston Nursing Student Fair enrollment convention on Oct. 13 and 14 at the Park Plaza Castle, corner of Arlington and Stuart Streets.

Nursing Student Fair will be open, free of charge, on Tuesday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and on Wednesday, Oct. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. During these hours anyone interested in nursing who attends this innovative enrollment convention can meet with admissions representatives from approximately 40 nursing schools and colleges nationwide.

All attendees will be eligible for a $250 scholarship drawing being offered by Nursing Student Fair to be used toward education in nursing. The scholarship drawing will take place at the conclusion of the enrollment convention.

A special feature of this two-day convention will be free one-hour workships entitled, "The Future Nurse – Planning a Nursing Career," to be offered every hour on the hour (except noon and 5 p.m.) from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Oct. 13; every hour on the hour (except noon) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Oct. 14.

The workshops will be conducted by Ms. Patricia Williams, a registered nurse, who has been actively involved in developing and implementing presentations to attract young adults into the field of nursing. Ms. Williams has been an RN for 14 years and presently serves as a nursing supervisor and nurse recruiter.

Focus of the Nursing Student Fair is to allow those interested in a nursing career a chance to meet with nursing schools admissions people in an informal atmosphere to discuss entrance requirements, nursing profession opportunities, career satisfaction and advancement. Additionally, there will be important information available on financial assistance and educational guidance.

For additional information contact the Nursing Student Fair at (617) 899-2702 (inside Mass) weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; out of state call toll free 1 (800) 225-8458.

Newton residents line up for film about rape

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Some 17 Newton residents were hired to act in a film called, "A Question of Rape," a dramatization of the rape of a nurse in Rockport last year by three doctors.

According to Frank Keady, a Field Representative for the Department of Employment Security at 995 Watertown Street in West Newton, "About 60 people showed up" at his office last week seeking parts in the film. Keady said 40 adults, among them 17 Newton residents, were hired for a spectator scene.

Thomas McCann, the cable TV filmmaker who is producing the movie, began filming this week at Boston University Law School, according to his secretary.

The three doctors who are portrayed in the film, Dr. Arif Hussain, formerly of Waltham, Dr. Alan Lefkowitz and Dr. Eugene Sherry, were convicted in June of raping the Brigham and Women's Hospital nurse in Boston, where they worked.

All three doctors have appealed that conviction.

Two weeks ago Hussain was arraigned at Waltham District Court on a charge of rape and a charge of assault in connection with two other incidents that allegedly took place in March and October of 1978 at Waltham Hospital.

A secretary for Newton Judge Monte G. Basbas said there would be no filming at the Newton District Court unless the filmmaker received permission from the Chief Justice. According to Judge Basbas' secretary, "We have not received word of it (filming at the court house)."

According to Theodore Haussman, spokesman for Waltham Hospital, the incidents that occured at Waltham Hospital in 1978 are not going to be included in the film. Also, no one has contacted him about filming at Waltham Hospital.

"No one has made an inquiry," said Haussman.

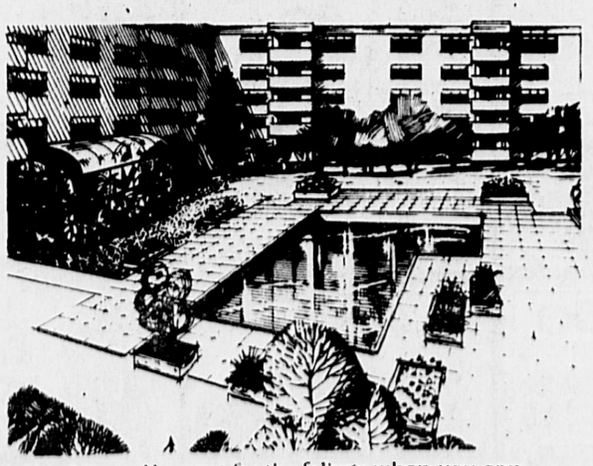

Haussman said he didn't know whether or not hospital officials would allow filming at the site. "I don't know," he said." I'd have to feel that one out."

None of the Newton residents that were hired have major roles in the film, according to Keady. All of the 40 people hired through the DES office will be extras, Keady said, adding that they would receive $3.35 an hour for their work.

In Focus

ONLY IN AUTUMN

By Thomas J. Neville

In these days of gold rush prices and lofty interest rates the cost-conscious among us are flocking to the self-service marketplace to cut a few budgetary bucks.

Everyone seems to be picking his way through the retail trenches with a common battle cry...SAVE.

We pump our own gas, bag our own groceries, conduct our own banking and wash our own autos.

The "do it yourself" syndrome is even blooming in the apple orchards. Although many New England orchards have offered a "pick your own" policy for years, it now seems apparent that what was once done for fun is now pursued for fun and frugality.

A recent Sunday visit to one area orchard proved to this observer that apple picking is as much the in thing to do as running yard sales, foraging for firewood and tooling around the burbs on 4-cylinders.

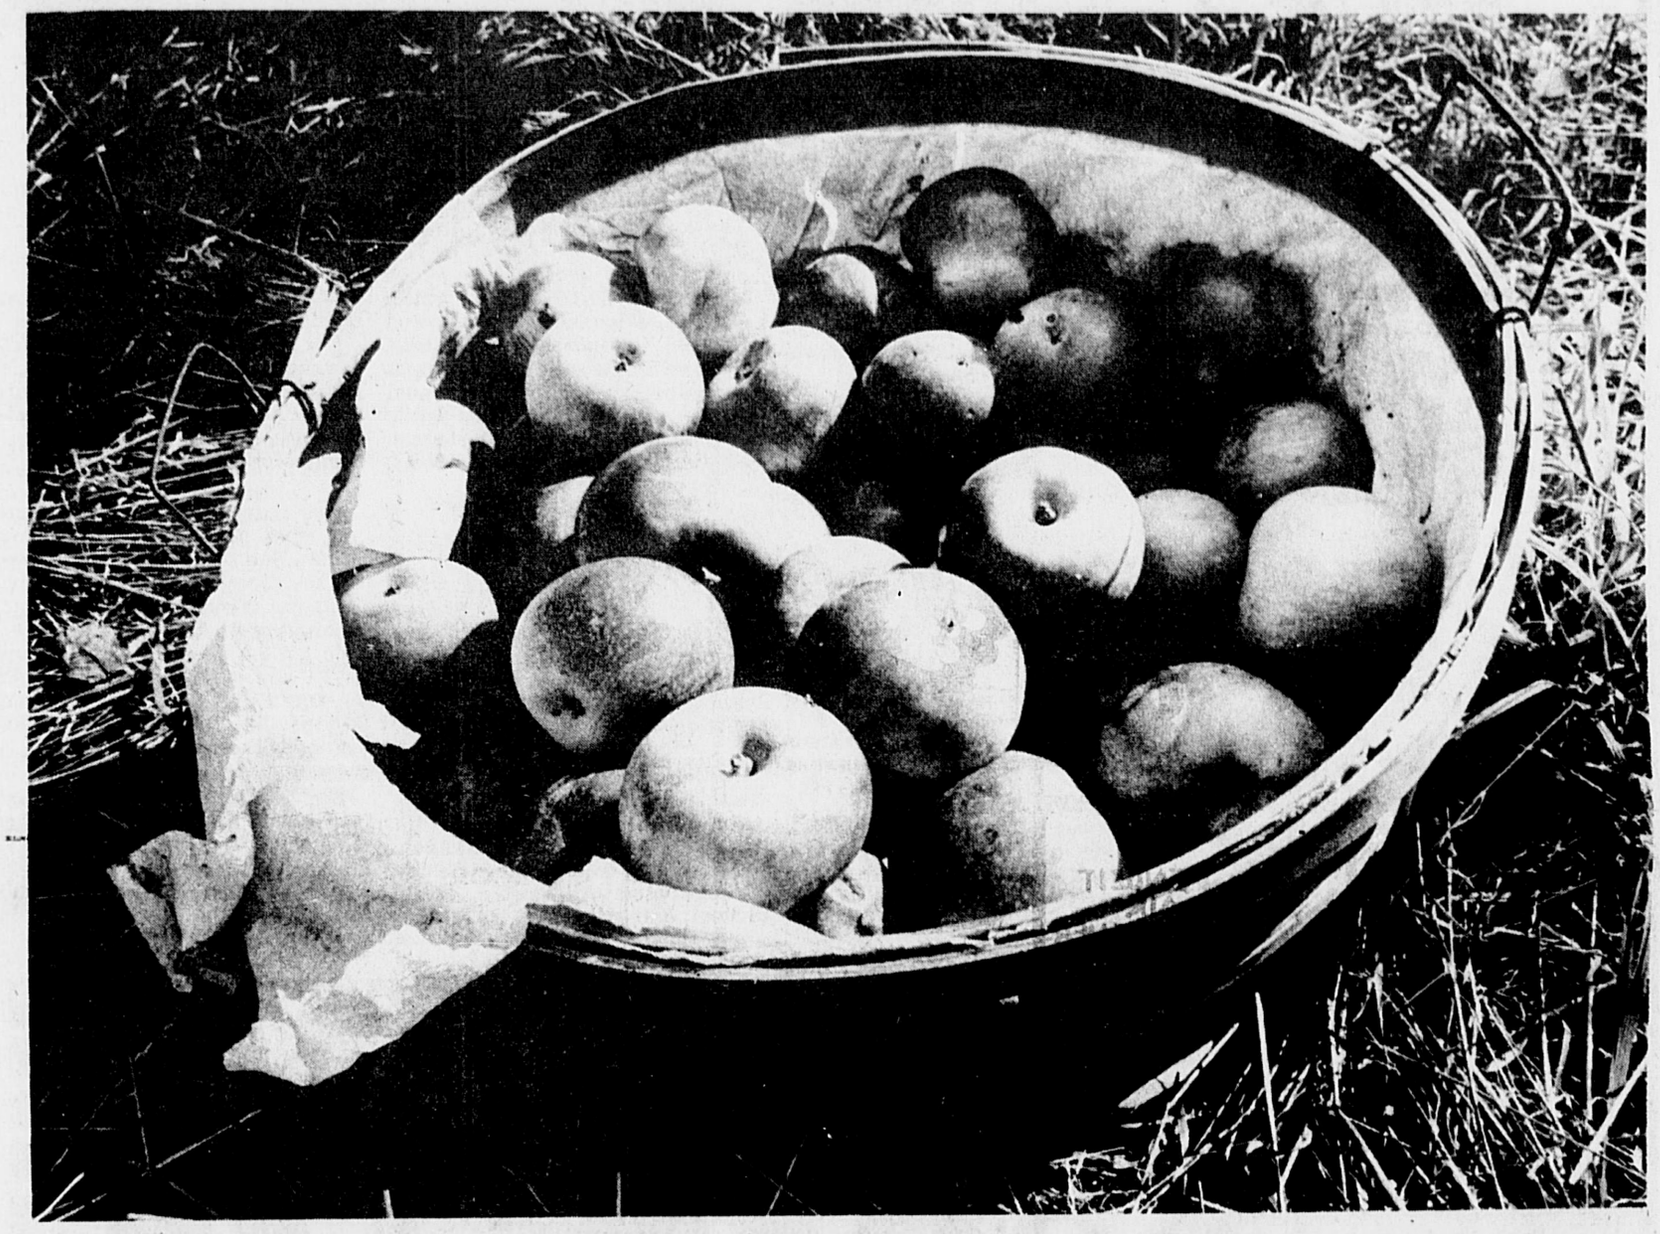

Cars eked along Route 27 in bumper-to-bumper fashion near the entrance to Lookout Farm in South Natick. Young attendants waved flags to direct drivers along a bumpy road and into cornstalk-strewn fields where hundreds of eager apple pickers parked their Volvos, vans and Country Squires.

Dads boosted toddlers on their shoulders while moms gripped their papoose. The pre-teens tripped their way along the rocky fields and circled the near-barren apple trees like a leopard stalking its prey.

The best of the apple crop had already been plucked but enough of the fleshy fruit were hanging from the trees to whet the youngsters' spirits and appetites.

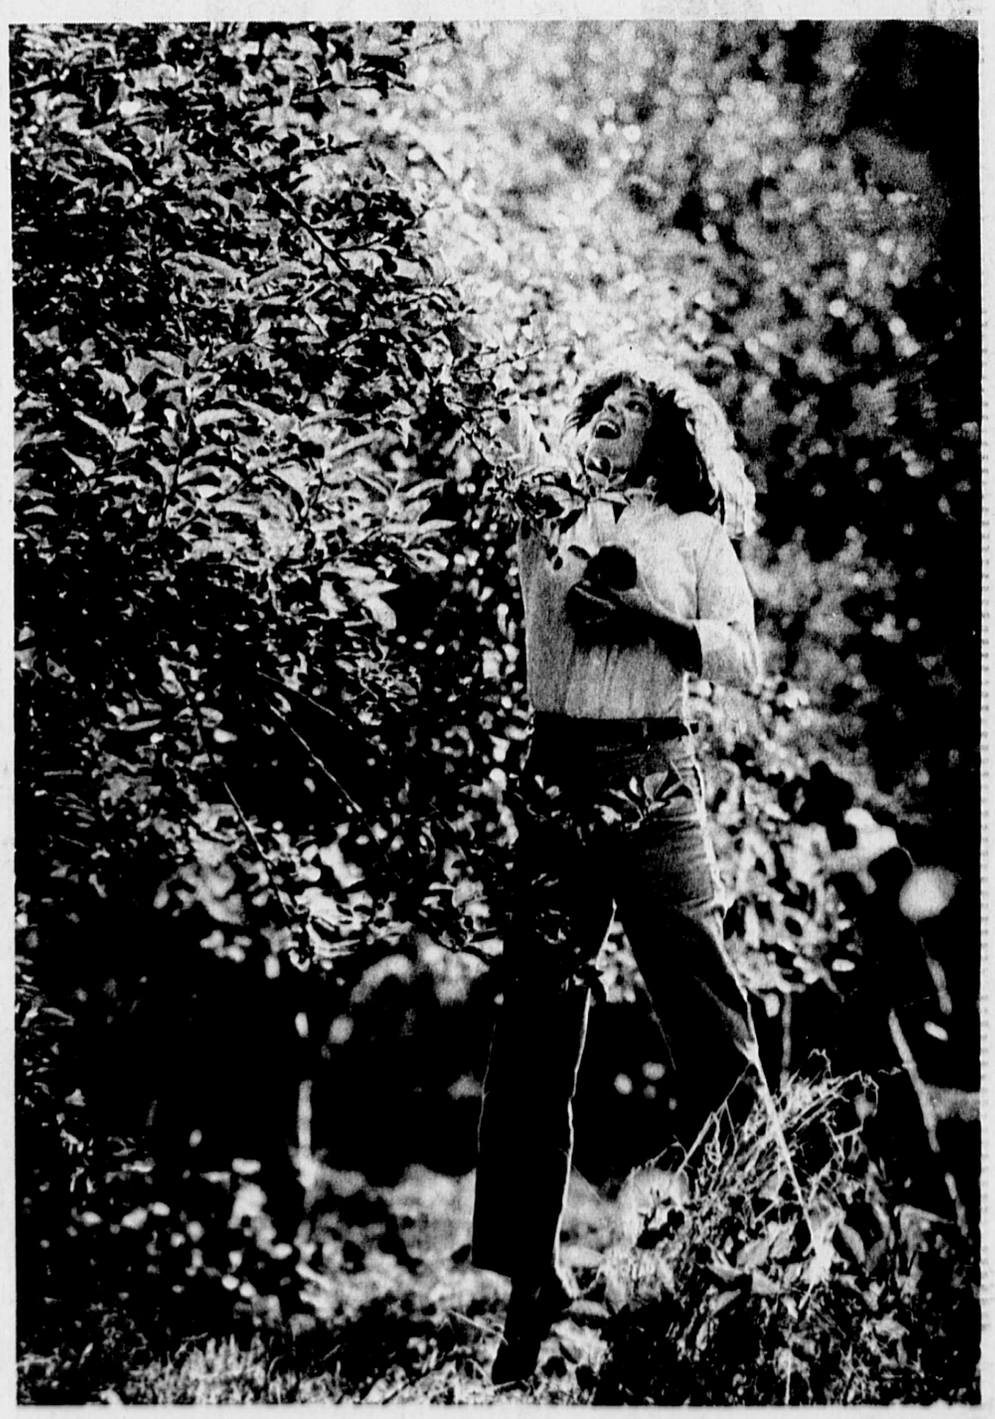

After fighting the furrows and loading their plastic bags with apples, parents stood in line at makeshift checkout counters to pay for their harvests. Sporting designer jeans and three-inch heels, the ladies might have been checking out at the local super duper.

But they were not. They were simply out picking their own and having a little outdoor family fun.

Rabinovitz takes Brandeis post

WALTHAM—Carol S. Rabinovitz of Waban, a 1959 graduate and Fellow of Brandeis University, has been appointed executive director of the 65,000 member Brandeis National Women's Committee.

She has been a national vice president of the NWC, largest friends of a library organization in the world. The Women's Committee's 123 chapters have raised more than $18 million to support Brandeis libraries since 1948, when Brandeis opened.

Rabinovitz has held a number of positions with Brandeis alumni groups and in 1972 received the Distinguished Alumni Service Award. She has worked as manager of The Hamlet, a community in Newton, and as a housing coordinator for the Jewish Family and Children's Services of Greater Boston.

She has been a member of the corporation of the Cambridge School of Weston and on the boards of Newton Fair Housing and the Newton Community Development Foundation.

Lawyer promoted by computer firm

BOSTON — Amy A. Pitter, of Chapel Street in Newton, has been promoted to the position of assistant treasurer for Keane, a Boston-based national computer services firm which specializes in the applications development process.

In her new position, Pitter will be responsible for Keane's cash management, accounting, planning and return preparation. In addition, she will act as the Company's in-house legal counsel. Pitter will continue to work out of Keane's corporate headquarters in Boston.

Pitter first joined Keane in 1980 as a legal and tax administrator. Prior to this, she was employed by Price Waterhouse in Boston.

Pitter is a graduate of Connecticut College and New England School of Law. She also holds a Masters in Science from the Northeastern Graduate School of Professional Accounting. Pitter is a member of the Massachusetts Bar and the Route 128 Corporate Lawyers Forum, an organization of attorneys from many high technology companies.

Waban Drop-in center plans for a grand opening party

WABAN — The Beethoven Senior Citizens Drop-in-Center is now open with a full range of activities. On Oct. 14 at 1 p.m. the center will hold its grand opening celebration party.

The drop-in-center formerly located at the Hyde School and more recently located at the St. Paul's Church, has moved to the Zervas School, 30 Beethoven Avenue and has been renamed to fit its new home. The Zervas School is located off of Beacon Street between Newton Highlands and Waban.

All Newton seniors are welcome to tour the center and partake in the Autumn Festival Celebration. Cider and donuts will be served as well as other seasonal refreshments. A grand opening cake will be provided by McDonald's.

Highlighting the occasion will be Harvest and Halloween music furnished by the children of Zervas School.

The Beethoven Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center is operated by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Newton Council on Aging. For more information call Mary Stuart-Hillman, the center's coordinator at 527-6749.

Weddings

Sharon Novakoff marries Neal Bermas at Brandeis

Sharon Lee Novakoff, daughter of Janice Pollock of Waban and Edward Novakoff of Brookline, is the recent bride of Neal Bermas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bermas of Great Neck, N.Y. The wedding took place in the chapel on the Brandeis University campus where they met as graduate students.

Following the ceremony, a champagne wedding party was held at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride, granddaughter of the late Jacob Rabinovitz, founder of Stop and Shop, and Ada Rabinovitz, earned her master of arts degree at the Florence Heller School of Brandeis University. She is employed by Hospital Pharmacies, Inc., of Los Angeles, as a financial consultant to the health care industry.

The groom, who holds a Ph.D. in psychology from the Florence Heller School, is a consultant in worker productivity in the Los Angeles office of the accounting firm of Ernst and Whinney.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Brentwood, Cal.

Mrs. McDaniel will head Friends of Deaconess

BOSTON—Mrs. L. Tillman McDaniel of Newton will be installed as president of the Friends of the Deaconess Hospital at the 50th annual meeting of the volunteer organizationon Tuesday, Oct. 20.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. with a business session at the Brae Burn Country Club, Fuller Street, Newton. Six new board officers will be installed. A social hour will precede a luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Robert D. Lowry, an honorary trustee and former executive vice president of the hospital will be the luncheon speaker. Seven former presidents of the Friends will be honored during the luncheon.

Mrs. McDaniel has served as vice president of the Friends for the past three years. Officers to be installed with her are Mrs. Roger A. Perry, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Elton Watkins, Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Gardner M. Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George P. Kozak, treasurer and Mrs. Leo P. Krall, assistant treasurer.

The Friends of the Deaconess Hospital was organized in 1931 as a women's committee to help raise funds for new hospital equipment and renovations, and to continue volunteer activities. Throughout its first 50 years, the organization has served the hospital in many ways, from the preparation of surgical dressings and sponsorship of fund raising activities, to the performance of Red Cross Gray Ladies during World War 2. Today the Friends operate the Deaconess Gift and Thrift Shops, turning over all proceeds to hospital support.

Tickets for the Friends of Deaconess Hospital annual meeting and luncheon may be purchased through Jane Tilley, NEDH volunteer office, 732-8044.

Luncheon, fashion show benefit Brandeis library

NEWTON — Several Newton women are assisting with plans for the Premiere Book Fund Luncheon of the Greater Boston Chapter, Brandeis University National Women's Committee.

Mrs. Harold Falkof is chairman of the benefit, which will be held on Thursday, Oct. 15, at the Belmont Country Club. Mrs. Harold Rozefsky and Mrs. Edward Stiller, also of Newton, are among her assistants.

The event will feature a fashion presentation "Belles Modes of Belmont," by Saks Fifth Avenue.

Proceeds from the luncheon will be used to purchase scientific research journals and specialized reference materials for the Berlin Pre-medical Center.

Music by Pradell performed at museum

WEST NEWTON — The first in a series of concerts by "Boston Women Composers" will take place on Sunday, Oct. 18, 3 p.m. at the Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington. The works of Leila Pradell of West Newton will be performed, as well as work by several other artists.

Pradell, is on the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music. Born and raised in Boston, she graduated from Boston University's College of Music and received her Master's Degree from the New England Conservatory where she studied composition with Francis Judd Cooke.

Additional studies were taken at Tanglewood, and at the Fontainebleau Music School in France, with Nadia Boulanger. She has been on the staff of Lesley College, the All-Newton Mjsic School and recently, was composer in-residence for the Newton Purlic Schools.

For several years, she has worked on the creation of a Resource Center for Contemporary Music for Children in collaboration with the International Society for Contemporary Music.

Her compositions include vocal and chamber music, and piano works. She is currently published by the Boston Music Company. Four works by Pradell, "Lament: Recitative and Aria," "Ksiezyc: Ode to the Moon," "The Paint Box," and "Off to the Arym," will be sung by Mary Sindoni and Jan Milun. Ms. Pradell will accompany them on piano.

The Museum of Our National Heritage is located at 33 Marrett Road, at the corner of Massachusetts Avenue and Route 2A in Lexington. For more information, call (617) 861-6560.

Here's how easy it is for you to get up to a $2000 tax exemption, earn 12.14%* on your money and get a free gift:

Starting October 5, Mutual Bank makes it easy to earn high rates of interest when you deposit $500 or more in a one-year All Savers Certificate. Interest is free from federal taxes – up to $1000 for an individual return and $2000 for a joint return. If your tax bracket is 30% or greater, our new All Saver can be an especially rewarding investment for you.

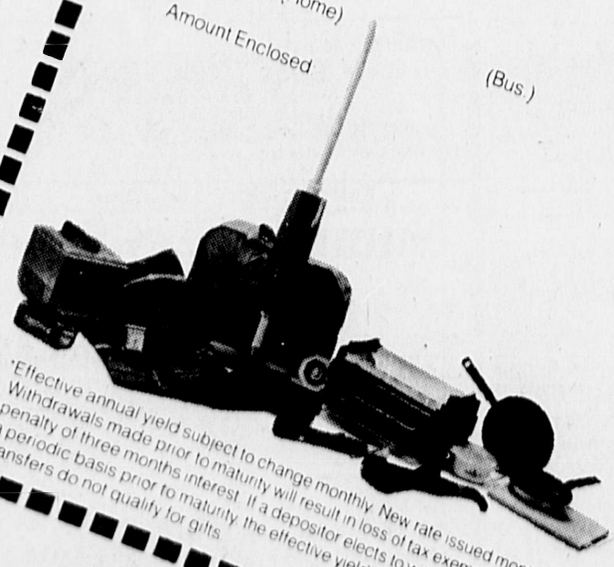

And, if you open your certificate before November 13, you can choose from a quality selection of free and reduced-price gifts.

Make it easy on yourself! Just send the coupon now. We'll handle everything and send you a form to choose your gift. Or call 482-7530 or 969-7500 or stop by one of our 26 easy-to-find offices for all the details.

Theatre Party

Mann or Marquis?

White mulls endorsement

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Alderman Mark White, who was knocked out of the mayoral race in the Sept. 22 preliminary, is considering endorsing Mayor Theodore Mann or Waban Businessman Bruce Marquis.

White met with Marquis last week and is setting up a meeting with Mann. White said he will make a decision on whether to endorse either of the candidates next week.

"I haven't decided what I'm going to do yet," he said. "I may remain neutral." Mann and Marquis will face off in a Nov. 3 election.

Noting that his meeting with Marquis was "pleasant," White said: "I told him I have some serious problems with his issues and some of the people in his campaign."

Throughout the campaign, White and Marquis particularly disagreed on education. Marquis stressed the need for improved services for underachievers in the school system. White, however, emphasized the need for the school system to maintain unique and special programs for gifted students.

White was also a severe critic of the the Mann administration throughout his campaign. The veteran aldermen from ward 7 repeatedly criticized Mann for "delaying revaluation" and allowing a private firm to take over the Fire Department operated ambulance service.

Mann captured 7,323 votes or an overwhelming 60 percent of the vote in the preliminary. Marquis finished second with 2,790 votes and White received 2,346.

White, a Boston attorney, said he is looking forward to concentrating on his law practice.

"I am not bitter about the campaign," he said. "I think I ran a high level campaign. I showed that I know the issues better than either of the other two candidates...My candidacy was based on issues."

He added: "I think I established myself which is what I wanted to do."

"I don't know what I would have done differently," White continued. "I don't really know what else I could have done...I just haven't figured out how to beat this guy (Mann)."

Both Mann and Marquis said they would welcome White's support.

Before revaluation

McGrath knocks use of money

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Alderman Richard McGrath says the Mann administration is acting "irresponsibly" by using surplus monies and state aid before an accelerated revaluation is completed.

McGrath stressed that if the effort to bring real estate to 100 percent full and fair cash value is not completed on time the city will be forced to cut $11 million from this year's budget. Many aldermen have expressed doubts that the massive revaluation project can be completed before the Jan. 1 deadline.

Mayor Theodore Mann has authorized $500,000 in surplus monies for installing smoke detectors in municipal buildings and improvements to the police dispatching control center. Aldermen gave their support to those expenditures this week. Fire Chief Edward Reilly and Police Chief William Quinn contend that the purchases are vital and should be approved immediately.

"They are assuming that the revaluation will go through the citizenry, Board of Aldermen, and the Revenue Department without a hitch," McGrath said. "Until we know for sure what the effects of revaluation are it seems to me irresponsible to tamper with those surplus monies.

"There is a risk there will be a shortage of revenue because of delays in revaluation," he continued. "I am very upset they are doing this. It is counting your chickens before they are hatched."

If the revaluation is not certified by the Revenue Department the city could be forced to layoff an additional 500 municipal employees. Approximately 300 positions have already been cut from this year's budget.

Finnegan Associates of Acton is conducting the accelerated revaluation project. Finnegan was the only company willing to take on the project.

City assessors contend that Newton's property tax base is $2.94 billion. The Revenue Department, however, has ordered the city to base this year's tax levy on a total property value of $2.23 billion.

The city battled the state agency all the way to the state Supreme Judicial Court to dispute the tax base, but lost. As a result, the city is short $11 million in funds already budgeted unless the accelerated revaluation is approved by the state agency. The project is on schedule, according to city officials.

In the effort to avoid an $11 million budget cut, city officials have received state legislative approval to send out estimated tax bills which will be the exactly the same as last years. The estimated bills are scheduled to be sent to residents by November.

Residents receiving a large jump in their tax bill will not see the increase until the second bill after the November election. Mann has predicted that one third of all residents will see an increase in their bill; one third will see a decrease; and one third will remain the same.

McGrath said that he would be in favor of both smoke detectors and improvements to the police dispatching center if the revaluation is completed and approved by the January deadline. "We haven't had these for 10 years," he said. "We can live without them for another four months."

Police join for vehicle bids

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Greater Boston Police Council (GBPC) has awarded Natick Auto Sales a $14 million cooperative bid contract for the purchase of approximately 14,000 police vehicles.

Under the contract, which is one of the largest cooperative public entity purchases nationwide, Newton is scheduled to acquire 15 vehicles via an FY 82 budget appropriation of $148,058.

The bid specifications were developed by the Michigan State Police and awarded from a field of four vendors by the United States Department of Justice on behalf of the International Chiefs Association. The Greater Boston Police Council is an affiliate of the association.

The cooperative program, which is designed for cities and towns to save money via collective buying, has been under the direction of Newton Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar since its inception three years ago. During that time, the program has grown to include more than 300 communities in the Commonwealth.

As a result, the scope of the program as well as the size of item purchases has increased dramatically. In 1979, the GBPC's first year, the cooperative purchased 300 vehicles; last year more than 1,000 cars were bought and this year the numbers have climbed close to 1,400.

"We act as a conduit of the program," explained Kanbar of Newton's role. "It speaks for itself. If it doesn't sell itself, it doesn't fly."

As reads the bottom line, the cost savings resulting from the program have been great for all participants.

Kanbar estimated the city would save roughly $15,000 via the purchase against what it would have paid if the vehicles were bought outside the collective. The savings are largely because of the bulk of the cooperative purchase, which drives down the average price of each vehicle, and the contract's non-escalator clause that assures the stable pricing of items despite double-digit inflation.

"In the days of Proposition 2½, no city or town can justify passing up a cost savings such as this," said Kanbar. "No one has to participate, yet the success of the program depends on this mass participation."

Under the $14 million contract, the city of Boston is the largest purchaser with more than $1.3 million in the kitty for the acquisition of 150 mid-size police cars. Brookline has 20 full-size police cruisers on order at an average cost of $9,760, while Waltham has 10, Watertown eight and Weston three.

Financial constraints, however, may detain Waltham from purchasing the vehicles this year (at a total cost of $97,600) noted Purchasing Agent Rosario Mula.

Additional benefits of the program as noted by Kanbar, include the standardization of equipment and the assurance that the vendor (in this instance Natick Auto Sales) will stock 50 police vehicles on its lot to satisfy the emergency needs of the GBPC.

"Instead of waiting four to six weeks for a unit, we can get them right away," said Kanbar. "We're doing nothing more, nothing less, than a big cooperation would do in this instance."

The cooperative bidding procedure was initiated in 1971 when Newton and Waltham, along with five other communities, began purchasing generic items (rock salt, lubricants, etc.) via cooperative bids.

In 1975, the system expanded into a statewide network which today filfulls approximately 75 percent of a communtities' needs (most of which are school supplies).

"There are between 700 and 800 items now on the state bid," noted Mula. "It saves the city about 20 percent on the average (roughly $7 million anually) plus advertising costs of $7,000 and time that would otherwise be spent on paperwork."

Municipal bidding too restricted

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

Purchasing agents in cities and towns throughout the state are concerned that a new state law designed to prevent corruption in the awarding of contracts may discourage competition and force smaller companies out of the bidding process.

The law, Chapter 579, was the result of the Ward Commission's recommendations. The commission studied corruption in the awarding of state building contracts.

Newton Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar said that the New England Purchasing Agents Association has formed a sub-committee in an attempt to amend some of the stringent requirements of the law.

The statute requires that bidders go through an extensive pre-bid procedure and demonstrate bonding capacity. The law also requires that companies file a certified financial statement.

Kanbar said the law creates "red-tape" and causes bidders "undue hardships." He said purchasing agents are not interested in "watering down the law," but making it more "workable."

He noted, "We want to make it more realistic."

"We just want to encourage more competition," explained Kanbar. "We feel this will discourage competition in smaller bids and create higher pricing that will be passed on to cities and towns. I don't think that was the intent of the law."

Kanbar said the law was "well intentioned," but "drafted in some haste." He also noted that few towns are complying fully with the law and the state does not have the personnel to police cities and towns.

Referring to Newton, he said: "We are trying to comply as fully as possible." He stressed that the law requires bidders to file an overwhelming amount of paperwork.

Kanbar recently met with aldermen and State Rep. Susan Schur (D-Newton) to discuss the problems posed by the new law.

Challenging needs of aging parent

By Dr. Marvin Snider

When parents survive into the seventies and beyond, their aging can become a trial of guilt and conflict.

At such times, the aging parent's ability to care for himself begins to deteriorate. This results in a gradually increasing shift from being a competent, self-sufficient parent to being a person who is increasingly dependent on others.

The speed of this shift is heightened by significant physical or mental deterioration, such as failing eyesight or crippling disease. The net result is a reversal of parent-child roles. The adult child now is pressed to assume the parenting role to his parent.

This can include managing finances, supervising medical care, and, in more severe cases, providing for the aging parent's recreational and social needs. This may include daily phone calls, demands for recognition, and competition with their child's family for attention.

The needs of the aging parent can be challenging at best. A major problem in coping with this situtation stems from the adult child's having to cope with his own needs and experience in the aging process. This concerns the wrinkles, balding, pot belly, sagging muscles, and increasing awareness of physical limitations.

From a mothering point of view, the vacuum left by children leaving home is filled by meeting the needs of the aging parent. For those in the work force, the greater parental needs come at a time when maximum attention and energy are demanded to "make it" in the occupational world. It is also a time when the newly liberated parents want to be free to pursue interests inhibited during child-rearing years.

The situation is no more attractive from the aging person's point of view. Frequently the mind ages at a different rate from the body. As a result, it becomes frustrating to have a body that cannot keep up with an active and facile mind.

It is also difficult to become dependent on other people for things you have always done for yourself. Imagine what it must feel like not to be able to drive a car anymore and to have to depend on other people to take you where you need to go.

One of the greatest difficulties is to no longer feel productive. This can be a problem when you have a lot of energy and experience and nowhere to go with it.

All of these situations are disturbing enough under normal circumstances. When emotional deterioration accompanies physical deterioration, the problem is intensified. There may be excessive demands, frequent crises, emotional upset and the invocation of guilt when demands are not met.

An adult child's adjustment to a parent under these circumstances is difficult, especially when the child, male or female, has not been able to gain a separate identity in his own right, free from parental judgment.

There are a number of things that can be done to minimize the difficulties in coping with this situation.

For the aging parent:

1. Be as self sufficient as possible. Doing for yourself will give you a better sense of competence. When the people around you see this, they will be more responsive when your needs exceed your abilities.

2. Develop interests outside of yourself. Take inventory of your interests and talents. Get involved in activities where you feel you are accomplishing something. When you do this, you are likely to feel better and other people are more likely to want to be around you.

3. When you need or want something, ask for it directly. Remember that other people may not always be able to meet your needs even if they want to. Avoid viewing such situations as a rejection of you, particularly by your family. When you show compassion, you are much more likely to get it back.

For the adult child:

1. You need to find a realistic balance between the degree to which you can meet your parent's needs, and tending to the realities of your own life. To go to extremes in either direction is likely to cause problems.

2. To find peace with yourself in relating to your parent, decode the limits within which you can relate to your parent's needs. Judge these efforts based on what you feel is reasonable.

If you guide your behavior by what your parent feels is reasonable, you are both likely to be unhappy. An aging person who is upset or in deep pain may not have judgement that is realistic for you.

3. Be realistic about your own adjustment to aging. Make the most out of your interests, talents and assets at each stage of your life. To try to cheat the clock is only to add to your frustration and disappointment. Greatest happiness is making the most of what we are.

Water meter changeover to save water and money

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In an effort to conserve water and save more than $300,000 annually, the city will replace all of its 23,000 residential water meters, ranging in age from one to 70 years, with a more modern and accurate metering system.

The project, which commenced Monday and will continue for one year, will be paid for by the city via a $1.8 million bond authorization.

According to Water Commissioner Verne Porter, the new metering system will save approximately $210,000 annually from under-registration of water consumed and another $90,000 through the elimination of six positions in the Water Department.

Due to antiquated meters (50 percent of which are more than 30 years old), the city is unable to account for about 15 percent of the water it consumes from the Metropolitan District Commission resulting in some customers paying less than their full share of water costs.

"The new system will allow us to properly measure water usage, maximize revenue and will encourage residents to take all the necessary steps to conserve water," said Chief Administrative Officer James Hickey.

Porter, who praised the new system, said the meters would be guaranteed for 15 years by the supplier, Rockwell Meter Co. of Pittsburg, Pa. He also noted that with the guarantee, the city will no longer need to operate a meter repair shop.

The operation (the daily installation of 500 meters) will begin in Division I of the Water Department, which includes Newton Corner, Newtonville and Nonantum, and continue counterclockwise around the city.

Although Porter noted that homeowner cooperation was mandated by city ordinance, he cautioned residents not to open their doors unless installers were properly identified.

According to Porter, all installers will be wearing Police Department photo badges identifying themselves and their purpose.

With the installation of the new meters, which will be placed on the outside of the home, meter readers will no longer find access to meters a problem. As a result, the time-consuming process of entering the home will be eliminated as will the problem of not gaining entry to dwellings because of homeowner unavailibility.

Porter said meter readers do not gain entry to approximately one-third of all houses. Only about 30 percent of these homeowners read their own meters leaving the remaining estimates to water department staff.

A third problem that will be eliminated, according to Porter, is the amount of paperwork which must be handled. With the new metering system, a device is inserted into the home meter which locks the reading on to a regular tape cassette. This is subsequently placed into a computer which immediately prints out the individual bills.

"Over a period of time our new reading ability will allow us to work with fewer meter readers and fewer clerical people for bookkeeping," said Hickey of the system.

Discounts for 'T' passes are offered

BOSTON — Sales of MBTA Pre-Paid monthly passes have reached an all-time high in September with 82,000 passes sold to commuters, General Manager James F. O'Leary said today.

"The MBTA is encouraged by such a large sales volume of commuters buying passes," said O'Leary. "We hope that more commuters take advantage of the monthly pass allowing purchasers unlimited use of the (T) for one set price. Commuters save money by purchasing the pass and do not have to wait in line for tokens."

O'Leary noted that everyone buying an October pass, which are on sale now, will receive a discount voucher worth $2 off the price of each ticket to the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Baily Circus coming soon to the Boston Garden. Passbuyers also receive discounts on auto insurance and admissions to various museums and cultural attractions throughout Boston.

"The record sale of monthly passes is due in part to the fact that pass prices did not increase with general fares on Aug. 1," said O'Leary. "Although pass prices increase in October, buyers of multiple-mode transportation passes will receive a greater discount than before and all pass buyers achieve a savings over token prices."

Hospice Program group is planned

WATERTOWN — The Hospice Program of Watertown, Waltham and Belmont will be sponsoring a nonsectarian group for widows and widowers at the First Congregational Church of Waltham.

The series will consist of six Tuesday evening meetings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in which guest speakers will talk on topics of practical and personal interest to widows and widowers. Topics to be discussed are: practical and emotional effects of widowhood, legal and financial issues, children in a widowed household, jobs and other things to do, loneliness, living alone, dating, remarriage and alternative life styles.

After a refreshment break, small groups, led by a widow or widower, will meet to provide participants with an opportunity to talk about their own experiences, problems and solutions related to the evening's topic. Help can often come from men and women who have been in the same situation, whether someone has been recently bereaved or has been widowed for some time.

If you are interested in joining the group please call the First Congregational Church in Waltham at 899-3891 or the Hospice Program at 926-0830 for more information. Transportation may be arranged if you are a resident of Watertown, Waltham or Belmont. The group will run from Oct. 6 through Nov. 10.

Foley brings Tigers back from 14-0 deficit

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

You could say that the Newton North Tigers dodged another bullet Saturday. Or perhaps, as we are beginning to find out, this is the way they plan to play it. Unlikely. Whatever the reason, the formula is working well. For the third week in a row, the Tigers played a lackluster first half, fell behind, and then came roaring back to dominate the second half, this time hanging a 15-14 defeat on North Quincy and its imaginative coach, Dave Burke, at Quincy Memorial Stadium.

The victory puts the Tigers at 3-0 (1-0 in the Suburban League) and sets up a possibly titantic battle next week with undefeated Brockton High at Dickinson Stadium.

The Tigers won this one with the pass and their new quarterback, senior Ryan Foley. Foley replaced starter Tim Brandon midway through the second period and proceeded to hit nine of 12 passes for 146 yards (Newton passed for 221 yards and rushed for only 55) in helping the Tigers erase a 14-0 deficit.

It wasn't that the sophomore Brandon was playing poorly – he had been six of 11 for 75 yards – but the Tigers as a unit weren't moving the ball and coach Norm Walker just felt it was time for a change.

"It was just one of those decisions a coach has to make," explained Norm. "Sometimes a new person in there can get the kids going. And Ryan's a senior who was dying to see some action. I thought that little bit extra adrenelin would help."

It did. The Tigers got one touchdown with 2:37 left in the half on a Foley to Tim Mulvey strike of 12 yards. Walker elected to go for the two points and got it when Brandon came in to hit John Coppolla in the right corner.

Newton North then won the game with an 80-yard drive in the final three minutes of the third period. Al Fortune capped it with a two-yard burst, but the key plays were a 47-yard pass to Coppolla and a 24-yarder to Mulvey. Foley put both balls right on the mark. But more on that later.

First some mention of North Quincy. Despite a record which showed the Red Raiders scoring only three points in their first two games, this team was no pushover. In Week I they had played on a field which was like a quagmire and in Week II they had seen receivers drop three wide-open touchdown passes against Brockton. But they came in Saturday with an offense which, at the very least, was entertaining, and at the very most, a lesson in confusion to a defense.

Utilizing, at various times, a single wing, a shotgun and a formation which had QB Pat Burke lined up to the right of center, two yards back, and the ball being pitched to the halfback, the Red Raiders controlled the first period and a half in marching to two touchdowns.

"It is an awfully difficult offense to stop," says Walker. "They're able to run so powerfully inside and on sweeps that after a while you become so occupied with it that you forget about the pass. Then they hit you with that and you're in trouble."

North Quincy went ahead, 7-0, with 1:47 remaining in the first period when Joe Dudek (107 yards rushing) went over from the seven. It was fitting that Dudek got the TD, because he was responsible for the drive. It started at the NQ 44 with Burke hitting Dudek for 17 yards. After an incomplete pass and an eight-yard reverse by Dan Linnehan, Dudek picked up 10 and nine yards on consecutive sweeps to bring the ball to the seven.

The Tigers drove to the NQ 16 on the next possession, but lost the ball there on downs and North Quincy drove 86 yards for another score. The big play was a 36-yard pass to Jim Hutchinson, who had beaten Rich Marchioni down the right sideline. Two plays later, Rich Stevens swept left and outraced everyone to the corner of the end zone for a 32-yard TD.

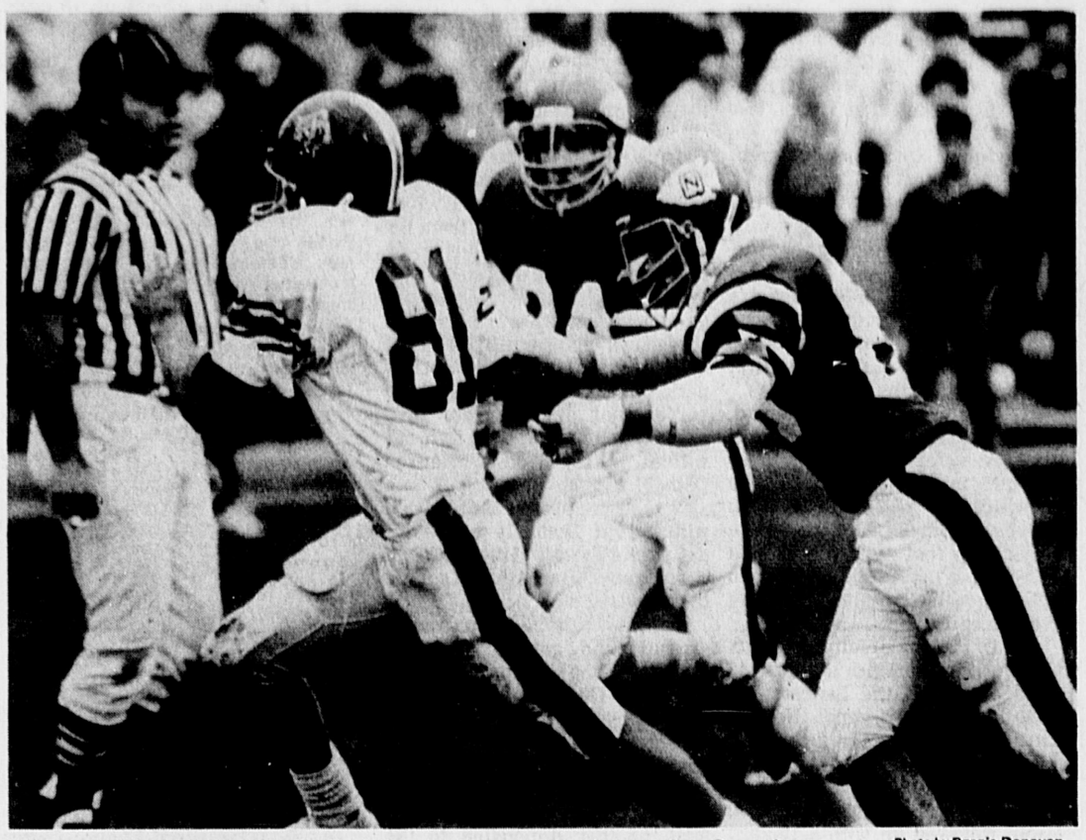

With Foley in the game, the Tigers took the next kickoff and went 70 yards in 10 plays. They moved the ball on the ground for a pair of first downs and then took to the air. First Foley found Coppolla for 19 yards and then hit Mulvey (five catches, 72 yards) for another 13. Two runs totaling 12 yards by Mike Abbruzzese brought the ball to the 12 and set up the Foley to Mulvey connection.

That's how the half ended. The big turnaround, one that NQ's Dave Burke will be thinking about for a while, came in the third period. The Red Raiders fielded the second half kickoff and marched all the way to the Newton 20. But on first down, Dudek fumbled, Abbruzzese recovered, and the Tigers smartly moved 80 yards for the winning score.

"That killed us. We could have gone ahead, 21-8. Instead we're suddenly losing by a point," Burke would say later.

On the first play of the march, Foley went long to Coppolla for 47 yards. He followed that up with a perfect strike to Mulvey, who caught the ball at the two and stepped out of bounds for a 24-yard gain. Fortune went over on the next play, Peter Munsat booted the extra point, and Newton North was ahead for the first time all day.

The defense, which had made an adjustment at the half by sacrificing power for speed, held the rest of the way and the Tigers had their victory.

Tiger runners use Quincy as tuneup

The Newton North boys' cross country team is about to embark on the toughest part of the schedule and it tuned up by defeating Quincy, 25-30, Wednesday in a Suburban League meet at Newton.

The Tigers will face Brockton at home next week and Weymouth South the next week. Then they travel to Cambridge in three weeks. Those three are among the srtongest the teams in the league. The Tigers go in with a 2-0 record.

First place was shared by Paul Passavant, a junior, and senior Co-Capt. Paul Patridge. The duo finished the three-mile run in 16:01. Partridge place first against Weymouth North a week ago.

Waltham dropped its second meet of the season 34-25 to Weymouth South. Greg Platt finished first overall for the Hawks in 12:19 over the 2.5 mile Waltham course. Waltham could capture just two more places in the top 10.

Kevin Milligan, a junior, finished third in 12:40 and Bill Heatley was seventh for Waltham. The Hawks travel to Quincy next Tuesday.

Weston had three runners within four seconds of second place, but ended up dropping a close 24-32 decision to Concord-Carlisle in a Dual County League meet.

Freshman Rich Manning was the top Wildcat runner finishing third in 15:32 just a second out of second place. Chris Minervino was fourth in 15:33 for Weston. Chris Vitello placed sixth for Weston in 15:35.

Weston's John Strehly was eighth in 15:66 and Andy Miltner placed 10th in 16:01.

The loss dropped Weston's record to 2-1.

Newton South had two runners in the top 10 in its 15-48 loss to Acton-Boxboro. Freshman Phil Levinson was the top runner for the Lions finishing seventh in 16:10 over the 2.9-mile Acton course.

Sophomore Mark Woodlief was eighth in 16:15 for Newton South. The loss left the Lions with an 0-3 record. Newton South meets Wayland on Tuesday at home. The summaries;

North takes swim win

The Newton North girls' swimming team captured first place in nine of 10 events to defeat Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 123-41, Monday in a Suburban League meet at Newton North.

The victory gave the Tigers a 2-0 record and provided a good tuneup for tomorrow's meet against a strong undefeated Brookline team. Newton North goes into the meet with a solid corps of seniors and good depth.

Senior Katie King was first in the 200 freestyle and the 100 flystroke to lead the Tigers. Anne Bishop was also a double winner for the Tigers placing first in the 50 freestyle and the 100 freestyle.

Lisa Dunn was first in the 200 individual medley and Danielle Waldmen won the diving competition. Eve Mazzola was first in the 100 backstroke and Laura Collins won the 100 breaststroke for the Tigers.

The 200 medley relay team of Dunn, Collins, King and Sally Cunning placed first for the Tigers. The 400 freestyle relay team of Karen Dias, Sarah Weinstein, Andrea Fillippone and Carrie Ford also placed first for North.

Girls' soccer roundup

Tigers outgun Brockton, 5-0

Lori Goldenberg scored two goals and added an assist, lifting the Newton North girls' soccer team to a 5-0 victory over Brockton Wednesday.

The win kept Newton North undefeated with a 5-0 record.

Goldenberg got Goal No.1 at the three-minute mark of the third period when she took a crossing pass from Stephanie Stoyanoff and fired the ball home from dead center.

Goldenberg then set up Debbie Quinn in the exact same manner moments later to make the score, 2-0.

That's how the third stanza ended. But the Tigers put the game away for good in the fourth as Goldenberg and Andrea Farina both scored. Sandi Troy assisted on Goldenberg's marker while Quinn received partial credit for Farina's goal.

The Tigers are at Weymouth North Friday.

Bigger took advantage of defensive lapses in the Waltham backfield to put in the tying marker. Marie Orlando scored the Waltham goal with 10 minutes left in the game. The Hawks had chances in the first half as forward Barbara O'Brien had the goalie beaten, but just missed net.

Bedford jumped out to a 2-0 lead and held on to defeat a hard-charging Weston team, 3-1. The Wildcats came back on a goal by Jenny Nichols off a penalty shot in the third period to make it a 2-1 game.

Bedford got the insurance goal it needed in the fourth period on a penalty shot. Debbie Sabin set up Weston's penalty when she was tripped in the penalty area. Bedford got its penalty shot when Andrea Botticelli cut off a Bedford player heading for a certain score.

Kelly McKenna and Diane Leach led the Weston offensive surge. Bedford scored twice in the first half to capture the early lead.

The loss dropped Weston's record to 0-4-1 and the Wildcats will play Acton-Boxboro on Friday.

Lincoln-Sudbury scored two goals in each half to defeat Newton South,4-0. The loss dropped the Lions record to 0-2 on the season. Goaltender Chiqui Wales and halfback Patrice Galvin played well for Newton South.

The Lions host Bedford on Friday.

North JV's top Red Raiders

Price Leonard ran for two touchdowns to power the Newton North Junior Varsity to a 20-0 triumph over North Quincy Monday at Quincy's Paxton Field.

The Tigers first score came from the defense. Defensive back Bill Norwood cut in front of the Red Raiders intended receiver and made a great catch. He scampered unmolested down the sideline for a 33-yard return and a touchdown.

The Newton North offense took over in the second quarter and marched 53 yards in nine plays to add to the lead. The North drive was helped along by a couple fo big plays.

The first was a 20-yard pass from quarterback Larry Tafe to Kevin Hiltz. Tafe also went around end on a bootleg for another 15-yard pickup. Leonard smashed in from the one and Newton led, 12-0. Tafe hit Ken Sabbag in the endzone for the two-point conversion.

The Tigers defense recovered a fumble in the fourth period and it didn't take the offense long to capitalize on the turnover. On the next play, Leonard turned a simple off tackle play into an exciting 64-yard touchdown jaunt to settle the issue.

The Newton North defense has allowed just six points in two games. Linebackers Bill Pearson, John Callahan and Marty Bailey have been playing well. Bill Sweeney, John MacDonnell and Ezra Gould have been steady along the line for Newton.

The Tigers won their first game of the season against Natick, 26-6. The win lifted the Jayvee record to 2-0. The Tigers will face Brockton Monday at home.

Youth skating Saturday

Preseason skating drills for the Newton Youth Hockey Intramural program will be held Saturday morning at the Fessenden School.

The Mite-Squirts Division (8, 9 and 10) will skate at 9 a.m. The Pee Wee and Bantam Division (11 through 14) will skate at 10:15 a.m.

These drills will be held for the next three Saturday mornings at the same times. The drills are only for boys and girls who were in the program last year and they must wear their full equipment.

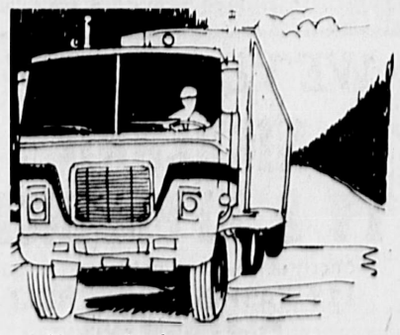

Pee Wee A evens record at 1-1

The Newton Youth Hockey League Pee Wee A team evened its record on Sunday with a convincing 7-0 triumph over Malden at the Burlington Ice Palace. The victory gave Newton a 1-1 record.

Jay Cappello paced the scoring attack for Newton with a three-goal performance. Steve Silk chipped in with two goals and Tom DeMio and Tim Connors also scored for the winners.

Neil Ronchiski and Andrew Ashare shared the shutout in the goal. Newton meets Lowell Sunday at the Burlington Ice Palace, 6:50 a.m.

Knights finally score, but Lancers prevail

By Greg Porell
Sports Correspondent

If it's possible for two teams to come away with a victory in a football contest, than that is the best way to explain the result of the Newton Catholic-St. Patrick's Catholic Suburban League clash at Victory Field Sunday.

Yes, it's fact that the Lancers posted their second straight victory and proved themselves to be a well-balanced ball team with a 28-12 win. But for St. Patrick's it was a chance to prove that it could score and that it could be tough on defense.

Newton Catholic is a very strong team that displayed a solid running game in its win this week and a formidable passing attack in its upset triumph over St. Clement's in its opener.

But the Knights of St. Patrick's had to be wondering what they could do to put points on the board after being shutout in their first two contests of the season.

St. Patrick's is a small squad, in physical size and in numbers of players. After coughing up three fumbles in the first quarter, two of which led to Newton Catholic scores and then being the victim of a safety that gave the Lancers a 15-0 lead, the Knights started to show signs of offensive life before the end of the half.

A St. Patrick's fumble on its third possession at its own 15 yard line gave the Lancers the first break of the game. Newton Catholic wasted very little time as Chuck Barbera, returning to the lineup after being sidelined, busted a five-yard run that Marc Hung followed up with a 10-yard touchdown run that Mike Walsh added a point after kick to and made it 7-0.

Another fumble by the Knights, this time at their 20 yard line, led to a Tom Donnelly to Paul Kling 20-yard touchdown pass. The conversion failed but just four plays later, Newton Catholic added a safety to its pot and built a 15-0 first quarter advantage.

Walsh blasted 19 yards to cap a 50-yard scoring march for the Lancers on their second possession of the second quarter and Newton Catholic led 22-0.

After the teams exchanged punts, St. Patrick's displayed the first signs of offense for the initial time this season. The Knights took the ball from their own 10 yard line and marched to Newton Catholic's 45 yard line, posting three first downs along the way, before the half ran out to stall the drive.

Mark McHugh picked off a pass to give St. Patrick's the ball at its own 30 yard line in the opening minutes of the third quarter. McHugh ran for five yards and then on the second play of the drive Dave Nagle exploded off tackle for a 65-yard touchdown run that gave the Knights their first T.D. of the season, and made the game, 22-6.

A blocked punt by Tony Gulla that was picked up by Jim Petito set up the Knights' final score. St. Patrick's took over the ball at the 20 yard line on the block and used five plays and a first down before Jim Barrett hit Mike Sullivan for a three-yard touchdown strike.

Newton Catholic scored quickly in the fourth quarter to put the game away on a 10-yard Barbera touchdown run, but St. Patrick's owned the ball for the rest of the period. The Knights rolled 60 yards (that included four first downs) before the clock ran out with St. Patrick's on the Newton Catholic five yard line.

"I think we proved that we can win even if Donnelly has a off day," said Newton Catholic Coach Tom Raeke. "Barbera can get out there and get the job done."

Newton Catholic displayed a strong running game that saw the backs blocking well for each other and quard Dave Grady turning in an excellent performance pulling and leading the Lancer runners down field. Center Jim O'Neill was also a mainstay in the Lancers' offensive line that now adds another dimension to the Newton Catholic attack.

While St. Patrick's did show signs of coming around offensively, Coach Bob McIntyre wasn't pleased with the clubs early mistakes in the game.

"We gave them about 18 points early in the game," he explained. "You can't do that and expect to win."

"We turned in an honest effort, though," he added. "We are starting to play. We knew we could and we are starting to show it."

A bright spot for the Knights' offense was the running of Nagle who ran for 138 yards on 18 carries. Jim Barrett completed 13 of 17 passes that added 96 yards to the Knights' offensive total, while McHugh had 28 yards on 10 carries.

Arrows battle to scoreless tie

St. Sebastian's Country Day School of Newton's football team played to a scoreless tie with Governor Dummer on Saturday morning in the opening Independent School League matchup at South Byfield.

The Arrows had chances to put some points on the board, but every time they would get something going a penalty or missed assingment would stop them.

"We hurt ourselves," said Coach Bob Souza. "We kept taking penalties at the worst time. It seemed every time we got something going or we're starting to drive a penalty would stop us. We had about 80 yards in penalties and they all came at the worst time."

Quarterback Jeff Simpson, playing in his first varsity contest, hit end Greg McNamara for a 50-yard connection and it seemed St. Sebastian's would have a first and 10 on the Governors five-yard line. But, a clipping penalty forced the Arrows back to the Governor Dummer 25 and they couldn't score.

"That was the kind of thing happening to us all afternoon," Souza said. "We just made too many mistakes. This could have easily been a win and in our league when you get a chance to win you should."

The Arrows were in danger of being scored in the late stages of the second quarter. Aided by a couple of face-masking calls the Governors marched the ball to the St. Sebastian's one-yard line with 40 seconds left to play.

Newton Youth hockey holds skating drills

Pre-season skating drills for the Newton Youth Hockey Intramural program will be held Saturday morning at the Fessenden School.

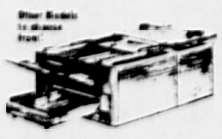

The Mite-Squirts Division (8, 9 and 10) will skate at 9 a.m. The Pee Wee and Bantam Division (11 through 14) will skate at 10:15 a.m.

The preseason skating drills were originally slated for Sunday, but were moved up a day because of a conflict with the rink schedule.

These drills will be held for the next three Saturday mornings at the same times. The drills are only for boys and girls who were in the program last year and they must wear their full equipment.

Lions muscle way to 15-0 rout

Greg Porell
Staff Correspondent

When Dennis Murphy dropped West Roxbury's John Turner for a safety in the fourth quarter, it capped off an outstanding day of defensive play for Newton South and erased any doubts that the Lions were strictly an offensive powerhouse.

Newton South was able to contain West Roxbury's 6'2", 225-pound Dan Rice and the visitors' offense, as the Lions muscled their way to a 15-0 shutout triumph Saturday at Newton South High Field.

It's not that Newton South's defense has been weak, it had previously allowed just 12 points in two games, but it was the Lions' offense that had gained most of the headlines.

Rice pounded out 119 yards for West Roxbury, while the team totaled 217 yards rushing, but Newton South's defense held the visitors to just 28 yards in the air. Newton South's defensive corp forced six West Roxbury turnovers, (two interceptions and four fumbles) that worked to set up a third quarter score and thwarted numerous scoring drives.

Steve Mosca and Steve Anglin pulled in interceptions for the now 3-0 Newton South squad, with each grab taking steam out of a West Roxbury offense that just couldn't find the key to unlock the door to the Lions' defense.

The interceptions are a reflection on the strong game turned in by all of the Newton South defensive backs. Senior Jon Greenburg was a sparkplug for the Lions' defense, making lone tackles and assisting on others all day long. Dave Hill, while hooking up with Joe Spagnuolo on two passes for 45 yards, aided his defensive linemen all day long in making tackles at the line of scrimmage.

"The defense won the game," said Lions' coach Art Kojoyian. "The defense did a fine job. I didn't expect the defense to be as tough."

Defensive linemen Neil Johnson and Bob Baker were effective all day long, undercutting the West Roxbury offensive line so the backs could come up and make the tackle.

While the Lions were impressive on defense, the play selection of West Roxbury was anything but. The visitors used two plays, sweep left or right and an off tackle run. True, when a team has a back with the tools of a Rice you want to get him the ball. But as Rice is suffering with an ankle injury, he wasn't at 100 percent and it showed.

West Roxbury put the ball up a total of four times (two completions for 28 yards) and gave the ball to its other four backs a total of 11 times.

This gave Newton South a chance to carefully guard against a big burst by Rice, while not really presenting any other threat for the Lions to be wary of.

Once again the Newton South offense proved it can put the ball up anywhere and anytime. Spagnuolo passed for 178 yards by using three different receivers. Mike Antonellis pulled in five passes for 82 yards to lead the receivers.

Newton South's running game was slowed down by an agressive West Roxbury defense and worked for just 84 yards. Art Walton led the backs once again, as the stocky senior plowed his way for 45 yards on 10 carries.

After a scoreless first quarter, Newton South's Steve Anglin made a big stop on Rice when West Roxbury was threatening to score at South's 18 yard line. The Lion offense took over after the visitors failed on a fourth down attempt and strung together two passes and three running plays to march 82 yards for the first score.

Spagnuolo hit Antonellis on a 27-yard pass completion to get the Lions to midfield. Spagnuolo dropped back again and hit Anglin for a 40-yard bomb that put the ball on the 15 yard line. Walton ran for two plays and brought the Lions to the 11 yard line before Spagnuolo gallloped in for a touchdown run the next play. Mosca split the goalposts and Newton South took a 7-0 lead into the halftime break.

Newton South pounded West Roxbury's backs and forced another fumble on its own 10 yard line that Gene Lindsey fell on for the Lions. A five yard penalty and a one-yard Spagnuolo run gave the Lions a 13-0 lead as the third quarter was winding down.

Newton South owned the ball in the fourth quarter, tacking up two more points with the saftey that came early in the last frame and West Roxbury never mounted another threat.

Devil Dogs blank NewtonTigers, 12-0

The Waltham Devil Dogs scored in the second and fourth quarter to defeat a tough Newton Tiger team, 12-0, Friday night in Suburban League Pop Warner Conference game at Albemarle Field.

The Devil Dogs have yet to be scored on this season and the win upped their mark to 4-0 in the league and 5-0 overall. It was the first league loss for the Tigers and the first time a league opponent has scored against them.

Jim Falzone was the offensive hero for Waltham in this one. The halfback scampered 30 yards around end for the first touchdown in the second quarter. Then quarterback Mike Ianuzzo hit Falzone for a 19-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter and Waltham had all the points it would need.

The defense continues to shut down the opposition. Falzone along with Mark Caruso, Ray LeBlanc and Frank Tiano played well for the Devil Dogs. The Waltham B team won 13-0 and the C team won 12-8.

The Newton AA Lions scored in the third quarter to earn a 6-6 tie with Watertown. Britt Ryan went off tackle from five yards out to tie the score for Newton. Watertown scored in the second quarter.

The Newton B team lost to Watertown, 25-0 and the C team won 14-0.

Reece workers begin long legal battle over closing of Waltham plant

WALTHAM — Union officials representing employees at the Reece Corporation met Monday to announce a trial had been set before an administrative law judge for alleged labor violations at the Prospect Street company.

The trial date, in June 1982, is six months after the scheduled December 31 closing.

When announcing its decision to close the Waltham garment-machine manufacturing plant in April 1981, the company employed 125 union workers there. Forty-eight union workers remain.

Administrative headquarters for the Reece Corporation will be maintained at the Prospect Street facility.

In a prepared statement, union officials said the National Labor Relations Board's Regional Director, Ted Barrett, has alleged that the company's decision and its implementation of the decision violate the National Labor Relations Act.

Reece Corporation President Hugh Silbaugh said he is confident in the way his company has proceeded. "We are sound legally, and sound within the framework of the contract with the union," Silbaugh said.

"This is just the beginning of a long battle to vindicate the legal rights of our members," according to Barrett.

Union attorney Donald J. Seigel said the trial could last several days and that the judge's decision will probably not be issued until several months after the trial.

"If the judge grants the remedy the union has requested, the company will be required to return the Waltham facility to its pre-April 16, 1981 status," Seigel said. "This would not be the first time a judge has ordered an employer to move back to its original premises in (an instance of) violation of labor laws.

"We are trying to get a quicker trial date. Each week that goes by, more workers are laid off, and more work that was formerly done in Waltham will be sent out to other Reece plants," Seigel said.

"That could mean a return of all the productive capacity transferred out of Waltham in the last six months," according to UAW Local 1596 president Vincent Ofria.

"It may also mean thousands of dollars of back pay to our people," said Leo Fitzpatrick, chairman of the UAW's Reece unit. Fitzpatrick said the 48 remaining employees average 25 years of service to the Reece Corporation.

Reece has other facilities in Gorham and Portland, Me.; Statonsburg, North Carolina; and Leiden, The Netherlands.

The company was established in Boston 100 years ago before moving to larger facilities in Waltham.

Tour spotlights 10 solar homes

NEWTON — Ten Newton homes with solar installations will be open for viewing on Saturday, Oct. 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Included among the houses are demonstrations of active solar technologies for heating and hot water and passive features such as solar greenhouses, sunspaces and heat collecting walls.

The event is being sponsored by the Newton Conservators Inc. and the Newton Citizens Commission on Energy. The Newton Conservators is a non-profit organization dedicated to preservation of open space in Newton and to energy and environmental policies which promote responsible use of our natural resources.

The self-paced solar house tour will explain data on cost and design features of various solar systems in residential dwellings across Newton. It will be possible for tour participants to observe how each system works, ask questions and learn more about solar applications for the homeowner.

The tour will include a variety of applications: several solar greenhouses, new construction of a domestic hot water and space heating system, active space heating from a south facing collector wall, retrofit of existing greenhouses to incorporate passive solar design, a two-story sunspace designed and built entirely by the homeowners, active roof collector systems, a solar swimming pool heating system, and other innovative ways of tapping the sun's energy.

According to the sponsors, federal and state tax credits can reduce the cost of a new active or passive solar installation by over 50 percent.

Tickets for the all-day solar house tour cost $3 and may be purchased by sending a check along with your name and address to: Newton Conservators Inc., P.O. Box 11, Newton Centre, Mass. 02159.

After payment is received, a program and map listing all the houses and additional information will be mailed. Admission must be reserved in advance.

For further information call 527-1928 or 244-6495 (evenings).

Housewarming begins on energy programs

NEWTON — The season's first of a series of 10 events sponsored by the Newton Citizens Commission on Energy will take place at the Second Baptist Church in Newton Upper Falls on Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Newton Housewarming is an on-going educational energy conservation program for the residential sector. The program features no-cost, low-cost ways to conserve energy in the home or apartment. Featured events include: slide presentations followed by questions, demonstrations of tools and materials used in low-cost weatherization, Housewarming Energy Handbook, discount coupons for energy materials and services, weatherization kit (for income-eligible families).

Newton Housewarming parties are free and open to the public.

School plans music group for kids

NEWTON CENTRE — Bowen Community School, located in the Bowen School at 280 Cypress Street, Newton Centre, will offer for the first time this fall a madrigal group and a chamber orchestra for children in grades 4-6.

Rehearsals for both groups will be on Monday afternoons in the Bowen School, and all Newton children may participate.

The orchestra and madrigal group will be directed by Hope Ehn, a Ph.D. candidate in music at Brandeis with a master's degree from the New England Conservatory.

Any child in grades 4-6 who has had at least a year of instruction on a string or woodwind instrument is invited to join the chamber orchestra, and any child in those grades who can read music is welcome in the madrigal group. Those who would like to participate in both organizations should call 527-5788, for more information.

Shawmut's new Tax-Saver Certificate spelled out in black and white and green.

Our new Tax-Saver Certificate: a 1-Year Certificate that you've undoubtedly seen advertised as the "All Savers" certificate. At Shawmut, it's called the Tax-Saver because we believe that "All Savers" may not be for all savers. Here are the facts:

Tax-Exempt Earnings.

Our Tax-Saver Certificate can earn up to $1,000 in interest free of Federal taxes; up to $2,000 if you file a joint return. Interest on most money market funds is completely taxable. Depending on your tax bracket, you might have to find another investment that paid up to twice the interest on our Tax-Saver Certificate to receive the same yield after Federal taxes. (See chart.)

CURRENT FIGURES

	If your 1982 Federal taxable income will be:	$15,000	$25,000	$40,000	$50,000	$60,000
Joint Return	Your marginal tax bracket probably will be:	19%	29%	39%	44%	49%
	The taxable equivalent yield of a Tax-Saver Certificate will be:	14.99%	17.10%	19.90%	21.68%	23.80%
Individual Return	Your marginal tax bracket probably will be:	27%	35%	44%	50%	50%
	The taxable equivalent yield of a Tax-Saver Certificate will be:	16.63%	18.68%	21.68%	24.28%	24.28%

Tax-Saver's Worksheet.

At Shawmut you'll find an exclusive Tax-Saver's Worksheet. With our worksheet you can easily determine if our new certificate is right for you. You will also be able to figure out just how much you should deposit to obtain the maximum tax benefit.

Small Investment, Big Return.

The minimum deposit for Shawmut's Tax-Saver Certificate is only $500. Your deposit yields the maximum amount of interest we're allowed to offer. And, you have the security of knowing your Tax-Saver Certificate is insured by the FDIC, unlike money market funds.

No Conversion Penalty.

If you now have a Shawmut Six-Month Money Market Certificate, you can transfer your funds into our Tax-Saver Certificate without penalties for early withdrawal.

16 Gifts.

Right now, when you open a Shawmut Tax-Saver Certificate, you can choose from 16 fine gifts including Kodak cameras, Soundesign radios, and Magnavox televisions. Free or at great discounts.

Come See Us.

Visit your nearest Shawmut office today and pick up your Tax-Saver's Worksheet. Our Personal Bankers are ready and willing to help if you decide that our Tax-Saver Certificate is your best investment.

Important Information:
1) Substantial penalty and loss of tax-exemption for early withdrawal.
2) Federal taxable income is the net amount subject to Federal income tax after deductions and exemptions.
3) Taxable equivalent yield is the taxable yield you would have to receive to net the same amount of interest after Federal income taxes.
4) Taxable equivalent yields quoted above based on current Tax-Saver simple interest rate of 11.513% posted monthly for an annual yield of 12.14%. These rates are good until November 1, 1981. If a depositor elects to withdraw interest on a periodic basis prior to maturity, the effective yield to the depositor of the Tax-Saver Certificate will be lowered.

Some elderly will face problems with condominium conversions

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A 79-year-old elderly woman, who lives in a Newton apartment building being converted into condominiums, has been looking for a new apartment since July.

The woman, who asked that her name not be used, is one of several elderly women facing eviction proceedings because of the conversion of the building. Newton District Court Judge Paul Chernoff has given the women until May to find a new apartment. The women must report back to Chernoff in December.

"When I first got the order to get out at the end of the month, I nearly died," said the woman. The woman, who lives on a small pension and social security, received the eviction notice in July. She cannot afford the expensive market rate rental units in the city.

The woman is proud and is uneasy talking about her inability to find an apartment. The woman is also concerned that if she causes "trouble" she will find herself out in the street. "I am grateful to be here for the length of time," she explained. "I don't want to be uncomfortable here."

"It is tough," she said. "There are no apartments...There really aren't. It is ridiculous." The woman has hired several rental agents and applied to a number of apartment units without success.

"I've applied down at Newton Centre (Sumner Street elderly housing units)," she continued. "I've done everything I could possibly do."

Because of her age, the woman needs to find an apartment close to a shopping area and public transportation facilities; this only makes the search for an apartment more difficult.

She is among a growing number of elderly in Newton facing eviction from their apartments because of condominium conversion. The arduous task of finding a new place to live in a city with a critical shortage of rental units is an unwelcome prospect for all elderly residents. Many have entered rental units expecting to live out the rest of their lives there.

Exact figures on the number of elderly vulnerable to eviction because of displacement are not available. However, city officials agree that the problem is severe.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan, who sponsored a city ordinance regulating condominium conversion that went into effect Aug. 28, stressed that the elderly are the most vulnerable in condominium conversions.

Sheehan, who has attempted to find the women new apartments, explained: "There is just no rental housing available in Newton...These people had planned to live out their lives independently and now something beyond their control has disrupted their lives."

Rick Bohn, director of the Newton Community Development Foundation which manages the Sumner St. mixed income elderly housing project, agreed that the demand for low income and market rate elderly units is overwhelming.

The foundation received 230 applications for elderly units for only 43 units at the Sumner St. site. "There is no question that there is a tremendous demand for this type of housing," he said.

Richard Glovsky, chairman of the Human Services Commission, conducted a study on the growing condominium conversions in the city which helped spark the ordinance regulating condominium conversion in Newton.

"The study showed that older people were the most prevalent victims of conversion," said Glovsky. "In many cases they are put into a difficult position because they are on fixed incomes." Glovsky noted that most condominium buyers tend to be younger.

Although Glovsky could not provide a specific figure, he said a "substantial number" of local elderly have been affected by the condominium conversion boom.

Glovsky stressed that the new city ordinance should be effective in aiding elderly in the city. The ordinance, which went into effect Aug. 28, provides tenants with a two-year grace period before they can be evicted because of a conversion. In addition, if aldermen grant a tenant "hardship status," the renter is provided an additional three- year period.

The new law is now facing a court challenge by the firm converting the 422-unit Chestnut Hill Gardens complex at 250 Hammond Pond Parkway into condominiums. Judge Elizabeth Dolan recently denied a preliminary injunction preventing the enforcement of the law. A hearing date on the legality of the ordinance has not been set.

The Attorney General's office has declared ordinances regulating condominium conversions in Framingham and several other communities illegal.

"Newton has been brave in this situation." Glovsky said. "There is uncertainty over whether we can enact the ordinance."

Solo, duet concerts at Highlands church

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Cynthia Healy, lyric soprano, and Paul Wiggin, lyric tenor, accompanied by Jean Stackhouse, will present a concert of solo and duet music on Sunday, Oct. 18 at 4 p.m. at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church.

Miss Healy has sung with the University of Chile Opera Company and with both the St. Gaudens and Mohawk Trail Summer Concert series.She recently appeared with the Pioneer Valley Symphony Orchestra as soloist in the Poulenc "Gloria."

Mr. Wiggin, founder and president of MUSE, (Music Servin, a g the Elderly) classically trained group of musicians who make concert visits to nursing homes, is a former teacher and youth minister.

Jean Stackhouse teaches piano at Dana Hall School, the New England Conservatory of Music and graduate courses in the Conservatory's Master's Program in Podagogy.

Rubin is top CETA employee

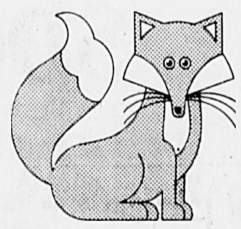

AUBURNDALE — A plaque for being selected the Outstanding CETA Summer Employee by the 10-city Brookline-Newton Area CETA consortium committee, was presented this week to Kenneth Rubin, 19, of Newton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Rubin of Newton.

Richard Monahan, director of the group, awarded the plaque at a special ceremony at the Marriott Hotel in Newton where Rubin is now employed in the housekeeping department. He had already started his Marriott job before being selected to receive the Award.

During the summer, Rubin, who has Cerebral Palsy, worked at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital on a temporary CETA job. While at the hospital, he was promoted from a clerical position to supervisor before leaving to assume a permanent position at the Marriott.

In making the award presentation, Monahan said that Rubin's enthusiasm for his work was a major factor in his selection.

"Ken demonstrated tremendous energy on the job and moved rapidly ahead because of his interest and commitment to his work," stated Monahan.

THE WORLD of Travel

by Hank Fleming
UNIQUE CITIES
Berne, the capital of Switzerland, is largely overshadowed in importance, size and glamour by Zurich or Geneva. Yet, with a population of 150,000, its smaller size works to its advantage. Less congestion enhances the charm of the old-town section in which no exterior structural changes may be made on the city's buildings except in authentic period style. Red-roofed sandstone houses set on cobblestone streets, colorful fountains and age-old arcades make up the most perfectly preserved medieval town center in Europe.
Berne has many lively outdoor cafes, outdoor markets and wine taverns which punctuate this clean and much overlooked city.
Airlines today have a confusing array of fares and our staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham keeps up to date on the very latest. Let us help you plan your next trip to take advantage of the fares with the most value. Many times our advice can save you inconvenience as well as money. Most major credit cards are honred.

Franks spars with Moral Majority

By Gladys Damon
Correspondent

The atmosphere was supercharged last night at Ford Hall Forum when Cong. Barney Frank shared the podium with Cal Thomas, vice president of the Moral Majority, at Northeastern University in Boston.

Although the topic was billed as "The New Right, The New Left: Their Place in Government and Politics," it was clearly Frank's moment to attempt to repudiate the philosophy of the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who sent his surrogate to defend his New Right politics.

Thomas, national spokesman, writer and daily radio commentator for the Moral Majority, who also conducts its public affairs television program, quoted almost verbatim from the recent Falwell article which appeared in Newsweek Magazine on Sept. 21, entitled "My Turn: The Maligned Moral Majority."

Citing their right to speak out, under the guarantee of the First Amendment, Thomas said that freedom of speech was not solely the prerogative of the liberals, denying that his group is trying to impose its views on the voters. He denied that the Moral Majority, founded in 1979, is a religious organization.

"We would rather be arrogant than wishy-washy. It is a sign of our steadfastness. We are not a religious organization because we count among us fundamentalists, Roman Catholics, Jews, Mormons and even atheists. We are a melting-pot and we are here to stay," said Thomas.

"There is a trend to secularize government: like bleach, it is supposed to remove impurities. But there are strong, enduring religious roots. The Judeo-Christian ethic is basic to American culture and institutions. Under the Founding Fathers, the First Amendment was intended for the separation of Church and State. not the separation of Church from the State."

Thomas delineated the four principles of the Moral Majority: pro-life (anti-abortion); pro-family (traditional male-female relationship); pro-morality (anti-pornography "mind pollution" and illegal drugs); and pro-American (for military spending).

One by one, Barney Frank disputed the Moral Majority's tenets. "Falwell has developed 75 theses, each one of which condemns those who disagree as being unchristian. The Moral Majority uses the yardstick of Christianity to pass judgment on the opposition. For example, the Christian Voice, its weekly newspaper, takes a poll on Congressional votes and calls those 'immoral' who vote opposite to their stand on issues. You are 'immoral' if you support the unionization of teachers, the Salt II treaty, the Panama Canal Treaty. They decide what is right or wrong. They attack the Equal Rights Amendment. They call those who weaken our defense system equal to treason."

"Children's rights begin at conception and end at birth," declared Frank, charging that the Moral Majority is insensitive to social issues. "The New Right attacks but does not affirm human rights. They use a systematic campaign to invoke the Bible to deny equal rights to women. The basic rules and values of American democracy stand or fall on their own merits, and not according to a religious formula.

"Tomorrow, Congress will vote on one of the most important pieces of legislation, the Voting Rights Act, a most successful act to redress an injustice. The New Right has remained silent on this issue. They have not uttered a word of support for it. Opponents of this legislation draw their support from the Moral Majority."

Frank summed up his opposition in his usual style: "It's not illegal, it's not fattening, but it's immoral."

Frank joins National Strategy Council

WASHINGTON — Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., has accepted an invitation to join a new National Strategy Council being formed by the Democratic National Committee. The Council will hold its first meeting the weekend of Oct. 16 in Baltimore.

The Council size will be limited to about 60 or 70 Democrats from throughout the nation selected from among the leadership of the Congress and national organizations of elected Democratic officials, as well as Democratic members of the House and Senate, governors, mayors, and state, county and local officials.

In addition to Frank, Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., were invited by the DNC to serve as members of the Strategy Council.

In his telegram inviting Frank to serve on the strategy council, Democratic National Chairman Charles T. Manatt said the group, which will meet about four times annually, would serve a variety of important functions for the Democratic Party.

The council will give the party the opportunity to share information and ideas with its "ablest, most active elected officials," Manatt said, and it will provide Democrats nationwide the opportunity to participate in charting the course the party will take during the 1980s.

Manatt said the council would also serve to help unify the party and strengthen Democrats' ability to articulate new solutions to major problems.

Cable site found says official of firm

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A representative of Continental Cablevision said last week the company has found a possible location for its headend site and could conceivably be operating within the city by mid-November.

The site, which System Manager Michael Musen opted not to mention for fear of jeopardizing current negotiations, was located more than two months after aldermen denied Continental a permit to build on the grounds of the Andover-Newton Theological School in Newton Centre.

Musen said the exact tower location will be released in two weeks upon completion of the lease.

Although Musen does not expect the amount of opposition Continental confronted with its first headend proposal, he noted, "You're always going to find people who disagree with you, but we feel people will see the logic of this site."

"It's not as good technically as the one we were denied on, but we're reasonably confident it will work," added Musen. "However, there are some unresolved questions that unfortunately won't be resolved until the construction of the tower."

It was noted there is potential for interference at the site and the possible re-routing of some cable exists because the new tower will not be located in the center of the city.

Musen said the company was severely restricted in its search for a headend site by the ultimatum delivered by the Land Use Committee not to build a tower in a residentially zoned area.

The committee placed the ban on Continental after Newton Centre residents mobilized into an Ad-Hoc Committee for Sound Land Use and expressed their opposition at a public hearing and presented aldermen with a petition containing more than 700 signatures.

Due to the restriction on land use, which meant the tower would be located on land of far less elevation, Continental will be forced to construct a 250-foot transmitting tower rather than the originally planned 150-foot tower.

The headend, which will be located on 10,000 square feet, will also include several receiving dishes and a small building to house electronic equipment.

Aldermen must approve a zoning variance for height before Continental can go ahead with the tower construction.

"We have alternatives, but none are zoned for industrial use," said Musen. "Unless the Land Use Committee adopted a more flexible approach we'd really be at a loss as to where to go."

"We've looked at every business and industrially zoned piece of land in the city and this was the only one that was both available and meets our needs," he added.

Continental, under contract to provide construction of the entire system by mid-March, could face another delay due to a shortage of cable converters.

"Whether we can deliver service to all homes by March 12 depends on the shortage," said Musen. "The growth of cable has outstripped the industry's ability to produce reliable converters."

Just pick up your free game booklet (while supplies last), rules and odds on winning at any participating McDonald's. Every time you come by, upon request, we'll give you a free game stamp (while supplies last) Match the game stamp with the picture and number on your "You deserve a break today" game booklet and you can win up to $300,000 in cash or travel! And save your game booklet because some prizes require more than one stamp to win. The stamp you get on your next visit may be the one that wins you $1,000, $25,000 or even more! Anyone 16 years or older can play. Game scheduled to end 12/6/81 in most areas or while supplies last at each McDonald's. Consult your local McDonald's for its scheduled game end date. No purchase necessary. Void where prohibited by law. McDonald's "You deserve a break today" game has over 47 million prizes available worth over a grand total of $26,500,000 in 5,654 participating McDonald's stores throughout the United States and Canada.

Waban woman appointed to post on Brandeis committee

Carol S. Rabinovitz of Waban, a Fellow of Brandeis University and a 1959 graduate of the university, has been appointed executive director of the 65,000 member Brandeis National Women's Committee (NWC).

Prior to accepting the post, she was a national vice president of the NWC, the largest friends of a library organization in the world. Founded in 1948, the year that Brandeis opened, the committee's 123 chapters have raised more than $18 million in support of Brandeis' libraries.

In announcing the appointment, NWC President Elaine Lisberg said, "As a Brandeis volunteer, alumna, and professional, Carol Rabinovitz brings her special Brandeis caring to her new responsibilites."

Ms. Rabinovitz worked in the national office of the NWC immediately following her graduation from Brandeis, holding a variety of administrative positions for two years. From 1961-1964, she served as assistant director of Brandeis Alumni Relations.

She has been coordinator of Brandeis Alumni Chapters, chairman of the Alumni Conference, president of the Greater Boston Chapter, and treasurer of the Alumni Association. In 1972, she was a recipient of the Distinguished Alumni Service Award.

In addition to her role as national vice president, Ms. Rabinovitz has served as president of the Greater Boston Chapter and has been national chairwoman of its study groups, extended program University on Wheels, and the annual national conference.

Carol S. Rabinovitz

Professionally, Ms. Rabinovitz has worked as manager of The Hamlet, a community in Newton, and as a housing coordinator for the Jewish Family and Children's Services of Greater Boston.

Other activities have included membership in the Corporation of the Cambridge School of Weston and on the Boards of Newton Fair Housing and Newton Community Development Foundation.

Women in Action series explores careers

Women in Action: The Realities of Working, a series of round table discussions with women in the professional world, is meeting at Wellesley College through November with separate panels on Women in Government, Psychology, Sales, Architecture, Health Careers, Communications, Education and Finance.

All programs except "Women in Health Careers" are free and open to the public and will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. in the faculty lounge, 3rd floor, Green Hall.

Panelists will discuss the nature of their work, how they began in the field and the type of opportunities now available.

The Women in Health Careers program will be an all-day conference for undergraduate women with a special focus on getting into medical school, being a medical student and the careers and lifestyles of a variety of health care professionals. The program will be held in the Wellesley College Science Center on Saturday, Oct. 31.

Other programs will be held on the following dates:

Women in Government, Tuesday, Oct. 6; Women in Psychology, Tuesday, Oct. 20; Women in Sales, Wednesday, Oct. 21; Women in Architecture, Tuesday, Oct. 27; Women in Communications, Wednesday, Nov. 4; Women in Education, Tuesday, Nov. 10; and Women in Finance, Tuesday, Nov. 17.

Action awards grant for volunteer program

NEWTON — Anthony J. Bibbo, Executive Director of the Newton Community Service Centers (NCSC) Inc. has announced the receipt of a grant award for $48,962 for the continuation of the Newton, Wellesley, Weston Retired Seniors Volunteer Program through Action.

Bibbo pointed out that the program has provided volunteer opportunities for over 2500 individuals since its inception in 1973. It has been a model activity and demonstration of outstanding joint community participation of Newton, Wellesley and Weston.

This year's program will serve more than 650 elders through service to 75 non-profit agencies. Under the direction of Barbara Ireland, the area-wide program serves Newton, Wellesley, and Weston. In addition to the $48,962 granted through Action, an additional $27,481 is raised through the local communities.

Under the administration of the NCSC, RSVP has enabled older persons to utilize their time, experience, and skills to serve their own communities. The variety of opportunities available includes assignments in hospitals, schools, municipal agencies, nursing homes and social service organizations.

RSVP also sponsors educational courses and discussion groups as well as programs for housebound and handicapped elderly. Transportation to volunteer assignments is arranged. Residents of Newton, Wellesley, or Weston who are 60 years old, are eligible to become RSVP volunteers.

Call 969-5907 for more information.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Huge spacehole amazes experts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Imagine a "hole" so big it would take 300 million years for a flash of light to cross it.

That's what astronomers at the Kitt Peak National Observatory near Tucson, Ariz., believe they have found deep in the universe.

If they are right, and additional observations are now underway to confirm it, it would mean scientists would have to re-think some fundamental ideas on how matter tends to organize on a large scale in the universe over billions of years.

"If we were strictly orthodox, we wouldn't believe our results because it runs counter to the way people like to think matter is organized," said Dr Paul L. Schechter of the Kitt Peak observatory. "The contrast here is too great. It's too empty."

The apparently empty region is about 300 million light years in diameter. A light year is the distance light travels in one year at 186,000 miles a second.

The void represents about 1 percent of the entire observable universe and is much larger than any previously known empty regions. It is so vast that ordinarily 2,000 galaxies the size of our Milky Way would be found within its boundaries.

SILVER LAKE DODGE WINS Chrysler Corporation's national "Five Star" Quality Service Award — Richard Kennedy, (left) General Manager, receives Chrysler's "Five Star" Quality Service Award, with Herbert Abramson, President of Silver Lake Dodge in Wellesley (center), from Robert Davidson, New England Service Manager for Chrysler Corporation. The "Five Star" Quality Service Award is recognized as Chrysler Corporation's symbol of dedication to the highest standard of service excellence. "Five Star status is the highest service award a Chrysler Corporation dealer can earn," said Davidson. "As leaders in customer relations, service, parts performance, training, efficiency and quality, Five Star dealerships have proven themselves worhty of this award. Because of the accomplishments of Chrysler Corporation and dealers like Silver Lake Dodge, quality service is becoming a reality in the automotive industry," he concluded. Silver Lake Dodge has just celebrated their 21st birthday under the same ownership and the 47th year since the business was founded. The dealership is located on Route 9, just ½ mile west of Route 128.

Obituaries

William H. Fitzgerald

NEWTON — William H. Fitzgerald, 82, died Wednesday after a lengthy illness.

Born in Newton, Mr. Fitzgerald was the husband of Elsie (Dunleavy). He was a captain of the Newton Fire Department up to his retirement in 1964. He was also treasurer of the Newton Credit Union for many years.

He is survived by a son, William H. Fitzgerald, Jr.; four daughters, Elizabeth Shields, Martha Ann Fitzgerald, Margaret Fitzgerald and Mary DiSciullo; and four grandchildren.

The funeral took place from the Valente Funeral Home, 697 Washington St., Newton, Saturday, Oct. 3 at 11:30 a.m., and was followed by a Funeral Mass in Our Lady's Church at 12:30 p.m. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Needham.

Charles Gordon, 75

BOSTON — Charles Gordon, 75, died on Thursday, Oct. 1 at the Deaconess Hospital, Boston following a long illness.

Mr. Gordon was a resident of Newtonville for 26 years. He was born in Russia and lived in Springfield before moving to Boston and travelling in the wholesale clothing trade. He represented Alps Sportswear of Boston for nearly 20 years and was with Lawrence I. Phillips, Inc. of Newton Highlands from 1951 to 1971, at which time he retired.

Mr. Gordon was a founding member of the New York State Mens' Apparel Club, and was a past vice president of the Community School of Religion, which was located at the Hecht House in Boston. He was active for many years in the United Commercial Travelers Association of New England, for whom he was serving his second term as senior counselor. He was a member of the Garden City Lodge of Masons, AF and AM.

Mr. Gordon is survived by his wife of 45 years, Frances (Yorra); a daughter, Marsha (Mrs. Arthur) Kaufman of Newton Highlands; a son, Jerome Gordon of Needham; two sisters, Sarah Baron of Brookline, and Esther Morse of Hyde Park; and two brothers, Irving and Robert Gordon, both of Springfield. He is also survived by five grandchildren, Chuck, Lauren, and Roger Kaufman, and Andrea and Michelle Gordon.

Services for Mr. Gordon were held Friday, Oct. 2 at Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington St., Newton at 11 a.m.

Rabbi Philip Kieval will officiate and interment will be at the Vilkomere Cemetery, Melrose.

Remembrances in his memory may be made to the Charles Gordon Memorial Fund, Temple Reyim, Newton.

Jud Strunk, entertainer, dies in Maine small plane crash

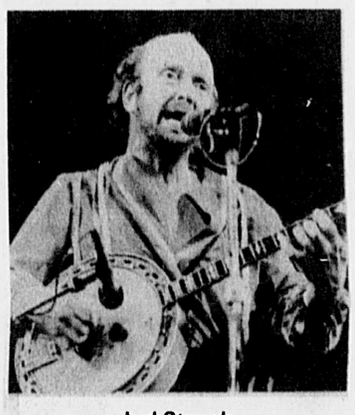

CARRABASSETT VALLEY, Me. — Jud Strunk, who wrote the hit song "Daisy a Day" and played a country bumpkin newscaster on TV's "Laugh In", died Monday in the crash of his antique warplane. He was 44.

A friend, Richard Ayotte, 43, was also killed in the accident which occurred near the Carrabassett Valley Airport. The Federal Aviation Administration immediately dispatched a team of investigators to determine the cause.

"It was a bright, sunny day and Jud was taking people up for a look at the foliage", said Larry Warren, a friend. "They were just making scenic flights. It was a beautiful day up there."

Strunk bought the antique, open-cockpit plane in August.

The folksinger,, who wrote the hit song "Daisy a Day", appeared for only one season on the national television show "Laugh In". He played the part of an anchorman reading "News From Kingfield", a small town in northwestern Maine.

Fred Lindstrom, Hall of Famer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Funeral services were planned Wednesday for Baseball Hall of Fame member Fred C. Lindstrom, who died at the age of 76.

Lindstrom, who finished his professional baseball career with a lifetime batting average of .311, died Sunday in Mercy Hospital.

Services were scheduled at St. Athanasius Roman Catholic Church in Evanston, Ill.

A Chicago native who also served as Northwestern University's baseball coach for 12 years and as postmaster of Evanston for 17 years, Lindstrom had been living in retirement in New Port Richey, Fla.

Known as a hard-hitting and sure-fielding third baseman, Lindstrom spent 13 years in the major leagues, nine of them with the old New York Giants. He was a third baseman-outfielder for the pennant-winning Chicago Cub team of 1935.

Lindstrom retired from professional play in 1936. He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1976.

Survivors include three sons, Fred Jr., Andrew and Charles.

Elvis trial selection continues

By PAMELA MURPHY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Selection of a jury continued like a chess game Tuesday in the trial of Elvis Presley's doctor, accused of overprescribing massive quantities of addictive drugs to the rock 'n' roll king found dead in his Memphis mansion four years ago.

Five of 12 jurors tentatively seated earlier in the trial of Dr. George Nichopoulos were dismissed. There was no immediate indication when jury selection would finish and testimony begin.

"Under Tennesee law, all jurors are tentative until all 12 are seated," said Nichopoulos' attorney, James F. Neal. "You've got to remember any one of them can be struck at any time."

Nichopoulos, Presley's doctor for 11 years, is not charged with the entertainer's death but with overprescribing stimulants, depressants and pain killers to Presley and others.

The silver-haired doctor could be sentenced up to 140 years in prison and fined $280,000 if convicted on each of the 14 criminal counts.

By mid-day Tuesday, the fifth day of the trial, 21 prospective jurors had been questioned and dismissed.

Hazel L. Junkin, one of the jurors who had tentatively been seated, was dismissed Tuesday after she sent Criminal Court Judge Bernie Weinman a note telling the judge she remembered that Nichopoulos had treated her sister.

Weinman called Mrs. Junkin back to the courtroom for further questioning.

"Did the name Dr. Nichopoulos ring a bell," asked James Wilson, assistant District Attorney General.

"Yes, she (her sister) only had good comments about him," Mrs. Junkin answered.

W. Rand, former president of Monsanto

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — William M. Rand, former president of Monsanto Co., died Monday at his home in Lincoln, Mass., the St. Louis-based chemical company said. He was 95.

Rand served as president of Monsanto from 1945 to 1951 and was a member of the company's board of directors for 20 years.

Rand, a former president of the Harvard Alumni Association, was a member of the U.S. track team in the 1908 Olympics in London and served as captain of the Harvard track team.

Funeral for Rand will be Thursday at the First Church in Lincoln. Rand is survived by five children.

Wallace M. Sampson, Jr., 33

WALTHAM — Wallace M. Sampson Jr., 33, of Ashfield Dr., Brockton, was pronouced dead on arrival Friday morning at the Waltham Hospital where he was taken after an automobile accident on Prospect and Bellevue Streets, Waltham.

Born in Newton, Mr. Sampson was a lifelong resident of Waltham prior to moving to Brockton five years ago. He attended Waltham schools, and was employed as a bartender at Linda May's Restaurant and Lounge, Brockton.

He leaves his wife, Patricia (Flanagan); one daughter, Laura Lee Sampson; and one son, Craig Sampson. He also leaves his parents, Walter M. and Barbara (Doherty) Sampson, Sr., of Waltham; and one brother, Stephen Sampson of Waltham.

His funeral was held this morning from the Brasco and Son Memorial, 773 Moody St., Waltham, with a Funeral Mass in St. Charles Church at 10 a.m. Interment followed at Mt. Feake Cemetery, Waltham.

Legionnaire's Disease is suspected in St. Louis

By LASZLO K. DOMJAN

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A newspaperman hospitalized in St. Louis may have contracted Legionnaires' Disease at a hotel in the Virgin Islands, health officials said Tuesday.

A tourism official at St. Croix in the Virgin Islands said the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta plans to send a staff investigator to St. Croix to determine whether a defective air-conditioning system at the hotel may have contained the disease-producing organism. But center officials said they had no plans to do so.

The newsman, George Stroud of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has been confined to Barnes Hospital since Sept. 25, three days after he came down with high fever.

"I had fever of about 104 and a general headache," Stroud said Tuesday in a telephone interview from his hospital room. "They treated me for pneumonia, but it kept getting worse."

He said penicillin had no affect on his fever. Eventually doctors switched to giving him erythromycin, an antibiotic known to have been successful in treatment of Legionnaires' Disease.

"Within 12 hours, my fever began to go down," Stroud said. "Apparently I'm pretty well on the mend now."

Stroud, 52, said he expects to be released from Barnes by the end of the week but must remain home to recover. In about two weeks, he will return to the hospital for more tests.

"They can take some blood serum tests then to determine if I had this particular type of organism responsible for Legionnaires' Disease," he said.

"The problem is they have antibody tests for only a couple of types of organisms and there are more than two types that may cause the disease."

Stroud, a copy editor at the newspaper, said he was touring the islands as a travel writer for the Post-Dispatch and spent most of the time at St. Thomas. However, he stayed one night at a hotel on St. Croix.

"They were having air conditioner trouble there and I tried to adjust the fan," he said. "I can't say which hotel it was, but I'm sure the disease control people will know the right place."

Stroud returned to St. Louis from the trip Sept. 19 and entered the hospital six days later.

Man tortures his wife's lover

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A man allegedly held his wife's lover hostage for six hours and tortured him by handcuffing him to a bed, pouring hot oil on his face and beating him with a tire iron, police said today.

Mushi Nunn, 33, was arrested and held for attempted murder of James Jacobs. Two men who were in the house during the torture were questioned by police but were not arrested.

"Officers found the victim in a chair in the dining room handcuffed to a bed," Officer Kerell Broussard said. "He had been beaten on the head with a tire iron and had burns on his left side from hot oil that was splashed on him."

Jacobs, who was conscious, also had several stab wounds in both arms.

Police went to the house after they received an anonymous tip that a man was being tortured there. Nunn was found in the kitchen with a knife in his hand.

Broussard said Jacobs apparently went to the house to tell Nunn that he was not out with his wife, Leah Nunn. However, Nunn knocked him unconscious and handcuffed him to the bed.

Jacobs told police that Nunn threatened to kill him if his wife was not home by 2 a.m. Officers arrested Nunn at 1:15 a.m.

It was not known where Mrs. Nunn was during the incident.

One of the witnesses was apprehended as he tried to flee the house and the other man was found in the residence.

She wants her child back

HOUSTON (UPI) — A 21-year-old mother who sold her infant son to a gypsy couple because she "did not want to see him on the street" has taken the new parents to court because she wants her baby back.

Patricia Skiba told a district judge she left her son, Steven Feld, with Bob and Diana Evans, whom she described as gypsies, in July because she had no money and could not keep him.

A court hearing was scheduled to determine whether the child should be returned to his mother, remain with the "gypsies" or be placed in a foster home.

Ms. Skiba, who claims to be "very close to the Lord," said when she left Florida last July she had $20 in her pocket. The former Miami Beach resident said her 3-year-old daughter was left "somewhere in Florida."

She said Mrs. Evans offered to buy the baby for $500, but deducted $150 for legal fees and $50 for counseling. She said she allowed Mrs. Evans to take the child "because I did not want to see him on the street."

A week after the sale of the baby, Ms. Skiba said she called them to get her baby back. Evans told her he would call the police if she did not leave them alone.

She said she notified the police, and a few days later the child was seized and placed in a foster home by the Harris County Child Welfare Unit.

Chicago cardinal in hospital

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cardinal John P. Cody, who has a history of heart disease and diabetes, was hospitalized today for tests described as routine by a Catholic Church spokesman.

Spokesman Peter Foote said the 73-year-old cardinal, head of the Chicago archdiocese, drove himself to Columbus Hospital on doctor's orders Sunday evening.

"There is no change in his general health," Foote said. He declined to give any details about the kinds of tests the ailing cardinal would undergo.

Cody, who was last hospitalized for routine tests June 15, was expected to be released from the hospital Tuesday evening.

Astrophysics for children

CAMBRIDGE — The Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics will present the program "Children's Night at the Observatory" on Friday, Nov. 6, featuring a lecture in astronomy designed for school-age children (adults are welcome, too) and telescopic viewing.

Dr. Joseph Patterson will present the lecture, "Exploring the Solar System: From Stonehenge to Voyager," at 7 p.m. and again at 8:15 p.m. Following each lecture, the children will be invited to use the telescopes on the observatory roof, if the weather permits.

Admission to the program is free, but seating is limited and advance tickets are required. To obtain tickets for one lecture only, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Children's Night, Public Affairs Office, Center for Astrophysics, 60 Garden St., Cambridge, Ma. 02138. Specify the lecture you wish to attend as assignments will be made for one lecture only, with a limit of four tickets per applicant. Requests will be processed by mail only.

The lecture is held in the Phillips Auditorium of the Center for Astrophysics, 60 Garden St., Cambridge, which is is located about one mile west of Harvard Square and can be easily reached by public transportation.

Program to aid persons with lung disorders

WALPOLE — A self-help program for persons with lung disease will be held Saturday, Oct. 24, at Dean Junior College, 99 Main St., Franklin, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The program, developed by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association of Walpole, teaches self-care and home care tasks, diaphragnatic and pursed lip breathing and how to exercise and pace activity. There will also be information on handling emergencies.

The program is designed for all ages. Those participating will be asked to enter the demonstrations. For reservations($5), call the lung association at 668-6729.

White backs Mann; Marquis sizzles

Urges supporters to join mayor

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Despite his repeated criticism of Mayor Theodore Mann throughout the campaign, Alderman Mark White announced his support for the mayor Friday.

In a morning press conference at Newton City Hall, White, who was knocked out of the mayoral race in the Sept. 22 preliminary, urged all his supporters to "vote and work for the mayor." Mann will face Waban Insurance Salesman Bruce Marquis in the Nov. 3 election.

White, who admitted he has been one of Mann's "staunchest critics," said that he had "serious difficulties" with Marquis' campaign and philosophy. Calling Marquis a "conservative," White said he was "philosophically closer" to Mann.

As Mann, Deputy Mayor James Hickey, and Marquis' campaign manager and several supporters looked on, White labeled the Marquis campaign a "pattern of inconsistencies and contradictions."

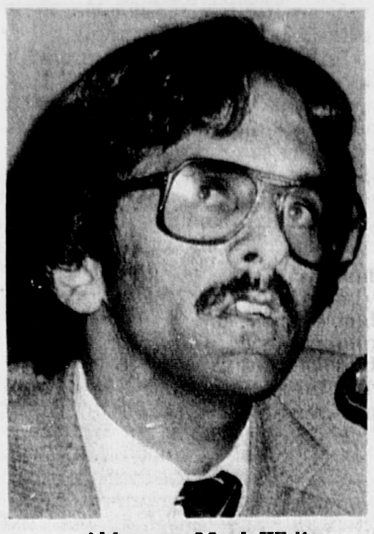

White primarily cited Marquis' call for improved services for underachievers and "back to basics" approach to education as one of the prime reasons for throwing his support to Mann.

"We don't need someone that wants to take us backwards, but forward," he asserted. "We have a vital, vibrant school system and I want to see it remain that way." White campaigned for the school system to continue providing special programs for gifted students.

"If anything pushed me to do what I am doing today, it is Bruce's position on schools," he said.

White charged that Marquis has cited public safety as a high priority, but has advocated cutting the police force. Marquis has said that the Police Department budget could stand cutting, but has also labeled public safety his number one priority. White also challenged Marquis' management experience.

In a steady unemotional voice, White said: "Mr Marquis claims to be a manager, but where is there proof of this?" Marquis is former director of corporate affiars for the National Easter Seals Society and executive director of the National Spinal Cord Foundation.

Charges a 'deal' was made

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayoral candidate Bruce Marquis Friday labeled Alderman Mark White's endorsement of Mayor Theodore Mann "humorous" and charged that the two public officials have made a "deal."

"I think it's humorous," Marquis said after learning White endorsed Mann. "Anybody that has followed this campaign closely knows how ridiculous this is."

"How could Mark foresake those issues he claimed he stands for?" asked Marquis. White, a mayoral candidate who was knocked out of the Sept. 22 preliminary, criticized Mann throughout the campaign.

"It is very clear that White is afraid of Teddy Mann and is trying to go to bed with him for whatever reasons," asserted Marquis.

The Waban Insurance Salesman accused White and Mann of making a "deal" that will ultimately result in some kind of benefit for the alderman.

"It makes no rationale sense for White to support the mayor," Marquis said.

Both White and Mann vehemently denied that a "deal" had been made.

"That's preposterous," said an angry Mann. "It would be ridiculous. This man is off the wall...It is sour grapes. The man has nothing to say. It is a cheap shot."

Mann termed the charge a "cheap remark unworthy of comment."

"No deals were made and no promises were made," snapped White. "I don't make deals. I never have and I'm not about to start now."

"All I asked for was common courtesy and access," he added.

White said he was deeply disturbed by some of Marquis' tactics and supporters. White refused to expound. The Mann endorsement appeared likely after the Sept. 22 preliminary when White personally congragulated Mann and ignored Marquis.

"Certain things happened in the campaign that left a bad taste in my mouth," explained White. "Despite all our differences, he (Mann) is closer to me than Marquis."

Candidate Bruce Marquis

Marquis contended White's endorsement of Mann will help unite the "anti-Mann faction."

Waban prof named Nobel Prize winner

Kudos

Dr. David Hubel was busy answering calls of congratulations last week after the announcement that he was one of this year's Nobel Prize winners. Pictured with him in his Waban home is his wife, Ruth.

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — "It's a little bit like lightning striking," said Dr. David Hubel reflecting on receiving this year's Nobel Prize in Medicine.

The Waban resident received word of the award at his 98 Collins Rd. home Friday morning at 7 a.m. from a Washington reporter. "I had just gotten out of the shower and was soaking wet," he said with a laugh.

Hubel, 55, a Harvard professor, was awarded the prize with his colleague, Harvard Professor Torsten Wiesel, for research on the human brain. Half of the $180,000 prize will be shared by the Harvard neurobiology team. The other half will go to Dr. Roger Sperry of the California Institute of Technology for his work on the functions of the two hemispheres of the brain.

The Canadian-born Hubel, along with Wiesel, celebrated Friday night at a party at Hubel's home which was filled with relatives, Harvard laboratory employees, and friends. The hard-working Hubel was back in his Harvard lab Saturday afternoon.

Hubel, who left for a conference in South Carolina Sunday morning, said the news has not quite set in yet.

> "I don't want to be thought of as a prize winner," he says. "I don't want people to invite me to speak because I won a prize. I want them to ask me to speak because they are interested in what I have to say."

"You have to get used to it," he said.

Although he has been proposed several times for the international honor, Hubel said he never dreamed he would win the prize. "We heard rumors of it," he explained. "We knew we had been proposed, but of course they get hundreds and hundreds of proposals and there is a lot of competition."

In a rare 22-year partnership of close study and research, Hubel and Tiesel concentrated on how the brain processes visual information allows a person to see. Hubel and Wiesel specifically traced the path of light entering the eye to specific cells in the brain and found that sight is controlled by a group of complex master cells.

Hubel said the research is a "tool to investigate what can go wrong in the visual system." The research has helped doctors make strides in the treatment and understanding of crossed eyes, cataracts and other eye conditions in children.

The first big breakthrough for the research team came in 1959 when they discovered that certain cells in the brain respond to contours and lines. The research eventually led them to discover that master cells in the brain, which are fed bits of information by simple cells that describe the color and shape of objects, form a unified image.

Hubel called his relationship with Wiesel a "Gilbert and Sullivan-type collaboration." Hubel and Wiesel became research partners when they came to Harvard Medical School in 1959. The two scholars worked many long hours together at Harvard and a Southboro research center associated with the National Institute of Health. "We'd get together at 9 a.m. and often work to 3 a.m.," recalled Hubel.

Although their work is primarily concerned with vision, Hubel said the research helps to explain other mysteries of the brain. Hubel described himself and Wiesel as "explorers rather than discoverers."

"We're interested in the brain for the same reason astronomers are interested in the universe," he explained. "It is a pale, an area still largely unexplored."

How will Hubel spend the prize money? He is not sure. However, he said that surely some of the award will go to paying back college loans for his sons and other debts. Hubel, with his wife, Ruth, has three sons: Carl,24, who is doing graduate work at the University of Colorado; Eric, 22, who is studying at Bennington College; and Paul, 17, who attends Newton North High School.

Hubel hopes people will not look at him differently because he has won the award. "I don't want to be thought of as a prize winner," he says. "I don't want people to invite me to speak because I won a prize. I want them to ask me to speak because they are interested in what I have to say."

Hubel, a McGill Medical School graduate who moved to Newton in 1958, said he is looking forward to traveling to Sweden with his family in December to accept the prize.

Students rally to keep Mass Bay College open

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

WELLESLEY - In an impressive show of force last week hundreds of students and faculty at Massachusetts Bay Community College joined together in a midday rally to protest a proposed merger with Framingham State College.

The rally coincided with the visit of a four-member Board of Regents task force who must recommend by November 1 whether the two schools should be merged.

The collective voice in the school cafeteria yesterday, with the aid of balloons, bumper stickers and buttons, said "no."

In what many have said is a prelude to the merger, the schools were placed under a $10.8 million "cluster budget" by the legislature in the FY 82 state budget. Afterwards, when $550,000 was restored to the "cluster budget," the Board of Regents gave what some say was a disproportionate share of additional monies to Framingham State.

Newton Alderman Paul Coletti, vice-chairman of the Mass Bay Board of Trustees, said he "heard from a reliable source" Wednesday that the 15-member Board of Regents had taken a positive straw vote to keep both schools open as separate entities."

"They will probably request that the schools combine administrative functions, registration and some of the purchasing in order to cut back on some of the administrative overhead costs," said Coletti, one of four trustees at the school yesterday.

Mass Bay College President John McKenzie, who was "pretty optimistic" the task force would request that the school remain open after first semester, told students that opponents of the merger would have to work to "fight a lot of misconceptions" about the college.

Dean Gerald Janey said he was "cautiously optimistic," adding that Mass Bay has had to "already adjust its existence" in order to comply with its current $3.1 million budget.

"It appears that Mass Bay is doing its part and making all the sacrifices," said Janey in regard to Framingham State College.

Under the FY 82 budget, Mass Bay was reduced $200,000 and forced to lose 28 employees resulting in the elimination of several course sections, an increase in class size and the reduction of some student services.

State Rep. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham) agreed with McKenzie in that the school would have to work to eliminate misconceptions perceived by some in the state Senate. "Because it is located in Wellesley, there is the belief that Mass Bay is an upper-middle class school," he said.

To the contrary, DeNucci noted that 69 percent of the college's day students report family incomes of less than $20,000. Of the 1,967 day students, 81 percent work either full-time or part-time.

More than 17 percent of those day students and 25 percent of the students enrolled in continuing education are either from Newton or Waltham.

People associated with Mass Bay claim that a merger with Framingham State would alienate a whole sector of students either financially, academically, or geographically.

The entire student body would be forced to sit out at least one semester if the school closed in January while freshmen would lose credit for one semester of work. Others might find that they do not possess the background to attend institutions of higher education and find their avenue blocked.

"There is no place for these kids to go," said McKenzie. "Even the students who would have gone to a four-year college may be unable to afford it."

"This income group (those with family incomes less than $20,000) often bears the brunt of sacrifices when fiscal constraints are imposed on education," lamented DeNucci.

Tuition costs per student at Mass Bay is about $1,310 compared to $1,842 at Framingham State.

DeNucci, who has been in the forefront of the issue, said: "I feel it's important to continue the funding of public higher education in Massachusetts to make sure that children of working class families are able to obtain an education they can afford."

In addition, about 80 percent of the courses offered at Mass Bay are unavailable at Framingham State making it impossible for 69 percent of the students enrolled in the two-year school to continue at Framingham State in their choice field.

McKenzie referred to this specialization as the "misconception that we have some exotic courses" offered at Mass Bay.

A third misconception, according to McKenzie, is that the college has a declining enrollment. The President, however, pointed out that since 1977 Mass Bay has had a 14 percent increase in enrollment, while turning away an average of 972 applicants yearly. The funding reduction this year forced the school to turn away 200 enrolled students.

Federal reductions in student loans, pointed out some, would also increase the number of applicants at state institutions such as Mass Bay.

Newton students have their say on Mass Bay

WELLESLEY — David Hanley, holding a Samsonite valise with a yellow balloon reading "Save Mass Bay Community College" tied to its handle, waited patiently for his turn to speak last week.

"If the school were to close, I couldn't afford to go to Framingham State," said a concerned Hanley. "Tuition is approximately 40 percent more and I would have to spend about $100 a week for transportation."

Hanley, who lives in Newton, does not have access to a car and takes the MBTA bus from the Eliot Church stop in Newton Corner to the Wellesley campus daily. For the liberal arts major and many others the shutdown of Mass Bay would force them to make many serious decisions regarding higher education.

Wendy LeBlanc, a freshman at Mass Bay and a 1981 graduate of Newton North high school, is majoring in word processing. Mass Bay, according to LeBlanc, is the only school in New England that offers the major.

"I don't know where I would go if they closed it down," she said. "I would probably have to switch my major. It would be six wasted months."

School board issues debated

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — School Committee candidates squared off Monday night for a confrontation with the challenges of the 80's as seen by parents in the Warren Junior High community.

Sponsored by the burgeoning West Side Educational Association(WSEA), a group formed last spring after the School Committee vote to close Warren, the candidates' night drew approximately 45 parents with children in Warren or its feeder schools to a private home in Auburndale.

Meeting for a second time with the WSEA were Ward 1 preliminary winners Leonard Gentile and Jonathan Brant as well as unopposed newcomers Marcia Mitchell and James Mnookin, who will fill seats vacated by Honora Kaplan and Sandra Fleishman. Ward 2 incumbent Kathy Jones publicly met her challenger, Kenneth Hartford, for the first time during this election.

Unopposed incumbents Susan Silbey, Nancy Mann and Robert Ricles also participated. School Committee Chairman Ann Berwick, running unopposed, was unable to attend the meeting.

Foremost on the minds of candidates and parents was the search for a superintendent to replace Aaron Fink. Other issues on parents' minds were the changing budgetary relationship between aldermen and the School Committee, discipline in the schools and where any further cuts in the budget would be made.

One parent asked candidates from the contested races how they would handle an additional 10 percent cut from the budget.

Hartford, who stated he has been characterized as everything from a conservative to a moderate to a liberal, responded that further cuts were not necessary if the School Committee members are "good salesmen" and "convince them (the Board of Aldermen) that public education is a good investment."

A lifelong resident of Newton, Hartford added that if a cut of the magnitude of 10 percent had to be made, he would emphasize maintaining direct service to the students, then items which work to support the classroom experience. Anything else "would be fair game," he said.

Hartford, who regularly attends School Committee meetings and works at Raytheon as a program planning manager, continued, "I don't believe that 45 percent of the (city) budget is a fixed percentage. If we can do our job correctly, we may be able to get 50 percent."

"I'm not in favor of wiping out programs," Jones, a School Committee member for nearly four years, countered.

Jones said she would not make cutbacks "across the board" because she believes that eradicated programs are difficult to reinstate.

Jones also warned that cuts made in recent years have already trimmed the school budget to "the bone."

Gentile, who soundly defeated Ward 1 challengers Jonathan Brant and David Wilbourn in the preliminary by capturing about 46 percent of the vote, said he favored an improved effort to secure more local aid for the schools.

If a 10 percent cut were necessary, Gentile said he would first make cuts in administration and then cut evenly across the board.

Brant, who defeated Wilbourn by 391 votes in the preliminary, told the group that such a cut would leave Newton with a different school system and that the cuts "just can't be done."

Addressing the issue of the superintendent search, a task which all candidates rated as of greatest significance to the future of the Newton schools, Brant spoke for many as he accented the positive.

"In the selection, the recruitment, we have an opportunity to provide a demonstration to the people who work in the schools, to parents and others that we believe in the tradition of excellence," Brant, a practicing attorney with experience in children's rights and associate professor of law at the New England School of Law, stressed.

Gentile, a former junior high and senior high teacher in the Newton schools and in Maine and current aide to Rep. Joseph DeNucci, said he was looking for a superintendent who would continue to support "the wide and varied course offerings" in the schools, who had a "strong background" in curriculum development and who could "project well to the entire community for the schools and not antagonize" any communities.

Jones, who worked for 10 years as METCO program coordinator for the Newton schools, emphasized the ability to "maintain a certain amount of accountability" as well as boost morale, encourage creativity and support in-service training.

Availability needs to be the superintendent's "first priority," she added while noting that the new superintendent should recognize what she sees as the need for different teaching styles.

In response to questions about the philosophy of a new superintendent, Jones said, "I am not as concerned about philosophy as I am with proven ability in administration."

"If you can't make that philosophy into a reality, it really doesn't mean anything," she said.

White backs mayor

paign, White, a Democrat from ward 7, criticized the Republican Mann for allowing the police force to be cut while burglaries have increased 45 percent since 1972. In addition, White criticized the mayor for delaying revaluation and thereby hurting taxpayers.

Before the campaign, White accused Mann of playing "politics" with municipal finances to build up an election year kitty so taxes would not have to be increased.

"I am not taking back any of the issues I raised in the campaign," White said. "My candidacy has raised some crucial issues. What I am saying is that I am closer to the mayor than Bruce Marquis."

When questioned on his criticism of Mann, White said: "There is no question that I have has disagreements with the mayor. If you take a look at the issues most of them have to do with method and not issues." White said he disagreed with Mann's "methods and techniques, but not goals."

White labeled Marquis camapign a successful effort in "moving to the right to pick up conservative votes."

As White finished receiving questions from the press, a confident Mann strongly shook his hand. "Thank you very much for doing this," he told White. "I appreciate it."

Mann, however, admitted that White's criticisms or input has had no effect on municipal policy or campaign strategy. "I am very happy to have Mr. White's endorsement," explained Mann. "He has articulated issues and created a climate for open discussion."

"This administration is able to take criticism and build from that criticism to improve," Mann said. "This is a government that is open." In an indirect jab at Marquis lack of government experience, Mann said that White was "not a johhny come lately to the scene."

White said he will publicly speak and campaign for Mann at the request of the mayor. After the press conference, White met with Mann in the third floor mayor's office for nearly 30 minutes.

With the addition of the White endorsement, Mann has garnered the public support of six aldermen in his re-election bid.

Marquis, who was counting on endorsements from four or five board members has failed to gain the backing of any aldermen to date.

Aldermen now in the Mann camp include Lisle Baker, Rodney Barker, Carol Ann Shea, Ethel Sheehan and Robert Tennant.

'Deal' with Mann charged

"Mark repeatedly whacked the mayor for his lack of leadership and courage," Marquis continued. "I think it's pretty clear now who lacks the leadership and courage."

Marquis also charged that the mayor is using his power to avoid a debate. Marquis and Mann have not squared off in a formal debate since the preliminary. The two candidate's have appeared together at Newton South High School.

Mann called the charge "ridiculous." Mann also emphasized that he is scheduled to debate Marquis before the Chamber of Commerce.

"I am busy running the city of Newton," Mann said. "This is a $100 million a year business."

Newton police reports

Two exposures reported

NEWTON — Police received reports of two persons exposing themselves Wednesday, although the incidents appear to be unrelated.

While walking in the vicinity of St. Bernard's Church in West Newton around 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, a woman told police a white male in a brown pickup truck exposed himself to her.

She described the suspect as approximately 180 pounds, heavy build, with short brown hair and wearing a red plaid shirt. Police said the woman approached the truck after the man asked her for directions.

Tuesday night police received a report of an exposure on Mt. Ida St. The woman encountered the suspect around 7:30 p.m. while walking up Centre St. to Mt. Ida St.

The suspect is described as a white male in his twenties, approximately 6 feet tall with dark medium length hair.

Thieves, vandals hit cars

NEWTON — Two Tirrell Circle residents alerted police Wednesday to someone siphoning gas from their cars.

Police also received a report of the theft of a "T" top roof from a car parked in the 2100 block of Washington St. sometime early Wednesday. Both the driver and the passenger side windows were smashed.

Tools valued at $300 were stolen early Wednesday from a Westland Ave. resident whose car was parked in his driveway. Police said the trunk was mysteriously entered since there was no evidence of a forced break-in.

Candidates to appear in Highlands

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — A candidates' night for the contested seats for alderman-at-large and Ward 6 alderman will be held Thursday, Oct. 15, at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church parish hall.

The event is sponsored by the Newton Highlands Neighborhood Area Council.

Students speak out

Bay, noted that "middle class families can't afford to send three or four kids to private institutions."

Whalen, a Newton resident, also spoke of the "family" atmosphere at Mass Bay, a quality that would be lost with a merger of the two schools.

"There is no where else to go within the price range," said Bob Billings, a graduate of Newton North. "I would probably have to work a few more years unless I could get some financial aid."

Paul Rufo, a sophomore, said if they closed Mass Bay, he and his friends "would be up a creek without a paddle."

Rufo, who graduated from Newton North, noted that if students were told in November that school would close at the end of first semester, he "would have to take the whole year over again."

Ann Marie Jannoni of Waltham thought the facilties at Framingham State would be inadequate to take care of the additional students.

"If the school closes it means that freshmen are left with one semester and they will be unable to transfer anywhere else by the time we find out about the closing," Jannoni said. "For the sophomores, no other school will accept you for just one semester."

"This leaves 1,900 students with no where to go for second semester," she added. "There is no feasible reason to close Mass Bay."

Virginia Platt, a Waltham mother of three teen-age children, is in the business transfer program. "If Mass Bay closes, I would lose a half-year of work here," she said.

"A community college education gives a chance for people who would otherwise be unable to attend a regular four-year institution right away," said Platt. "It prepares us to either continue our education at another school or to obtain a decent job."

"This is our second chance to do something with our lives," she stated.

Lyn Pasquarosa, a freshman liberal arts major, is paying her own way through school and would find it difficult to pay off a loan to a four-year private institution.

"I hope people understand that we're really behind the school," said Pasquarosa, a 1981 graduate of Newton North. "We believe in this school."

Community Center earns $48,962 grant

NEWTON — Anthony J. Bibbo, executive director of the Newton Community Service Centers (NCSC) Inc. has announced the receipt of a grant award fork $48,962 for the continuation of the Newton, Wellesley, Weston Retired Seniors Volunteer Program through Action.

Bibbo pointed out that the program has provided volunteer opportunities for over 2500 individuals since its inception in 1973. It has been a model activity and demonstration of outstanding joint community participation of Newton, Wellesley and Weston.

This year's program will serve more than 650 elders through service to 75 non-profit agencies. Under the direction of Barbara Ireland, the area-wide program serves Newton, Wellesley, and Weston. In addition to the $48,962 granted through Action, an additional $27,481 is raised through the local communities.

Under the administration of the NCSC, RSVP has enabled older persons to utilize their time, experience, and skills to serve their own communities. The variety of opportunities available includes assignments in hospitals, schools, municipal agencies, nursing homes and social service organizations.

RSVP also sponsors educational courses and discussion groups as well as programs for housebound and handicapped elderly.

City Hall needs custodian

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A city union chief is battling for additional custodial help at City Hall.

Murdoch Fraser, president of local 3092, told aldermen last week that the city needs an additional custodian to service the building.

"In order to maintain seven day coverage and a clean building, I think there is a need for an extra custodian," Fraser asserted. "With winter coming on, it (City Hall) is going to look like hell in no time."

In the wake of an authorization by Mayor Theodore Mann for custodial overtime to cover the building seven days, Fraser has agreed to hold off on the request. Mann okayed the use of overtime for custodial help a week ago Tuesday afternoon.

After the aldermanic Public Facilities meeting, Fraser said he wants "proof" that a five man crew can handle the cleanup of the building.

One of the custodians that services the building has been out since January because of a work related injury. The custodian is taking his case to the City Retirement Board.

Building Commissioner Allan Fraser told aldermen that "mathematically" a five man crew can handle the City Hall coverage. He argued that an additional custodian should not be hired. Both the building commissioner and union chief agreed that five man coverage has not been tested.

The dispute comes after a heated debate on the staffing during budget hearings earlier this year. As a result of cutbacks from Proposition 2½, the custodial crew for City Hall was cut from seven to five custodians this year.

Several aldermen argued during the budget hearings that the staffing was inadequate and city officials would be back for additional funds.

Aldermen agreed earlier this year not to provide an alarm system for City Hall after administration officials informed them that five men could handle coverage of the building seven days doubling as a security measure.

As a result of a request by union officials for a scheduling change, City Hall was not covered on weekends during much of the summer. The lack of coverage on weekends was also the result of a custodians taking vacation and sick leave. The building commissioner said union officials requested a three shift, five day work week.

"I did not want the building closed on Saturday or Sunday," said the union chief. "It was only done after I went out of the city...We are going to have sickness time and time again."

The union head also emphasized that the crew is vulnerable to sickness because of their ages. "It's an old crew," he said. "The average age is 55 to 57 years old."

The building commissioner said that theoretically five men can cover the building. However, he emphasized that the coverage would involve a "difficult scheduling situation" which custodians believe is unfair.

He added: "The issue is that they (union officials and custodians) want the status quo and under (Proposition) 2½ we can't give them what they want."

Alderman Paul Coletti noted that it may be more cost effective to pay another man than the overtime. The building commissioner said he has not determined overtime costs for maintaining coverage at City Hall.

Ax elsewhere

Hundreds of students from Newton, Waltham and other area communities rallied to save their school - Mass Bay Community College - last week.

Unlike campus gatherings of decades past where students addressed the Vietnam War and other political issues of worldwide importance, this rally had more to do with the pocketbook and practical matters much closer to home.

The state college Board of Regents has been toying with the idea of closing the school, merging it with Framingham State College, in a cost-cutting move.

November 1 is the deadline date.

But in these days of statewide spending cuts, skyrocketing costs for attending college and thin wallets all around such a move would be a gross injustice.

Colleges like Mass Bay, which offer practical course lists at an affordable rate are becoming a rarity.

Records show that almost 70 percent of day students enrolled at Mass Bay report family incomes of less than $20,000 per year. Of the 1967 day students at the college over 80 percent work either full or parttime.

In these hard economic times it can be assumed few work simply for beer money.

As State Rep. Joe DeNucci, who represents Newton and Waltham on Beacon Hill said at the rally, "This income group often bears the brunt of sacrifices when fiscal constraints are imposed on education."

Any parent in a middle-income bracket who has shuddered at the arrival of the semester's tuition bill knows DeNucci speaks the gospel on this one.

Mass Bay has a steady enrollment, a unique course offering and a respectable reputation. For some students who want a decent college education it is also the only reasonable option.

If the state wants to save money it should look somewhere else.

Energy savings

Now comes the heating season, with more frequent trips for oil delivery or natural gas price advances squeezing the household budget. You are missing a good bet to ease the burden somewhat if you haven't taken advantage of the energy audit opportunity offered by MASS-SAVE, Inc.

This is the consumer assistance organization put together a year ago last month to provide householders with conservation guidance. Fifty-two utilities underwrote the project. For $10 you get a thorough check of the heating system and dwelling to determine how fuel consumption can be cut.

MASS-SAVE has been a great success. That's for sure. Through its first six months, ending in June, the total number of audits had come close to 20 thousand and nearly twice that number of requests were backlogged, according to the sponsor review. A random survey showed 90 percent intending to take fuel reduction steps, with an estimated $825 average investment.

An interesting spinoff could be seen in the business generated for contractors and installers. In the first three months alone, the estimate for this was more than $1 million. Good for the economy and good for the consumer.

Opinions

Graphically speaking

Sober thoughts, wooden greetings

News, notes and a bit of nonsense

Word around town is that the senior citizens' cookout sponsored by the Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association was a roaring success. In a letter of thanks to folks from committee chairman Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini he notes "we had one helluva time."

"I doubt if any of our elders left the park unhappy," he wrote. "And not all of them left sober.'"

Seems that some 2,000 area senior citizens showed up for the affair and as Pellegrini noted, "To see an event such as this would do your heart good."

Pellegrini and recording secretary John Webber wrot the letter to friends and supporters to thank everybody who helped for their great work but it seems "Fat" and John should receive some kudos for a job well done. Sometimes on your birthday you just can't win.

BIRTHDAY BOYS

In this month's copy of "The Service Gear," the newsletter of the Newton Rotary Club, congratulations got go out to members who are celebrating their birthdays in the month of October.

"Graphically speaking" would like to join in wishing well to Rotarians Carl Bartel, Art Griffin, Ben Evans, Bob Keyho and Tom Keery.

But there's always a catch with those Rotarians, doers of good deeds and masterminds of civic service.

You see, when a Rotarian celebrates his birthday the club treasurer comes around looking for a contribution

You pay to celebrate.

The good thing about treasurer Bob Burkhardt's task is that the money donated by members goes to support the many public service projects sponsored by the club.

So pay up fellows.

A LITTLE KINDNESS

On a more serious note we received a request from the Massachusetts Association for the Blind and it certainly is an honorable cause.

It seems a blind Newton man, who works in the field of social service, needs volunteer help to read workrelated materials and magazines.

The group is asking anyone who can share a little time to call Debby King at the Association for the Blind at 738-5110.

WOODEN GREETINGS

In the newspaper biz you tend to see just about every imaginable type of press release.

But this week The Graphic received one they're still talking about down at the post office.

The Green Company of West Harwich is holding an opening tour of furnished models of The Gables on Dedham Street in Newton and they sent out appropriate announcements to the press this week.

The news of the opening was neatly printed on a 16-inch-long piece of cedar shingle. Not a cardboard copy of a shingle, mind you. A genuine, sweet-smelling rough wood cedar shingle.

The award presentation at the event is cosponsored by the American Wood Council (what do you mean you didn't know there was such a thing?) so the "press release" is even more appropriate.

We just can't imagine what the printer said when a guy drove up with a truckload of shingles to be run through the presses.

NOT SO BAD

In the "so you thought you had it bad" column this week we find a bit of rather astute observation in the most recent issue of the Newton South High newspaper, "Denebola."

In her "Frosh" column writer Pam Modell says that for freshmen, the first days are by far the hardest when trying to get used to a new school.

But it could be worse, she notes.

"All we have to do is survive three more years of senior power," Pam writes. "But for now let's be grateful we're not seniors. After all they have to ask the question 'WHO am I?'. All we have to figure out is 'WHERE am I?'"

Don't worry kids. It'll get better. That is, until you're seniors and it gets worse.

STAY TUNED

That's it for now but next week Graphically speaking again looks at some of those things in the Newton looking glass.

Until then, Your Ob'd Servant

In death, he looms larger than life

By Joseph Kraft

The odds are that the world now mourns a prophet who will not be honored in his own land.

Anwar Sadat

WASHINGTON — Sadat possessed in abundance the capacity for constructive achievement on a grand scale. But his genius was latent when he held secondary posts, and even when he was the Raif, or supreme leader, his bolder strokes were first dismissed and then resisted. It is only in death that he looms larger than life.

Years ago, he told me the story of his role in the plot that, back in 1952, unseated the monarchy and brought to power the Free Officers Association, led by Gamal Abdul Nasser. Sadat was stationed in el Arish in the Gaza Strip when word came action was imminent. He hopped into his car and drove all night to Cairo.

On arrival he was told the coup had been postponed. He went to a movie and fell asleep. When he returned home, he learned the blow had been struck and that he was urgently wanted at headquarters. Still it took him several hours to get through. He had forgotten the password.

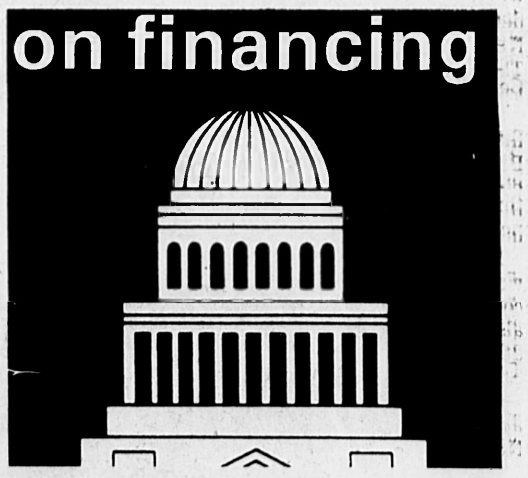

At the time I took that tale for an explanation of the disdain for Sadat shown by more junior officers when he served as number two to Col. Nasser. Later I saw a deeper meaning. The qualities that seemed almost clownish before — a furious quest for distant goals, a taste for high drama, inattention to detail, and a disposition to talk endlessly about himself — became the staff of heroic stature after Sadat assumed full power.

In retrospect, Sadat's method emerges with clarity. He was one of the few who both discerned fundamental national purposes and dared to take the steps necessary to their achievement. From the beginning his purpose was recovery of the Egyptian territory lost to Israel in the 1967 war. He understood that only the U.S. could make Israel disgorge. Also that he would have to cut ties with Russia, and part company with the Arab radicals for whom Moscow played lawyer. Though he moved steadily in that direction, boldness and drama made his actions seem to come out of the blue, and they were systematically mistrusted.

Supple statesmanship may still redeem the loss. Hosni Mubarak, Sadat's vice president and designated successor, is not less promising than Sadat when he took over. Like France in Europe, and China in Asia, Egypt in the Arab world is a middle kingdom. Without her, all bets are off. With her, all things are possible.

Still the gross fact is that destructive forces — already rampant in Iraq and Iran and Libya and threatening elsewhere in North Africa and on the Arabian Peninsula — have struck a death blow in Cairo. The odds are that the world now mourns a prophet who will not be honored in his own land.

How your rep voted on election financing

THE HOUSE: "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on four key roll calls from the week of September 28 - October 2.

CAMPAIGN FINANCING (H 6851): House rejected 88-63, an amendment to a bill reforming the state's campaign financing laws. The amendment allows Massachusetts taxpayers to contribute $2 each from their annual taxes for public financing of statewide political campaigns. This "check off" system would replace the current "add on" system under which taxpayers can contribute $1 to the fund, but the dollar is added to their tax payment. Amendment supporters argued increased public financing of stateide elections is a step toward cleaning up corruption and stopping the influence of large contributors on elected officials. They claimed the "check off" system, based on the federal one, will result in more money for public financing. Opponents said the public should not have to finance campaigns with hard-earned tax dollars. Many noted the system would cost millions in tax dollars, and could result in increased taxes or cuts in other programs. (A "yes" vote is for the amendment.) Rep. Salvatore Ciccarelli (Watertown) - no; Rep. David B. Cohen (Newton) - yes; Rep. Joseph DeNucci (Waltham, Newton) - no; Rep. Susan Schur (D-Weston) - yes; Rep. Royall Switzler (R-Weston) - no; Rep. Peter Trombley (Waltham) - no.

STUDENT TRUSTEES (H 7129): House refused, 140-3, to reconsider its earlier approval of a bill providing for student representation on public higher education boards of trustees. Supporters of the bill argued student representation on boards is long overdue and claimed it be beneficial for the system. Opponents said students have other avenues to express their opinions and said representation on the boards are not necessary. (A "Yes" vote is for reconsidering passage of the bill. A "No" vote is for leaving the bill passed.) Rep. Ciccarelli - no; Rep. D.B.Cohen - no; Rep. DeNucci - no; Rep. Schur - no; Rep. Switzler - yes; Rep. Trombley - no.

HOSPITALS (H 7185): House rejected 96-50, an amendment to a bill imposing a one year cap on hospital charge increases. The amendment requires that the public have access to future negotiations between non-profit hospital service corporations and regional hospital councils and their member hospitals. Supporters argued the process should be open to the public which pays for things like Blue Cross Blue Shield, and warned that without the amendment, there is no guarantee of an open process. Opponents said the major purpose of the bill was to cap hospital charge increases, and claimed it was foolhardy to jeopardize the bill's passage by tacking on controversial amendments at this late time. (A "Yes" vote is for the amendment.) Rep. Ciccarelli - no; Rep. Cohen - yes; Rep. DeNucci - no; Rep. Schur - present; Rep. Switzler - yes; Rep. Trombley - no.

VETO (H 6969): House overrode 128-23, Governor King's veto of a fiscal 1982 budget section repealing the Cushing-Westborough Hospital merger. Supporters of repealing the merger, noting Cushing is a geriatric hospital and Westborough a psychiatric one, argued the two facilities should not have merged in 1980. Opponents of repealing the merger said repeal could jeopardize increased federal revenue that was gained last year. They said continued planning within the consolidated structure can result in better service to clients at both facilities. (A "Yes" vote is for repealing the merger. A "No" vote is for leaving the merger intact.) Rep. Ciccarelli - yes; Rep. Cohen - yes; Rep. DeNucci - yes; Rep. Schur - yes; Rep. Switzler - no; Rep. Trombley - yes.

THE SENATE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on two key roll calls from the week of September 28 - October 2.

MIDWIVERY (S 2185): Senate overrode 33-2, Governor King's veto of a bill allowing the Department of Public Health to license midwivery (birthing) centers as separate freestanding clinics. Currently, birthing centers are required to be "physically affiliated" with hospitals. Supporters argued the bill was the first step toward establishing a few midwivery centers around the state, and would give people an alternative to choose to use one at what may be a substantially less cost than at a hospital. They noted the measure still requires quality standards and the presence of a doctor. Opponents said there was no need to locate these centers away from hospitals. They claimed it could result in a dangerous situation where the medical facilities and staff of a fully-equipped hospital are needed and are not available. (A "Yes" vote is for the bill.) Sen. Carol Amick - yes; Sen. George Bachrach - yes; Sen. Frank Backman - yes.

BOTTLE BILL (H 5180): Senate rejected on a 16-16 tie vote, an amendment to the bottle bill — requiring deposits on beer and carbonated beverage containers. The amendment applies to small retailers with one or two stores and states that they "may" accept return bottles during "business hours." This differs from other retailers, who according to the bill "shall" accept return bottles during "all business hours." Supporters argued the amendment would help small retailers by giving them flexibility as to when they will accept returns. They said without the amendment, small one-clerk operations could run into sanitary and safety problems if they were required to accept returns all day and night. Many opponents said it was not the time to tak on all kinds of exemptions to the bill. They urged passage of the measure without amendments, and said the problems of small retailers could be studied after the bill is in effect. (A "Yes" vote is for the ammendment.) Sen. Amick - no vote; Backrach - no; Sen. Backman - no. Sen. Timilty - not present.

Letter to the editor

A sound suggestion

To the Editor:

As a Newton senior citizen, I recently had occasion to visit the new Newton Corner Drop-In Center and was very favorably impressed with their program and the coordinator, Mrs. Barbara Burns.

Her gracious and efficent manner and her excellent clear speech is so important to those of us over 65 since at least half of us have have varying degrees of hearing problems.

If only the acoustics there could be improved! Good acoustics are as important to the elderly population as are ramps for the orthopedically handicapped. In fact, by a federal ruling, they are equally mandated in public buildings.

If to lower the ceiling with acoustic tiles is beyond this small center's budget, perhaps some community-minded group or individual would be willing to underwrite this needed expense.

"Camelot" comes to BC end of this month

CHESTNUT HILL — Actor-singer Gordon MacRae will trade in his western hat for a monarch's crown when he stars in the Boston College Dramatics Society production of "Camelot," which will inaugurate the university's new $4.2-million Theatre Arts Center in a gala performance on Oct. 30.

Famous for his portrayal of the cowboy Curley in the movie "Oklahoma!" MacRae will play King Arthur with a cast of Boston College students and alumni in "Camelot" on Oct. 28, 30, and 31. It will be his first appearance in the role.

The Lerner and Loewe musical will be one of three offerings of Theaterfest '81, a two-week Thespian celebration, form Oct. 26 to Nov. 7, surrounding the theater's debut.

Theaterfest '81 is open to the public. For tickets and information, write Boston College Theater Arts Center, Chestnut Hill, 02167, or telephone 964-5310.

Located on the Boston side of the 110-acre campus, which extends into suburban Chestnut Hill, it is the first playhouse to be built in the city since the downtown Metropolitan Theater was completed in 1925.

Actor Eamon Morrissey of Dublin's Abbey Theater will give the New England premiere performance of his one-man show "Joycemen," in which he portrays James Joyce and characters encountered by Leopold Bloom on his odyssey through Dublin in Joyce's "Ulysses." Tim McDonough of Boston-based Theater Works will appear in a new avant-garde play, "Me and My Shadow." Adapted from a John Barth short story, the experimental play involves incompatible Siamese twins who fall in love with a contortionist on the vaudeville circuit.

Piano recital is planned Sunday

NEWTON — On Sun., Oct. 18, at 4, Margaret Bachelder, Deborah Ingram and Alys Terrien-Queen will give a recital of music for piano ensemble at the All Newton Music School, 321 Chestnut St., West Newton. The program will include: Ma Mere L'Oye by Maurice Ravel, Variations on a Theme of Hayden, Op. 56B by Johannes Brahms, Characteristic Allegro in a minor, Op. 144 by Franz Schubert and Souvenirs, Op. 28 by Samuel Barber.

Steven Branfman to give pottery demonstration

NEWTON HIGHLANDS—Steven Branfman will present a pottery lecture and demonstration at a meeting of the Newton Art Association on Thurs., Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands.

The public is invited to join members in viewing slides of Branfman's work and watching him demonstrate various pottery throwing techniques. Charge for non-members is $2.

Branfman, who teaches and works at The Potter's Shop, Lincoln Street, Newton Highlands, is also a full time teacher of pottery, design and photography at Thayer Academy in Braintree.

Branfman majored in sculpture at Cortland State University in New York and received a master's degree from the Rhode Island School of Design in pottery and in teaching. After graduation he moved to Newton. The Potter's Shop is an outgrowth of a small studio he started about seven years ago. He has exhibited at the AAK Gallery in Cambridge, Il Grifo's, Boston, and Surroundings Gallery in New York City. He is a member of the Masssachusetts Association for the Crafts.

Beatrice Hurwitz, chairman, announces the opening of the Newton Arts Association fall exhibit Dec. 3 at Boston City Hall Main Gallery, with an invitational reception from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. All paintings must be submitted by Dec. 1. For further information call 332-3515 or 894-4055.

'Awareness' is key to fire safety

NEWTON — To be aware of the potential of fire is as important as knowing how to react when fire strikes.

"Awareness," is the key, said Chief Edward Reilly of National Fire Prevention Week last week. "The big national push this year is that people know at least two ways out of their homes and, once out of the house, they do not go back inside."

In coordination with National Fire Prevention Week, the Newton Fire Department opened all its fire stations last week for residents. In addition, the department is setting up a fire-prevention board featuring assorted smoke detectors in the city's busy shopping areas.

"It's a reminder," said Reilly of Fire Prevention Week. "You should be concerned about fire protection every day, not just this week."

In a release available at the stations, Reilly alerts residents to the dangers of storing combustible materials in containers; dirty or unkempt oil burners and chimneys; and smoke detectors without live batteries.

Knowing where at least two exits are in the home and practicing exit drills is of the utmost importance, noted Reilly.

Additional information available to residents includes a run-down of the proper procedure to be followed in case of a home fire and a listing of the types of extinguishes available.

However, "the most important step," adds Reilly, "is to sound the fire alarm system so that all employees on duty and the local fire department will be alerted and respond to the location immediately."

Let's hear it.

Handicapped offered new swimming program

NEWTON — The Massachusetts Easter Seal Society will conduct a therapeutic swim program at the Newton North High School for physically handicapped children and teenagers.

The program will begin on Sun., Oct. 25, from 4:15-5, and run for eight weeks. It will be offered free of charge to the physically disabled.

Easter Seal swim programs are supervised by a qualified instructor with trained volunteers providing individual assistance in the water. Insstruction is geared to meet the needs and abilities of the individual.

The focus of the program will be on confidence in the water and swimming skills. Older participants will set their own pace and goals with assistance from the instructor. Emphasis will always be on the swimmer's ability, not his disability.

Applications and further information may be obtained by contacting Cheryl Lloyd at the Greater Boston Easter Seal office, 934 Statler Office Building, Boston 02116, or by calling 482-3370.

Volunteers are also needed to work on a one-to-one basis with the swimmers. Interested people should contact the Easter Seal office. A brief training session is required.

Mt. Ida expands.

NEWTON — On Sept. 23 groundbreaking for the conversion of the present riding arena to the new Learning Resources Center took place at Mount Ida Junior College in Newton.

The Learning Resources Center is scheduled for completion in 1983 and will take the place of the present library facility.

The chief objective of the Learning Resources program at the college is to integrate the library and media materials with the college's instructional program and activities.

When completed, in addition to books, the center will house media production facilities for the production of slide and video sound presentations for instructional use; sound rooms for recording sound tapes; facilities for production for graphic arts; a special room for the college's art history slide collection with viewing facilities for instructors' use; a children's literature room; and a large viewing classroom with a seating capacity for 60 people specifically designed for film viewing.

Initially there will be space for 50 thousand books which is 20 thousand more than the present capacity of the college's Hallden Library. The final plans for the center include the addition of a balcony which will bring the total capacity to 90 thousand volumes.

The Learning Resources Center will be a major addition to the academic complex of buildings at the college.

An ironic lesson for class focusing on terrorism

By Gladys Damon
Correspondent

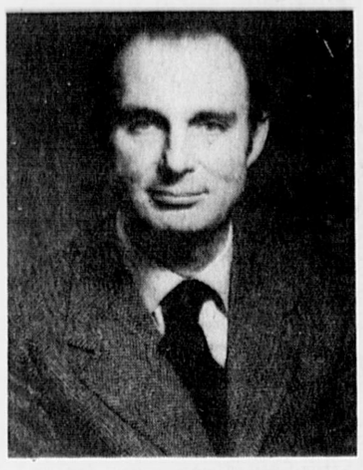

When the students enrolled in Prof. Ernst Halperin's study group on the nature of terrorism and urban guerrilla warfare at the Institute of Politics of the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard, they had no clue that the opening session would occur on the same day as the assassination of President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt.

But for the Swiss-born professor, a former journalist for the European press and now a Brookline resident and Boston University professor, it was an opportunity to define terms and clarify semantics. The students, an internatıcnal mix, come from countries that are familiar with both forms of violence. They are from South Africa, Canada, the Philippines, Israel, South Africa and the Soviet Union, to name a few.

"What is assassination? Attacks on innocent civilians? Hijacking of airplanes? Is it terrorism or urban guerrilla warfare? It is often difficult to differentiate between the two. Your opponent has to be psychologically vulnerable. How does today's event fit these definitions?"

"Terrorism is a form of propaganda. It makes a statement. It is as old as mankind. One of the first recorded examples was the murder of Abel by his brother, Cain." Another example cited was the national hero of Halperin's native Switzerland, William Tell, whose legend has become a positive symbol of protest and whose face appears on Swiss currency.

During the Russian Revolution, Prince Peter Kropotkin said, "One act of protest is worth a thousand pamphlets." But today's terrorist may be another man's freedom fighter. Terrorism is propaganda by deed, an acting-out of a preconceived political policy.

Prof. Ernst Halperin

Halperin cited contemporary exemplars of both forms of violence, such as Che Guevara, the Tupumaros of Uruguay, the Croats, the PLO, the FLNP of the Puerto Rican independence movement who have all conducted urban guerrilla warfare against innocent civilians. Some of their techniques included kidnapping, murder and bank robberies. Also mentioned was the rape and murder of the four Maryknoll nuns in El Salvador, allegedly perpetrated by the military.

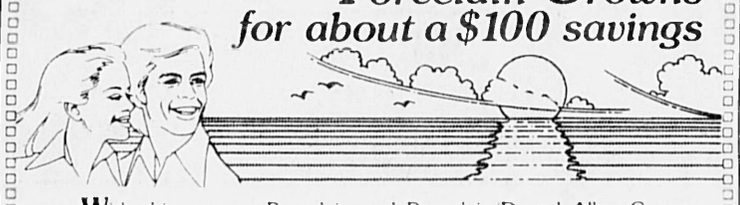

Commenting on the assassination of Sadat, Halperin said, "We don't have all the facts yet. It is claimed that it was done by a group connected with the army's chief of staff whom Sadat had fired recently."

Shawmut's new Tax-Saver Certificate spelled out in black and white and green.

Our new Tax-Saver Certificate: a 1-Year Certificate that you've undoubtedly seen advertised as the "All Savers" certificate. At Shawmut, it's called the Tax-Saver because we believe that "All Savers" may not be for all savers. Here are the facts:

Tax-Exempt Earnings.

Our Tax-Saver Certificate can earn up to $1,000 in interest free of Federal taxes; up to $2,000 if you file a joint return. Interest on most money market funds is completely taxable. Depending on your tax bracket, you might have to find another investment that paid up to twice the interest on our Tax-Saver Certificate to receive the same yield after Federal taxes. (See chart.)

Tax-Saver's Worksheet.

At Shawmut you'll find an exclusive Tax-Saver's Worksheet. With our worksheet you can easily determine if our new certificate is right for you. You will also be able to figure out just how much you should deposit to obtain the maximum tax benefit.

Small Investment, Big Return.

The minimum deposit for Shawmut's Tax-Saver Certificate is only $500. Your deposit yields the maximum amount of interest we're allowed to offer. And, you have the security of knowing your Tax-Saver Certificate is insured by the FDIC, unlike money market funds.

No Conversion Penalty.

If you now have a Shawmut Six-Month Money Market Certificate, you can transfer your funds into our Tax-Saver Certificate without penalties for early withdrawal.

16 Gifts.

Right now, when you open a Shawmut Tax-Saver Certificate, you can choose from 16 fine gifts including Kodak cameras, Soundesign radios, and Magnavox televisions. Free or at great discounts.

Come See Us.

Visit your nearest Shawmut office today and pick up your Tax-Saver's Worksheet. Our Personal Bankers are ready and willing to help if you decide that our Tax-Saver Certificate is your best investment.

CURRENT FIGURES

	If your 1982 Federal taxable income will be:	$15,000	$25,000	$40,000	$50,000	$60,000
Joint Return	Your marginal tax bracket probably will be:	19%	29%	39%	44%	49%
	The taxable equivalent yield of a Tax-Saver Certificate will be:	14.99%	17.10%	19.90%	21.68%	23.80%
Individual Return	Your marginal tax bracket probably will be:	27%	35%	44%	50%	50%
	The taxable equivalent yield of a Tax-Saver Certificate will be:	16.63%	18.68%	21.68%	24.28%	24.28%

Important Information:

1) Substantial penalty and loss of tax-exemption for early withdrawal.
2) Federal taxable income is the net amount subject to Federal income tax after deductions and exemptions.
3) Taxable equivalent yield is the taxable yield you would have to receive to net the same amount of interest after Federal income taxes.
4) Taxable equivalent yields quoted above based on current Tax-Saver simple interest rate of 11.513% posted monthly for an annual yield of 12.14%. These rates are good until November 1, 1981. If a depositor elects to withdraw interest on a periodic basis prior to maturity, the effective yield to the depositor of the Tax-Saver Certificate will be lowered.

AG says tickets not deductible

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — A spokesman for the Attorney General's Office Wednesday said that the $100 raffle tickets being sold by the Newton Kiwanis Charitable Foundation in a drawing for a $64,000 home are not tax-deductible.

The Kiwanis are currently selling the raffle tickets in a fund raising effort to aid underprivileged children.

"These tickets do not count as a tax-deduction," said Frank Fallacci, a public information officer for the Attorney General's Office. "The large portion of the money goes to the developer; not the charitable organization."

Fallacci said the Attorney General's office may possibly outlaw the house raffles in the near future.

He said that the Newton Kiwanis raffle is one of six that the office is investigating to assure that state gambling laws are not violated.

He pointed out that the "substantial amount of money" involved in the raffles could attract those interested in a quick money making scheme at the public's expense. He stressed that the Attorney General does not want a charitable organization to end up the loser in the raffles.

The Newton Kiwanis fundraising effort, one of the largest ever in New England, could net the organization dedicated to aiding underprivileged children $40,000.

A recent raffle for a Falmouth home has ended up in court with a number of suits and countersuits. In addition, the Attorney General's Office forced revisions in a raffle for a Milford home. The Milford home was raffled off Sept. 30 after the regional hospital conducting the drawing informed ticket holders that the tickets were not tax-deductible.

Fallacci said the Attorney's General Office has received a wave of calls from citizens interested in starting raffles for homes. He estimated that the agency is receiving 12 calls a day and the number is growing.

With soaring interest rates and high costs of purchasing homes, the Attorney General's Office is concerned that developers may use the raffles as a means of selling houses that either have problems or could not be sold otherwise.

Recreation notes

Phobia Group meets Oct. 15

NEWTON — The fall meeting of the Boston Phobia Group is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 15, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Ellison-Pratt Building.

Speaker for the evening is Dr. Carel Englender, a family practitioner who is medical director of the Whole Health Associates in Watertown. A graduate of Northwestern Medical School, Dr. Englender's work focuses on health promotion, specifically the effects of nutrition, exercise and stress on health and the interrelationship between the physical, emotional and spiritual aspects of life.

The Boston Phobia Group is a self-help group, primarily for those who have agoraphobia. According to Dr. Gilbert Kotzen, a Newton-Wellesley Hospital Psychologist, agoraphobia is a much publicized but little understood problem. Mislabeled "the housewife's disease," it actually affects men as well as women. Literally meaning "fear of the marketplace" in Greek, agoraphobia is a fear of experiencing severe anxiety in a situation which is perceived as entrapping or threatening.

For those with agoraphobia, attending church, dining in a restaurant, flying, shopping in open malls or going to movies are all typical situations which can trigger anxiety attacks. Symptoms of such attacks may include lightheadedness, palpitations and the fear of losing control.

Members of the Boston Phobia Group provide a telephone support network for each other. They also visit each other and often take field trips together.

The Oct. 15 meeting of the group is free of charge and open to the public.

Anyone who thinks they may have agoraphobia, or who knows someone who may benefit from learning more about it, is encouraged to attend.

For more information, write to P. O. Box 278, Newton Centre 02139.

Cancer Soc. programs

WORCESTER — The American Cancer Society's statewide Road to Recovery Program was kicked off on Sept. 23 at the Sheraton-Lincoln in Worcester during the society's annual unit leadership seminar.

Kay O'Connell of Newton and Betty Wallace of Wellesley, co-chairwomen of the program for the Cancer Society's Newton/Wellesley Unit, were among the approximately 80 volunteer leaders from throughout the state who attended the meeting.

"There are many persons in the Newton and Wellesley communities who need transportation to and from medical facilities for cancer treatments," O'Connell said. "Through the cancer society's road to recovery, we are trying to provide them with volunteers who can drive patients to a possible cure."

Wallace noted that the unit needs persons who can spare as little as one morning or afternoon a month to drive patients to treatment centers.

"We work within your schedule," Wallace said. "You can tell us what times are best for you, whether it's once a month or twice a week."

She explained that patients are treated with radiation therapy, chemotherapy or a combination of the two. Those who have cars often cannot drive themselves home after therapy because of temporary side effects from the treatments, such as weakness, fatigue or nausea.

"One cancer patient requiring radiation therapy could need daily trips to the hospital for six weeks," O'Connell said. "Patients undergoing chemotherapy often need weekly treatments for up to a year. Even patients who are usually driven to hospitals or clinics by relatives or friends must occasionally seek alternative transportation, and that's where Road to Recovery comes in."

"Our goal," Wallace said, "is to have several volunteer drivers for the Newton/Wellesley Unit. This would insure that all cancer patients requiring transportation to treatment centers will receive it."

Persons interested in joining the Road to Recovery Program or who would like more information should call the American Cancer Society office at 267-2650.

Tickets at $5 may be purchased at the church office or at the door. The dance is sponsored by the Organ Committee of the church to benefit the organ fund.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT MCMASTER

Nancy Mosher is bride of Robert T. McMaster

Nancy Darlene Mosher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Mosher of Newtonville, and Robert Theron McMaster of Becket were married on Sept. 12. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. McMaster of Southbridge.

Dr. Thomas J. Gallen, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Newton, performed the afternoon ceremony at the First Congregational Church of West Brookfield. A reception was held at the Publick House in Sturbridge.

Carolyn J. Mosher was maid of honor for her sister. Best man was Vendel Bosman, brother-in-law of the groom, from Mia, Mich.

The bride is a graduate of Newton North High School and Wellesley College, and holds an M.A. in biology from Smith College, where she is now a teaching fellow. She is a candidate for a Ph.D. in botany at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Mr. McMaster was graduated from Clark University and has an M.S.T. in science education from Boston College. He is the director of the outdoor education program at the state YMCA in Becket, where the couple will live after a wedding trip to Martha's Vineyard.

Second Church marks bicentennial this weekend

WEST NEWTON—Bicentennial Weekend at Second Church in Newton will bring friends, members and special guests from across the country to celebrate on Saturday, Oct. 17 and Sunday, Oct. 18.

A special Bicentennial Banquet will open festivities on Saturday at 7:15 p.m. Reservations are required, and tickets, at $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children, are available through the church office. Mystery guests and vignettes of the past will highlight the evening's entertainment.

Minister Emeritus Ross Cannon, Richard Bauer and Ned Martin will give meditations at the Bicentennial Worship Service Sunday at 10 a.m. A huge birthday party will be held in the Fellowship Hall immediately after the service.

David Carrier will direct the Second Church Choir in Haydn's "St. Nicholai Mass" at 3 p.m. Ivar Sjostrom will play the prelude.

The Chapel Gallery will be open during each celebration for viewing of memorabilia and photographs of the past 200 years. The exhibit, "200 Years in West Newton," is being presented in collaboration with The Jackson Homestead and offers a glimpse into the rich past of Second Church and its community.

For further information or to make reservations for the Bicentennial Banquet, call the church office at 244-2690. Second Church in Newton is at 60 Highland St., West Newton, just over the bridge from Rte 16. Ample parking is available, as is child care for all morning worship services.

Newton was shocked by Sadat's murder

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON—Newton residents were shocked and saddened by last week's assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who was killed during a military parade in an eastern Cairo suburb.

"I am shocked at this terrible event," said Rabbi Samuel Chiel of Temple Emmanuel in Newton Center. "The world has just lost a man of tremendous vision and great courage," said Rabbi Chiel of Sadat, who won a Nobel Peace Prize in 1978 for his efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East.

Rabbi Chiel praised Sadat for "going to Jerusalem in 1977, and to speak to the Knesset, and to declare Egypt's recognition of Israel."

"The whole future (of Arab and Israeli peace negotiations) is very unclear," said Rabbi Chiel, who is pessimistic about the future relationship between the two countries. "It's not going to be good," he continued, adding that Sadat's successor,"could be a real zealous leader who could undo everything that Sadat has accomplished in the peace process."

"Because it is not a democratic society, it is difficult to predict who that leader will be"' Rabbi Chiel said.

Mayor Theodore Mann called Sadat "a man of extrordinary courage in representing his people."

Mayor Mann also said that he hoped Sadat's successor is someone "of like-mind, who will carry the torch of peace for Christians, Moslems and Jews."

Allen Edelstein, president of Temple Emmanuel, pointed to the assasination attempts of President Ronald Reagan and on Pope John Paul as well as that of Sadat. "I think it's a real sad commentary on our times," sais said Edelstein. "I'm truly disturbed that this is taking place in the world."

"We Jews are who are in this period, Yom Kippur, are praying for peace and are truly shocked at what happened," said Edelstein, who said added that he would keep Sadat and Sadat's family in his prayers.

Edelstein is not optimistic that the future relationship between Egypt and Israel will be a good one. He said that he hoped "fanatics do not cease power." But he added that,"I have grave concerns for that hope."

Newton Mayoral candidate Bruce Marquis called Sadat "a truly singular leader of our times who has shown us the path for peace"'

At Day Junior High School in Newtonville, youngsters learned of Sadat's death from a television announcement. "In social studies class, someone had a T.V. on," remarked Christopher Shurtleff, 13, an 8th grade pupil at the school.

Shurtleff said that Sadat is known as a peaceful man who was a friend to the United States. Shurtleff worries that "The new president may not do as much as Sadat did. He may change it."

Shurteleff's friend, Guy Clamente, 13 , another 8th grade student at the school said that he knew Sadat was a "good guy."

"He was a good friend to America, I know that"' Clamente said.

At Newton North High School in Newtonville, a group of 10th grade students said they had just heard the news that morning of Sadat's death.

"It's kind of shocking," said Jane Walsh, 15, a student at the school.

Pupon Sarkar, 15, another 10th grade student, had neutral feelings about Sadat's assasination. "He was a pretty cool guy, but he wasn't sensitive to his people's feelings," said Sarkar, who added that Sadat was a dictator who was probably better than many other dictators.

"He was better for the country than any other leader would be," Sharkar said.

Dr. Barry Karger, a Northeastern University professor and chairman of the Israel Concern Committee at Temple Emanuel in Newton Center said Sadat's death will put a new light on the sale of AWAKS and other military arms to Saudi Arabia.

"There is now a strong argument against the sale given the instability of the country," said Krager, who stressed that without Sadat "as the unifying force" in Egypt, the future of the country is unclear. "There's a great deal of potential for instability," said Krager.

Krager said he was saddened by Sadat's death and noted that the event is unfortunate for the whole world. "Everyone respected him. He did a great thing going to Israel in 1977."

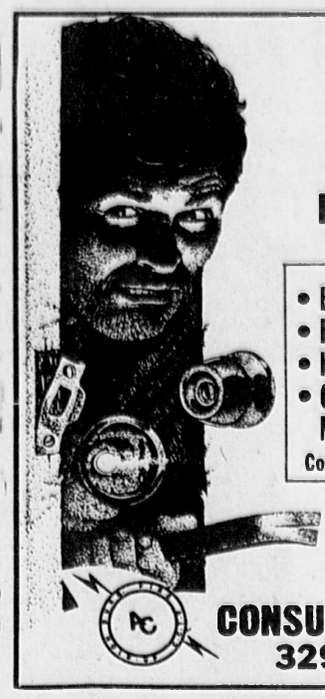

Mario Boccabella, who owns Dom and Mario's Deli in Newton Highlands said he was shocked. "We've been talking about it here all day long."

Boccabella said that he admired Sadat "for tying everyone together."

Cynthia Stiller, of Newton Center, said the event "is a sad commentary on our times."

She felt sad that assassinations happen to "people who are trying to do the right thing."

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
A thorough chiropractic examination will often include a spinal x-ray. It is only with x-rays that a chiropractor can get a good outline of your spinal column. Rather than look just for disease or fracture, a chiropractor looks at structural alignment. The x-ray gives a picture of where there are structural problems that lead to misalignments of the spine. With the blueprint of your spine in front of him, the chiropractor can then determine the most appropriate type of treatment. When you have questions about your treatment or about how chiropractic works to restore, build and preserve health, talk to your chiropractor. Chiropractic utilizes all modern forms of diagnostic procedures in addition to specialized chiropractic procedures for locating the real, fundamental and original cause within the body which can disturb natural body function and prevent normal health. A thorough chiropractic x-ray exam doesn't cost--it pays off in your improved health. DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington Street, Roslindale, 323-5022. Hours by appointment and three evenings a week.
CHIRO TIP:
Drink a glass of lukewarm water immediately upon arising in the morning. It will help to get your intestinal tract going for the day.

UNIQUE VACATIONS

Indonesia's "Island of the God's", Bali, is infused with a spirituality that pervades all aspects of its existence. Situated amidst the Java Sea and the Indian Ocean, its spiritual nature is derived from a mix of Hindu and Buddhist influences. There are 6,000 major temples consisting of open aired groupings of edifices, pavilions and shrines. They feature renowned Balinese artwork of demonic, ranged monsters, replete with lolling tongues and bulging eyes. Also found are guardian spirits with outstretched arms, sorceresses, serpents and magic birds.

From Indonesia to California there are exciting new worlds for you to explore . . . and FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham can tell you all about them. We are a full service travel agency and offer complete travel planning assistance to individuals as well as groups. We offer the lowest air fares and vacation packages to all destinations. Quinn shares a rostrum with Reagan

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — "I was not about to disobey an order from the President," Police Chief William F. Quinn said.

Quinn, who usually hands out directives, was forced to take orders last week at the International Association of Chiefs of Police convention in St. Louis.

When the 6,000 law enforcement executives that attended the convention wouldn't stop applauding for Reagan, who was addressing the group, the President told Quinn to get on with the ceremony.

Head of the international organization, Quinn, who has served on two law enforcement committees initiated by Reagan, demanded that the flag-waving crowd quiet down.

Quinn, who met with Reagan personally and introduced the president to the law enforcement officials, said he was "thrilled" to meet the President. He described Reagan as "friendly and humble."

"I was honored to be able to meet him," said Quinn, who spent his first day back on the job yesterday. "It's a thrill for any American."

Quinn had nothing but effusive praise for Reagan.

"This is the greatest president we have ever had from a police chief's point of view," he explained. "I think you will find the same view from police officers."

In a law and order speech to the chiefs, Reagan announced a tough program to battle crime including a deliberalizing of judicial rules against the use of illegally obtained evidence in court cases. Reagan also advocated the reestablishment of the death penalty and mandatory jail terms for offenders who use guns.

Quinn and other police chiefs voiced strong support for the tough standards to battle crime. The American Civil Liberties Union and other organizations, however, sharply criticized the Reagan plan, particularly the deliberalizing of the judicial rules as unconstitutional.

"Everything that the President spoke of has been advocated by police chiefs of this country for years," noted Quinn.

Quinn, who presented Reagan with an award from the International Association of Chiefs, said his organization is "exceptionally pleased" with the President and his advisers. "They speak like the police chiefs and officers of the country," he remarked.

Quinn lauded Reagan's attack aganinst judicial rules. "Most people would say a technicality should not allow a murderer to go free," he said. "The people are fed up with crime...People want to feel safe and they don't."

He added: "We think there can be controls. No one is advocating a complete repeal of the law."

He also said the organization supports Reagan's call for capital punishment and mandatory sentencing.

With a dire need for prisons in the state, Quinn also commended Reagan's call for the use of vacant federal land for prisons which removes one of the major stumbling blocks to prison construction — the protest of local residents of a community where a prison is proposed.

Barney Frank to address Watershed Association

AUBURNDALE—Barney Frank, U.S. Congressman, will speak on "How will government cutbacks affect Charles River interests?" at the 16th annual meeting of the Charles River Watershed Association on Oct. 28.

The meeting and the dinner preceding it will be held at the Perkins School for the Blind, 175 North Beacon St., Watertown.

George R. Sprague, president, will conduct the business meeting at 8 p.m. and Frank will speak at 8:30. The public is welcome to attend.

Reservations are required for the wine and chs cheese period at 6 p.m. and the buffet dinner at 6:30. A check for $8.50 per person should be sent with the reservation by Friday, Oct. 23, to CRWA, 2391 Commonwealth Ave., Auburndale 02166 For further information call CRWA at 527-2799 /./ or 965-5975.

Tigers' passing the key to Brockton stunner

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Boldface it, place it in 60 pt. type and blaze it across the front page. NEWTON NORTH 22 BROCKTON 16. Then package the game films, splash a title like "How to develop a passing game" on them, and ship them off to Ann Arbor, Mich. or Norman, Okla. That's right, even the boys in the big time could learn a little something from what coach Norm Walker and his Newton North Tigers did to Brockton Saturday.

It has been three days since The Upset which shook the Suburban League, but here are the facts. The Tigers are now 4-0, destined to probably move past Walpole and into the No.1 spot of the Division I rankings, and staring a league championship right in the face. Brockton, 3-1, hadn't lost a regular season game since Thanksgiving Day, 1978, when Waltham High took them, 24-14. The Boxers had won 23 straight since.

Heroes? Everybody really, right down to assistant coaches Michael Foye and Mike Coppolla, who worked on the attack which allowed Tiger QB's Tim Brandon and Ryan Foley to complete 17 of 25 passes for 201 yards. It was an offense that even Don Coryle would have admired, consisting of one beautifully-designed play after another. The Tigers came out throwing the ball and never stopped, not even when they were backed up to their one-yard line with six minutes left in the game.

"You have to give all the credit for that to Foye and Coppolla," said Walker afterward. "I handed the offense over to them during the week and told them to work on our technique and execution. They did a fantastic job."

Said a somber Brockton coach Armand Columbo, a man unaccustomed to losing, "We knew they could throw, and yes, obviously we tried to make adjustments. But we just couldn't stop them."

The game had been billed as a battle between Newton's passing and Brockton's sensational tailback Jay McGee. In the final analysis, neither defense stopped the other. Brandon was 10 of 16 for 124 yards, Foley seven of nine for 77 and McGee gained 186 yards on 32 carries. But the difference was that the Tigers succeeded in preventing the 5-7, 160-pound flash from breaking the long ones. McGee had one scamper of 32 yards and none other more than 20. "We figured him for at least three long touchdown runs," said Walker. "He didn't do that. Our defense did a tremendous job of limiting him to 10 and 15-yard gains."

Actually, the Tiger defense, led by linebacker John Corsi, was outstanding in stopping McGee when it counted the most – specifically three consecutive times from the one-yard line with 7:32 left in the game.

Trailing by only six, Brockton had driven from their own 34 to the Newton seven in 12 plays. McGee had accounted for 38 of those yards and QB Bob O'Neill had picked up another 14 in the march. But after O'Neill scampered four yards and McGee two to bring the ball to the one, the Tiger front wall stiffened. McGee went straight into the middle on third down. Nothing. McGee again on fourth. Nothing again as Corsi, Dave Rowland and Matt Davis knocked him back.

"That was a courageous goal-line stand," said Walker. "It was unbelievable. One of the greatest I've ever seen."

Perhaps more unbelievable was the manner in which the Tigers then moved the ball safely from the shadow of their own goalposts. Without a moment's hesistation, they went to the pass. A dangerous enough move from your own end zone, but even more so when you do it with only 10 men.

"Al Fortune (fullback) had gotten injured earlier and we wanted to put Corsi in," explained Walker. "But in the excitement of the goal-line stand, Corsi came off the field and we were playing without a fullback. Mike Abbrusseze made a tremendous adjustment to prevent a disaster."

Foley completed that pass to Billy Drew for nine yards (seven receptions) and the next to Paul Howley for 13 to bring them out of trouble.

The Tigers had began the game brilliantly by taking tne opening kickoff and methodically marching 74 yards. Brandon hit John Coppolla (four catches) twice for 17 and 12 yards, George Claflin for 12 and Drew for 11 to bring the ball to the Brockton 12. On first down, Foley entered the game, rolled left and drilled the ball to a wide-open Drew for the touchdown. He then threw to Claflin for the two-point conversion and Newton was ahead quickly, 8-0.

Just as suddenly the normally unflappable Boxers handed them another opportunity. When O'Neill fumbled the ensuing kickoff, Jim Caruso recovered and the Tigers had the ball at the 23. Six plays later they were in the end zone on a two-yard run by Fortune. Peter Munsat's kick made it, 14-0.

But Brockton didn't win 23 straight and appear in consecutive Super Bowls by disintegrating, and the Boxers served notice that this was not going to be a rout. McGee ripped off consecutive first down runs of 13, 14 and 12 yards and the Boxers were at the Newton 23. O'Neill picked up seven yards on the option on a fourth and three and, two plays after that, McGee swept eight yards to the left corner of the end zone for the touchdown. Fullback Ed Myers easily ran it in for the two points and the lead was down to six.

Newton's response was another marvelous drive, this one spanning 77 yards in only four plays. The offensive line, led by Kevin Troy, Tony Clarey and Mario Proia, gave Brandon perfect protection (as they did all day) and the talented sophomore drilled consecutive passes to Claflin (18 yards), Drew (12) and Coppolla (18) to move the ball to the Brockton 29. Fortune then burst through the middle, broke three tackles and sped the rest of the way for the TD. Brandon hit Paul Howley for the two-pointer to make the score Newton 22 Brockton 8.

But this was a fantastic high school football game, and again Brockton cut the deficit. After backing the Tigers up to the one with a 37-yard punt and then stopping Newton on downs, the Boxers put together a 61-yard drive which culminated in McGee's second score, this one of one yard. The big plays here were an 18-yard completion from O'Neill to Chris Dooley (Brockton's only one of the day), a 15-yard run by McGee and a 23-yard burst from Myers.

So the score was back to 22-16 with an entire second half to play. But no one has managed to attain a single point off the Tigers in the second half this season, and nothing changed Saturday. "We made adjustments and we were able to stop them," said Walker. "I have to give all the credit in the world to the way our defense played. They made very few mistakes."

Neither, of course, did the offense, which displayed the sort of attack rarely seen on the high school level. It had been assumed that only a near-flawless performance could beat the Boxers. That is exactly what Walker got.

Miracle finish sparked Lions

By Greg Porell
Staff Correspondent

For the third time this season the Newton South defense has turned an opponent away on a fourth down attempt and the offense has responded by marching in for what proved to be the game winning touchdown.

On their own three-yard line, the Lions stopped what had been a very potent Boston Tech offense on a fourth-down try, and Newton South marched 97 yards to score on an unbelievable Mike Antonellis' touchdown reception and win the game, 27-26, Saturday at White Stadium.

The Lions, now 4-0, erupted for 21 first-quarter points and held a 15-point lead at the end of the first frame. But Newton South became comfortable with its lead and the offense faltered for the first time this season.

Boston Tech came back to post 20 points in the second quarter and had cut the Lions half-time lead to just one point. Tech collected seven second-quarter first downs while Newton South managed just one first down and 60 offensive yards (with 50 of them coming on kickoff returns).

After a scoreless third quarter, in which Newton South controlled the ball but was unable to score, the Lions would show why they are undefeated on the season at the start of the fourth frame.

For the second and much of the third quarter the Newton South offense was struggling against a very tough Boston Tech defense. Tech had taken the momentum of the game and turned it in its favor early in the second quarter and through the third quarter.

Boston Tech began the final session by marching the ball 60 yards to the Newton South three-yard line. Boston Tech compiled 329 yards on the ground for an example of the difficulty that the Lions' defense was having. Boston Tech was pushed back on three running plays and one passing attempt by a very surprising Lion defense. It was the first time in the game that Newton South's defense had been able to stop Boston Tech in a crucial situation since the first quarter.

Art Walton (64 yards on 11 carries) started the drive by bulling out two yards on the first Newton South offensive play. Here is where the Lion offense began to show life as Joe Spagnuolo (16 for 25, good for 241 yards) hit Antonellis on a 11-yard completion that got the ball over the 18 yard line and a first down.

Steve Anglin carried for two yards on first down before Spagnuolo hit Dave Hill for a nine-yard completion and another first down. Anglin ran for 11 yards on two carries and notched the third Lion first down of the drive and got the ball over the 40 yard line. With 4:50 remaining on the game clock, Spagnuolo dropped back to pass but was pressured by a strong Boston Tech rush. Spagnuolo scrambled for what must have been over seven seconds and after eluding tackles threw the ball across field for a 28-yard completion and first down to Antonellis. The Lions gained another first down and had the ball at the 14 yard line when Spagnuolo drilled a pass to the right corner of the end zone. A streaking Antonellis had his man beat by two yards but the pass was a little infront of him. The 6'4" Antonellis left the ground and with his body just about parallel to the field stretched out to pull in the game winner.

"Antonellis made a catch even the pro's couldn't make" exclaimed a very excited and pleased Lion skipper Art Kojoyian. "There were big plays all over the field for us today."

But once again it was the Lion defense sparking the offense to life with a big play on fourth down. Newton South had to contain Boston Tech's very talented quarterback Bob Jett who passed for 166 yards and ran for 111 yards and it had a difficult time until its collective backs were against the wall.

The Lion defense collected three Boston Tech fumbles and intercepted two passes, but had a rough time stopping the Tigers in the second and third quarters. The Lion D stopped Littleton on a fourth down play in the season opener and the offense marched 50 yards to put Newton South ahead 12-6 in a game South eventually won 21-6. Against West Roxbury the Lion D stopped the Raiders on a fourth down situation and the offense marched 82 yards to score in a contest South won 15-0.

So now the Lions will take on their first Dual County League opponent Saturday at home when they meet Concord-Carlisle. This contest could give Newton South its first league victory and should be a little easier foe compared to the last two weeks.

Hawk booters nip Cambridge, 1-0

The Waltham boys soccer team geared up for its big match for Newton North by defeating Cambridge, 1-0, on Friday in a Suburban League match at Cambridge.

The Hawks, 7-0-1 and in first in the league, meet Newton North on Wednesday night, 7 p.m., at the Bentley Athletic Field. The Hawks scored early against Cambridge and eased to the win.

Steve LaForest took an indirect kick and chipped the ball toward the net, Tom Martin outjumped the Cambridge defender and headed the ball into the net. The goal came just a minute into the first period and it was the only score the Hawks would need.

Charlie Pulselli had the shutout for Waltham.

Weston improved its record to 6-1-1 Friday with an easy 6-0 victory over Catholic Memorial at Weston.

Mike McCabe scored a three-goal hat trick to pace the win. Chris Noble, Frank Hamm and John Farina accounted for the remaining markers.

Noble got what turned out to be the game-winner in the first quarter, dribbling the ball to within 15 yards and blasting the ball past the CM goalie.

Weston will host Concord-Carlisle Wednesday.

Newton North lost to North Quincy, 1-0, in a tough game. The Red Raiders scored just three minutes into the third period on a lucky bounce. The Tigers dominated the final three periods of play, but just couldn't get the balll in the net.

Newton North defeated Brookline and seems to get up for the big games and Waltham will have to be ready.

Newton South hit the post five times in the fourth period in its 1-0 to Wayland. The Lione had chances galore, but couldn't the ball into the net. Steve Abroms (twice), Andy Miller (twice) and John Giannakis all hits the post for South.

Wayland scored with just five minutes left in the game. The Lions meet Acton-Boxboro on Friday.

'7' lucky number for Lancers

By Greg Porell
Staff Correspondent

Any frustration the Newton Catholic football team and coach Tome Raeke may have been harboring from its last six winless attempts against Arlington Catholic must have been eliminated after Sunday's impressive 29-16 triumph.

Raeke predicted this would be his team's toughest contest of the season, but the Lancers had limited trouble with the Cougars. Arlington had been picked as one of the favorites in the Catholic Suburban League, as was Newton Catholic's first victim St. Clement's, but the Lancers displayed why they remain undefeated.

Newton Catholic's offense pounded out 241 yards on the ground using eight different running backs while using the pass seven times for 15 yards.

The Lancer defense was instrumental in the win, shutting down the Cougars offense. Arlington Catholic totaled 122 yards on the ground and 106 in the air, but the statistics are deceptive. Newton Catholics defense was tough and had little trouble keeping the Cougars out of the end zone.

Raeke credited his defensive coach Lou Abruzzi with preparing the corp. "Everyone on the defense has been playing together for about four years," explained Abruzzi. "They are playing well together and working as a unit."

The linebacking duo of Dave Grady and John Mingolelli turned in outstanding performances for Newton Catholic as did the defensive line.

As for the Newton Catholic offense, it did just about what it wanted to on the ground. Chuck Barbera looked very impressive, grinding out 141 yards on 10 carries that included 65, 20 and 25 yard touchdown runs.

Barbera, who missed the first game of the season, has added another dimension to the already versatile Lancer backfield.

Tough is the only way to describe the Lancers' Marc Hung. Hung was the smallest player in size on the field, but not in value. Hung carried six times for six yards but he added quickness to the offense and was hitting very hard on defense.

Newton Catholic wasted little time in getting on the board. On the second play of its first possession, Newton Catholic scored when Barbera galloped 65 yards for a touchdown. Tony Vendetti hit Paul Kling in the endzone on the conversion attempt to give the Lancers an 8-0 lead with three minutes elapsed from the clock.

Newton Catholic built a 16-0 lead in the second quarter when it marched 78 yards to score on a Barbera run.

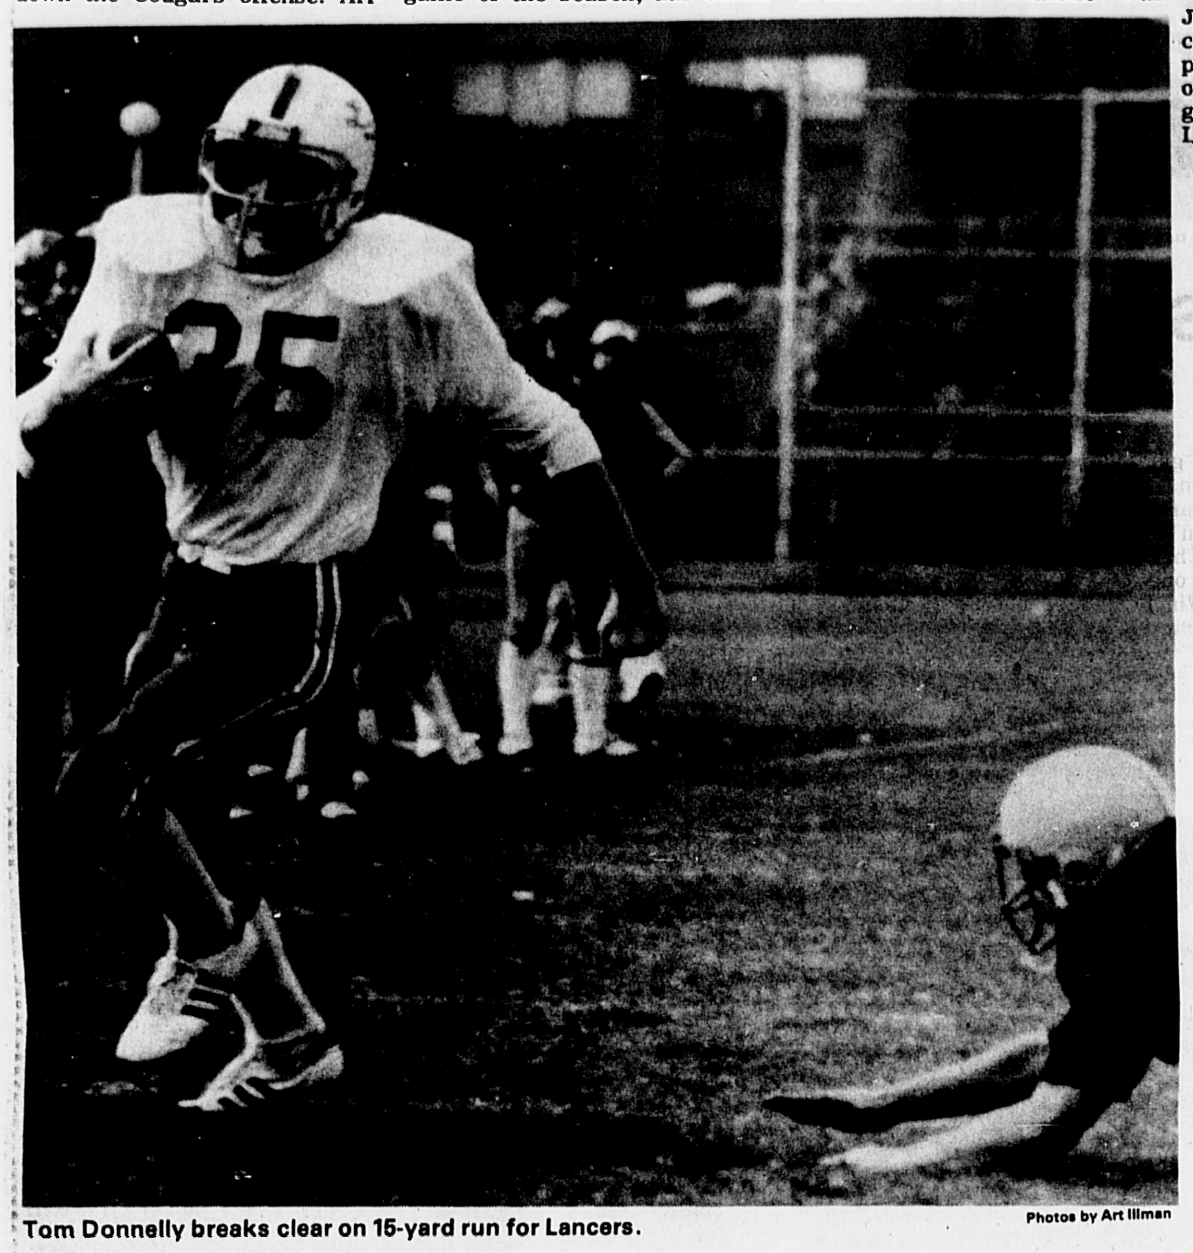

Arlington got on the board on what could be called a lucky break. Newton Catholic was preparing to punt when the snap went over the kicker's head and Arlington recovered the ball at the Lancers' three yard line. Jim Brown brought the ball over the goal line from the one to give the Cougars their first score.

Newton Catholic went up, 23-8, in the third quarter when Barbera rambled 25 yards to post his third touchdown of the game. The Lancers took advantage of a Arlington Catholic fumble at the end of the third quarter and scored two plays later when Tom Donnelly rolled in for a 15 yard touchdown run.

Brown scored Arlington Catholic's last touchdown of the game as the contest was winding down to an end on a 10 yard run. Mike McDonald ran in for the conversion but it was too little too late.

"It comes down to this," explained Raeke. "When we want to and need to score we are usually able to."

Raeke cited the work of tackles Jim O'Neil and Steve Nugent and credited the pair with a terrific performance. Raeke also pointed out the play of Berbera at middle guard as a key factor in the Lancers success.

Knight offense still coming up empty

It's awfully difficult to win football games when you don't score any points. The season is only four games old, but already St. Patrick's has been blanked three times, with the latest being a 16-0 shutout at the hands of Charlestown Sunday in a non-league contest.

The defeat leaves the Knights at 0-4 and groping. They haven't been able to muster any kind of offense all season. In the latest loss, they moved the ball just once, advancing from their own 31 to the Charlestown 24. Quarterback Jim Barrett was responsible for the majority of that yardage, hitting Frank Minnelli and Mark McHugh each twice. Along with a personal foul call, the Knights charged into Charlestown territory. But Mike Bird ended their hopes with an interception and St. Patrick's never threatened again.

The Townies scored the only touchdown they would need in the second quarter on a five-yard run by Matt Holloway. Bob Allen hit Tom Donahue for the two-point conversion and Charlestown was up, 8-0.

They made it 16-0 on the next possession when center Dan Considine recovered halfback Jim Murphy's fumble in the end zone. The play had started at the two-yard line. Again the Townies went for the two and got it on a Bird run.

St. Patrick's did receive fine defensive efforts from defensive end Bill Lederman, tackle Joe Cummings and linebacker Tony Gulla. The offense, however, was non-existent once again, so the Knights are 0-4.

Silk gives Newton PeeWees 4-3 victory

The Newton Pee Wee A team got a goal from Steve Silk in the third period to edge past Lowell, 4-3, Sunday in a Middlesex Youth Hockey League game at the Burlington Ice Palace.

Dom Bianchi led the scoring parade for Newton picking up two goals. Doug Proia also scored for Newton. The win lifted Newton's record to 2-1.

Bentley latest soccer victim of Babson, 4-0

The Bentley College soccer team became the seventh consecutive victim of the Babson College sqaud. The Falcons dropped a 4-0 decision to the Beavers Wednesday at Wellesley.

Babson improved its record to 7-0 and is still unscored upon this season. Jim Fisher, John DiMambro, Jim Olver and Rudy Von Berg were the Babson goal scorers.

Brian Cahill was in goal for the shutout. The loss dropped Benltey's record to 3-5.

The Bentley tennis team lost to Stonehill, 5-2. Diane Trembley and Ann Karoghlanian were the lone winners for the Falcons.

Arrow captain Chris Kennedy picks up first down in second quarter. Photo by Dennis Donovan

Second tie leaves Arrows frustrated and winless

For the second week in a row St. Sebastian's outplayed its opponent and still came away without the satisfaction of a win as the Arrows tied Roxbury Latin Saturday, 6-6, at Vin Murphy Field.

"I'm an optimist," joked Arrow coach Bob Souza. "I tell the kids we haven't lost yet."

Of course, they haven't won either. They are now 0-0-2 including an opening 0-0 tie with Gov. Dummer.

Like that first game of the year, the Arrows moved the ball fairly well, totaling 312 yards of offense, but they continued to make the wrong mistake at the wrong time.

"We're a young team and it will take some time," says Souza. "So far we have been stopping ourselves. Saturday we stopped one drive with a penalty and another with a fumble. But we are improving."

Souza depends a great deal on quarterback Jeff Simpson of Watertown, who is in his first year starting at the varsity level. He was seven of 18 for 164 yards Saturday, but he still has a ways to go. "Jeff is learning. It's not easy stepping in without experience. But once he matures we should be okay. Our offense depends on him a lot."

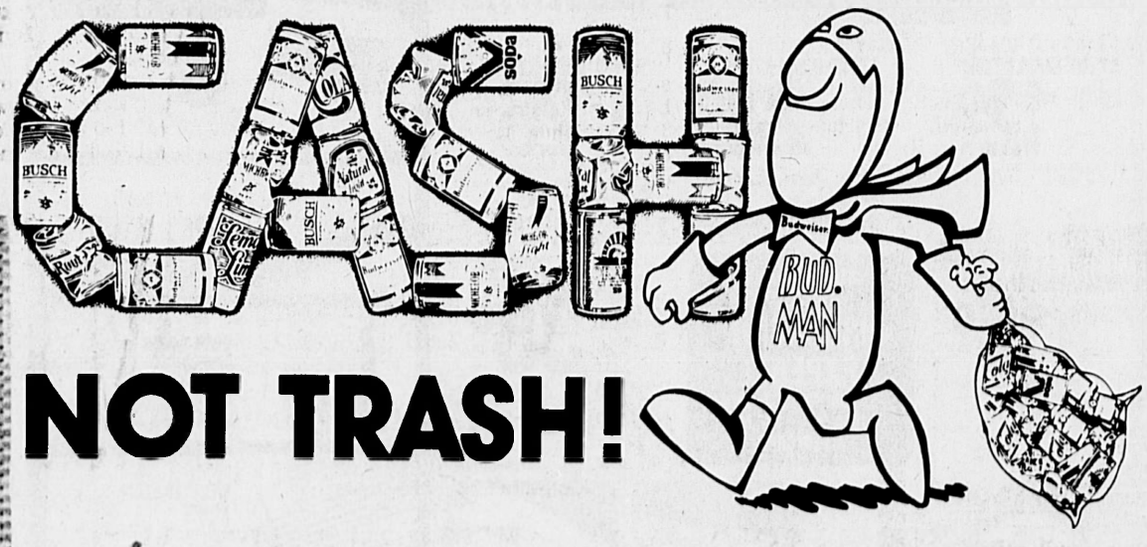

After a scoreless first half, Roxbury Latin got on the board in the third quarter to take a 6-0 lead. Chris Hannan capped 70-yard drive by scampering 40 yards. The Arrows had stopped Roxbury Latin on a third and 15, but a crucial face-mask call gave Latin a first down. Hannan scored on the next play. It remained 6-0 when Latin went for the two points and missed.

The Arrows tied the game on their next possession. Mark Hunter of Walpole returned the kick to the St. Sebastian's 40 and on the very next play Chris Kennedy of Wellesley broke one for 60 yards. Ned Fortin of Winchester booted the extra-point, but the Arrows were called for illegal motion. Set back five yards and forced to kick again, Fortin missed.

If there is a bright light through the first two weeks, it would be the St. Sebastian defense, which has surrendered just six points. "They have been super," said Souza. "Without their effort, we would have never been in the games."

Kennedy led the rushing attack for the Arrows with 76 yards in five carries followed by Fortin's 36 yards and Simpson's 17.

Phased closing of Warren, School Committee assures

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Students affected by the decision to close Warren Junior High can now look forward to attending a junior high school they can call "home."

As the result of a unanimous School Committee vote in favor of the phased closing of Warren, students will now spend more than one year at the same school over three years.

Prior last week's vote for a phased closing to begin Sept. 1982, some Warren students could anticipate calling at least three schools "home" in three years.

For example, since the school is slated to permanently close June 1983, seventh graders attending Warren next year would complete one year at Warren, then attend Day Junior High and then Newton North High for ninth grade after it is christened a four-year high school in 1983.

Under a phased closing, students who would have attended Warren for seventh grade next fall will now go to Day Junior High where they will spend two years before going to a reorganized four-year North High.

For many of these seventh grade students, there would have been four moves in four years as a result of the closing of Claflin Elementary, a Warren feeder school, last June.

Although this disruption of Warren students was recognized at the time of the debates last spring over closing a northside junior high, the School Committee did not support the phased closing of Warren because of the overcrowding it would cause for the 1982 school year at Day Junior High.

Last week the committee was told that enrollment projections for current sixth graders were proven to be high, which would alleviate overcrowding at Day should the Warren closing be phased as it was with Meadowbrook (now Brown Junior High) and Weeks Junior High. Weeks closed this September as South High became a four-year school.

Dr. Vincent Silluzio, director of Research and Planning for the schools, said in an interview Wednesday that his predictions that Day, under a phased closing, would be 34 students over its capacity of 825, were no longer valid because of an unanticipated drop in the number of sixth grade students this year.

Also, according to the school's principal, Ed Fraktman, movable partitions in the school will also allow the creation of four additional classrooms.

Fewer students and the availability of four additional classrooms prompted Silluzio and Superintendent Aaron Fink to predict that Day would operate at close to capacity for the first year of a phased closing.

Silluzio added that in Sept. 1983 when ninth graders will go to North, the enrollment at Day will drop to about 684 students.

Fink, in an interview Wednesday, spoke in strong support of the phased closing. The constant movement of some of the students over three or four years would have had a "harmful" effect upon their education, he said.

"Junior high will only be two years as it is," Fink added, "and students ought to spend those two years in one school."

Search group rep studied

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Many aldermen believe that a School Department Search Committee to select a new superintendent of schools should include a member of the legislative body.

Mayor Theodore Mann's request that an aldermen be included on the search committee has been ignored by the School Committee. The request was made by Mann at a Sept. 21 School Committee meeting.

The School Committee lost fiscal autonomy with the passage of Proposition 2½. As a result, aldermen can now cut funds from the School Department's budget.

The budget hearings between the two government bodies this year were marred by bitter fighting between aldermen and school committee members.

School Superintendent Aaron Fink, who has headed the school system for the last 13 years, has announced that he will resign at the end of the school year.

Many aldermen on the 24-member legislative body emphasized that an alderman on the search committee could help to improve relations between the two government bodies.

"I think it would be useful to have an alderman on the committee," said Alderman Lisle Baker. "It won't do any harm and it may do some good...If you are going to have a broad based committee, it is important to have a member of the board."

He added: "It would probably be helpful to the selection process and improve the relationship between aldermen and the school committee."

"We have control over the funds so I think we should have someone on the committee," agreed Alderman Dominic Taglienti.

The veteran Ward 7 aldermen, however, did not feel the school committee has ignored the mayor's request because of the bad blood between the two bodies.

Board of Alderman President Matthew Jefferson felt that it was unnecessary for an alderman to serve on the committee. "I think the School Committee should be able to structure the committee as they see fit," he explained. "I don't see any benefit to having a board member on the committee."

Jefferson said it was more important to have a broad range of people from the community on the committee.

Alderman Paul Coletti pointed out that an alderman may "hamper" the search process.

"I think it would be rubbing the grain of the School Committee," Coletti said. "The person would not add anything significant to the deliberations of the School Committee."

Alderman Mark White said: "I think there should be an aldermen on the committee if we are going to avoid the kind of conflict that took place at budget time this year." White said it is critical that the School Committee and Board of Aldermen develop a closer working relationship.

He speculated that the School Committee may have ignored the request from the mayor because the two governmental bodies are used to having their "own domain."

Other aldermen also would welcome input on the committee, but felt it was not critical.

"I don't think it's a critical obstruction," said Alderman Wendell Bauckman. "I think it would be a nice thing to do because we now have a part in the budget process, but it doesn't bother me."

Alderman Donald Budge viewed the situation similarly. "I don't think it is really that essential," he explained. "However, from a credibility and communications point of view, it would be a good idea for the School Committee to consider."

Aldermen approve $10,000 payment to cover city's delay of work review

NEWTON — A municipal contract with an Ohio firm will cost an additional $10,000 because of city delays in reviewing the work.

The Board of Aldermen's Public Facilities Committee unanimously recommended approval of an additional $10,000 last week for the contract which was extended for more than a year.

Alderman originally approved $281,000 for the aerial survey project. The aerial surveys, which detail city topography, are used by the assessing, planning and other municipal departments.

Berger Associates of Columbus, Ohio charged that the delays in reviewing the initial survey plates caused the company to lose more than $150,000. The company, however, agreed to settle for $10,000 after city officials found deficiencies in their work.

City Engineer Paul Giunta said the detailed reviewing process was needed to verify the accuracy of the aerial survey. He emphasized that the review process took twice as long as originally planned.

He called settlement with the company "more than fair."

"A lot of it was that they could not do the work until we reviewed the plans," Giunta said. "A settlement of $10,000 at this time is a bargain."

The aldermen stipulated that the additional $10,000 be paid only after the aerial survey. The funds must receive final approval from the full board.

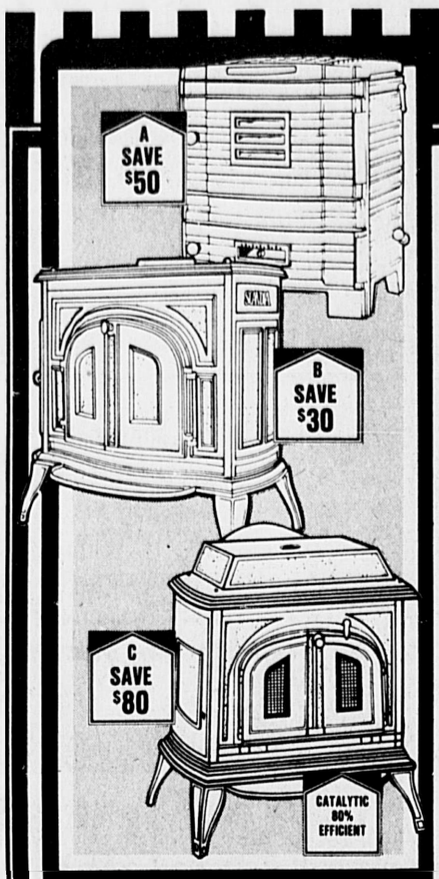

In other action, aldermen unanimously recommended approval of $5,000 for repair of the Sewer Department gradall and $185 for a replacement lamp for a reproduction machine.

Aldermen attending the meeting were: Dominic Taglienti, Paul Coletti and Robert Katz. Alderman Richard McGrath arrived an hour late.

Absent were: Joseph DePasquale, Elaine Gentile, Matthew Jefferson, and Ernie Dietz.

North High Simulated Outdoor Area

The schedule for the North High School Simulated Outdoor Area is: Monday and Friday, jogging, 7 to 9 p.m. and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, jogging, 7 to 8:25 and volleyball, 8:30 to 9:45 p.m.

The Recreation Department reminds all participants that school activities take precedent over their programs if there is a conflict.

Ecology Note

The Recreation Department requests adults and children not ride along the shore of Crystal Lake where the water is now quite low. Riding along the edge of the water can cause serious damage to the ecology of the area.

Swim Team Registration

Registration for the Newton Recreation Department Swim Team will be held on Wed., Oct. 21, from 7:15 to 9 p.m. at the Newton North High pool office. Candidates should come prepared to swim. Applicants ages 7 and over must be able to swim the length of the pool.

The fee this season will be $40 per family and $20 per individual. The fall and winter fee is less because there are not as many workouts as in the summer.

The coaches are Mary and Scott Pohlman.

Senior Adult Coming Events

There will be a whist party at the Echo Ridge Recreation Hall on Thuyrsday, Oct. 15 at 12:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served and the fee is $1.25.

Echo Ridge is on Thurston Rd., Newton Upper Falls.

Monday, Oct. 19 there will be a penny sale at the Jackson Apartments Recreation Hall, J.F.K. Circle, Newton. Time, 12:30 p.m. The admission is $1 and refreshments will be served.

Senior adult advisor Judy Dore reminds seniors that they don't have to live in the development to participate. Everyone, city-wide, is invited.

Norumbega Gardens on Ash St., Auburndale, will have a bridge and whist party on Thursday, Nov. 5 at 12:30 p.m. Cost is $1.25 and refreshments will be served.

Retirees' Athletic Program

R.A.P., the Retirees' Athletic Program will sponsor an Exercise and Volleyball program at the Hamilton School in Newton Lower Falls beginning on THursday, Oct. 27. The program will run from 9 to 11 a.m. and the instructor will be Gary Freshette. To register call 552-7120 or simply go to the Hamilton School on that morning. This class is free.

Merrimack, N.H. Trip

Senior adults are urged to check the senior adult activity fall brochure for complete information on the city-wide bus trip to Merrimack, N.H. on Oct. 22. Information on all trips is available at drop-in centers.

Farmer's Market Transportation

Transportation to the Farmers' Market on Tuesday will continue.

Boys and Girls Skating Classes

Skating lessons for boys and girls in grades 1 through 6 will be held at the MDC Daly Rink beginning on Tuesday, Nov. 17. There will be seven lessons for $20. Classes will be from 2 to 2:50 or 3 to 3:50 p.m.

Registration for these classes will be held at the Newotn Centre Hut on Tyler Terr., Newton Centre, Wednesday, Nov. 4, 7 to 8 p.m.

Mini-Bike Program Continues

The Recreation Department's Mini Bike Facility continues in operation each Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Located at the site of the former city infirmary on Winchester St., Newton Highlands, this is the only legal public area in Newton where mini-bikes may be operated.

Directors Steve and Al Mazzola place great emphasis on safety. Riders must wear helmets and hard-toed shoes. Mini-bikes are limited to 5HP and must be equipped with spark arresters, mufflers, safe brakes and tires.

There is a $5 fee for each mini-bike and a $1 fee for each other rider of that bike.

Skating Classes

A series of nine skating classes will be held for kindergarten through adult at the MDC Cleveland Circle Rink from 5 to 5:50 p.m. starting on Tues., Nov. 17. These classes will be for all levels of instruction. Cost is $25 for the series.

Registration for the series will be held at the Newton Centre Hut, Wednesday, Nov. 4, 7 to 8 p.m.

Farmer's Market

Market Mistress Sue King reminds residents that the Farmer's Market will continue through the end of this month. The market is held each Tuesday in the War Memorial Circle at the rear of City Hall, from 3:30 to 7 p.m.

Area farmers offer their fresh produce including fruits and vegetables for sale. There are also eggs, flowers and frozen home made chicken and turkey pies.

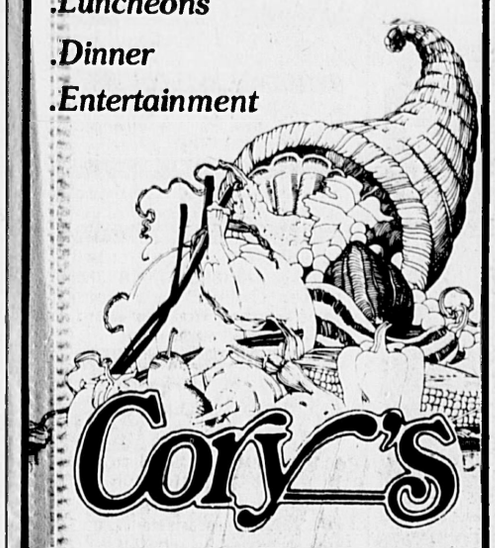

Each week there is a raffle, the winner of which is awarded a market basket donated by the participating farmers.

The winner of last week's Market Basket full of produce was Tami Friedman of 304 Otis St., West Newton.

Women's Volleyball

An organizational meeting of the Newton Recreation Department's Women's Volleyball League will be held Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Day Junior High School, Minot Pl., Newtonville.

There will be practice sessions and clinics on November 2, 9 and 16 with league play opening on Nov. 23.

PROGRAMS SUBJECT TO CHANGE

movies

THUR., OCT. 15

MICKEY SPILLANE

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) MICKEY SPILLANE'S MARGIN FOR MURDER. A return to the no-holds-barred tough detective yarn with Kevin ("Crooooocker!") Dobson as private eye "Mike Hammer" who is dedicated to his own brand of law and order, letting the chips fall where they may as he doggedly pursues the villains. Charles Hallahan, Cindy Pickett and Donna Dixon. Hammer continues on high in a lengthy career.

FRI., OCT. 16

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) THE DAY THE LOVING STOPPED. A child's eye view of divorce starring Dennis Weaver and Valerie Harper as once-loving parents whose shattering separation plunges their two daughters into total despair. Heartbreak house.

SAT., OCT. 17

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) RETURN OF THE REBELS. Offbeat tale of a reunion among some aging former members of a motorcycle gang who come to the rescue of one Stefanie Powers, John McIntire and Keenan Wynn.

SUN., OCT. 18

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) NASHVILLE GRAB. Zany comedy with Jeff Conaway as a country singer who almost turns Nashville upside down when he is kidnapped by some conniving female convicts. (May be preempted if an American League Championship baseball game is played).

MON., OCT. 19

Jacqueline Susann's Valley of the Dolls 1981

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) JACQUELINE SUSANN'S VALLEY OF THE DOLLS '1981'. A of their own and make a bittersweet grab for their vanished, hell-roaring youth. Barbara Eden, Don Murray, Christopher Connelly, Michael Baseleon and Jamie Farr. Straddlin' the ole Harleys again!

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) HERBIE RIDES AGAIN (2). Herbie leads a battalion of driverless VW's in a rousing, motorized "carvalry" charge! Helen Hayes, Ken Berry, contemporary update of the international blockbuster with Catherine Hicks, Lisa Hartman, Veronica Hamel, David Birney, James Coburn and Jean Simmons. The sizzling story about the insecurities, career successes and topsy-turvy love affairs of three very different women in the entertainment world. Good times and bad times and the misters in between.

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI. A sequel to the hit comedy-drama about high school students in a small California town during the 1960s. This follows their paths since the night of their high school graduation. Ron Howard, Paul Le Mat, Cindy Williams, Candy Clark, Charles Martin Smith, MacKenzie Phillips and Bo Hopkins. Walks of life.

TUES., OCT. 20

8-11PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) JACQUELINE SUSANN'S VALLEY OF THE DOLLS '1981'. Conclusion of the five-hour mini series.

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) THE DAY THE WOMEN GOT EVEN. A madcap adventure with four suburban housewives pooling their acting talents-limited as they are-to do in an unscrupulous talent agent. Fun with: Barbara Rhoades, Georgia Engel, Jo Ann Pflug and Tina Louise.

10-11PM NBC (9 Central/Mountain) REVENGE OF THE GRAY GANG. Five spry senior citizens kick up their heels at the thought of being turned out to pasture and use their collective skills to bust dognappers. The "over-the-hill" gang are Noah Beery, Scatman Crothers, Maxine Stuart, Mike Mazurki and Richard Whiting. Enjoy the quintet as they out con the cons.

WED., OCT. 21

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) FRIENDSHIPS, SECRETS & LIES. (R) Move over guys and enjoy this flick with an all-female cast - plus a female writer, director and producer! Six former sorority sisters are suspected of murder when a baby's skeleton is found in the sorority house they lived in 20 years before. Cathryn Damon, Shelly Fabares, Sondra Locke, Tina Louise, Paula Prentiss, Loretta Swit and Stella Stevens. Gals! Take a bow.

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) A FEW DAYS IN WEASEL CREEK. When a feisty young gal hitches a ride with a runaway farm boy, it plunges them into all kinds of adventures that drastically change the futures they planned on.

THUR., OCT. 22

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) KILLJOY. The mysterious disappearance and murder of a beautiful young lady has dramatic repercussions. Kim Basinger, Robert Culp, Stephen Macht, Nancy Marchand and John Rubinstein. Love, lies and murder!

FRI., OCT. 23

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) REVENGE OF THE STEPFORD WIVES. Stepford is a New England town where women are programmed to be domestic slaves to their husbands. Sharon Giess is a TV reporter who stumbles onto the sinister secret of the community and risks all to get to the bottom of mysterious circumstances. With Julie Kavner and Arthur Hill. A sequel to the popular theatrical film.

SAT., OCT. 24

WALT DISNEY

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) WALT DISNEY. Some Disney delights: Trick or Treat and Lonesome Ghosts and Legend of Sleepy Hollow.

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) DARK NIGHT OF THE SCARECROW. Not about keeping birds away from crops but a chilling drama about a group of vigilantes who kill an innocent retarded man and who, in turn, are haunted and hunted in an eerie way. Charles Durning, Robert F. Lyons, Claude Earl Jones, Lane Smith and Tonya Crowe.

SUN., OCT. 25

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) TWIRL. Stella Stevens again. Yum!

MON., OCT. 26

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) SPLENDOR IN THE GRASS. A love story of two sensitive, pre-Depression era teens struggling with strict sexual mores and parential pressure to discourage their relationship.

TUES., OCT. 27

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) THE PRINCESS AND THE CABBIE. Valerie Bertinelli and Robert Desiderio in a touching tale about a young woman suffering from dyslexia and a spirited self-taught hackie who helps to educate her. Together they face the biggest challenge of their lives.

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) THE BRADY GIRLS GET MARRIED. The famous gals decide to take the plunge but before they tie the knots, there are some disturbing questions to be answered. Florence Henderson, Robert Reed, Eve Plumb, Maureen McCormick, Jerry Houser and Ron Kuhlman.

10-11PM NBC (9 Central/Mountain) MARRIAGE IS ALIVE AND WELL. With Joe Namath, Judd Hirsch and Jack Albertson.

FRI., OCT. 16

8-9PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain) ALL-STAR FAMILY FEUD SPECIAL. Richard Dawson hosts this wing-ding that finds ten of the world's most beautiful actresses squaring off against an equal number of entertainment's most "menacing" men when the beauties challenge the "beasts".

THUR., OCT. 22

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) BOB HOPE'S ALL-STAR CELEBRATION OPENING THE GERALD R. FORD MUSEUM. Guests: Pearl Baily, Debby Boone, Foster Brooks, Glen Campbell, Sammy Davis Jr., Tony Orlando, Gordon MacRae, Mark Russell and Danny Thomas.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR A FEW GOOD PEOPLE

We are conducting an informational REAL ESTATE SEMINAR, Wednesday, Oct. 14, from 7:30-9 p.m.

Some of the topics we will discuss are:

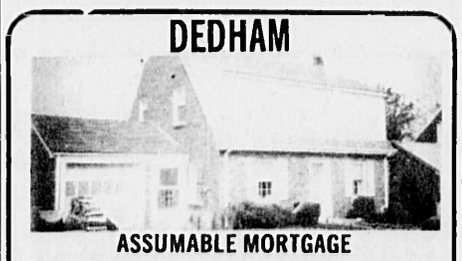

1) What you didn't know about Real Estate
2) How you can make money in Real Estate
3) How you can transfer your skills to a Real Estate career.
4) What the DeWolfe Co. can do for you.

We have Associate positions available in all of our 10 offices and chances are one is close to where you live.

Please call Ken Kowalik at the Norwood office for a reservation by October 13.

1982 NEW CAR PREVIEW

The 1982 Dodge model lineup features luxury and economy

DETROIT - Dodge 400, a brand-new luxury two-door front-wheel-drive coupe with an uncommonly quiet and smooth ride the highlights the 1982 lineup of fine, quality-built automobiles from the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation.

John B. Naughton, Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Chrysler said, "Dodge has some of the best looking and most fuel efficient cars available in the world. We expect Dodge to do very well in the marketplace in the coming year "

Besides the new Dodge 400, the 1982 lineup for Dodge includes Omni, the first American-built front-wheel-drive, fuel-efficient compact; O24, the two-door sporty derivation of the Omni; Charger 2.2, a performance machine with unexpected fuel efficiency; Aries, front-wheel-drive in two-door, four-door, and station wagon configurations; Diplomat, a four-door family vehicle offering good product value; Mirada, a specialty personal car; Colt, a fine fuel-efficient two-door, and the Challenger, a small, luxurious specialty car.

The Dodge 400 is designed to attract an upscale audience interested in style, operating efficiency, luxury, and crisp handling in a mid-size car.

Outside, Dodge 400 is a sporty, front-wheel-drive notchback with a padded landau roof and Frenched-rear window, fender louvres, dual rectangular headlights beside a grille highlighted by the traditional Dodge horizontal bars, and specially-designed low pressure tires.

The front-wheel-drive subcompact Dodge Omni is available in three price classes for 1982 - the high-mileage Miser, the mid-line Custom, and the premium "E-Type." All three models are equipped with 1.7 litre engine and manual transaxle.

The aerodynamic Dodge O24 is aimed right at the sporty subcompact market for 1982 with three agile models ranging from a high-mileage Miser to a performance oriented Charger 2.2.

Aries has been improved, refined, and upgraded for 1982.

The ride is smoother because a new linkless sway bar reduced coil spring rates, and new geometry for the Iso-Strut front suspension improves response and control of Aries' rack and pinion steering.

Aries will be available in three price classes: Aries, Aries Custom, and Aries SE. All three have the 2.2 litre engine and four-speed manual overdrive transmission standard. A Torqueflite automatic transmission, optional with the base engine, is required with the optional 2.6 litre Mitsubishi engine.

Aries is available in two-door and four-door body styles. Custom and SE models offer a station wagon.

The Dodge Diplomat brings a high level os value as standard equipment by providing more features that once cost extra and by adding elements that contribute to quieter vehicle operation.

There are new exterior and interior colors, and a new four-way power front passenger seat. Diplomat will be available in two price classes: Salon and Medallion.

The Dodge Mirada adds new standard equipment, new colors, and new options for 1982.

Mirada has a long list of standard equipment and a number of appearance and convenience options including halogen headlamps, color-keyed luxury steering wheel with woodgrain inserts, and rear bumper protection rub strip, wide ratio automatic transmission, power steering and power brakes, premium wheel covers, tinted glass, up and over roof band, bright molding all around, padded panel and visor, AM radio, and trip odometer.

Expected improvements in the peppy two-door Dodge Colt's mileage make it a good bet to retain the title of America's highest gasoline mileage five-passenger car. Last year the Colt had an EPA estimated mpg of 37 city and highway estimate of 50 mpg.

The Colt is available in base, Deluxe, and Custom versions. The Colt is built by Mitsubishi in Japan.

Technical improvements are expected to boost Challenger's mileage rating for 1982 and a new exterior paint and trim treatment accents the small specialty car's sporty European road car styling.

Technical refinements include new gear sets in the standard five-speed manual transmission and a new rear axle ratio. It also has a new reverse lock-out design for smoother shifting.

CLASSIC LOOKS mark the all-new 1982 Dodge 400 as an upscale, sporty, fuel efficient, front-wheel drive, mid-size personal luxury car that's luxuriously equipped, exceptionally quiet with a remarkably smooth ride. The 400 is available in two versions, the high-line Dodge 400 and the premium Dodge 400 LS.

Ask Brad about cars

By Brad Sears, the Auto Doctor

Brad Sears began his career in the automotive field as a mechanic. He went on to become a service manager and then a shop owner. This led to his almost obsessive interest in the automobile. Since then he has made it his business to learn anything and everything about cars; ranging from antiques to speculating about futuristic models.

Today, Brad puts this knowledge to use in the form of teaching and consulting. He teaches in the Randolf High School, for Sun Electric Corp. in Brockton, and Fort Devens Army Base in Ayer, Mass. Previously he taught in the Blue Hills Regional High School in Canton, Mass. Brad is a certified vocational instructor as well as a certified teacher/trainer for the National Center for Vehicle Emission Control and Safety in Fort Collins, Colorado.

Most of Brad's consulting work is done through the columns he writes, although much is done through his contacts. His columns appear in many newspapers and will now begin appearing in Transcript Newspapers' AutoMart sections. Brad is also heard six times each day on WEEI-CBS radio in Boston.

It is all of the before mentioned talents that have made Brad's opinion one of the most respected in the area.

Dear Brad,

Recommended service intervals are further apart with each new car that I purchase. For instance, a 1978 Aspen recommended oil changes at 4,000 miles and my new 1981 Chevette recommends 7,000 miles between oil changes. I have continued to change the oil and filter at 2,500 mile intervals and have experienced no engine troubles of any kind.

Will you kindly explain is I am wasting

TWO-SEATER SPORT COUPE — The 1982 front-wheel drive EXP - the first two-passenger Ford in a quarter century - is a fuel-efficient sport coupe with handling characteristics and styling designed to please driving enthusiasts. Although the EXP's size and sporty appearance are reminiscent of the classic two-passenger Thunderbird, Ford's newest model has a combination of high-technology features unheard of in the 1950's. The EXP standard manual four-speed transaxle and 1.6 litre CVH engine have projected fuel-economy estimates of at least 28 mpg (city) and 45 (highway). The EXP option list - limited because of the car's high level of standard equipment - includes a flip-up open-air roof, a premium stereo-radio sound system, and leather or shearling-and-leather seating surfaces.

1982 NEW CAR PREVIEW

More elegance from Chrysler-Plymouth for '82

DETROIT - An all new Chrysler LeBaron front-wheel-drive model in coupe and sedan versions, downsized Chrysler New Yorker and Plymouth Gran Fury sedans, continued fuel economy improvement, new features, and engineering refinements highlight Chrysler-Plymouth's 1982 lineup.

The new quiet riding LeBaron is the gem of the fleet.

"with excellent fuel economy and interior room for six people, LeBaron gives the customer the latest and most luxurious in a series of five front-wheel-drive nameplates to choose from among the Chrysler-Plymouth lineup," said John B. Naughton, Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Chrysler Corporation.

These include the mid-size Plymouth Reliant two and four-door sedans and wagons, the compact Plymouth Horizon four-door hatchback and the sporty subcompact Plymouth TC3 two-door hatchback, and "Miser" versions of both, plus the subcompact Plymouth Champ two-door hatchback. All are four-cylinder-engine powered with displacements spanning 2.6, 2.2, 1.7, 1.6 and 1.4 liters.

Fuel economy for the manual transmission versions of these vehicles ranges from 25 to 37 mpg in city drinving to a high of 50-plus mpg on the highway in Miser and Champ models.

Rounding out the lineup is the flagship Imperial, a mid-size two-door luxury car; the mid-size specialty two-door Chrysler Cordoba, and the two-door subcompact Plymouth Sapporo. These plus the new New Yorker and Gran Fury, Plymouth Voyager passenger van, and subcompact Plymouth Arrow pickup are rear-wheel-drive choices.

These vehicles represent 12 nameplates and more than 30 separate models, counting body styles, trim levels, and specialty versions such as the E-type Horizon and the performance-oriented Turismo version of the TC3.

More will follow later in the model year - four-door Champ hatchback, a two-door convertible in the front-wheel-drive LeBaron lineup, and a front-wheel-drive Town & Country station wagon.

A wide range of new or improved features are available in the '82 models: 2.2 liter engine refinements, more energy-efficient engine fans, counter-balanced hoods replacing prop rods, a new linkless sway bar in domestic front-wheel-drive car suspensions, new electronically-tuned radios with "scan" and "seek" control, recliner bucket seats, interior door handles, rocker-type door locks, and new roll-down rear window mechanisms. In addition, more equipment is now standard in many models, there are new options and new premium seat fabrics.

From a safety standpoint, a new feature in the LeBaron is a swing-away grille for damageability protection in impacts up to 5 mph. Emissions control improvements include high altitude compensating devices or high altitude carburetors for engines sold for use in high altitude locations.

All the popular options are available such as air conditioning, speed control, electric rear window defrosters, remote control side view mirrors, rallye instrumentation and sport-appearance features such as road wheels and decor packages; fold down rear seats in hatchbacks and wagons, and power seats, windows, brakes and locks.

The new LeBaron, New Yorker, and Gran Fury replace larger vehicles which are discontinued, but the new vehicles still provide 6-passenger seating and are more fuel efficient.

1982 NEW CAR PREVIEW

Cimarron leads off Cadillac's '82 lineup

DETROIT - Cimarron by Cadillac is a high quality, high mileage automobile for the 1980's.

"Cimarron combines the size, ride, and functional design of fine European road cars with the traditional quality and value of Cadillac," explained Tom Keery, President of Frost Cadillac.

"It's a car that's fuel efficient and fun to drive," he said. "It offers crisp styling and comfortable accomodations for four people in a functional, high quality package."

Prominent dimensions for this foor-door, front-wheel-drive sedan are: overall length, 173.0 inches; wheelbase, 101.2 inches; body width, 65.0 inches; and overall height, 52.0 inches. Curb weight is 2590.9 pounds. While Cimarron's exterior dimensions resemble those of a subcompact, its interior volume index of 101 cubic feet, which includes the passenger compartment and trunk, gives it the roominess of a compact class car.

"Cimarron is a unique addition to the Cadillac family," Mr. Keery said. "A car with a distinctive personality, a new kind of Cadillac for a new kind of Cadillac owner."

Cimarron is powered by a fuel efficient GM 1.8 litre, transverse mounted L-4 engine that is teamed with a standard four-speed manual transmission. The 1.8 litre engine, equipped with GM's Computer Command Control, is designed for spirited, dependable and economic service. It delivers 85 horsepower at 5100 rpm.

The four-speed manual transmission features a fourth gear overdrive. A three-speed automatic transmission, utilizing a torque converter clutch for improved economy, is optional.

Cimarron's exterior design is characterized by clean, functional lines.

Front end styling is highlighted by a chrome-plated, cross-hatch grille flanked by dual rectangular headlamps. Tungsten-halogen high beam lamps are standard.

Cimarron is available in a choice of nine exterior buffed paint selections, including four exclusive color offerings. Dual-color, painted accent stripes are standard.

The Cimarron interior carries through the high quality and attention to detail exhibited by the exterior. It is highlighted by exclusive body-contoured, perforated leather-trimmed bucket seats.

CIMARRON by CADILLAC is a high quality, high mileage automobile that combines the size, ride, and functional design of fine European road cars with the traditional quality and value of Cadillac.

money or if there really is something different about today's lubricants that permits these longer intervals.

Mark Wilkins
Randolph

ANSWER:

I have always been a believer in changing the oil in a car more often than recommended in the book. I believe that in these parts we drive under the most extreme driving conditions in the country. Most of our driving is low speed, never getting the engine fully warmed up. This increases the chances of condensation in the oil pan contaminating the oil.

Next there is a lot of dust and dirt on the roads. In the winter we douse the roads with salt and sand. Now if you check the owners manual for your car you will find that the maker of the car hedges on the oil change interval and claims that under certain conditions that the oil should be changed more often. I think that if you read this list carefully that you will find it describes the driving that we do.

My only comment is that I think I might change the oil filter every second oil change instead of every 2,500 miles.

Still on the subject of oil, remember that the new cars require only the SF grade oil. The SE grade oil that was previously used will not offer the protection the new cars needed.

The S grade on the oil can is the American Petrolium Institute grading on the can and indicates the quality of the oil, not the weight. The SAE numbers on the can are still used to classify the oil as to the weight, with the heavier oil for summer and the lower number lighter oils for winter.

Brad Sears, the Auto Doctor

Dear Brad,

I am the owner of a 1968 Dodge Coronet, which has gone 100,268 miles. The car is equiped with a slant six cylinder engine and an automatic trasmission.

Sometimes my car bucks and actually jumps when I put it in reverse. I try to keep the car in good repair and have few complaints about it. No one seems to know the answer and I would appreciate some help.

Anne O'Gorman
Brookline

ANSWER:

Anne, I think that the problem with your car, a common complaint in Chrysler built cars, is due to a misadjusted carburetor. The idle speed is too high or the fast idle portion of the automatic choke is set too high. I would ask your mechanic to check the idle speed using a tachometer and set it at factory specifications. I would then have him check the fast idle specification for the automatic choke.

Now is there is a clunking noise with the jump into reverse I would have the the mechanic check the Universal joints on the drive shaft for looseness. These should take care of your porblems.

The American Cancer Society thanks you.
Their families thank you.

Up on the roof, he finds sweep magic

Scanlon rescues a cat from the mantle.

Chimney Sweep Mike Scanlon climbs to the roof to clean a chimney.

WALPOLE — A top hat and tails aren't really vital to a chimney sweep's work, but as Mike Scanlon says, it's great entertainment and, just maybe, they bring a little luck.

Scanlon, who has been a Boston firefighter in Roxbury for 11 years and is currently a fire inspector in that city, started sweeping chimneys last year as a way of earning extra money.

Working at night as an inspector, Scanlon spends many of his days sweeping chimneys in neighboring towns — complete with top hat and tails.

"I had to have my own chimney cleaned and the guy wanted $50 for it," Scanlon said about his beginnings as a sweep. He started "looking around" for information on chimney sweeping and discovered the Black Magic Chimney Sweep School in Vermont.

He attended the week-long school last year and "got about a year's worth of experience" from the training. Scanlon's business has "mushroomed" since that time.

Although the part-time sweep has received a good portion of his calls from classified advertisements, many of his customers have been referred by former clients.

> 'I had to have my own chimney cleaned and the guy wanted $50 for it.'

"They see me up on the roof in my costume," he said, "and they become interested in having their chimneys cleaned too."

For most modern-age people, the idea of a chimney sweep conjures up a character out of a Charles Dickens novel and the only one they've actually seen was Dick Van Dyke's Bert in "Mary Poppins."

But, the old-fashioned profession has come back into vogue as the cost of heating homes escalates each year. To offset those costs, many residents are turning toward wood stoves and burning logs in the fireplace is no longer isolated for a romantic evening.

And burning wood is the best way to coat a chimney with dangerous creosote which, if caught afire, could mean the demise of one's shelter.

Although, the need for chimney sweeps has once again surfaced, their reappearance makes it look like nothing has changed since the 1700s.

Sweeps of old generally appeared on the rooftops complete with top hat and tails and those who have taken up the profession are continuing the tradition.

No one seems to know exactly why those ancient sweeps wore such elegant attire for such a dirty job, but many have theorized.

One story goes that European sweeps were so poor they had to beg for clothing and wealthy undertakers were only happy to give them their old castoffs.

Another claims that the sweeps took up the costume in an effort to put their profession in a higher social category.

Still another says top hats and tails just provide good luck.

Gail Scanlon, who serves as treasurer for the business, explained that ancient sweeps, dirtied by their daily work, were said to have hidden from the public eye. If one was spotted it was considered good luck and if the fortunate soul was even able to touch the coat of a sweep the luck was even greater.

Sweeps were also called in to bless a duo during their wedding ceremony as it was thought the blessing could mean a happy life for the new couple.

Scanlon hasn't shown up at a wedding yet and he's not sure the costume brings him luck, but, he said, it's entertaining for the customers.

As a firefighter who has seen what can happen to an unattended chimney, Scanlon is primarily concerned with the safety factor.

"Prevention is the best weapon against fires," he said, pointing out that as a fire inspector he advises daily on prevention methods.

And although he loves being a firefighter, being a chimney sweep is a great second job, he said.

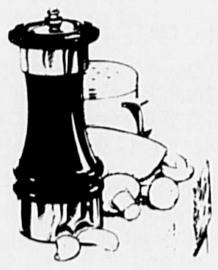

"It's not hard, but it's dirty. And I don't mind the heights," he said. "I like it. I like talking to people."

As a matter of fact, the Scanlon family may develop a tradition of their own. They call their business the Family Chimney Sweep and even though Mike Sr. is the primary grime-attacker, the rest of the family has pitched in on occassion.

Mike Jr., 13, accompanies his father when he's not in school and Scanlon said his 16- and 15-year-old daughters have worked on the rooftops as well.

However, the 8-year-old David will have to wait a few years before he's allowed to don a top hat and tails. But, his father said, his chance will come.

Let's hear it for sour power! Choosing lemons or limes

THE SLIM GOURMET

Calorie-conscious cooking

By

Barbara Gibbons

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Let's hear it for pucker power ... three cheers for lemons and limes! In the Slim Gourmet kitchen, we think tart is terrific. The tangy sourness of these ubiquitous citrus fruits is popular in scores of cuisines. Lemon and lime juice can really turn on the flavor of lots of lean meats, poultry and seafood; it's great on vegetables and salads, too. Sourness really accents the natural sweetness in fruit.

Limes are usually smaller and less tart than their lemony cousins, but both are similar enough to be interchangeable in most recipes; so buy whichever is cheapest. Calorie counts are the same, too: 4 calories per tablespoon. Here are some ideas to try:

LIME-BROILED FLORIDA SNAPPER

1 and one-half pounds red snapper fillets
3 tablespoons melted butter (or margarine)
4 tablespoons lime or lemon juice salt, pepper, to taste
paprika
optional: 2 tablespoons finely minced fresh dill weed or parsley
lime wedges

Thaw fish if frozen. Spray a nonstick pan with cooking spray. Arrange the fish in a single layer. Combine butter and lime juice and spread over the top of the fish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Broil 4 inches from heat source without turning, just until fish flakes easily. Spoon any juices that form over the fish. Sprinkle fish with paprika and minced parsley or dill, if desired, before serving, garnished with lime wedges. Makes six servings, 160 calories each.

ANYWHERE DIET SODA OR MIXER club soda or sparkling water fresh lemon (or lime) wedges packet of sugar substitute (to taste)

If you can't get no-calorie soft drinks in a restaurant, plane or bar, simply ask for plain club soda and several lemon or lime wedges. Sweeten and flavor the soda to taste with the fresh-squeezed citrus juice, and your own personal supply of sugar substitute. A good trick to keep in mind when you're seated in the last row of an airplane, and the flight attendants run out of diet soda before they reach you. Each serving: less than 10 calories.

GREEK SALAD DRESSING

quarter-cup lemon (or lime) juice quarter-cup olive oil quarter-cup olive liquid (from a jar of green olives) quarter-cup water garlic salt, pepper, to taste dried oregano and mint leaves, to taste

Combine ingredients and shake up. Pour over vine-ripe tomatoes and sliced cucumbers (or mixed green salad). For a meal-size salad, add cubes of part-skim feta cheese. Makes 1 cup dressing, 30 calories per tablespoon (feta cheese is 75 calories per ounce).

INDIAN CURRIED CHICKEN BREASTS

2 frying chicken breasts, split
2 tablespoons lemon (or lime) juice
3 tablespoons plain low-fat yogurt
1 to 2 teaspoons mild (or hot) curry powder

Trim any fringe fat from chicken. Blend remaining ingredients and coat the chicken well. Cover and leave at room temperature 30 minutes (or several hours, in the refrigerator). Broil chicken 5 inches from heat source, 15 to 20 minutes each side, until crispy. Makes four servings, under 160 calories each.

ITALIAN STEAK SCALLOPINE

4 "minute steaks" or "cubed steaks" made from 1 pound lean beef round
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons olive or salad oil optional: squeeze of garlic juice
salt, pepper, to taste

Purchase "minute steaks," or make them yourself from lean top round roast, sliced thinly, then beaten with a meat-tenderizing mallet. Combine lemon juice, oil and garlic juice, if desired; spread over steaks. Wait 20 minutes, then sear steaks quickly on a nonstick skillet over high heat. Turn to brown evenly, but don't overcook. Cooking should take about a minute. Season to taste. (Serve with lemon wedges.) Makes four servings, 175 calories each.

Enjoy autumn's harvest and cut your meat consumption

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

Do you want to cut your meat consumption?

You can do so deliciously by making more extensive use of the fall crop of fruits and vegetables. Chances are that you will save money while enjoying a healthier diet.

Why not check some of the new cookbooks for vegetable and fruit dishes? Many interesting recipes have been developed in recent years.

Be careful if you plan to give up meat completely.

In order to offer complete protein, a vegetarian meal usually must combine two or more varieties of fruits, vegetables or grains. That's because most non-animal sources do not contain all the amino acids necessary to make complete protein.

Apples and sweet potatoes naturally go together. One sweet potato contains more than twice the U.S. recommended daily allowance of vitamin A. Apples and sweets also provide vitamins C and B6, potassium and even some iron.

Here's a delicious recipe combining the two that you can serve as a side dish or as a light main course: BAKED APPLES AND SWEET POTATOES WITH CHEDDAR CHEESE

4 apples peeled and sliced
2 pounds sweet potatoes, cooked
¼ cup butter, melted
¼ cup sherry cooking wine
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
Pepper, to taste
Milk or cream

Mash sweet potatoes. Add butter, sherry, orange rind, cheese and pepper. Whip until fluffy, adding enough milk or cream for desired consistency.

Turn into a buttered shallow casserole. Arrange sliced apples around edge of sweets, pushing down in sweets lightly.

Bake in a 400-degree oven until the top is lightly glazed. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A loyal reader really does deserve Abby's very best shot

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've read you faithfully ever since you started 25 years ago and clipped many of the items I thought were worth keeping. I have over 1,200 of them.

One letter signed "Too Late" caused me to visit my elderly mother every day during her last two years in a nursing home, and I will always be indebted to you for giving me the motivation that now permits me to live with a clear conscience.

Why don't you put together a book containing the cream of all the letters that have appeared in your column over the years? It would be a cinch best-seller. — E.S.G. IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR E.S.G.: You must have "ESP." I HAVE put together a book containing the "cream" — it's titled "The Best of Dear Abby" and will be in the bookstores on October 8. The chapter "Encore, Encore!!" contains those letters that were most frequently requested for a rerun. You will be pleased to know that the one signed "Too Late" ranked "numero uno"!

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Never Been Kissed" prompts this: When I was a college freshman, a lovely sophomore girl offered to teach me how to play tennis if I'd help her with her Spanish. I was a shy guy and rather afraid of girls. I had tried a bit of kissing in high school, but derived no particular thrill out of it.

Well, I learned tennis. She learned Spanish and was so grateful she offered to take me riding in her Model-A Ford. We became better acquainted, and one moonlit night we were parked under the tall ponderosa pines of Flagstaff, Ariz. I ventured into a few nervous but delightful moments of petting, when suddenly she stunned me with, "Sam, you can't kiss worth a damn!"

I was terribly embarrassed and all I could say was, "Well, that's the way my mother used to kiss me."

"That's what I thought," she retorted. "Now quit puckering up your lips like a bunch of stiff nerves. Moisten them just a little, then part them ever so slightly and keep them soft and velvety ... like this." Then she kissed me several times. I learned fast and in no time at all I was an expert. — FAST LEARNER

DEAR FAST: Beautiful! That's the best kind of lip service.

DEAR ABBY: You seem willing to let readers air their gripes, so here I am with mine: It's women who get free taxi service because they don't drive. "Mrs. I-Don't-Drive" has been bumming rides for years. All her friends are conditioned to pick her up and take her home, and they don't think a thing of it.

When you ask how come they don't drive, they'll tell you they don't have the patience, or the coordination, or the nerve to drive a car. Or else they say they panic in traffic, or that freeways freak them out.

It's my theory that these women never bothered to learn because it was easier to bum rides. And cheaper, too.

Abby, there are driving schools galore for anyone who wants to learn. And there's no age limit, either. My neighbor came from a foreign country last year and learned how to drive at 62! And look at all the 16-year-old morons who are driving! I've had it with these lazy freeloaders. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. I feel better now. — EDITH

DEAR EDITH: Glad you feel better, but for my part, anyone who panics in traffic, is freaked out by freeways and lacks the patience, nerve or coordination to drive, does the rest of society a favor by not driving.

Bridge phobia runs rampant in San Francisco Bay area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay area is ringed by six major bridges, and thousands of residents break out in a cold, fearful sweat at the mere thought of crossing one of those spans, a group of psychological therapists says.

The fear of crossing bridges — or gephydrophobia — afflicts as many as 16,000 Bay Area residents, the researchers said in a report issued during the third annual Phobia Conference last weekend.

Phobias, according to the experts, are brought on by many different kinds of stresses that exhibit themselves as fear. Because of the large number of bridges in the San Francisco area, they said, it would be common to find that many people fear crossing them.

"Bridge phobia is a common phobia here because the kinds of stresses that predispose people to develop it have more of a chance of occurring here where there are so many bridges," Dr. Nicholas Cummings, a San Francisco psychiatrist said.

"Just as in New York City, the most common phobia is a subway phobia," he said.

Cummings said it is common for the sufferer to at first develop a fear of one bridge in particular, such as the Golden Gate Bridge. Then with time, he said, that fear expands to another bridge and then possibly to the freeway.

One such sufferer is Sally Mendelowitz, a local antique dealer. Miss Mendekowitz said her phobia is so bad she has not left the city limits for more than a year.

The experts said the most common and easiest way to overcome the fear is to join a local group that helps people fight their phobias.

Surgeons are warned of sellers with "new" technology

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Doctors should beware of the seller when confronted with so-called "new and improved" devices for treating patients, a gathering of surgeons was told Monday.

The new technology may be effective and may cost more, but that doesn't mean it has been improved over past methods of treating patients, said Dr. Jere Goyan, a former commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

Goyan compared the high technology market in medicine to that of the car market during the past 20 years — a lot of the models may say they're new and improved when all the manufacturer has really done is change the location of the ignition key, he said.

Goyan, dean of the school of pharmacy at the University of California-San Francisco, spoke during a session, "The Uses and Abuses of Technology," at the 67th Congress of the American College of Surgeons in San Francisco. The conference, the largest gathering of surgeons in the world, continues through Friday.

The high cost of medical care is rapidly forcing people to choose between surgery and such other necessities as buying a home, educating a child or buying leisure time, another panelist said.

"There's no question that technology is good. There's also no question that it's expensive," said Dr. James Maloney of the UCLA.

Goyan, FDA commissioner from 1979 to 1981, said the FDA has authority to keep off the market products deemed unsafe, but no authority to regulate so-called improvements in new devices.

Workshops slated at Sacred Heart

NEWTON CENTRE— Sacred Heart Parish will hold Adult Education Workshops on Sunday evenings, Oct. 18 and Oct. 25 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Well known lecturers from the Boston Archdiocese will discuss five topics each evening, including Old and New Testaments, prayer and morality. A special workshop for high school and college age students will consider sexuality from a Catholic-Christian perspective.

Registration is accepted at the door or by mail to 1321 Centre St., Newton Centre 02159. A single fee covers both programs: $7.50 per person; $5 Senior Citizen; $10 per couple or family. For further information call Father Michael Foster, 969-2248 or Mary Stieger, 969-6081.

Catholic school teacher still fasting

WESTWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — A Catholic high school teacher in Washington Township was in his 20th day of a fast today to protest stalled contract talks between lay teachers and the Archdiocese of Newark.

Peter Keane, 30, a former seminary student teaching at Immaculate Heart Academy in the Bergen County community, began his solid-food fast Sept. 24.

Keane's fast was being monitored by a school nurse and his personal physician. He has lost 8 of his original 130 pounds as a result of the fruit and juice fast.

Keane wrote Archbishop Peter Gerety that he was conducting the fast not as an act of "spiritual terrorism," but to "catch the archbishop's attention."

Teachers at 12 Catholic high schools in Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Union counties have been working without a contract since Sept. 1. Talks broke off with the archdiocese last July.

A state labor mediator's offer of an 8.3 percent pay hike was rejected by the Lay Faculty Association last May. The 100-member association — about one-third of the lay teachers at the 12 schools — is asking for a 10 to 11 percent pay increase.

Starting salaries for lay teachers in the archdiocese are $9,000.

The teachers also want an "agency shop" provision that will charge non-association members 90 percent of the annual $25 association dues.

Summons by publication

David J. Mintz and Robert O. Cummings, Executors of the will of Mary E. Tennis, Plaintiffs vs.

Dorothy Unsworth, the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Francis X. Bellotti, as he is Attorney General of Massachusetts, Defendants.

To the above-name Defendants:

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon John J. Roche, plaintiff's attorney, whose address is Hale and Dorr, 60 State St., Boston, MA 02109 an answer to the complaint which is filed in said Court and demands which appear in this summons within 20 days after November 2, 1981. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you. You are also required to file your answer to the complaint in the office of the Register of this Court at Cambridge either before service upon plaintiff's attorney or within a reasonable time thereafter.

DEMANDS OF SAID COMPLAINT:

1. That this Court determine whether said Dorothy Unsworth has ceased to occupy the premises at 86 Allerton Road, Newton, Mass., as her principal residence within the meaning of Clause Fourth of the will of Mary E. Tennis and whether, pursuant to Clause Fourth, title to said real estate shall revert to the estate of said Mary E. Tennis to be disposed of as part of the residue according to the provisions of Clause Sixth of said will.

2. That the plaintiffs be allowed from the estate their reasonable costs of this action, including attorney's fees.

3. That this Court grant such other and further relief as it deems appropriate in the circumstances.

Unless otherwise provided by Rule 13 (a), Mass. R.Civ.P., your answer must state as a counterclaim any claim which you may have against the plaintiff which arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of plaintiff's claim or you will thereafter be barred from making such claim in any other action.

Tax bills are due out Friday; pay up in 30 days

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON - Residents should receive this year's first tax bill as early as Friday, and they'll have 30 days to pay up, according to City Hall.

The charge will be no higher than one-half of last year's total bill, Budget Director David Wilkinson said this week.

The bill, which in most cases will not accurately reflect a homeowners' true taxes, is binding and must be paid within 30 days. A second bill, to be sent out next spring, will reflect the effect of revaluation and could subtantially differ from the first bill.

Subsequently, the political backlash from the accelerated revaluation is expected to be minimal because the new figures - which will result in higher tax bills for at least a third of the city's residents - will not be released until January, two months after the city elections.

Mayoral candidate Bruce Marquis has charged that Mayor Theodore Mann has delayed revaluation so that the results would not become public until after the election. Mann, however, has defended the city's delay claiming if revaluation was conducted prior to the 1979 passage of the tax classification act, Newton would have been forced to revalue again.

Under the classification law, business properties may be taxed at a different rate than residential properties provided assessments are at full market value.

Failure to pay within the 30-day time frame carries with it a penalty of 14 percent interest per annum.

The city was successful in receiving special legislation to force citizens to pay estimated tax bills. Without approval of the special legislation - which was later approved for 128 Massachusetts cities and towns conducting revaluation - local homeowners could have refused payment of the estimated bills.

Under the general legislation, the city can mail estimated bills about three weeks earlier than it could have under the initial legislation.

Without the legislation, the city would have been forced to borrow short-term tax anticipation notes at 8.69 to 9.19 percent. George Stiglich, assistant treasurer, said Monday the city has about $2 million remaining in the kitty.

The city last borrowed money, $6 million at 3.4 percent interest, in the spring of 1978.

The legislation also provides the city with a working cash flow which allows the city to earn investment income.

"The only thing the delay has cost us is the money we usually invest wasn't there," said Stiglich.

After revaluation the average assessment for single and two-family homes is expected to jump from 700 to 800 percent, according to a report from the city assessing department. The assessment increase, however, will be accompanied by a more than $140 drop in the current tax rate of $171 per $1,000 of assessed property value.

A sales ratio analysis conducted by city assessors shows that most homes in Newton are currently valued at less than 13 percent of their "full and fair" market value.

'T' axes $300; service lost

By Donna Lonbardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL-Officials at the "T" may wrestle with a $349 million budget but when it came to $300 for a bit of public service they just threw it out of the ring.

For the past four years Paul Epstein, 39, of Oak Hill has volunteered his time distributing train and bus schedules to merchants and in public locations around Newton.

Epstein, who has Cerebal Palsy, said he delivered the schedules, "So that people would know where to find them. It's handy to them."

Thomas said he doesn't think Epstein's service should be stopped, as the service could help increase MBTA ridership.

"We're dealing with the MBTA which isn't noted for being particularly responsive."

All he asked for this service, which is unique to the city of Newton, was his gas money, which came to $300 each year for the past four years.

But the "T" officials axed the funds.

Newton is the only MBTA serviced community to have this type of service, according to Charles Thomas, Newton Public Works Commissioner.

"The MBTA isn't going to initiate something like this," he said.

Every four months, Epstein, a life-long resident of Newton, would pick up the schedules at the Public Works Department at Newton City Hall. He then distributed them to some 96 locations.

The $300 Epstein received for the service went just for gas so he could deliver the schedules to places such as Garb Drug in Auburndale, the Newton Police Department in West Newton and Hubbards Drug in Newton Corner.

"It doesn't make sense for the MBTA to cut back a service at a time when ridership is low," Thomas pointed out.

A volunteer for United Cerebral Palsy at its Chestnut Hill location, Epstein is angry that his service will no longer be funded.

"If they've got an annual budget of $349 million can't they find $300?"

Epstein, a toll collector for the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, stated that, "City Hall is now the only place you can get them (schedules)." But he thinks most people will telephone the MBTA for service information. "What are you going to do-have everybody in the city calling the MBTA," Epstein remarked.

Police log at issue

BC paper takes on administration

NEWTON — The Boston College student newspaper claims college officials may be holding back reports of violent crimes, including assaults and attempted rapes, in an effort to foster the image of the suburban campus.

As a result, "The Heights," the independent student newspaper, filed a complaint in Middlesex Superior Court Monday which would give student reporters the right to inspect police logs of the Boston College Police.

"The Heights" has attempted to gain permanent access to the police logs, which contain the day to day activities of campus police, for nearly a year.

The newspaper contends that campus crime is higher than college officials have reported in a state crime report. In 1980, the university reported 27 violent crimes - including three rapes - at the campus, according to the Massachusetts Uniformed Crime report.

Heights Editor in Chief Stephen Reynolds, 21, contends that the incidence of crime may be a lot higher. Reynolds claims the newspaper received reports of a number of sexual attacks and violent crimes last year, but was unable to confirm them.

Reynolds contends that for every three violent crimes reported to the state police another three remain off the record. "It's got to be pretty serious before B.C. will take it outside," Reynolds said.

He acknowledged that the newspaper learned of three rapes last year. However, he said the newspaper has received "sketchy" reports of other sexual assaults that it has not been able to confirm. Reynolds said that inspecting the logs will allow the newspaper to "report accurately on the seriousness of crime on the campus."

"We do have reason to believe that there is a great deal more crime here than the school would have us believe," Reynolds explained. "We don't want the specific names of victims. All we want to know is the circumstances and what exactly has happened in the hopes of bringing these things to light. Maybe something can be done about it."

Reynolds added: "It is impossible for us to report accurately on the severity of crime here and the frequency of crime without being able to check these logs."

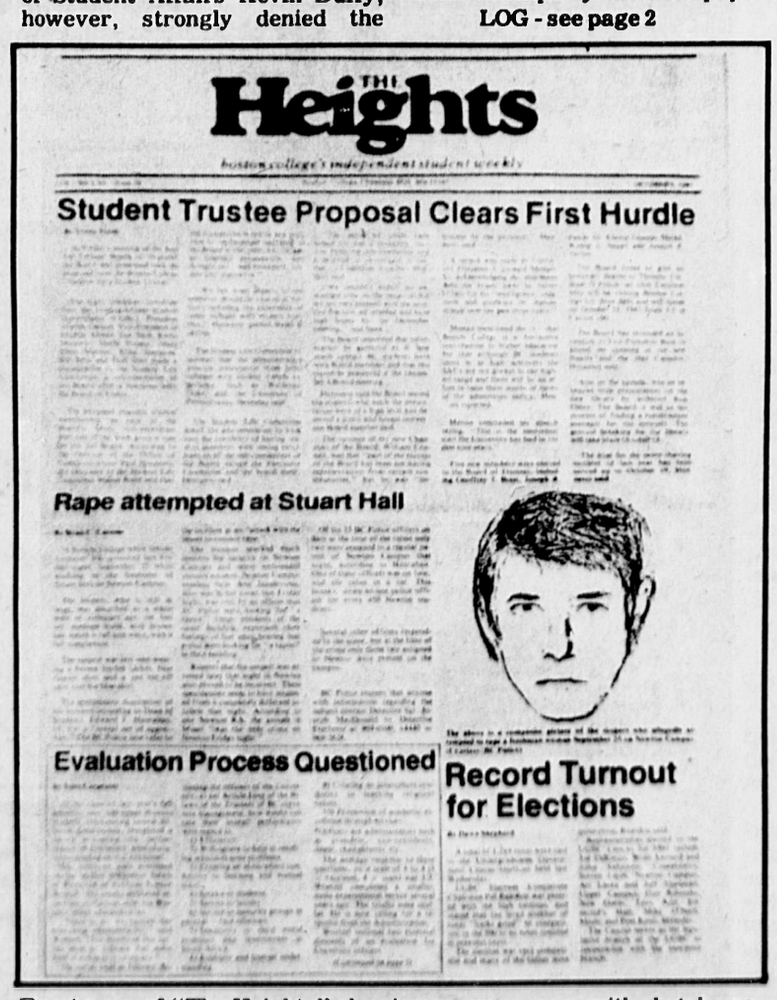

"I don't think there is an organized coverup beyond the fact that the school is concerned about it's image," he said.

Reynolds said the college promotes itself as a "very pretty, idyllic school" removed from the problems of Boston. "Our point is that it is not so safe that people should be completely ignorant about the kind of things that happen," he noted.

Campus Police Chief Kenneth Watson refused to return telephone calls and comment. Watson also refused to comment on a rape at the campus on Sept. 25 when questioned by a News Tribune reporter after the incident.

Boston College Vice President of Student Affairs Kevin Duffy, however, strongly denied the charges and depicted the claims as an attempt by the newspaper

BC suit could set a precedent

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — Stephen Reynolds, editor of the Boston College student newspaper, sits in an office cluttered with newpapers while a rockn'roll tune blares from a nearby speaker.

Reynolds, who is leading the fight to force college officials to allow the newspaper to inspect daily police logs, says there is more crime on the campus than college officials will admit.

"The crux of the matter is we continually get reports in this office about violence, rapes, attempted rapes and assaults, and the details are always sketchy," the 21-year-old college senior insists. "It's impossible for us to report accurately on the severity of crime here and the frequency of crime without being able to check these logs."

The independent college newspaper, "The Heights," filed a complaint Monday charging that the school has violated the state Freedom of Information Law and Public Records law by refusing to grant reporters access to the daily logs.

The case against the university could set a legal precedent. The laws granting reporters access to the police logs of cities and towns has not been interpreted in the case of a department belonging to a private university.

"The issue is not strictly a First Amendment issue or women's issue," he explains. "We just think it's a safety thing. We want to be able to report as precisely as possible to the community. We are the major organ of communication for on the campus. We want to be able to report to people and make them aware if they are in any danger."

Reynolds claims that in one instance he believes a woman on the campus was raped and refused to come forward because she was afraid nothing would be done. He admitted that the police are probably not receiving many complaints.

Editor Elisa Speranza, who spearheaded a probe into campus crime last year, maintains that many students on campus are not aware of the crime problem.

Speranza describes the suit against the college as a "David and Golaith" showdown. "I can see how the courts and may look more favorably on a 150-year-old institution than a group of kids," she says. "But we are very serious about this."

Reynolds says that in order to battle the rising crime on the campus the college needs more police officers, better lighting, and improved security in dormitories.

"I don't think the university is ready to have it's tour groups or parents see an elaborate security system in the dorm lobbies," he charges. "I think they would rather give the impression that this is a safe campus. Our point is that it's time for them to realize that this kind of stuff is needed."

Lois Pines is looking for lt. governor's post

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

Lois Pines is a determined woman — a woman who talks briskly and confidently about changing government and making it "responsive to the needs of the people."

Pines wants to become the first woman elected to statewide office. The 41-year-old Newton resident has quit her $50,000-a-year job as New England Regional Director of the Federal Trade Commission(FTC) to devote all her time to her campaign for lieutenant governor. She is one of between eight and 11 unofficial candidates seeking the nomination.

Despite the long list of lieutenant governor hopefuls - including former Environmental Affairs Secretary Evelyn Murphy, Middlesex County First Asst. Dist. Atty. John Kerry, Pines feels she is the frontrunner. She is the only candidate who has previously run for statewide office.

Pines, who gained statewide recognition as one of the key sponsors of the Equal Rights movement in Massachusetts, was the only woman on the Newton Board of Aldermen when elected and one of only a handful of women when elected to the state legislature in 1972.

With the recent appointment of Judge Sandra Day O'Connor to the United States Supreme Court, women have entered one of the last exclusive men's clubs. Pines may be a public figure for the eighties — a leader whose time has come. She is ambitious and charismatic. Indeed, the hard-working Pines has made it no secret that she would like to become the first woman governor in the commonwealth.

These days, however, she is campaigning hard for the lieutenant governor's seat. Her schedule is filled from early morning to late night. It took more than a week's advance notice to squeeze an interview into Pine's tight schedule.

Pines, dressed in a brown blouse and wool skirt, arrives for the interview late. She apologizes. Wearing a gold chain necklace and watch, the fashion-conscious Pines belies her 41-years.

She says people want a candidate that has the capacity to be effective.

LOIS PINES

"Of all the candidates running," she says, "there is not one that has the experience that I have had. We don't want an individual to come and learn on the job. We need people who have a proven record of effectiveness and a capacity to make things happen in government."

Pines is articulate and concise. She is a tactician who can solve problems as her impressive record as a three-term state legislator from Newton shows. She is a fireball of drive and energy with a talent for getting things done.

A staunch consumer advocate, Pines pushed through legislation requiring mandatory training for ambulance attendants and other public health and safety bills that have moved Massachusetts from the bottom to the top in emergency medical care. In addition, Pines sponsored a number of consumer rights and public interest bills including the sunshine law requiring governmental meetings to be held in public. Her long list of legislative accomplishments is hard to match.

"I think my proven experience of identifying problems, coming up with creative solutions to those problems and then building coalitions to those problems both in th public and private sector is what distinguishes my candidacy," Pines says.

She is intensely competitive. So it isn't surprising that she is running for lieutenant governor after losing the nomination for secretary of state in 1978 by a slim 3,700 votes. Pines was then appointed as regional director of the FTC in 1979 where she focused on a number of consumer advocate issues.

Pines wants to expand the role of the lieutenant governor. She sees the office doing much more than bringing federal funds into the state.

"The office can be as dynamic and productive as the individual who is the office," she exclaims. "If you are committed to doing, being effective, and making government work, the office can be critically important."

Pines sees the office working closely with the state Legislature. "You need to have that relationship and capacity to deal with the legislature," she says. "It's a good thing for the lieutenant governor to be doing."

Pines would also like to make the lieutenant governor's office a central clearinghouse of information and resources that the state's 351 cities and towns can draw from. She maintains the office can aid cities and towns in consumer, environmental and other issues.

She believes the commonwealth needs civil service reform that encourages "creativity and extra-work" by state employees. She is also anxious to bring more business into the commonwealth and has promised to review the state tax laws to make them more attractive to business.

"I think we can do a lot more to make government effective, save resources and maximize those resources we have so they benefit a larger number of people than they presently do," she says.

Pines is also a pragmatic politician. She attacks politics as a psychological science. She says politics is, above all, the art of "persuasion and compromise to get something done to help people."

"I think a lot of politics is personal," she remarks. "It is the capacity of an individual to influence on a very personal basis." She is quick to point to her legislative record as proof of her political skill. "I was able to get people who didn't agree with me, who didn't share my philosophy to agree and support this legislation," she notes.

Pines says she will not support a candidate for governor. But wouldn't the progressive advocate work better with a Dukakis than a King?

"I am confident that I can work with anyone that the people of Massachusetts elect as their nominee for governor," she says.

One of the few failures in Pines' political career has been as the frustrated author and sponsor of the bottle bill which is once again being debated by the legislature and close to passage. The bill is aimed at reducing litter by requiring a nickel or dime deposit on all containers. A confident Pines contends that if she were lieutenant governor, Governor Edward King, who vetoed the legislation in 1976, would sign the bill.

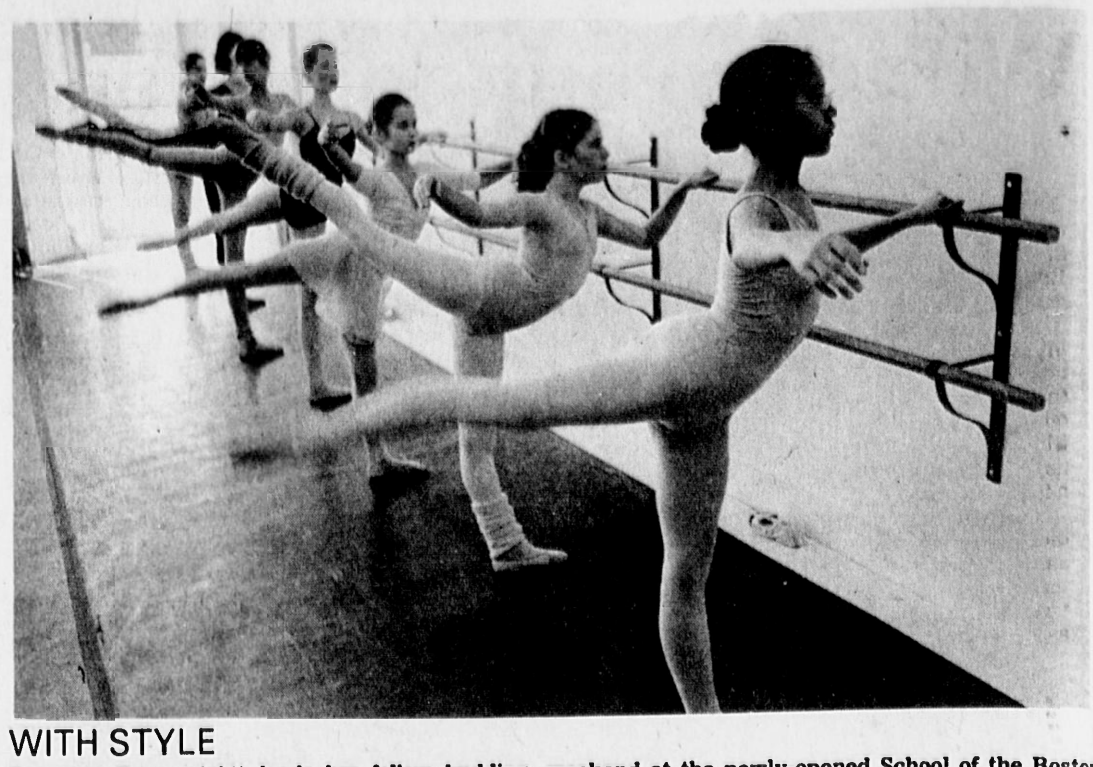

If elected and she disagreed with the governor, Pines says she would not hesitate to take an issue over his head to the citizens and legislature.

"I would be an advocate for those individuals or issues which I felt needed representation," she asserts.

Time and time again, Pines comes back to her record as a politican and legislator. "There is nobody who can meet my qualifications," she says. "And I happen to be a female and I think that's good because women are not properly represented or the women's perspective as a mother and wife is not adequately represented in government generally." Pines, whose husband, Joseph, is a doctor, is the mother of two teenagers.

When you talk to Pines, you get the feeling she wants to use the lieutenant governor's seat as a springboard for future political endeavors. Pines has her sights set on the governor's office.

This year, however, Pines says she simply wants to be "the first woman lieutenant governor."

to gain publicity for the suit to inspect the police log.

"Thus far, The Heights and Mr. Reynolds have provided no evidence that the campus police chief has withheld evidence of crime," he said. Reynolds admitted that the newspaper could not provide specific dates or incidents of crimes that went unreported to the newspaper.

"We have reported everything that has been reported to us," Duffy asserted. "What more can we do?...I have no doubt there are incidents of crime that occur that are not reported to the police. We can not investigate an incident of which we have no knowledge."

Duffy said that the university does not allow the newspaper to inspect the police logs to "protect the confidentiality of both the victims and the accused."

When asked if the college would allow the newspaper to inspect the logs if reporters agreed not to print the names, Duffy said: "We would not release the names to anyone other than the people involved. We have been advised by legal counsel that this is a defensible position."

"The issue is one of total access versus protecting confidentiality of the people involved," explained Duffy. "The other things are a way of drawing attention to the issue and getting the public involved."

Steven Wise, attorney for the student newspaper, said the complaint filed against the college charges that the universities refusal to allow Heights reporters to inspect the logs violates the state Freedom of Information Act and Public Records law.

Although the police logs of cities and towns are public record, Wise said the statutes have not been tested in the case of a private university police force. Wise met with college officials in an attempt to gain access to the logs for the student newspaper, but was unsuccessful.

Newton Police Chief William Quinn said the Boston College force is not required to report serious crimes to the Newton Department. Quinn said he considers the campus "safe" and praised the force.

'T' cuts funding

Paul DiNatale, MBTA spokesman, said he had no complaints about Epsteins performance. "This is not to say that Epstein did not do a trenendous job for Newton," stated DiNatale. He agreed that $300 is a a small sum of money in comparison with the total budget'

But the MBTA chooses to spend its money "directly on transportation, rather than services," DiNatale continued.

Thomas doesn't expect the MBTA to fund Epstein's service. "We're dealing with the MBTA, which isn't noted for being particularly responsive."

Day care for children of N-W Hospital empoyees

BOSTON—The Department of Social Services has signed a contract with the Newton-Wellesley Children's Corner Child Care Center to provide day care services to children of employees of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. The day care services, targeted for AFDC families, are supported by the department and the hospital. Parents contribute to the cost of care on a sliding fee basis.

Dr. Mary Jane England, commissioner of the Department of Social Services, says, "Employers who have started day care programs have found the programs contribute to a reduction in employee absenteeism., tardiness and turnover , while enhancing the corporate image and providing an advantage in recruiting new employees. The development of day care and other pport services lys is an investment which will bring rewards to both the businesses and families of Massachusetts."

Wilbourn supports Gentile in Ward 1

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — David Wilbourn's endorsement this week of Ward 1 School Committee candidate Leonard Gentile could be a decisive factor in that race.

Wilbourn, the loser by 391 votes in the three— way preliminary, received steady support throughout the city and was the only candidate able to chink Gentile's stunning victories on the north side of the city by capturing a few precincts.

In supporting Gentile over candidate Jonathan Brant, Wilbourn said he does not see this as a contest between liberals or conservatives, but "much more purely as a question of representation."

"What is smart for the schools is to have representation for everybody," Wilbourn stressed.

Noting Gentile's impressive victory on the north side of the city in which he captured 2877 votes from Wards 1-4 with Wilbourn getting 1178 and Brant 915, Wilbourn said that people on the north side of the city feel alienated because of a string of school consolidations on that side.

"Whether all the past decisions were right or wrong, I think it's extremely important that they feel they are being heard because out of that will come the enhancement of the constituency of the schools. It is also clear that there is more representation of the north side of the city on the Board of Aldermen," he said.

"With the aldermen having bottom line control, it is quite important that someone on the school committee be able to relate to the board," Wilbourn emphasized.

According to Wilbourn, declining enrollment and the loss of fiscal autonomy to the Board of Aldermen with Proposition 2 ½ means the role of the School Committee has shifted to that of "advocator or saleman, if you will."

"I was asking myself who is going to be in the best position of relating to a broad constituency," Wilbourn said.

Wilbourn said he was impressed not only by Gentile's north side showing, but also by how well he did on the south side of the city especially in Wards 6-8 where he fell only slightly behind Brant.

"Probably very few people on the south side had heard of him (Gentile) before the he campaigned," Wilbourn said of Gentile's door to door campaigning.

Wilbourn also said that Gentile's teaching experience in the Newton schools and and the fact that he grew up in Newton and attended the Newton schools was "a truely valuable part of his background."

"I just judge him (Gentile to be a reasonable person who is open to many points of view. He would not be a divisive person," Wilbourn said. "I think that any repeat of that kind of situation would bode very badly for the schools right now."

Gentile, who spent three years in the Newton schools as a substitute teacher and then as a teacher aide for two years, lives on Emerald St. He has also coached varsity sports in the Newton schools and recently spent two years as a full-time teacher in the Maine public schools where he taught at both the junior high and senior high level.

Gentile currently works as an administrative aide to Rep. Joseph DeNucci, house chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee.

A graduate of Newton North in 1970, Gentile received his degree from the University of Maine where he also earned his teaching certificate in social studies.

Jonathan Brant, a resident of Maple Ave., is a magna cum laude graduate of Brandeis University and a graduate of Harvard Law School. He is currently a practicing attorney and associate professor of law at New England School of Law.

From 1975 to 1980 Brant served as an assistant attorney general under Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti where he handled major cases involving education, including the Chad Green case.

A resident of Newton for eight years, Brant serves on the Ward 1 Democratic Committee, is treasurer of the Newton Toddler Program and has been awarded the 20th Century Award by the Mass. Bar Association.

Marquis scrambles in final days before election

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — When you finish a distant second to a four-term incumbent in a preliminary election, it is not easy to locate new support.

Mayoral hopeful Bruce Marquis, who finished more than 3,500 votes behind Mayor Theodore Mann on September 22, said he has been unable to attain either new funding sources or any aldermanic endorsements since he defeated Alderman Mark White in the run-off.

Marquis, who claims he would have a shot at upsetting Mann if 25,000 people show at the polls on November 4, also looks as though he will fall far short of that number. Election Commissioner Alan Licarie, said Monday the political inactivity in the city may cause him to scale down his original prediction of a 22,000 voter turnout.

"A lot of people who gave us money did again," said Marquis of his campaign financing. "We didn't get the new sources of funding that we expected after the preliminary."

One reason behind the political newcomer's success in the preliminary was money. Marquis, who suffered a severe exposure problem, blitzed the city with $15,000 of political advertising prior to besting White. However, since that time, he has only been able to raise between $5,000 and $6,000. Mann had at least $16,000 remaining in his coffer after his victory in September.

Marquis, who said on the night of his preliminary victory he expected to get between four and five aldermanic endorsements, has been unable to attain the public support of any board members. Some who promised their support "probably didn't think I would beat Mark," noted Marquis.

On the other hand, several aldermen, who remained neutral during the preliminary, have jumped on the rather safe Mann bandwagon. Newcomers to the Mann camp include Aldermen Carol Ann Shea, Ethel Sheehan, Rodney Barker, and Lisle Baker,

"I feel they're afraid of the present administration," said Marquis of the board. "I asked them and several said it would hurt them."

"Look at those who endorsed Mark (White), it obviously says something," he added.

White, who finished 400 votes behind Marquis, received the political endorsement of six aldermen. Mann at the time of his sweeping preliminary victory had only received the support of three aldermen. With the addition of the White endorsement, the mayor has the public support of eight board members.

"I'm disappointed," admitted Marquis over his failure to solicit aldermanic support. "I fully expected to get five."

Although White's endorsements did not play a critical role, Marquis felt aldermanic endorsements give a candidate a "certain level of credibility."

"On the otherhand, it feeds into my anti-political image," Marquis said. "I feel that Mark's endorsement of the mayor has actually helped me."

Marquis, however, was disappointed with White. "One of the strategies of the campaign was not to alienate Mark so I could get his support."

Upon hearing of the White endorsement of Mann, Marquis charged that a deal was made between the two prior to the alderman's endorsement. Both White and Mann have vehemently denied the charge calling it preposterous.

Marquis said he had no specific evidence a deal was made but he "spoke to people who ran in the preliminary election and who were in turn offered deals in return for their support."

"Anyone who has watched this campaign is flabbergasted," said Marquis of the White endorsement. "White has made a career of attacking the mayor."

Monday meeting termed a 'joke' by aldermen in attendance

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Some aldermen considered most of Monday night's regular board meeting confusing, frustrating, a waste of time and even laughable.

Alderman Robert Katz called it a "joke." And Alderman Robert Tennant, who blamed the often indecipherable debate on aldermen vying for press coverage because of the upcoming election, called it the "worst meeting" he has ever attended during his 18-year tenure.

An amendment to an ordinance requiring fees for trash pickup for commercial facilities, apartment buildings and other institutions, was debated for nearly two hours prior to being "chartered."

Chartering, a parliamentary procedure, stops debate on an issue until the next scheduled or special board meeting. Alderman Richard McGrath chartered the amendment.

Alderman Paul Coletti said the handling of the amendment was a clear example of aldermen "not choosing to act expeditiously."

"I think the president should exert more force to see these kind of things don't happen," he said.

The amendment was aimed at improving the wording of the ordinance which has allowed some apartment buildings to be charged substantially less than other buildings of the same size. Buildings with a single address for all apartments, similar in size to buildings with seperate addresses for each apartment, are not being charged by the unit.

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas made it even more confusing by telling aldermen in a committee meeting before the regular board meeting that if the amendment was not approved, trash collection for certain apartment buildings would be jeopardized.

When questioned by aldermen during the regular meeting, Thomas reneged and denied that the service would be jeopardized if aldermen did not approve the amendment.

Many aldermen attributed the confusion and anarchy to the lack of a written report on the trash collection amendment. In addition, aldermen pointed out that the item should have been ironed out in committee.

"The problem is we were trying to do committee work on the floor of the board," explained Alderman Donald Budge. "Everything gets confused. I never saw such a confused board as I saw tonight."

State Rep. Susan Schur, who is finishing out her term on the board, maintained that the inefficiency was due to aldermen "not listening."

Tennant especially criticized McGrath for chartering the amendment to the trash ordinance after the lengthy debate. "It is very inconsiderate of an alderman to charter an item after nearly two hours of debate," he said.

McGrath, however, defended the charter. "There was too much confusion," he said. "There was a verbal report and no two aldermen had the same consensus of what the amendment was about."

McGrath said he chartered the item to give aldermen an opportunity to read a written report on the amendment.

Board of Alderman President Matthew Jefferson, who several aldermen blamed for the confusion, said he felt the meeting went "pretty well" considering the items before the board.

Jefferson emphasized that no alderman exceeded the time allotment for debate on the trash collection amendment. "I give every one ample time to speak," he said. "That is democracy."

The confusion, however, may have been the reason for a number of aldermen leaving the meeting early. Before final votes were taken on several items, Ward 6 Alderman Rodney Barker, Ward 7 Alderman Lisle Baker, Ward 2 Alderman Terry Morris, Ward 6 Alderman Ernie Dietz and Ward 3 Alderman Paul Daley left the meeting.

Japanese artist to hold Kusae workshop in city

By Gladys Damon
Correspondent

The art of "Kusae" was developed 25 years ago when Keiko Hida, a creative Japanese artist, accidentally dropped a box of colored rice-paper onto her tatami floor. She noted the delicate multicolor patterns that resulted from the random arrangement of hues and forms. Her Kusae technique uses bits of naturally dyed, torn rice paper pasted in four layers, creating new patterns suggesting forms in nature.

The literal meaning of Kusae is "grass picture," based on a combination of two Japanese calligraphy characters, so named by the artist.

The art of Kusae is relatively unknown in this country. But for two days next week, the New England members of the Boston chapter of Ikebana International will play host to Keiko Hida of Tokyo, inventor of the new art form, when she comes to Newton.

Miss Hida will be at Temple Shalom, 175 Temple St., West Newton on Tuesday, Oct. 27 at 10 a.m. Members of Ikebana International may attend the meeting and bring their guests.

On Wednesday, Oct. 28, members and the public are invited to attend an all-day Kusae workshop-demonstration from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The fee is $10 for members and $15 for non-members. Miss Hida is coming from Japan especially for this event and the event will be her first and only visit to this area since 1968.

Keiko Hida conducts classes in Kusae at her school in Tokyo, where more than 1000 pupils study her art of collage. There are now Kusae schools in South America, Canada, France, Italy and the United States.

Born in western Japan, she is also a teacher of Japanese dance. During a visit to this country in 1962, she gave a dance recital in Carnegie Hall. She also appeared in San Francisco, Oakland, Seattle, Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago and Toronto, performing traditional Japanese dances. She is also a poet, essayist, calligrapher, photographer and designer of kimonos.

In addition to her Kusae demonstration, Miss Hida will also display many of her original creations, including aprons, pillow-cases and napkins which will be available to the public for purchase as gift items.

A private reception will be held in her honor on Monday at the M.I.T. Faculty Club, attended by the Japanese Consul General, Takeo Igushi and his wife.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Richard Campobello of Weston and Osterville, president of the Boston chapter of Ikebana International, will be the hostess at a cocktail party in her home in honor of Miss Hida.

Other board members are Mrs. Fumiko Masubishi of Arlington. first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Richmond of Newton, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Levine of Marblehead, treasurer; and Mrs. Martin Bernard of Chestnut Hill, corresponding secretary.

Release the city-wide list

The Acton firm conducting the accelerated revaluation of property in the city of Newton is trying to stifle attempts to publish a city-wide master assessment list which could aid homeowners in the appeals process.

It is a textbook case of the public's right to know.

Robert Finnegan, president of the revaluation firm of Finnegan Associates, lobbied aldermen last week saying that he "strongly" opposes release of the assessment list of all homes.

Finnegan's reasoning revolves around his concern that publication of the list does not give final values - subject to change - and that publication would give homeowners a chance to make comparisons, possibly leading to increased discontent and more appeals.

Why bog down the process so early in the game?

The last time revaluation figures were released and published was in 1976 and by most accounts the information was of considerable value in allowing the homeowner to assess the fairness of his or her projected tax committment.

Any homeowner who looks at Finnegan's reasoning, coupled with the fact that his firm is contracted by the city and paid by the taxpayers, should realize he is proposing an unfair and potentially dangerous precedent.

Public access to this city-wide assessment list is imperative.

On ignorance

It is said that ignorance of the law is no defense but the current case of Norfolk Superior Court Judge Herbert Abrams' waffling on sentencing of five men tried for rape puts the saying in a new perspective.

Ignorance of the law by a judge is simply inexcusable.

The men were accused of gang-raping a "former beauty queen" and although the rape charge is in a category of crimes which does not allow the accused to escape a jail sentence, Abrams passed on imposing any jail sentences and instead, opted for a shockingly small fine for the accused rapists.

When a storm of protest surfaced following the sentencing - or lack of it - Abrams reneged on his actions, forcing the defendants into what some legal experts see as a double jeopardy situation.

It is simply incredible on the surface that Abrams was so ignorant of the law that he would allow men, who admitted their guilt, to go free with only a fine. It is of even more concern that his actions have now made it questionable whether the accused will ever be properly tried.

And finally, there should be concern about the judge's overall handling of the case and his published opinion that the rape victim was of questionable character. Such a statement which, on the face of it puts the victim on trial, is a voice from the dark ages of social and judicial history.

Rape is rape and it is high time those accused of the crime suffer the consequences. Abrams' actions make a mockery of the law, a joke of the judiciary and they take us back to the not-too-distant past when rape was considered a woman's fault and a man's excusable desires.

Opinions

My turn

Who said it's an election year?

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

There would be no political year like it.

Disgruntled voters would rally to dismantle Proposition 2½ like injuns around a doomed wagon train. The problems ahead of us in the eighties would force newcomers into the political circle like never before.

Hold it. New lead. Strangely enough, the political cauldron has yet to be stirred.

The city of Newton is throwing a citywide election and almost everyone has decided to stay at home.

Where are the candidates?

In a year when the Newton school system must cut additional resources, deal with continued consolidation, greater student-to-teacher ratios and choosing successors to Superintendent Aaron Fink and Newton North Principal Richard Mechem, six of eight school committee candidates are unopposed.

Is the current school committee that good?

Aldermen, who completely control the city's land use policy, are walking in unopposed. Ten of 24 aldermen, including Michael Malec who walked into Susan Schur's vacated seat without any opposition, won't have to spend a cent to get re-elected.

Are 10 members of the board infallible?

"It totally surprises me," said Election Commissioner Alan Licarie of the disinterest. He surmised that a lack of an issue, specifically in the race for mayor, has fueled the electorate's laissez faire attitude.

The huge gap between mayoral hopeful Bruce Marquis and Mayor Theodore Mann in the preliminary will further drive the expected voter draw lower than originally anticipated.

Licarie, the "Carnac the Magnificient" of city elections admits the Nov. 4 voter turnout could go below 22,000, less than 50 percent of the number of registered voters.

These numbers, mind you, are in a city that turns out between 80 and 90 percent of the electorate for national elections. The numbers don't jibe.

I'm tired of hearing how progressive this city was during the Vietnam era. It's a worn-out laurel.

Complacency, a lack of opposition, breeds corruption. Aside from being apathetic, it's dangerous.

Despite the search for a "major issue," there are issues breathing between the walls of City Hall.

Every time I reach into my pocket for another quarter to pay for parking time in Newton Centre, listen to aldermen raise fees on everything from death certificates to auto dealer licenses, I become infuriated.

Monday night at the full board meeting, veteran Alderman Robert Tennant called these fee increases "backdoor taxes," criticising department heads for increasing fees to make up for lost revenue. Hats off to Mr. Tennant.

People, even in Newton where 49.5 percent of the voted for the message of Proposition 2½, want relief. No one voted for the implementation of citywide user fees. That another city or town has these fees or has rates higher than this city's, does not suffice as a just argument for their implementation.

Add these fees up and they affect every one of us. And how about the traffic problems on Needham St., on Washington St. in West Newton or down in Newton Corner? The answers, or the inadequate responses, come from the board.

These decisions are with us every day in our own community. They are not made in Washington. They are made by a board that is very wary of its constituency and if pressured by the community takes the heat very seriously.

The only time I have seen people in this city come out is when an issue is directly in their backyard. It seems as though the village concept has in ways worked to segregate the collective hold. The Druker proposal was not just a Newton Corner issue, the proposal for the Sidney Hill Country Club does not stand alone, nor does the debate surrounding the erection of a tower for Continental Cablevision. Each village does not operate in a vacuum. A decision in one area sets a precedent for each corner of the city.

Perhaps the valley of lows was this past Sunday when fewer than 10 residents came to listen to the citywide aldermanic candidates at the Grace Episcopal Church.

The aldermen who showed - five invited aldermen did not - were insulted. I too was insulted as were those in attendence. The Ward 7 Democratic Committee was embarrassed.

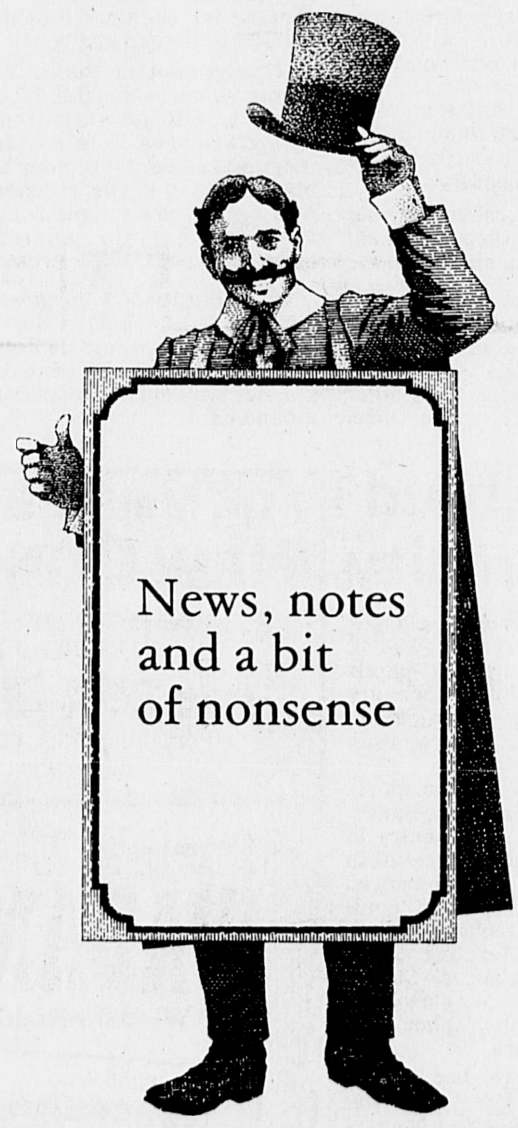

Tom Concannon, a veteran of eight years on the board, said he was "disappointed, but not surprised," with the attendence. The committee had sent out 350 invitations.

Aldermen do not send out invitations for board meetings. They are not required to. People are not required to attend either. But, residents are expected to vote and although this city prides itself on its political consciousness, I am frankly disappointed.

There are too many people who need to be shaken out of their quiet surburban homes. The residents of this city, whether they care to realize it or not, do have the ability to make a difference.

Graphically speaking

Rumors, non-programmers, local monsters

BE PREPARED

In the "a camera in the hand is worth a bird in the bush" department this week it seems one local missed a good photograph when a rather unique picture subject flew the coop.

This local reports that although she has triumphed when scouring the Canadian countryside for moose and the Blue Ridge foothills for wild turkey - always armed with a camera - she was caught empty-handed when a pheasant darted in front of her car on Valentine St. in West Newton Hill.

The bird escaped unharmed.

Who says one has to go to the Blue Ridge Mountains for wild turkey? Some people just go to the local package store.

CITIZEN MANN IN WASHINGTON

Newton's Mayor Ted Mann ventured to Washington last week, flying at least one way with Boston Mayor Kevin White and his always sizeable entourage.

Mayor Mann is chairman of a subcommittee on health for the US Conference of Mayors and he journeyed to Capitol Hill to press for controls on the burgeoning number of medical malpractice suits nationwide.

Other issues raised to the fore by Hizzoner included discussion of the rising cost of health care insurance, nutrition as it relates to school lunches and the ills of asbestos.

Graphically speaking, it sounds like a good trip.

DEAR BROOKE

When Brooke Shield and Marvin Hagler showed up last weekend for a fete by the staff of the Harvard Lampoon in honor of publication of the staff's latest pardody, they were all, we are told, in good hands.

Seems some folks from Newton's own function service, Hostess Helpers, were decked out in white shirts and black ties to serve the luminaries at the event.

BANG, YOU'RE DRY

Speaking of moose hunting (not in Washington, in Canada) seems there's something new on the market spotted in a Newton Highlands store window.

It's a "357 Magnum" hair dryer and it looks for all the world like a six-shooter John Wayne (rest his soul) would be proud to pack.

The only thing is, this one has an electrical cord running out of the handle.

Talk about putting a gun to your head...

RUMORS AND RUMORS

Mayor Mann dispelled rumors last week on the possible closing of the Manet Road fire station in Chestnut Hill, noting that he had "no plans right now" to shut down the fire house.

Alderman Mark White asked Fire Chief Edward Reilly about the rumors in a recent Public Safety meeting and like Mann, Reilly denied all those tales.

Reilly said however, the station's closing was originally recommended with the implementation of Prop 2 1/2 cutbacks. He said the theory behind the recommendation was the vicinity of three engine companies within a mile radius of the Manet Rd. station.

Sometimes, when there's smoke, there really isn't a fire.

WHAT'S A NON-PROGRAM?

Our society writer, Ann Carter, taught Graphically speaking something new this week.

Ann was working over some press releases and compiling the Graphic's club and social news when she noted one local organization (which shall remain unnamed) announced a couple of recent appointments.

One person was named vice-president in charge of programming and another was named vice-president in charge of non-programming.

Sounds like they might be working at cross purposes.

QUARTER CENTURIONS

Stop & Shop Companies will induct some 110 new 25-year employees into its celebrated Quarter Century Club this week at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Among those honored is Albert Frager of Waban.

Graphically speaking sends out congratulations on the first 25 and wishes you a good 25 more, Al.

B STAMP, C STAMP

Time to learn your ABCs all over again

As of Nov. 1 those 18 cent stamps you've been hoarding won't even transport your first class letters from the Highlands to Newtonville.

Stamps are going up to 20 cents and the new ones will be designated with the letter "C", just so you don't get them confused with the old 18 cent "B" stamps.

One of these days the postal service will realize that for the cost of one stamp, you can make two phones. But don't tell the phone company that.

MS. MUSINGS

Congratulations to Newton resident Joe Pleck whose book "The Myth of Masculinity" just came hot off the presses of MIT Press in Cambridge.

Joe's book earned some excellent reviews from such folks as Jean Baker Mills of the Wellesley College Department of Psychiatry and Robert Brannon of the psychology department of Brooklyn College.

Ms. Magazine editor Letty Cottin Pogrebin was perhaps best in her review of the book when she noted "Joe Pleck's (book) is an extraordinatory feat of synthesis, analysis and original thinking.

"It will be the touchstone for all future scholarship on the male sex role."

"Pleck is a pioneer," she wrote.

Sure can't do any better than that.

BARNEY KEYNOTES

US Rep. Barney Frank is slated to give the keynote address at the annual fall conference co-sponsored by the Mass. Association for Children with Learning Disabilities and the Curtis Blake Child Development Center of American INternational College.

Frank's talk will be on "the impact of Reagonomics on education for the handicapped."

The conference is slated for Oct. 31 so if you wanted to see Barney on that day you'd better leave a message.

BARNEY REDUX

Barney's really keeping busy in the area these days.

Even before he heads out to the conference in Framingham he's slated to appear as guest speaker for the Oct. 28 Charles River Watershed Assoc. meeting.

This week's issue of the CRWA's newsletter "Streamer" notes that Barney will speak "on the subject of keeping a river moving t with dried up budgets."

That's an editor's dream to come up with a phrase like that.

The "Streamer" is really a fine little newsletter full of CRWA issues, goings-on and concersn for the public to ponder.

Among the tantilizing sub-heads in the October newsletter were such things as "Dues and don'ts", "Shore-ing up the Charles," and "Seconds on minutes," a brief about the group trying to get on the mailing list for area Conservation Commission meetings.

We shore do like that newsletter.

WARE'S COVE MONSTER

There's Champ the monster in Lake Champlain and Nessie in Scotland's Loch Ness.

But the folks around Ware's Cove in Auburndale must have blinked their eyes twice recently, wondering if they had a monster of their own.

The CRWA noted that one recent night out on the river appeared a very odd vehicle with a pair of protruding arms. To top off the image, manning the beast were men in strange gear.

But do not fear. It was just the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife staff completing its fishing survey of the Charles.

Seems the bass are easier to count at night and the strange craft was just there counting fins in the Lakes District, a prime bass habitat.

Jack Dixon of the division noted after the study that he feels the Charles is an under-used and under-appreciated fishery.

Okay Jack. We have a bucket of minnows and a couple of Jitterbugs. Where are the best spots?

PRODUCTIVITY

This Sunday at noon on Channel 5 there will be a broadcast of the special Boston pre-election show "The Race for the School Committee: 1981" about those folks in the big city vying for school board slots.

The 90-minute special, hosted by Joe Day and former Boston deputy mayor and former MBTA chief Robert Kiley, will be a forum for candidates to discuss a variety of issues relating to Boston's schools.

The thing Graphically speaking is most proud of is that Newton resident Margie Arons-Barron co-produced the show with colleague Judy Stoia.

As our fellow columnist at "the Eye" in Boston would say, a must-see, for certain.

IMPATIENCE

Apparently Alderman Edward Richmond doesn't like to hang around. Last Sunday evening at the Ward 7 Democratic Committee sponsored candidates' night, the alderman from Ward 2 was a bit indignant at having been placed last on the night's agenda.

According to two sources, Richmond "felt it was an imposition to stay the whole time." The order, which was lottery drawn and placed the at-large candidates from Ward 2 last, was subsequently altered to accomodate Richmond so that he spoke fourth.

BIT OF NEWS

Board of Alderman President Matthew Jefferson had some news for former Alderman Mark White at the most recent board meeting.

White, a former mayoral candidate knocked out of the preliminary, was politicking with Alderman Robert Tennant during the meeting when Jefferson jabbed: "Alderman White the campaign is over!"

Letters to The Graphic

Wilbourn backs Leonard Gentile in Ward 1

To the Editor:
The first purpose of this letter is to thank all those who supported and worked for my candidacy in the recent School Committee preliminary election. Running as an independent without traditional backing, we worked hard and came close.

While disappointed at losing, I'm not sorry that I ran. It was a great pleasure to meet so many people of Newton, and to make so many new friends.

My concerns about maintaining quality public education – despite the financial pressures – are widely shared. In contrast to the six uncontested School Committee seats, the Ward 1 contest gave all the candidates an opportunity to sharpen their understanding of the issues.

My second purpose in writing is to respond publicly to the many who have asked my choice between the remaining Ward 1 candidates, Jonathan Brant and Leonard Gentile.

I have talked to them individually, and, of course, heard them speak in the various public forums during the campaign. Clearly, the strengths that the two candidates would bring to the School Committee are very different. Without deprecating Brant's strong legal background and ability to analyze the issues, I believe that Gentile's background and abilities are better suited to the changing role of the School Committee.

Parents of school age children are now a minority in Newton because of declining enrollment. At the same time, fiscal autonomy has been taken away by Proposition 2 ½.

These changes thrust the School Committee into the vital role of building a new constituency for public education. It is essential to broaden the base of support for our schools, not only by making sound decisions, but by actively seeking all points of view in reaching those decisions.

Gentile represents a substantial group of voters who currently feel themselves unrepresented on the School Committee, as evidenced by his wide margins on the North side of the city. I think they should be heard and represented because their support of school programs and budgets is absolutely necessary.

At the same time, Gentile showed himself to be a candidate with appeal to a wide cross section of Newton voters, and did unexpectedly well on the South side. Leonard presents different points of view effectively, and without rancor. On the contrary, I think he will facilitate communication among the various sections of the city.

With school closings apparently at an end, it is time to heal the scars from past consolidations, as well as from the ideological battles of the past.

All of us have a stake in quality public education, and it is time to pull together to strengthen it. For these reasons, I support Leonard Gentile for the Ward 1 School Committee seat.

'Adminster the laws' on rape

To the editor:
In common with many in the Boston area I have read with growing disbelief the reports of Judge Herbert Abrams' multi-rape sentencing. Governor King's comment that, "it is time for a fundamental shift in our criminal justice system because all too often the police and prosecution are being placed on trial," strikes home a fellow-feeling.

More letters on page 12

There is the bare chance that this case could become a landmark in judicial history.

However, the verdict itself taught us one thing. It is shocking proof that there are still people in America today who believe that women alone are to blame when, to quote defense attorney Stephen Hrones, "Things get out of hand."

The victim in this case was a former beauty queen. She is left in physchiatric care as a ptential suicide risk. Her assailants are admonished by a verbal slap-on-the-wrist and a five-dollar-a-month fine.

It takes little imagination to recognize the trauma that any rape (i.e. unwilling sexual encounter) must inflict on a woman. But a gang-rape is bestial, second only to taking human life.

The increasing number of reported rapes in the Boston area, both singly and by gangs, makes it obvious that we are becoming conditioned to lenient judges, cynical juries and a system that puts convicted rapists back on the streets within weeks. Often all that is needed is the promise of psychiatric counselling!

In an unprecedented historical reversal women are once more becoming the victims of man's frustrations and anger, much as in the days of ravaging armies and ruthless mercenaries. And twentieth century society, by its very silence, accepts and approves.

I would suggest that pro-life and pro-abortion groups cease their feuding over the unborn and join forces in demanding greater protection for the living. The necessary laws are already on the books, it merely needs the courage and conviction to administer them.

Fewer concerns voiced

Revised plan submitted for Sidney Hill condos

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON - The firm converting Sidney Hill Country Club into luxury condominiums last week presented the Land Use Committee with a revised proposal of almost 100 units less than the original plan which raised a storm of protest from area residents.

The new plan calls for construction of 112 units in two four-to-six-tiered buildings.

Although the proposal represents a 43 percent reduction in density, down 95 units, from the original five-to-ten-story-tiered buildings, some residents of the area continued to find the redevelopment proposal an inappropriate use of the seven-and-one-half acre parcel.

Residents' concerns, however, were considerably more subdued compared to the furor raised by the first plan put forth by the developer five months ago.

If approved by aldermen, the project would bring the city about $810,000 in added tax revenue. The parcel currently generates $90,000 in property taxes.

Howard Levine, attorney for Chestnut Hill Development Corp., said the new proposal was economically the "bottom line" (in regard to the number of units) because of design problems with the $3 million parcel. According to Levine, the units will start at $115,000 and go as high as $400,000.

"It can't be done without a greater impact on the neighborhood," said Levine. "This is the most compact, visually pleasing design we can come up with."

Parking for the complex would be provided by a 245-stall garage, a portion of which would be underground and 52 surface parking spaces. According to Developer Jeffery Kosow, tenants of the complex would be entitled to two underground stalls with the outside spots reserved for transient parking.

The petitioner is seeking aldermanic approval to re-zone the property from a Private Residence District to a Residence F District as well as a special permit to construct the proposed development.

Local residents in opposition to the proposal said they feared the impact of such a complex on the traffic on to Florence Street (Sidney Hill abuts Florence); the precedent that a zone change could possibly have on a future petition drafted by the owner of the adjacent Spezzano Farm, which is about twice the size of the Sidney Hill parcel, and the height of the complex.

Alderman Robert Katz, who has been in the middle of negotiations between the neighborhood and the developer, thought the concept was "reasonable."

It was Katz who said on May 11 that he was "shocked" by the magnitude of Chestnut Hill Development Corporation's first proposal.

"The smaller it becomes, the fewer are their concerns," noted Katz of the residents' arguments.

The alderman from Ward 8 addressed the Land Use Committee in the public forum and noted there were many people in the audience who were undecided on the merits of the plan but appeared at City Hall to show their concern for the future use of the parcel.

To comply with the city's 10-percent ordinance, the petitioner has proposed to donate five one-bedroom units to the Newton Community Development Corp. as well as hand over an undetermined sum of cash to the corporation.

Referring to fear of a precedent-setting development on the south side of Florence Street, Katz noted that each petition in front of the board is "always taken separately."

"It should enter into the discussion but it's not the major issue involved here," Katz said of the Spezzano Farm debate.

Other site features in the proposed redevelopment would include fountains, formal gardens, and a recreation area to the rear of the site. Both the pool and the health club would remain as amenities.

The Land Use Committee, upon review of the proposal, forwards a recommendation to the board of aldermen. The 24-member legislative body in turn rejects or approves the plan via the rezoning request.

Residents protest refusal to release list

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — A number of local residents last week strongly criticized the firm conducting an accelerated revaluation of the city for refusing to release a city-wide master assessment list.

Finnegan Associates, the firm conducting the revaluation, has objected to releasing the master list which could aid homeowners in informal appeals with the company and assessors. Finnegan officials do not want to release the list until the informal hearing process is completed.

In a forum on revaluation at the First Baptist Church, residents argued that they would not be prepared for a hearing without the list which would encourage comparison of assessments. Approximately 100 residents attended the forum.

"If we are only given the information at the hearing, how are we supposed to make a case?" asked Peter Lieberman. "This is ridiculous," followed another disgusted Newton homeowner.

Several times during the forum, President of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce Lewis Songer, who acted as a moderator, asked the unruly crowd to hold their objections to the company's policy on releasing the list.

"I think people feel there is no way they can judge if they are fairly assessed if they don't have comparable values," Songer explained. "There has been a precedent set here." During the last revaluation in conducted in Newton in 1975, the city wide assessment list was published before the hearings.

When the list was released, angry residents stormed City Hall protesting the assessments. The revaluation, which resulted in 35 percent of all homeowners appealing, was not implemented after the uproar.

Under repeated questioning from residents, Robert Finnegan, president of the firm, said the company "owns the data" until the project is completed and certified by the state Department of Revenue. He said that his attorneys are investigating the city's request to release the list on the $860,000 contract with his company. Finnegan maintains that the company's contract does not require the firm to release the list.

Finnegan is apparenly fearful that the city wide assessment list will result in a drastic increase in appeals. He noted that the company would "be happy to share the list" with residents at an informal hearing.

Finnegan also emphasized that the firm has never released such a list in any of the other 200 revaluation projects they have completed. "It's an unkown factor," he noted.

"I think it is a smokescreen and an artificial defense to say that there are unknown quantities," shouted a resident.

The City Solicitor's Office is also reviewing the contract in a possible attempt to force the company to release the city wide list. "We are not oppossed to this information being supplied to taxpayers," Newton Chief Assessor Harold Brady told the crowd. "We feel this should be at specific points throughout the city."

The accelerated revaluation being conducted by Finnegan, which is scheduled to be completed by Jan. 1, will bring all real estate to 100 percent full and fair cash value.

Alderman also favor disclosure of the list. The Finance Committee Tuesday night unanimously recommmended that the city wide assessment list be published as soon as possible.

Alderman Richard McGrath, who attended the forum, said the assessors should have specifically requested that the list be released in Finnegan's contract.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee on Revaluation has recommended that preparations be made immediately to publish the list (alphabetical and by street names). In addition, the committee has recommended that each homeowner receive with notification of proposed assessment in December the tabulation of five comparitive sales being compared by Finnegan.

Finnegan plans to release the five comparitive sales figures only when residents come in for an informal appeal.

When asked by a resident for his refusal to publish the list, Finnegan said: "In a project as tight as this, there is no time for experiments...It could have the effect of creating a situation where we could not finish the contract on time."

Finnegan has completed the data collection to establish assessments and is currently generating the assessments through the use of a sophisticated computer process. Residents are scheduled to receive the new proposed assessments in December.

City Budget Officer David Wilkinson, City Assessor Robert Palmer and Finnegan Project Manager Thomas Polzella briefly addressed the crowd and answered questions on the revaluation. The forum was sponsored by the League of Women Voter's in cooperation with the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

Upper Falls residents question cable tower

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

UPPER FALLS—Upper Falls residents are circulating petitions in an effort to stop the possible installation of a cable TV tower on Tower Road in Upper Falls. According to Gail Brady, about 100 residents have signed a petition to protest the plans by Continental Cablevision Company of Newton Centre, which is negotiating with the Regis Paper Company for a lot of land as its tower location. Brady, a member of the Historic Upper Falls Village United (UFVU), said the initial reactions by local residents has been negative. "We already have five towers in the area. We don't want another one," said Brady.

Residents opposed to the plan say that Upper Falls, because it borders on an industrial area, is often treated as an industrial community. Jane Helkison, a HUFVU member stressed that Upper Falls is a residential area.

"If other residents don't want something, then they'll stick it in Upper Falls," said Helkison, who added that people think Upper Falls is an industrial area.

Cablevision originally wanted their Newton tower site at the Newton-Andover Theological School. UUUUUUU But residents also opposed that plan.

"It (U pper Falls) is a lower economic area and we're trying to improve it," said Helkison, who is concerned that the tower and cable lines will lower the value of Upper Falls property.

"I'm sure it affects our property value," said Helkison. She added that one of her neighbors has been unable to sell his home because cable wires are running through his backyard. According to Helkison, he neighbor feels it's one of the reasons why three years he hasn't been able to sell his home.

According to Helkison, another Upper Falls resident, Thomas Wallace, complained for many years about the radio and television interference from the other towers.

Myrna Malec is concerned that the amount of microwaves transmitted from the towers is already too high. "It's not a good thing for Upper Falls or the surrounding communities," said Malec.

a recent Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) study shows that the level of radiation from microwaves in Upper Falls is lower than the national standard. But Upper UUUUUUUUU in Upper Falls is lower than the national standard. But Upper Falls residents point to the fact that by European standards,

According to Michael Muran, Cablevision manager, the tower that the company is negotiating to place in Upper Falls wouls be a receiving tower, not a transmitting tower. So the amount of microwaves transmitted would be about one watt. "There's absolutely no transmission being planned at the installation stages of the system," he said. Musen added that any transmission in the future would be used to add more program services for Newton.

Aldermen favor disclosure

NEWTON — Despite objections from the company conducting the accelerated revaluation, many aldermen believe that a city wide assessment list should be published as soon as possible.

"I think public access is the most important thing involved in revaluation," said Alderman Bruce Carmichael. "The public is acutely aware of what is going on and they want to be kept informed."

"When you are paying a company nearly $1 million, you want to make sure that all information is available to the people," he added. "If the list comes out at the last minute it will cause a major uproar."

"I am in favor of letting the public in some way view the list," agreed Alderman Ernie Dietz, adding that the list could be published in newspapers or posted in libraries.

"I would prefer that any and all information be made public," said Alderman Robert Tennant. "All information should be given to the public."

The Mayor's Advisory Committee on Revaluation also agreed that a city wide proposed list of assessments should be made available to the public.

Finnegan Associates of Acton fears that releasing the city wide list could result in a sharp increase in assessment appeals.

In a report to aldermen, the mayor's advisory committee recommended that preparations be made immediately to publish the list. "We have considered the argument of Finnegan Company and agree that secrecy might be more efficient," the report read in part. "We are uncertain whether their fear of greatly increased appeals in case of full disclosure of the tentative assessments is justified. Finnegan Co. representatives have stated they never publish tentative assessments since they expect trouble. But if this is true, they would not know what the results of the full disclosure would be."

Peter DiFoggio, chairman of the mayor's committee, said: "We want to give the residents of the city of Newton all the information possible on the revaluation process."

Richmond said that he does not believe getting the city wide assessment list from Finnegan will be a problem.

"I am not concerned at all," he explained. "I don't see it as a major problem. If we want to get it, we'll get it."

Historic homes are on tour

AUBURNDALE — On Sunday, Nov. 1, eleven of this historic area's loveliest, most interesting homes will open their doors in a tour sponsored by the Auburndale Community School. The tour will begin at 1 p.m. at the beautiful United Parish of Auburndale (corner of Woodland Road and Grove Street), within comfortable walking distance of the homes featured on the tour.

Music and refreshments will be offered at the church after the tour. Residences will close promptly at 5 p.m.

Register for "Auburndale Has Style" by mail using the form in your Newton Community School Catalogue or in person at the Auburndale Star Market on Thursday, Oct. 15, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Registrants will pick up their tickets at the church before beginning the tour. A limited number of tickets may be available on tour day. A complimentary shuttle bus will be available for senior adults by reservation.

For more information, phone 969-0641 or 552-7118.

Solar homes were sunny spot in day

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON—George and Susan Kimball knew they would be using solar energy two years ago they built their Auburndale home, so the cost of their solar installation is figured into the overall cost to build their house

Because they've never used any thing but solar energy to heat their home, the Kimball's don't know exactly how much they're saving by not using gas or oil. But George Kimball estimated that he is probably saving about $1200 by using a solar heating system.

The Kimballs are among some 35 families throughout Newton to use some form of solar energy, according to Virginia Taplan, a Newton Conservators member. The Conservators, a group interested in promoting solar energy and conservation in Newton, last Saturday sponsored a "Solar Tour of Newton Homes," during which 10 solar homes were featured.

"We chose the ones that we thought were the most interesting," says Taplan,who spent the better part of Saturaday visiting homes on the tour and answering questins for interested residents.

Newton has been slow in installing solar energy systems in its homes, partly because of the quantity of older homes in Newton, not suitable for this type of a system. A house may not be facing the right direction, for instance, or people may not want to destroy a charcteristic unique to the style of their home.

But for most people now, even those who have already installed some form of solar run energy system, the cost is too high.

The federal government allows a 40 percent tax credit, and the commonwealth gives a 30 percent tax break after the system is instasll-ed, many peole can't afford the initial investment, and there are no low intersest loans available to invest in a solar project.

For example, George Kimball estimated that the overall cost of his system to be nearly $10,000.

Vernon Pais, a West Newton homeowner, has a system for domestic hot water, but not one that heats his house, because he feels it's too expensive.."It's enormously expensive," says Pais, a doctor at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton. Pais says he saved about $900 by insulating the pipes himself.

Harvest fair is this Saturday

NEEDHAM — The United Methodist Women's Annual Harvest Fair will be held on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Carter Methodist Church, Needham Heights.

In addition to handcrafted fall and Christmas items, there will be Vermont Cheddar cheese, baked goods, white elephants, a silent auction and a gourmet luncheon.

Bids for the silent auction items and services must be submitted by 1 p.m. with winners being announced between 2 and 3 p.m.

The luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 1:30. Tickets for the luncheon may be purchased at the door for $2.50.

Call 449-1886 for more information.

Round table on education continues

NEWTON — The Round Table on Education, a committee of the PTA Council, continues to sponsor a series of discussions of Newton School Programs.

The meetings provide an open forum where parents can explore issues of interest with administrators and teachers. All meetings begin at 8 p.m. and are held in the Bigelow Junior High School Library, Newton Corner. For information, call Patie Berkman, 965-0678.

Meetings will be held:

On Oct. 29 "The New Social Studies Curriculum, Grades K-6." Ed Lerner, Social Studies Coordinator, and several teachers will present an overview of new curriculum developed over the last two years.

Unemployment to crossing guards is questioned

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Several aldermen Monday night protested the payment of unemployment compensation to school traffic supervisors and school nurses this summer.

Despite the protest, aldermen approved $32,000 to pay the unemployment compensation at the request of City Personnel Director Edith Meisser. Aldermen, however, requested that state Rep. Susan Schur investigate the possibility of special legislation which would stop traffic supervisors from collecting unemployment during the summer.

"I can't believe traffic supervisors get unemployment compensation," said Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond. "It seems preposterous."

"This is ludicrous," agreed Alderman Donald Budge.

Richmond said that the supervisors were only seasonal employees and should not be allowed to pick up the unemployment tab.

Under employment and security law, Meisser said that the traffic supervisors would have to be classified as school employees to be refused unemployment. The traffic supervisors are currently under the Police Department.

Meisser said that the nurses were given unemployment because of a decision by Health Commissioner Bernice Joyal to cut back the work weeks of the nurses in the wake of cutbacks forced by Proposition 2½. She claimed the nurses would not receive unemployment next summer.

Several aldermen initially suggested that the supervisors be put under the School Department. Budge, however, pointed out they would not receive the proper coordination, supervision and training under the school system.

In addition, the traffic supervisors are part of the police union which could hamper a move to put them under the School Department. Meisser said that 45 traffic supervisors and 17 nurses collected unemployment this summer.

In other action, aldermen voted to raise license fees for automatic amusement machines and common victualers licenses. The board also approved fee hikes for licenses for lodging houses (from $20 to $50 per unit) and auto dealer licenses (from $50 to $100 annually).

Alderman Robert Tennant called the fees - "backdoor taxes."

Noting that many fees and licenses have been instituted and sharply raised since the passage of Proposition 2½, Tennant criticized city department heads for increasing the fees to make up for lost revenue.

Aldermen also approved an item to reinstall 37 meters removed in 1977 from Washington St. between Walnut St. and Harvard St. with a restriction prohibiting parking daily from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

AG asks Kiwanis to halt ticket sales

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The state Attorney General's Office has requested that the Newton Kiwanis Charitable Foundation suspend sales of tickets for a raffle of a $64,000 Plymouth home and Kiwanis officials are pondering whether to comply or go to court.

The Newton organization, which kicked off the raffle in September, is currently selling the $100 raffle tickets for a chance to win a four-bedroom garrisson colonial house two blocks from the ocean in Manomet.

The raffle is a massive fundraising effort to help needy children throughout the state. The organization, dedicated to helping disadvantaged children, was expecting to raise $40,000 from the raffle.

Paul Merry, an assistant district attorney in the Public Charities Division, requested that the organization suspend ticket sales Friday.

Robert F. Tennant, a West Newton Attorney representing the Kiwanis, said the organization will decide within the next several days to either comply or battle the order from the Attorney General. Tennant, a Kiwanis member, will meet with the organization's Board of Directors this week.

The Attorney General's Office has obtained a temporary restraining order to prevent a fund raising house raffle by the Hudson Boys Club. The state agency has charged that the Boy's Club has violated state gambling laws.

Tennant said that the organization has attempted to comply with all laws and provided the Attorney General with a number of documents on the raffle. He pointed out that the organization asked for the Attorney General's assistance in setting up the raffle, but received no help.

The raffles must comply with extensive state gambling laws and are being scrutinized closely by the Attorney General because of the large sums of money involved.

The Kiwanis raffle is one of six house raffles that the Attorney General is investigating. With soaring interest rates and the high cost of purchasing a new home, the Attorney General's Office is concerned that developers may use the raffles as a means of selling homes that have problems and could not be sold otherwise.

Newton police reports

NEWTON — About $1100 in stereo equipment and $110 in cash was reported stolen from a Commonwealth Ave. home Monday morning.

Although there was no sign of forced entry, police said the front door was found closed, but unlocked. The break-in at the home in the 1900 block of Commonwealth Ave. occured sometime between 8 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Monday, police said.

A home in the 1000 block of Beacon St. was also discovered ransacked Monday morning and police said the theft occured during the same time period as the Commonwealth Ave. break-in.

Police said a window to a rear door had been smashed to gain entry and that jewelry of unknown value was missing.

NEWTON — A two-car collision at the intersection of Centre and Gibbs Sts. resulted in four people being taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital Sunday night.

No citations were issued to either driver following the accident which occured around 7:45 p.m. Sunday.

Ann Gould, of Newton, was taken to NWH for facial cuts suffered when her car collided with a car driven by Christopher Patterson of Newton. The entire front end of Gould's car was damaged and Patterson's car received damage to the right front section and passenger's door.

A woman passenger in Patterson's car was taken to NWH for a contusion and two passengers in Gould's car, one 11-years-old, were also treated for facial cuts.

Marquis claims 'gross distortions' by White

To the editor:

I am writing to respond to the gross distortions which appeared in the Newton Graphic of Oct. 14 in terms of comments made by Alderman Mark White, former candidate for mayor. In my opinion he is deliberately portraying me inaccurately especially about my view of the Newton school system.

I have stated repeatedly throughout my campaign that I believe that Newton has a strong and vital school system. I am proud of our schools – schools that I attended from 1949-1961 – and I recognize that the excellence of the Newton school system encourages people to want to live in Newton. We who live here care about the schools; however, this does not mean that improvement is unnecessary. Improvement is necessary in every institution, and our system remains effective because the educators and parents of our community are committed to make improvement when necessary.

As a teacher for the past 20 years including serving as an instructor at health professions at Northeastern University, as vice president last year of the Zervas P.T.A., and as a coach of two generations of Newton children, I am especially committed to seeing that education moves forward.

Much of my professional and volunteer work in the last decade has been devoted to helping disabled people become "mainstreamed" in our society, including my strong support of the full implementation of Chapter 766 for children with special needs.

And yet, Mr. White accuses me of "wanting to take us backward."

I have called for improved services for underachievers because this is a need which requires improvement by the system. There appear to be politicians in Newton who think that you do not deserve adequate attention as a student unless you are going to become a "professional," or a politician.

Furthermore, the alderman's comment that he was "deeply disturbed by Marquis' suppoeters and tactics," is a joke. My campaign has been run on the basis of what I believe I can do for the City of Newton, not on a boring recital of the defects of the present administration.

My campaign has been conducted with integrity and my supporters comprise people from every ward and precinct, from every possible ethnic and national background, and from all socio-economic groups. Many of my strong supporters are respected community leaders of long-standing.

Bruce E. Marquis
Candidate for Mayor

'Thanks' for nursing home birthday coverage

To the editor:

I write to commend you on your very fine young reporter, Donna Lombardi. On Aug. 28, Miss Lombardi came into our nursing home to interview Miss Anna Hawley who was celebrating her 100th birthday with a special Mass said by Monsignor Granville, cake, punch and a great number of relatives and friends, not to mention residents and staff of Elliot Mannor.

It was a very special day and in our rather small home there was a lot of excitement and happy confusion but this did not deter Donna from doing a super job.

She stayed with us during the celebration and evidenced the happiness of this special event and added to it by her presence. Miss Hawley was delighted that this "youngster" was interested in spending her time speaking with her and her family and friends and even taking pictures! I'm sure I need not comment exceedingly on the article and photograph trhat appeared in the following week's Graphic -- they speak for themselves.

A great job done by a terrific reporter!

Director of Activities
Elliot Manor Nursing Home

You probably know that with the President's Economic Recovery Plan, savers have greater tax break opportunities than ever before. But you may not know exactly what these opportunities can mean for you. Why not spend a little time reading this ad? You could save a lot of money come tax time.

If the monthly T-Bill yield is:	The tax free yield is:	Equivalent yield at gross yearly income of:* (%)
		$30,000	$40,000	$50,000	$60,000
12%	8.4%	11.61	13.24	14.59	16.28
14%	9.8%	13.54	15.44	17.03	18.99
16%	11.2%	15.48	17.65	19.46	21.70
17%	11.9%	16.45	18.75	20.68	23.10
18%	12.6%	17.41	19.85	21.89	24.46

How to earn federally tax free interest. Our new 12 month All Saver Certificate (available October 1) pays the highest allowable interest and lets you earn—for one time only—up to $2000 tax free interest ($1000 if you file individually). As the chart shows, the higher your income the more attractive the All Saver. In fact, at certain income levels, it would be tough to beat our yields of 20% or more. (By the way, if you're a 6 month certificate holder, you may be able to transfer that money into an All Saver without an interest penalty.)

How to save for retirement and save on taxes. Starting January 1,1982, you can take advantage of a tax break formerly available only to the self-employed and those not involved in a formal pension plan. So even if you now participate in a pension plan, you can still contribute up to $2000 into your own Individual Retirement Account (IRA), and really see a difference on your 1040. Because both your contributions and the interest earned are federally tax exempt until you begin withdrawals.

How to avoid confusion on the new tax breaks for savers. Not surprisingly, a flurry of often unbelievable promotions by institutions trying to get your money has accompanied the passage of these new laws. Frankly, we're interested in your money, too. But we're also interested in making sure you understand all the ramifications of these new laws before you invest a dime.

So if you're looking for a tax break, look past the fancy offers. Talk to the bank that just wants to give you the facts.

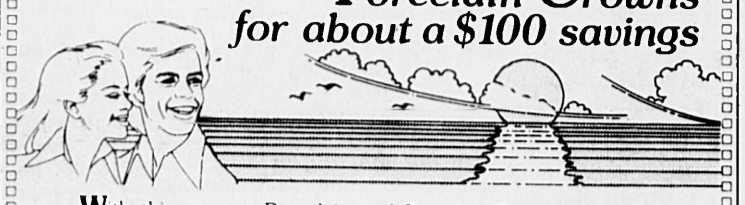

Together we'll get you started on an economic recovery act of your very own.

HOW TO PUT REAGAN'S NEW TAX LAWS TO WORK FOR YOU.

Business and Industrial Review

Trethewey Bros. Ye Olde House Centre

Ronald Trethewey, President of Trethewey Bros., Ye Olde House Centre, located at 4280 Washington St., Roslindale Square, recently received a special award from the Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Information Bureau for outstanding achievements and excellence. This national award was presented during the month of August for their outstanding success with the Grand Opening of their new showroom, Ye Olde House Centre.

Ye Olde House Centre is a showcase of energy saving products and appliances which are installed and maintained by Trethewey Bros.

This fourth generation family business has served its customers with appliance sales and installation of water heaters, gas boilers and burners, as well as a full range of plumbing and heating repairs. Many of the kitchen and bath remodeling projects carried out in local suburban communities have been done by their firm.

Trethewey Bros.' new showroom features ranges, full baths and kitchens, water heaters, pool heaters, clothes washers, dryers, dishwashers and disposals. Whatever you need in the way of appliances is available today to be installed whenever you want it. Their knowledgeable staff will help advise you of the proper appliance for your needs and they stand ready to explain operation and maintenance of your appliance after it is installed. They are a service business and are competitive with other appliance stores, in addition to being able to help their customers make correct decisions.

Solar heat alternatives to your present hot water system are something to be thinking of now, due to the generous state and federal tax benefits.

Ye Olde House Centre has many interesting options to add to your collection of ideas. They have many of their products installed at their showroom and will gladly visit your home to show you which ideas you can implement for the fastest return on your investment.

Technology in our lives

Metals, methods and materials that have had their mettle tested by industry have often been made into consumer goods that are very good indeed.

A sterling example is stainless steel. It was born in 1912 when British metallurgist Harry Brearly was trying to develop a metal to make better gun barrels. He wanted them to be able to resist the corrosive effects of gunpowder. He mixed iron, carbon, chromium and nickel and got a metal that was just right for the job. Unfortunately, the creation of smokeless gunpowder eliminated the problem shortly after Brearly solved it.

The people, however, found other uses for his marvelous new metal. Today, stainless steel is found in some form in just about every home and industry.

More recently, an alloy was created by NASA for use in the Space Program. Although comparatively lightweight, the alloy possesses superior resistence to heat, acid and friction. In fact, it is currently being used for critical

Plans approved for Sun Life expansion

Sun Life of Canada today received the necessary clearances from the Wellesley Zoning Board of Appeals to begin a $20 million expansion of its United States Headquarters in Wellesley.

George L. Meltzer, senior vice president and general manager for the United States, said the zoning board's approval was a major step for the company in obtaining permission from various state and local governments.

Construction of a six-level, open-air parking facility for 827 cars is scheduled to begin in October, with completion slated for May, 1981. Construction of a third office building at the Sun Life site will begin after the parking facility is completed and is expected to be completed in May, 1983. The office building will be linked to the existing main headquarters building by an atrium. Architects for the project are Grayson Associates, Inc. of Belmont, Mass.

The Canadian life insurer opened its U.S. Headquarters in October 1973 with 300 employees. Today the company employs over 900 in Wellesley.

Short History of Consumer Electronics

Contributing to the birth of consumer electronics were many earlier landmarks.

Perhaps the most significant were Edison's 1877 invention of the phonograph, Fleming's development of the electron tube in the 1890's, Marconi's first wireless transmission in 1895 and DeForest's 1906 inventions which led to the electron amplifer.

Thoughtfully Dedicated to those We Serve— Within the means of all established in 1945

Welcome to Newton!
We are one of the new tenants in the Chapel-Bridge Park complex, having moved from Newton Centre to the Silver Lake area.
About eighty of us, fathers, mothers, husbands, and singles produce unique thermal electronic instruments. They are used and liked WORLDWIDE in the best known corporations and government laboratories, exploring the behavior of electronic components at various thermal environments. Nearly 30% of our products are sold overseas — a small but positive effect on the U.S. trade balance.
We believe that working together and producing innovative, good products is not only good for our shareholders; it is a fulfilling forty hours each week and an important part of our lives. It helps us grow as individuals, it provides income to pay our bills at home, it allows us also to help some who would not be welcome in other enterprises to discover that they can make it — and make it well, helping us to be a better company.
While we are still relatively small, we are growing fairly fast and would love to see more people from our immediate neighborhood join us as openings become available.
God bless you all as you settle in this town and make you a blessing to those around you.

Business and Industrial Review

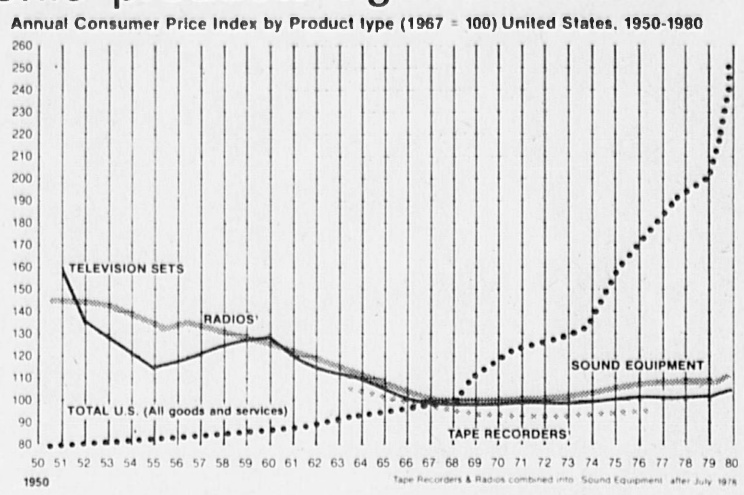

Consumer electronic products fight inflation

You pay more - a lot more - today for food, clothing, homes, cars, gas, vacations - you name it and up it has gone.

Battered and bruised by the skyrocketing increases in the cost of living, you may find comfort in the inflation fighting efforts of the consumer electronics industry.

While the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for all goods and services has skyrocketed past 260 from a base of 100 in 1967, consumer electronics prices have barely moved past 105-105 in the past 13 years and have decreased from levels of the 1950's.

Omicron Corp. - your microcomputer headquarters

The Omicron Corporation, conveniently located in the Vara Building, 1420 Providence Highway, Norwood, is an authorized dealer of Commodore International - the world's largest seller of microcomputers. Omicron carries a complete line of Commodore Microcomputers for commercial, industrial, and personal home use. Omicron will custom design the microcomputer sysytem which will best serve your needs, according to the specific functions of your individual basis. Omicron has complete sales, programming, service, and training departments at their Norwood office; therefore, the staff is able to spend a great deal of time informing the customer on all aspects of this unique microcomputer system.

A typical Commodore Microcomputer system consists of a Central Processing Unit with up to 96K memory, a Dual-Drive 5 1/4" Floppy Disc Storage Medium with 2 million bytes of storage, an a printer. Several printer types are available, including the Dot Matrix, Letter Quality, or a combination of both.

In 1976 Commodore acquired MOS Technology, the firm that produces the 6502 integrated circuit "Brain Chip." This same chip is found in Apple and Atari microcomputers.

Some of the chores that can be performed by the Commodore are: Word Processing, Accounting, Inventory, Payroll, Taxes, Filing Systems, Data Search, Mailing Labels, Tutorial Education, Filling out Forms, Games, Programming, Job Scheduling, Time Management, and Client Billing.

Omicron's staff: Steven Gavrilles, Michele Gavrilles, Pamela Mackenzie, and Bob Stack, can reccomend the microcomputer system that will help you save money, time, and energy in your daily business operations. Feel free to drop into their Norwood office from 9-5 Monday-Friday and evenings and weekends by appointment– 769-6867.

Lacking Appeal

TORONTO, Ont. - Why do most small businesses fail? Jack Alper, president of his own company, Barry-Sue Fabrics, says simply, "most people fail because of lack of business."

Thermo Electron Corp. - leaders in energy technology

Thermo Electron had its modest beginnings over twenty years ago when it was founded by Dr. George W. Hatsopoulos, an MIT professor. Dr. Hatsopoulos had tremendous insight into energy conservation and started Thermo Electron as a research firm. His belief in the future of energy technology has been a major factor in the growth of his firm which now has 21 divisions throughout the United States. Current sales thus far in 1981 are $210 million.

Thermo Electron has its corporate office in Waltham at 101 First Avenue. Also located at the Waltham location are R & D New Business Division, as well as Energy Systems. Their location just off of Route 128 makes them easily accessible for their personnel who reside along the Route 128 belt communities.

Thermo Electron Corporation provides process equipment, monitoring instruments and manufacturing services for energy-intensive industries. Their customers include manufacturing companies in the automotive industry, oil and gas drilling tools, aircraft, food products, farm machinery and weapons. Producers of basic materials such as aluminum, paper, plastics, steel and fossil-fueled and nuclear electricity. Strong incentives for industry to invest in more efficient process equipment has been brought about by exceedingly higher energy costs and tighter regulation of environmental pollutants.

Thermo Electron applies advanced thermodynamic technology to meet the needs for improved productivity and reduced waste of scarce energy and raw materials.

There are four major market forces which relate to energy that have affected the growth of Thermo Electron. The concern for the future availablity of oil and gas coupled with the higher energy prices have increased the impetus for industry's conservation efforts. Products are being redesigned for greater energy efficiency of appliances and automobiles. The number of drill rigs which are being used in oil and gas exploration is increasing rapidly. Demand is growing for monitoring pollution and health hazards related to burning coal and producing electricity from nuclear fuels.

The future of Thermo Electron will show increased growth in all of their divisions due to the ever increasing demands for energy conservation and preservation of natural resources.

An industry which thrives on innovation

Consumer electronics in an industry of innovation, whose rapid technological improvements bring to the buying public new products with new features and benefits.

F. W. Faxon Company

The F.W. Faxon Company has a long and well-established relationship with the Transcript area. Located in Westwood's Southwest Park, the company assists libraries throughout the nation with subscription services and serials management. This includes over 25,000 college, university, public and specialized libraries.

From modest beginnings in the 19th century, the company now employs over 400 people from Southern Norfolk County. Faxon is very conscious of employer/employee relations, and as a result many people have been with the company for over 20 years.

Faxon is in the forefront of the communications business. The company has always been innovative in developing systems for libraries that offered greater ease, speed and accuracy in handling information.

By handling the substantial number of details pertaining to magazine subscriptions, Faxon allows the librarian more time for other concerns.

As the need for faster and more efficient handling of the printed word grows, Faxon will be there to help.

parts in turbine and jet engines.

This alloy, made of chromium and tungsten on a cobalt base, can also be made into some beautiful consumer products. Recognizing that the new metal had the important properties of scratch-resistance and high lustre, the Citizen Watch Company of America adapted it for a new line of quartz watches called, appropriately, PermaBright. Thanks to this space-age alloy, the watches are exceptionally beautiful, yet tough enough to endure through time. The alloy looks like gold and even retains its gold color permanently, but is much more durable and certainly not as expensive as the more precious metal. An alchemist's dream come true!

The new industrial alloy can truly be a consumer's ally when it comes to getting good looking products that last a good long time.

Factory Mutual's Conference Center and Inn at Norwood

The Conference Center and Inn at Norwood is Factory Mutual's exciting new concept in corporate meetings. Away from the urban frenzy, yet easily accesible to the city, the Center offers the perfect comprehensive learning environment, incorporating an academic building and adjoining hotel.

Conference space is available for rentlal to New England businesses and industries. In addition to 24 meeting rooms designed with extensive multi-media capabilities, the academic wing includes a television production studio and full-time support staff.

Rooms in the modern 126 room hotel wing are available to businesses in the area for overnight use. Guests staying there have access to the exercise room and sauna, the dining room, lounge, and game room.

The Factory Mutual System has long been dedicated to property loss control education. Factory Mutual conducts extensive training for its own personnel as well as special education programs for insured companies and this led the System into development of the Conference Center.

Because of anticipated inflated construction costs down the road, the Center was built to meet their needs five to ten years from now. It is therefore being actively marketed for use by local businesses for both seminars and overnight stays. For more information contact Deborah Page, Sales Representative, (617) 762-4300 ext. 1043.

Factory Mutual's Conference Center and Inn at Norwood is one of the founding members of the International Association of Conference Centers.

The Factory Mutual System, which is the world's largest mutual industrial insurance group and a world leader in loss control engineering and research, consists of the following companies: Allendale Mutual Insurance (Johnston, R.I.), Arkwright-Boston Mutual Insurance (Waltham, MA), Philadelphia Manufacturers Mutual Insurance (Valley Forge, PA), Protection Mutual Insurance (Park Ridge, IL). System Associates include Factory Mutual International (London, England) and Factory Mutual Engineering and Research (Norwood, MA).

The Backside has the perfect mix

The perfect mix for business or pleasure is at the Backside Restaurant, located in the Dedham Plaza, Rte. 1A Dedham. Their tasteful Gatsby-inspired atmosphere is the perfect setting for the business luncheon, or client meeting over cocktails. Efficient service, and Backside's complete staff will cater to your every business luncheon need.

Luncheons at the Backside are specifically geared to business people as well as those who choose to linger over a leisurely lunch. A tempting variety of sandwiches is their daily fare, as well as their hearty offerings which are displayed each day. Moreover, their chefs prepare the most delectable in fish and meat dishes, known to be favorites among those who frequent the Backside at the noon hour.

If an evening business dinner is more convenient, why not try Backside's Early Bird Specials, available from 5-7 pm. – order two entrees and get the lower priced entree for half price. It's a great way to have the pleasure of dining out at a fraction of the normal cost. Their selection of dinner offerings is almost endless, and most have found this a very convenient time to visit for their evening meal.

Some of the newer fall offerings for dinner include center cut Lamb Chops, Steack Teriyaki, and Chicken Marsala. International Salads are another highlight on their fall menu. All this combined to make the perfect business dinner.

After dinner, or perhaps a long day at the office, wind down, relax and "have an all night affair at the Backside" with great music and dancing. Live music and entertainment begins at 9 p.m., Monday thru Saturday. Sundays are highlighted by Oldies Night and Show Tunes, featuring such groups as the "Kopy Kittens" and "Touch Tones."

Be sure to drop in to the Backside for the Happy Hour which starts at 4 pm. and offers a large selection of cocktails at reduced prices in their popular lounge.

The finest cuts of steaks and prime ribs, as well as the freshest fish and seafoods, are all there at the Backside. So why not have the perfect mix, be it business or pleasure – it's all at the Backside.

Try a new resource for your company

"When I first heard of Continuum's internship program, I knew this represented a special opportunity to my Company; one we should not pass up," says Carol Anderson, District Manager at Unicom, a Division of United Camera.

Anderson has sponsored Continuum interns this past year in both marketing and sales areas. The non-salaried internships allow the company to expand its services and work on projects without adding financial burden. As a growing company, Unicom experiences the common imbalance between work load and staffing. In short, Anderson feels that with Continuum interns her company is achieving its goals.

Anderson is not alone in her enthusiasm for Continuum. More than 200 sponsors throughout the Greater Boston area, have enjoyed the association with this career education school over the past 6 years. They speak positively of the program and the women in it, "Continuum has provided us with competent and sensitive people who show a tremendous ability to work independently, competently, and diligently. It has left no doubt about the benefit of this program to our company."

Continuum is currently expanding its internships in business and industry, and invites members of the business community to call 964-3322 for details. All placements entitle a sponsor to at least 240 hours of intern time. Since each student goes through two 9-week internships, a sponsor may gain a sizeable contribution of work time.

Internship placements are developed by Joyce Picard, Doris DerMarderosian, and Jane Buchanan, Career Development Counselors, in collaboration with members of the business community. The conselors' goal is to help meet the needs of business while helping a woman develop skills and confidence in a new field.

To receive a packet of information for potential sponsors, write: Sponsor Kit, Continuum, 785 Centre Street, Newton, MA 02158.

Newton Community Schools offers variety of activities

NEWTON — Theatre trips for seniors, creative movement for pre-schoolers and solar energy workshops for adults are only a few of the hundreds of activities offered this fall by Newton Community Schools.

The complete listing of all programs is available in the Community Schools Catalogue. For the first time, the Catalogue includes a special insert of the Department of Human Services's "Golden Times" Newsletter for all residents over the age of 60. Registration for all courses will take place through today and activities will begin the week of October 26.

Programs for adults will include courses in business, financial planning, exercise, cooking, health, and the arts. Adults will also enjoy a wide variety of special events ranging from a Cantonese banquet in Chinatown to a seminar entitled "Pregnancy Over 30" to a workshop on furniture refurnishing.

Several innovative offerings have been designed to complement traditionally popular NCS programs. In Newtonville, the Cabot Community School will present U.S. Representative Barney Frank as part of it's "Sunday Evening Series." Frank will be preceded by several distinguished speakers from Harvard, M.I.T. and Boston College who will discuss a variety of contemporary social issues.

In addition, the Auburndale Community School will open 12 of that area's outstanding houses for walking tours on Sunday afternoon, November 1. Further, there will be a series of workshops on solar energy and conservation, a film club for adults, and seminars in ethics, career changes, and a community chorus.

Teens (age 14 and older) are welcome to participate in many of NCS' adult programs. Students will also enjoy special "Teen Only" activities, such as Drop-Ins, Babysitting Clinics and Craft Workshops.

Activities for children are as varied as those for adults. This fall, youngsters will venture into Boston for a tour of the Federal Reserve Bank, travel south to New Bedford to visit the Whaling Museum, and go north to Salem for a tour of the Parker Brothers Game Factory. Programs for children will also include traditionally popular activities including After-School Sports, Theatre Games, Arts and Crafts, Creative Movement, Sign Language and Gymnastics.

As a result of NCS' successful "Explore 81" program, academically advanced students now have the opportunity to take Saturday morning courses at Day Junior High. These sessions will stress critical analysis skills and expose the pupils to new areas of study. Students will choose four courses from a group of 12 possible electives that include Energy, Science Fiction, Technical Drawing, Mythology, Creative Writing and Ceramic Sculpture.

Pre-schoolers and toddlers will also have ample opportunities to enjoy Community School activities. Fall pre-school programs include Ballet, Art, Creative Movement, Music and Storytelling. In response to neighborhood demand, several Community Schools have developed moms' and tots' playgroups where young parents may meet, socialize and share concerns with other neighborhood residents. For those women who want to keep in shape, Lower Falls Community School is offering an exercise class designed specifically for mothers and young children.

NCS and the Jackson Homestead will sponsor a series of activities. Taking place at the Homestead, these activities will include discussions on local history, Newton's older residences, and historical preservations. The series will conclude with a Decemeber 6 tree-trimming party for children.

Activities for seniors have continued to increase during the last several years. Senior-determined groups will soon resume their weekly activities at Oak Hill Park, Thompsonville and Upper Falls. Varied programs — including exercise, discussion, and crafts — will take place at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, the Newton Corner Drop-In Center, the Newtonville Drop-In Center, Lower Falls and Temple Bethel-Atareth, the City's Kosher Lunch site.

Seniors are also invited to participate in an exciting series co-sponsored by NCS and the Newton Arts Center. Entitled "Theatre Trips for Seniors", this series consists of four trips to theatrical productions in the Greater Boston area. Beginning Wednesday, October 14, the plays include "Morning's At Seven" with Maureen O'Sullivan, "The Millionairess", "Blithe Spirit" and a play yet to be determined. Round trip transportation is provided to and from the Newton Arts Center.

NCS will also continue its successful Lifetime Learning program of academic studies for seniors. Planned with R.S.V.P. and the Newton Community Service Center, the program features seminars in Law, Energy, Greek Drama, Great Decisions, Poetry and Psychology.

NCS' Executive Director Joseph Baron noted that, "this year is an especially exciting time for Community Schools. Last year over 1300 activities were provided to 14,000 participants. This year, due to the wider variety of offerings designed by NCS volunteers, we're expecting an even greater turnout. In light of current budget reductions, NCS is especially pleased to provided an expanded, more comprehensive program."

In addition to the mailing to every Newton household, catalogues will also be available at Newton City Hall, local branch libraries, senior Drop-In Centers, and the Education Center. For more information on how to participate, plan or lead Newton Community School activities, call 552-7118.

Cantonese banquet will highlight new course

AUBURNDALE — Beginning Oct. 26, Newton Community Schools will provide residents with varied opportunities to learn the secret cooking skills from professional chefs, restaurant managers, neighborhood residents, wine experts, beer critics, and avid gastronomic hobbyists.

Over 20 countries will be represented in the more than 50 culinary offerings provided this fall by Newton Community Schools.

In Auburndale, Peqgy Glass will offer "Friday Nights with the Magic Rabbit," featuring foods of Southern France, New England, Burgundy and Alsace.

Winston Chiong will host a Cantonese banquet in Chinatown, where participants will enjoy an eleven course meal including lobster with ginger and scallions, and braised duck with 8 jewels.

Spinach will take on several different forms at the Franklin Community Schools. Participants who enroll in "Popeye Goes International," will enjoy samples of French Crepe cake, Greek strudel, Italian canneloni and American turnovers.

At Mason-Rice, classes will include Swedish, Italian, Chinese and Greek cooking. To warm up cool winter evenings, participants will learn to prepare beef stew with a pastry crust, borscht with piroshki and pumpkin bisque in a pumpkin.

Residents will also have various opportunities to sample wines, beers, coffee and tea. Wine tastings, featuring French, Californian, Spanish, Australian and Italian wines, will run from October through January and will range from one-session specials to several in-depth series.

In Auburndale, 30 participants will taste the beers of 10 different countries with Bob MacDonald, a beer critic for a large Boston newspaper, who will discuss the differences between pilsner, ales, beers, stout and steam beers.

Andy Prokopsis from the Coffee Connection will host individual coffee and tea tasting sessions at the Mason-Rice School. In each session, historical backgrounds and various preparations will be discussed.

Registration for all Community School activites is being held now through Oct. 21.

For more information, call the community schools office at 552-7118.

Mayflower BBW to bring Halloween to Kennedy Hospital

Mayflower Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, will hold their annual Hallowe'en party for the patients in the medical, surgical and neurological units of the Kennedy Memorial Hospital for Children in Brighton, on Thursday, Oct. 29 at 2:30 p.m.

The children will be given masks, "trick or treat" bags, noisemakers and refreshments. Chapter members, some in costume, will play games and decorate pumpkins with the children.

Kennedy Memorial Hospital combines the therapeutic services of a rehabilitation center with medical, surgical and diagnostic services of a general pediatric hospital. It serves children from infancy to age 21, and offers a day program providing education for 100 children with special needs.

Irene Gaffin of Newton is chairman of the Hallowe'en party. Newton women assisting her include Avery Douglas, Estelle Gordon, Winnie King, and Ann Witzer.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS—Rev. Alfred E. Williams, minister and president of the Massachusetts Conference of the United Church of Christ, will be the guest preacher at the 10:15 a.m. service at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church on Oct. 25.

Rev. Williams serves on the board of directorand s of the Massachusetts Council of Churches the Andover Newton Theological School board of trustees and is trustee of the grants committee of the Massachusetts Bible Society.

'King Midas' now playing at Life Hall

NEWTON — Valerie Holmes of Newton, is one of several children chosen to perform in "King Midas and the Golden Touch," which is playing now through Nov. 7 at the New England Life Hall, Boston.

"King Midas," which is performed each Saturday at 2 p.m. is being presented by the Boston Children's Theater, Brookline.

"King Midas" is based on the children's story by Nathaniel Hawthorne. It is the story of a King who wishes that everything he touches may turn to gold. When the wish is granted, he inadvertently touches his daughter. Overwhelmed by grief, he gropes his way to the simple truth that breaks the spell.

For information and reservations, call the Boston Children's Theater at 277-3277.

Barbera rolls to 3 TDs as Lancers romp

Chuck Barbera scored three touchdowns and rushed for 63 yards to pace undefeated Newton Catholic past St. Columbkille's, 32-10, in Catholic Suburban League action Msgr. Daly Field Sunday.

The Lancers raised their record to 4-0 and looked impressive in all phases of their game. It was the Newton Catholic defense that kept the game in the Lancers' control early in the contest. The offense started out sluggish but was given fine field position by the defense.

"We were really very flat on offense at the beginning of the game," pointed out Newton Catholic Coach Tom Raeke. "It was hard to motivate the team for this game because of St. Columbkille's past performances so far this year."

The Lancers' defense was the story in the first half. Linebackers John Mingolelli and Barbera worked to shutoff the inside against St. Columbkille's run while Jim MacLellan (5'10" 175 pound senior) closed off the outside from his end position.

Newton Catholic held St. Columbkille's to nine total yards in the first quarter and without a first down in the entire contest. With time running out in the first frame, the defense held and set the offense up at the 27 yard line of the Chieftain's and the first score of the game.

Donnelly hit Tony Venditti on a 24-yard hookup that gave the Lancers the ball at the four yard line and a first and goal. Donnelly swept in on the next play and gave Newton Catholic a 6-0 advantage as time ran out in the opening session.

On their third possession of the second quarter, the Lancers rolled 67 yards on five plays to go up 12-0. Barbera collected 32 yards in the drive and scored on a three yard plunge. Donnelly hit Mike Walsh on the conversion pass attempt and the Lancers held a 14-0 lead that would stand up to be the halftime score.

Barbera and the Newton Catholic offense erupted in the third period for 18 points while the defense continued to slam the door shut in St. Columbkille's offense's face.

Donnelly hit Barbera on a 20 yard pass into the flat on the right side and the husky 6'0", 195 pound senior cut upfield to score on what was recorded as a 41 yard pass completion. Mingolelli's run on the conversion failed and the Lancers held a 20-0 lead.

Barbera lumbered in for a 25-yard running score when he hit a hole off the center and left quard to slant across field for the score. Barbera added more pain to the battered St. Columbkille's Chieftans when he rolled in for a two yard touchdown as time ran out in the third quarter.

With 1:49 left in the game and most of Newton Catholic's reserve players on the field, St. Columbkille's sacked the Lancers' quarterback for a saftey and its first points of the game. The Chieftan's scored on a 30 yard run by Chris Golden as time was running out and Steve Flaherty hit Robert Lonergan for the conversion pass to make it a 32-10 Newton Catholic romp.

The Lancers' offense came back to life in the second half with its big third quarter and Raeke was quick to cite the work of guard Pat Cahill.

"I can't say enough about Pat," he explained. "He really played a great game today. He is the glue that holds our offense together."

So the Lancers are off to one of their best starts and the future looks bright for the talented club. Next Sunday the Lancers will play host to Hudson Catholic with kickoff coming at 1:30.p.m.

Top college teams in area

Brandeis five has nice blend

Brandeis University's 1981-82 basketball team will sport a strange combination of youth and experience.

The Judges' top three scorers from last winter will be back, led by junior forward Steve Wood of West Roxbury, who led the squad with a per-game average of 16.9 points and 172 field goals and 79 free throws for 423 points. Co-Capt. Kevin McCann of Revere was right behind in scoring honors with 123 field goals, 102 charity tosses and 370 points for a team-high average of 18.5 a contest.

Also joining the list of returning lettermen are sophomore guard Bruce Frank of TeanecK, N.J.; sophomore guard Larry Leahy of Brant Rock, sophomore swingman Jon Wits of Chicago, Ill.; sophomore center-forward Bill Markley of Wakefield; Co-Capt. Steve Waisberger of Rockland and sophomore guard-forward Evan Chipkin of Branford, Conn. Other players who saw varsity action on a limited basis and will be returning include sophomore forward David Baron of Brooklyn, N.Y., and sophomore forward James Hicks, who also hails from Brooklyn.

Vinny Russomagno, a senior forward from Union, N.J., who started some as a sophomore and again last winter, is expected to miss the entire campaign with an ulcer problem. The Judges, however, did regian the services of a promising sophomore, Steve Rosen, who was not in school last year. Rosen could pick up a good deal of the slack lost with Russomagno's loss if he is able to pick up where he left off two years ago. Russomagno averaged nearly 16 points a game last winter with 10 rebounds a contest in his 17 games that he played.

Coach Bob Brannum, who is starting his 12th year at the helm and brings in a record of 159-120 as the most successful basketball coach ever at Brandeis, is high on several promising freshmen.

Forwards Pat Fleming (6-5) of Hamden, Me., Bob Patton (6-7) of Ledyard, Conn., and Rich Rodnick of Great Neck, N.Y., and guards Paul Cellucci of Boston and Tony Stein of West Chester, N.Y., are the first-year players who will get a long look for starting berths.

"At least on of the freshmen will probably start for us to get some height into the lineup," noted Brannum, a former Boston Celtics great. "Until (senior Doron) Ben-Atar (6-7) gets back to school in the second semester we don't have anyone over 6-4."

Wood and McCann are both proven scorers, having combined to lead the team in that category in 18 of last winter's 25 games. Both players also garnered ECAC honors a year ago as honorable mentions in the weekly ratings. Wood also led the team in rebounding with 210, including a team-season high of 17 against Middlebury.

Despite last year's 9-16 record, the Judges were a team to be reckoned with as is evidenced by their single-point, double-overtime loss to Division II Lowell, a two-point, overtime setback to ECAC Tournament qualifier Tufts, a three-point, double-overtime setback to the number one-ranked team in Division III in New England, Trinity, and a two-point loss to MIT.

"We do have a young team again this year. We only have three or four upperclassmen to go along with a lot of sophomores, who, fortunately, were able to see a lot of playing time last year," said Brannum. "We will probably start the season out relatively slow, but I expect us to get a lot stronger as the season goes along. The loss of Russomagno will probably hurt us the most, but Wood and McCann are outstanding ball players and I know they will pick up the slack."

The Judges will play a 24-game schedule this winter with half of those games coming in the friendly confines of the Shapiro Athletic Center. Brandeis will also open its season with its first regular-season tournament appearance in six years when it kicks off the season in the Eastern Connecticut State Tournament with the host team, the Coast Guard Academy and Mahattanville on Nov. 21-22. Brandeis has never played either Eastern Conn. or Manhattanville in basketball.

The Blue and White will host its first game of the year on Tuesday, Nov. 24, against Babson as it gets off to its earliest start ever. In addition to playing another school for the first time (Southeastern Mass, at home, Feb. 20), Brandeis will play three home-and-home series this winter, another first, against Tufts, Clark and Babson.

The Judges will unveil a new assistant coach, former Tufts University standout Kevin O'Brien.

Arrows break into win column, 7-0

The St. Sebastian's School of Newton football team was in a sort of limbo for the first two games of the season.

The Arrows had two ties and Coach Bob Souza was wondering if he should ask league officials for a new tie-breaker rule. St. Sebastian's, which is still unbeaten, got its first win on Saturday against St. Paul's, 7-0, at Murphy Field in an Indepedent School League contest.

There was no secret to the Arrow formula for the victory. It was good defense. The St. Sebastian's defense has allowed just six points in the first three games and have two shutouts to their credit.

"I can't say enough about the defense," said Souza. "They've played great and some of the things they've done during the season is more than even a coach should expect."

The Arrows came up with a masterful defensive effort near the end of the first half. St. Sebastian's had fumbled the ball away on its own 10-yard line and looked as though St. Paul's would go in for the tying score or get the lead.

The Arrow defense rose up and stuffed the St. Paul's offense. Defensive end Chris Walsh made the big play sacking the quarterback for a 15-yard loss on a third down play.

"That type of thing is out of the coaches hands," said Souza. "There are only so many things you can call and in that type of situation its up to the defense to come through. They did. The defense tightened up nicely and pushed St. Paul's back. The players just showed the kind of heart they have."

The St. Sebastian's defense also got some efforts from defensive end Damien Grozier and inside linebacker Chris Kennedy. Mike Mullowney also had an interception for the Arrows.

The St. Sebastian's offense has scored just 13 points in three games. The lone score for the Arrows was a 70-yard run by halfback Mark Hunter on a counter play. Hunter made a nice cut to the outside and simply out ran the St. Paul's defenders.

"We"ve been moving the ball all year on offense," said Souza, "but we get going and then fumble. We're going to turn it around. Once we get more experience we'll start putting some points on the board."

The Arrows get their chance to try again Friday against Lawrence Academy.

Life great for B's ex-coach Cherry

BOSTON (UPI) — He has his own secretary now — he's a vice president of all things — and life is going so smoothly that next year will see the creation of Cherry Enterprises Limited.

"I've never had so much fun in my life," says Don Cherry, former Bruins coach and recently appointed vice president of a professional management and career planning company for athletes and celebrities. "Everything is just roses, except of course for Blue (his dog). She left her heart in Boston."

Cherry recently hooked up with player agent Gerry Patterson and attorney Ron Gunning to form the firm, which has offices in Toronto and Los Angeles. Cherry has the title of vice president, but he thinks of his job more as that of a guidance counselor.

"I know one thing, my job definitely won't be in negotiations," Cherry says. "What appealed to me was that we'll work with athletes during and after their careers. I hit all the major cities as I travel around for Hockey Night in Canada and, who knows, a kid might need a shoulder to cry on or something similar. They've got me down as a vice president, but I don't know if I'm a heartbeat away."

Cherry, although out of coaching for the second straight year, still remains close to the game through his affiliation with Hockey Night in Canada. He still thinks glowingly of the days when he guided the Bruins and hasn't ruled out a return to the coaching ranks.

"No, I'm not puttng it out entirely. I see teams lose money, I think I'll probably get an offer. But it's a long way down the road. This is the most I've enjoyed myself in a long time," he says.

"A few guys have done a number on me in the NHL — I wouldn't say I was blackballed — but I don't think I'd be highly recommended by some people."

If Cherry isn't highly regarded in some management circles, he says there's no end to his popularity among the fans. He is in constant demand as a banquet speaker, will start doing commercials next month for a brewery ("I should, I drink enough of the stuff") and maintains a highly visible persona as an analyst on the hockey telecasts. That all points to his incorporation in 1982.

"I'll tell you one thing, I can't go anywhere in Cannada where I'm not recognized. I love it, I eat this all up. It makes me feel Like I'm still in it. It's a big thrill," he says.

He is trying to sell his house in Englewood, Colo., but has been advised to wait until March because it will likely be worth $15,000 more. He'd rather forget his one year as coach of the Rockies, but he made good use of his money by purchasing a house and land on an island in the St. Lawrence River.

"Everything wasn't bad about Colorado. It got me my paradise in Wolf Island. The fishing is unbelievable," he says.

"It's funny," he continued. "I had just fixed up the house in Rochester and then I went to Boston. Then I had the house there just right and I came here. Maybe I'm in the wrong business."

Cherry will rejoin his beloved Bruins this Saturday, when he does the color for the Boston-Montreal game from the Forum. Cherry is constantly cautioned by the producer to remember there are two teams when he does Bruins' games. The attachment is still strong.

South field hockey falls, 9-0

After three straight ties, the Weston High Field Hockey team got back on the winning track in convincing fashion by besting Newton South, 9-0, Tuesday in a Dual County League match at Newton.

The Wildcats have a slim lead in the DCL with an 8-0-3 record. The Lions are still in search of the season's first victory. The defending state champions were powered by Cindy Healey's four-goal effort in the first period. Healey, who is one of the top scorers in the league, scored three times in the first 10 minutes of the contest.

Elaine Segal had two goals for Weston. Karen Wilder scored twice in the second half for Weston. Joanne Melikian closed out the scoring for the Wildcats late in the second half.

Weston will try to continue its winning ways tomorrow at Bedford.

Newton North owns a tie against Weston, but the Tigers dropped their seventh match of the season on Tuesday. Acton-Boxboro blanked Newton North, 4-0.

North girls capture 9th

Nine different girls figured in the scoring as Newton North rolled over Quincy High, 9-0, Friday in a Suburban League soccer match at Newton.

The victory lifted the first-place Tigers to a 9-0 record.

Debbie Quinn began the barrage in the first quarter with an assist going to Tricia Oliretio, who had a goal and three assists in the game.

Mona Calderone and Sandi Troy each tallied, making it 3-0 after one period.

Lori Goldenberg got Newton's only marker of the second stanza, but the Tigers came back with one more in the third and four in the fourth to finish the romp.

Goal-scorers were Jackie Dillon, Freddie Pittman, Andrea Farina, Chris Palmiter and Oliretio.

The Tigers are at Bridgewater this afternoon.

Concord 'D' stops Newton South

Greg Porell
Sports Correspondent

Concord-Carlisle Head Coach Al Robichaud had nothing but praise for the Newton South football squad after the game, but the elation of his team's upset victory was easily detected.

"I know coach (Newton South) Kojoyian is very disappointed," explained Robichaud. "But he and his team have no reason to hang their heads. They are a very good team."

It was almost a complete turnaround from last week's Newton South come-from-behind victory over Boston Tech.

Concord-Carlisle engineered Saturday's 21-20 triumph at Newton South Athletic Field with two fourth-quarter touchdowns, one set up by a Lion fumble and another by a Patriot interception, after trailing by 13 points going into the last session.

According to Robichaud, it was "a gamble that payed off." The Patriot skipper had his linebackers blitzing the Newton South passing game all day long and the Lions' offensive line wasn't able to make the adjustment.

"The linebackers blitzed a lot," Robichaud explained. "When you gamble on something like that, you either do it or you don't. We did put a lot of pressure on their quarterback, but we didn't sack him too often, so that's a credit to him and the line."

A Newton South fumble at its own 30 yard line gave the Patriots the ball at the 21 yard line. A 10-yard burst by Steve Fay (17 carries for 94 yards) brought the ball to the 11 yard line and a first down for Concord. Four plays later Fay followed a pulling guard into the end zone on a fourth down and four yard situation. A point after kick pulled the Pats within six points.

Disaster struck on Newton South's next possession. After two running plays and an incomplete pass, Joe Spagnuolo dropped back to punt from his own 35 yard line. A heavy Concord rush forced the junior booter away from his protection and saw him scramble all the way back to the 15 yard line before he lofted a desperation pass that Mike Robichaud picked off and returned to the 18 yard line for the Patriots.

One first down and five running plays later, Fay carried the ball for five-yard touchdown run up the middle. Armand Nicholi split the uprights on the point after attempt (his third conversion kick of the game) and Concord posted what would prove to be the winning tally.

Newton South got the ball back with a little over two minutes remaining on the clock, but Mike Robichaud stepped infront of another pass and had his second interception on the day and all but put the game away.

It was the pressure applied by the Concord defense on the Lions' passing game that upset the Newton South game plan. Newton South was able to gain 126 yards on a 10 for 18 completion day for Spagnuolo, but for the first time this season the passing game was unable to open up the Lion ground attack for the "big play."

Art Walton led the way for the Lions on the ground (10 carries, 166 yards that included a two and a 90 yard touchdown runs) but no other South back collected over 30 yards. The absence of 6-4 senior Mike Antonellis from the passing game (his first game without a reception) limited the options to the Lion offense and was a demonstration of the strong defensive performance turned in by Concord.

After not crossing the 50 yard line in the first quarter, Newton South struck first following a scoreless period. A 61-yard scoring drive (highlighted by four first downs) was capped off on Walton's first touchdown run. The Newton South conversion attempt failed and when Fay ran in for an 11 yard score, Nicholi's first conversion kick gave the visitors a 7-6 lead at the half.

Walton's 90-yard T.D. carry gave South a 12-7 lead after another conversion attempt failed. Spagnuolo hit Dave Hill for a touchdown pass late in the third frame and Jon Greenberg ran the ball in for a two-point conversion that gave the Lions their 13-point lead.

Hawk booters stay on top, rout Tigers

By Steve Tiberi
Sports Correspondent

A message was sent through the Suburban League Wednesday night informing anyone interested that the Waltham High boys' soccer team is the top team and they intend to stay that way.

The Hawks opened up the second half of the league schedule with a convincing 4-0 win over rival Newton North at the Bentley Athletic Field. Waltham came out charging and scored the first goal just 15 seconds into the game.

The Hawks won the toss and kicked off. Fullback Dan Calnan took the ball at midfield and drove a long ball to a hard charging Dave Marcou. The senior forward beat the defender and drilled a shot low to the far-right corner past Steve Locke in the North goal. The score took a little out of the North fire and just fueled the intensity of the Hawks.

"It was a classic goal for Dave," said Coach John Graceffa. "We came out ready to play tonight. We have an explosive offense and I'm glad we showed it against a good team. I was elated with the win because of the way we won it."

The Hawks didn't let up. Waltham was buzzing all over the Newton North end in the first minutes of contest. Halfback Andy Kramer stole the ball and moved in alone. He lofted a shot that went over Locke's head and dipped under the crossbar for Waltham's second goal.

"The second goal was a big one," said Graceffa. "Andy did a good job and finished the play off nicely. After we scored the first one early, I thought of the Cambridge game when we scored in the first minute and had a let down. But, Andy's goal kept the pressure on. It showed the players were ready for the game and they just kept coming back.

The Hawks did keep pressing and looking for more scoring opportunities. Gino DeStefano, only a sophomore, was playing well from his forward position setting up plays. Late in the first period, Waltham was pressing again and the Newton defense had all it could do to keep the ball out of the net.

Locke made some nice stops in the first quarter. Marcou labeled a shot for the top corner that Locke just tipped wide with his hand. The Hawks weren't to be denied, however. Mandy Campos, who has been injured, shuffled a nice pass over to league leading scorer Joe Costa (12 goals and seven assists).

Costa was directly in front of the Newton North goal and his shot glanced off Locke and rolled into the net before fullabck Tim Feeney could dig the ball out. Waltham had three goals on the board in the first 14 minutes of play and North coach Emilio Mazzolla found himself in a familiar position. Waltham had a strong first half in its 2-0 win in the first game of the season scoring both goals.

"They deserved it," said Mazzolla. "They played like they wanted to win and like they want to be champions. That first goal sort of set us back a little. They never let up. We just have to put this behind us and win the next one."

The score went into the half at 3-0. "I had a short halftime speech," said Mazzolla. "We're three goals down and you can come back." The Tigers came out in the third quarter and had their chances to score.

Waltham goaltender Charlie Pulselli had an excellent game and in the third period he squelched any thoughts Newton had of a comeback. North halfback Dave Notter had two chances in the period and each time Pulselli made the stop. On one shot, Notter was 20 feet out and drilled a low shot, but Pulselli dove over and made the stop.

John Stewart took a cornerkick for Newton, but Pulselli ranged far out of the net and jumped high to grabbed the ball before it could be headed into the net.

"Newton is a good team," said Graceffa, "and in the third period they outplayed for the first nine minutes. Charlie got a chance to show what kind of goaltender he is. He made some fine saves."

DeStefano set up the final Waltham goal with a pass to Scott LaForest late in the third period. Scott hit the ball on the go and drove it to the lower lefthand corner of the net.

The Hawks improved their record to 8-0-1 and still have allowed just one goal. Waltham's four goals was the most scored by the Hawks against Newton North in the team's history. The Hawks don't like to lose or be scored upon.

The hunger and willingness of Waltham will be tested again on Friday. The Hawks host rival Brockton and own a victory in the first meeting between the two.

The Tigers record dropped to 4-5 and they travel to Quincy on Friday. North has displayed the potential to not only play with the league's top teams, but beat them. The Tigers defeated Brockton, 4-2, and Brookline, 1-0, but are 0-2 against the Hawks this season.

Boys' cross country

Tigers run past biggest obstacle

The Newton North boys' cross country team took a giant step toward winning its third Suburban League championship in a row and the fourth in five years Wednesday with an important 26-31 victory over previously unbeaten Cambridge, Rindge and Latin at Cambridge.

The Tigers, who have also won the EMass title three years running, are now 5-0. They only need to win their two remaining meets against Waltham and Brookline to finish on top once again.

Cambridge's Bob Sheehan won the race, breaking his own course record with a time of 14:55. But the Tigers won the meet with depth. They took second, third and fourth before the efforts of George Fulk, Paul Partridge and Tom Carleo. Fulk was timed in 15:14, Partridge in 15:15 and Carleo in 15:20 in the incredibly tight race.

Cam Laing also ran a solid race to take seventh in 15:36 while Dave Kagan came home ninth and Ted Burke finished 10th.

Waltham High, meanwhile, notched its first victory of the season with a 25-30 triumph over North Quincy at Quincy.

Senior Greg Platt, who is undefeated this year, kept that streak alive by racing home in 12:36 for top spot. Kevin Milligan took second to give the Hawks a one-two sweep.

Heatley, Demoy and MacKenzie also finished in the top 10 for Waltham.

The Hawks are now 1-3.

North 2-1 winner in volleyball

The Newton North volleyball team upped its record to 6-2 Wednesday with a tight 2-1 victory over North Quincy at Newton.

North Quincy captured the first game, 15-11, but the Tigers rebounded to win the next two, 15-12 and 15-5.

Megan Guiney and Rachelle Scott led the triumph with some outstanding spiking, serving and setting.

The Tigers will be at Brockton Friday.

Register for hockey

Intramural League registrations in Newton Youth Hockey will be held the next two Saturday mornings at the Fessenden School Rink, 9 a.m. to noon.

Any child registering must be accompanied by a parent or an adult. The age eligibility is from 3 to 16. For further information contact Mike LeConti at 332-7775.

North girls win 11th, shut out Bridgewater

The Newton North girls' soccer team proved again on Monday it will take on all comers.

The Tigers left the Suburban League schedule and played Bridgewater-Raynham, a top team in the Old Colony League and captured a hard-fought 2-0 victory at Bridgewater.

Newton North remained unbeaten extending its record to 11-0 overall and 10-0 in the league. The Tigers and Trojans played to a scoreless tie after the first half.

Newton North got the game's first goal midway through the third period. Stephanie Stoyanoff hit a cross from the left side and Andrea Farina drilled a low hard shot into the right hand corner for the game's first score.

The insurance tally came on a penalty kick. Stoyanoff was breaking in alone, but was tripped up from behind and a penalty shot was called. Lori Goldenberg cashed in on the break and the Tigers had the two goal lead.

Carol Summers had an outstanding game in the goal for Newton. She made 20 saves. The Tigers travel to Weymouth South on Wednesday.

Waltham defeated Quincy, 6-0, in a Suburban League game.

Tigers post golf victory

Paul Shanian took medal honors with a 44 to lead the Newton North golf team to a 191-211 victory over Waltham High Friday in a Suburban League match at Weston Golf Club.

Kevin Campbell was one stroke back with a 45. Low men for Waltham were Mike Fitzgerald and Andy Caponi, both with 50's. The teams played the front nine.

Waltham, which has a 2-1-1 record, closes out its season at Brockton Tuesday. The summary:

2nd period explosion propels Newton North

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

On the excitement scale, it was probably as interesting to watch as a bocci tournament. But for Newton North, it was the perfect tonic. After four weeks of nailbiting finishes, the Tigers had a genuine, honest-to-goodness laugher Saturday, blowing away Quincy High, 40-15, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The victory ensured the Tigers' No.2 ranking in Division I and lifted their record to 5-0. They now have a week off to get ready for Cambridge, Rindge and Latin on Oct.31.

This could have been a tight game, but Mike Abbruzzese, who is fast establishing himnself as a legitimite game-breaker, and Billy Drew made sure that it wasn't. The Tigers put it away in explosive fashion by scoring two touchdowns in 27 seconds late in the first quarter, turning what was a brief 7-6 deficit into a healthy 21-7 cushion.

Newton had taken the early lead with a 63-yard drive which was capped by QB Ryan Foley's two-yard scamper. Quincy came right back with a march of its own, however, scoring when halfback Steve Goguen rolled right and passed the ball 14 yards to split end Dan Shaughnessy. Joe Harte booted the PAT and the Presidents led, 7-6.

That was with 1:30 left in the first period. When the clock read 1:03, the Tigers were up by 14. During the interim, Abbrusseze ran Quincy's kickoff back 85 yards for one score and then, after the Presidents fumbled the next kickoff on a vicious hit by Dave Rowland, Tim Brandon went long on the first play to Drew for 27 yards and another score.

"Abbruzzese's run was such a big factor," said Tiger coach Norm Walker. "Quincy had just driven the length of the field and taken the lead. They seemed to have the momentum. But that touchdown took the life right out of them."

It was the second time Abbruzzese had run a kickoff back this season. He did it for 95 yards on opening day against Framingham North, but this one was more spectacular. Where in Framingham he went virtually untouched, this time he broke up the middle, bounced off two tacklers, slipped another one, and cut to the right sideline for the final 40 yards.

Curiously, the final stats favored Quincy. The Presidents had more first downs (15-11), more yards rushing (195-126) and more passing (137-106), but the Tigers hit the big play (scoring also on a 43-yard bomb from Foley to Drew and a 35-yard interception return by Rich Marchioni) while the Presidents killed nearly every scoring opportunity they mustered with penalties.

"I figured they would have a few," said Walker. "It was (Sean) Martin's first game back at quarterback so I thought there might be a mixup or two."

There were more than that. Quincy was penalized nine times for 107 yards, with one crucial motion infraction calling back a 44-yard TD pass which would have made the score 21-14 at halftime. The Tigers weren't much better. They committed eight penalties for 60 yards.

Leading 21-7 at intermission, the Tigers opened the second half with an eight-play, 65-yard drive to effectively seal the victory. "That was a key drive for us. One we needed very badly," said Walker. "I was particularly pleased because we did it all on the ground."

Abbrusseze (49 yards in 11 carries) started it off with an 11-yard gallop. With the help of a 10-yard run by Al Fortune and a 15-yard penalty for face masking, the Tigers moved to the Quincy four. Foley, who scored twice, capped the drive with a four-yard rollout into the right corner.

In a strange manuever, Walker went to an onside kick after the TD, recovered, and then called for a bomb from Foley to Drew. The pair connected from 43 yards and Newton was ahead, 34-7. Marchioni finished off the rout moments later by intercepting a Martin aerial (one of four) in the left flats and rolling 35 yards into the end zone.

Newton North girls shut out Waltham for 9th straight win

The beat goes on for the Newton North girls' soccer team. The Tigers, behind goals from Stephanie Stoyanoff and Lori Goldenberg, defeated Waltham High Wednesday, 2-0, for their ninth straight win.

Goalie Carol Summers posted her eight shutout of the season. Newton North has only allowed one goal (against Weymouth South) all season, and Summers was not in the nets at the time.

Stoyanoff gave them the win in the third quarter, breaking a scoreless deadlock by taking a feed from Goldenberg and smashing the ball home from 15 yards.

She then returned the favor moments later, passing the ball to Goldenberg to set up the second score. Goldenberg took the ball, dribbled past two defenders and booted the ball with her left foot to the top corner.

Newton North outshot the Hawks, 18-9.

Waltham had some chances, particularly by Sue Giagrande, who hit the post in the third period, and Mary O'Brien, who missed a goal by six inches in the second.

"We played very well," said Hawk coach John Heslin. "We just didn't have any luck. This was a great girls' soccer game, though. Up and down action all afternoon."

Heslin, despite the loss, was pleased with the play Tracy Woods, Maryann Mitchell, sophomore Maureen Callahan, Janice Cormier and Jeanne Gately.

Now 9-0, the Tigers host Quincy Friday. The 4-4-1 Hawks will be at Brockton Friday.

The Weston girls' soccer team continued winless as Concord-Carlisle routed the Wildcats, 6-0, at Concord.

Concord-Carlisle tallied four quick goals in the first 10 minutes and never looked back. "We actually played pretty even with them in the second half," said Weston coach Pete Silverman. "One girl for Concord even came up to me afterward and said that we lost the first game, 6-0, and tied the second, 0-0."

Nonetheless, the Wildcats drop to 0-6-1 on the season with a Friday date against Lincoln-Sudbury next on the horizon.

Bearing in

Joe Romanski of Waltham moves in for a shot on net as Newton's John Whoriskey (25) comes over to cut him off. The Hawks remained unbeaten Wednesday night with a 4-0 triumph.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
No child is really too young to have chiropractic treatment. It is true that while children are remarkably resilient, they are also prone to more falls and bumps than most other age groups. When children fall, they get up again but there is no way of immediately telling if there has been any internal damage. Symptoms of spinal or nervous disfunction may show up later. As a result, it is a good idea to have children checked regularly so that the tumbles and falls of childhood do not develop into adult-size problems.
Regular chiropractic treatment for the whole family is, indeed a good idea. Children respond well to chiropractic care. Children play rough and may suffer shocks to the spine that cause bony segments to slip beyond normal range causing interference with nerves. Children need regular chiropractic care. We eliminate the underlying causes of illness by releasing blocked or pinched nerves and keeping vital nerve energy flowing freely. DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington Street, Roslindale, 323-5022. Hours by appointment and three evenings a week.

Lecture series among programs schools offer

NEWTON — Residents will have opportunities this fall to spend a Sunday evening with Congressman Barney Frank, play Renaissance music, study Yiddish Theater, and barter materials and services with other Newton residents.

A variety of programs are being offered through the Newton Community Schol Schools, according to Joseph S. Baron, director.

"NCS volunteers from across the city have developed a wide range of innovative programs for children, adults and seniors."

Musicians, local artists and well-known professionals will participate in the fall community schools programs. One program, entitled, "Sunday Evening Series," provides a format where distinguished speakers will discuss current issues. Sponsored by the Cabot Community School, the series will present Congressman Barney Frank; Leslie Carruthers, Deputy Regional Administrator for EPA; Lance Liebman, Professor of Law, Harvard University; Mark Moore, Guggenheim Professor of Crininal Justice Policy, Kennedy School of Government; Martin Zimmerman, Associate Professor of Economics, Sloane School of Management, M.I.T.; and Donald Hafner, Associate Professor of Political Science, Boston College.

"We wanted to give Newton residents a chance to come together in a relaxed atmosphere, have a glass of wine, and discuss current issues with professionals who are knowledgeable in their fields," says Dottie Engler, Cabot Community School Co-Coordinator.

Focusing on such issues as Reagan economics, affirmative action, arms control and national security, the series will meet in the homes of participants. "Almost all of the speakers are local residents," Engler continued. "Often, everyone knows what their neighbors do for a living, but those people never have the chance to sit down and really discuss important issues with their friends and neighbors," he said.

The Bowen Community School has also incorporated several new activities into its fall line-up. For children, two music groups will be offered, including a 16th century music course entitled "Bowen Madrigals." It will be offered to students in grades 4-6. For string and woodwind players, the "Bowen Chanber Orchestra" will play music from the classical repertory.

Adults will also have the choice of two musical groups: beginning and advanced Renaissance music. Taught by Hope Ehn, master of music, the groups will play music from the 15th and 16th centuries and will combine Renaissance instruments, such as viols, drumhorns, lutes and shawms, with modern instruments, such as strings, flutes, oboe and guitar.

The Ward/Underwood Community School will offer residents varied opportunities to study the theater. For those interested in Jewish Culture, Gladys Heitin will offer a 4-session course entitled, "The Yiddish Theater - from Shtetl to 2nd Ave. to Revival." Recordings and readings will be used in a disscussion of Yiddish theater history.

The mime workshop will be taught by E.J. Koch, professional mime/clown. The acting workshop will be directed by Marcie Armsby, professional stage/TV actress. Both classes will work with the individual, as well as developing group performances.

At Countryside Community School's forum, residents may barter their services and/or possessions. Participants are encouraged to use their imagination when developing items to barter, and are welcome to trade plants, skills, property, services and materials.

For more information, call the NCS office at 552-7118.

Newton attorney re-elected bar's county delegate

NEWTON CENTRE — Attorney James P.D. Waters of Newton has been reelected to a third term as Middlesex County delegate to the Massachusetts Bar Association.

There are 12,000 Massachusetts Bar attorney members in the association, 2,000 of whom practice in Middlesex County.

Waters is Vice-Chairman of the Newton Election Commission, and Instructor of Law at Boston College's School of Management, Judge Advocate of the Eastern Massachusetts Council of the Navy League and Vice President of the Massachusetts Bank Council Association.

A fellow of the Massachusetts Bar Foundation, Waters is a member of the Property Law Council of the Massachusetts Bar Association and is a member of the Newton-Waltham-Watertown and Weston Bar Association. He is in the general practice of law at 17 Herrick Road, Newton Centre.

INSTALLATION

Garden City Lodge A.F. & A.M of Newtonville held installation of officers recently and Dr. Robert H. Brown (left) of Framingham was installed as master by his brother-in-law, Paul S. Koss of Amherst, center. Dana A. Jackson (right) of Newton, the outgoing master, passes the gavel of authority.

Dr. Aisner named to medical board

BOSTON — Governor Edward J. King recently administered the oath of office to Dr. Mark Aisner, of Waban, to the Board of Registration in Medicine.

"Dr. Aisner has long-standing experience as a physician and professor in medical schools," Governor King said. "I am confident he will use this experience to do a fine job in his new post."

Dr. Aisner currently has a private medical practice in Newton.

He received his bachelor's degree from Harvard College and his medical degree from Tufts University School of Medicine.

For 32 years, Dr. Aisner was an instructor and professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society of Boston, a member of the American Board of Internal Medicine and a Fellow of the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Aisner has been a member of the editorial board of the New England Journal of Medicine. He is also the author of numerous publications in various medical journals.

Correction

NEWTON HIGHLANDS—In the Sept. 30 issue of the Newton Graphic, a story appeared stating that a new consignment shop is the only consignment shop in Newton Highlands.

According to Marie Vivardo, owner of Fleur-De-Lis, an antique shop in Newton Highlands, Vivardo also sells items on consignmnent. "I do almost all my business on consignment" she stated.

There are also several other shops in Newton Highlands which do business on consignment.

FUND-RAISING

NEWTON — Presenting a check for $30,000, the proceeds of their fundraising year on behalf of retarded citizens are Avis Lampert (left) and Marilyn Cuter, both of Newton, representing Friends of GBARC. Recipient of funds was Alex Moschella, president of the Greater Boston Assoc. for Retarded Citizens. Also involved in the project were Ruth Mandell, Joel Gibbs and Georgia Freid of Newton.

U.S.O. supporter Captain Ivan R. Samuels (right) of Park St., Newton, presents a check to Captain Daniel D. Gallagher, USNR, president of the Boston U.S.O. recently. Check represented a share of receipts of the Constitution Ball, sponsored by Maritime Serivices Foundation of which Capt. Samuels is a trustee. Joining the ceremony was U.S.S. Constitution crewman Douglas Larau.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

ALTERNATIVE CARE

WHAT RECESSION?

Last year all our people received 6 monthly profit-sharing checks, one general raise, one extra week's pay at Christmas, and in August, a healthy fiscal year-end bonus... and as much overtime as they could handle.

Now we need 2 more light plastic press operators. If you're willing to give us your best, you can bet we'll do the same! We'll train you and have you making a real contribution by nightfall.

Come on in and talk it over with Tom O'Connor.

Caulkins starting new career phase

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — There's not much Tracy Caulkins hasn't already accomplished in a swimming pool, but this winter she'll embark on a new phase of her aquatic career — collegiate swimming for the University of Florida.

"The new atmosphere and a new coach makes this year especially exciting," Caulkins, 18, said Tuesday. "I'm a long way from getting tired of it."

With the first two national titles she wins this year, the freshman from Nashville, Tenn., who already holds 35 national titles, would tie and then pass Johnny "Tarzan" Weismueller.

Among her feats are 15 individual U.S. records; national titles in all five strokes — the breast, butterfly, individual medley, back and freestyle; three former world records and seven American relay marks.

The 5-foot-9, 130-pound swimming star, who has been competing for the past 10 years, is not worried about "burn out" because of the grind of practice.

"I think the reason people used to say that, at least for women swimmers, is because there weren't many opportunities after the high school level," she said. "But now that they have college scholarships for women swimmers, there's no reason why you can't compete into your 20s."

A scholarship, her sister, Amy, and the credentials of Florida Coach Randy Reese combined to persuade Caulkins to enroll at Florida. The proximity of Gainesville to her native Tennessee also helped.

Asked if there was ever any conflict with Amy, a junior on the Florida swim team, when the sisters were growing up, the younger Caulkins said, "Not really. Amy's specialty is in the sprints, and I didn't used to swim those."

But nowadays Tracy Caulkins swims in all events. Her versatility is what makes her unique.

"Some people need to concentrate on a certain event and, obviously, anytime you practice just one thing over and over you're going to get better at it," she said. "But I like variety.

"The accomplishment I'm proudest of is having held the American record in every stroke, and the more variety I have the better it helps me in the individual medleys, which are my best events."

Her travels have allowed her to meet and swim against all the top East German women swimmers and, she reports, the rivalry between them and the American girls is not as bitter as it used to be.

The reason: "We've all met so many times that we learned to respect each other," she said.

To date, the only disappointment in her swimming career was the American boycott of the 1980 Olympics.

Is Hipple for real?

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — It won't take long to find out whether Eric Hipple, quarterback find of the Detroit Lions, is a one-game wonder.

Hipple goes back to the hot spot Sunday when Detroit hosts the Green Bay Packers. Everyone will be watching to see if he can come reasonably close to his spectacular first start — four touchdown passes, two TDs running and 336 passing yards.

The second-year quarterback's remarkable performance sparked Detroit to a 48-17 lambasting of the Chicago Bears in Monday night's nationally televised game.

Detroit lifted itself to 3-4 with the victory while dropping NFC Central Division rival Chicago to 1-6.

"I don't think I'll have to look at the films to decide whether he'll start again," Detroit Coach Monte Clark said afterward of his hunch to go with the previously third-string Hipple in place of third-year man Jeff Komlo.

Komlo had replaced injured Gary Danielson two games ago. The Lions lost both, prompting Clark's switch to Hipple, who did not play a down last year after Detroit made the Utah State product its fourth-round choice in the 1980 draft.

Falcons look for balance

SUWANEE, Ga. (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons would like more balance among their running backs, but fullback William Andrews keeps messing up that plan by leaving the others choking on his dust.

This past Sunday, Coach Leeman Bennett took a hand by ordering that Lynn Cain, rather than Andrews, be the Falcons primary ball carrier, saying, "We want to get more production out of our halfback position."

Cain, getting the ball 16 times to only nine for Andrews, outgained his more illustrious teammate in rushing 79 yards to 25, including a 33-yard touchdown run. But Andrews, well on his way to going 3-for-3 in 1,000-yard seasons since joining the Falcons in 1979, still stole the show by scoring twice, on runs of 18 and 70 yards after catching swing passes in the Atlanta backfield.

By time the Falcons had beaten the St. Louis Cardinals, 41-20, Andrews had eight catches for 132 yards and now not only leads Atlanta in rushing with 583 yards in seven games, but also is second, only three behind front-running wide receiver Alfred Jenkins, with 26 catches for 292 yards.

"It was a typical William Andrews game," said Bennett. "He just does so many things. If you stop one facet of his game, he beats you with another.

"We felt it was important to get Cain (who gained 915 yards last year but had only 186 in six games before this past Sunday) back into the offense," said Bennett. "Andrews has been playing so well, it's easy to fall into a pattern.

"It turned out well because Andrews played very unselfishly. He and Cain complemented each other as they did a year ago."

"Anytime you get Lynn back in the offense you are going to make defenders wonder what's going on because he can run the ball as good as I can," says Andrews. "It felt good to get back into blocking for him because he's been blocking so well for me the last few weeks."

Andrews, a 6-foot, 200-pounder, has been a surprise for the Falcons ever since they drafted him out of Auburn University, where he was primarily a blocking back, as their second third round choice in '79 after James Mayberry who serves as Andrews backup.

Bennett came up with a good line on Andrews after his outstanding rookie season. "I feel," said Bennett, "like the guy who buys a Cadillac and discovers he gets 25 miles a gallon."

'Liberation' offered for cigarette smokers

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The Newton/Wellesley Unit of the American Cancer Society is continuing its effort to help people kick the cigarette habit by sponsoring a Smokers Liberation Workshop during November.

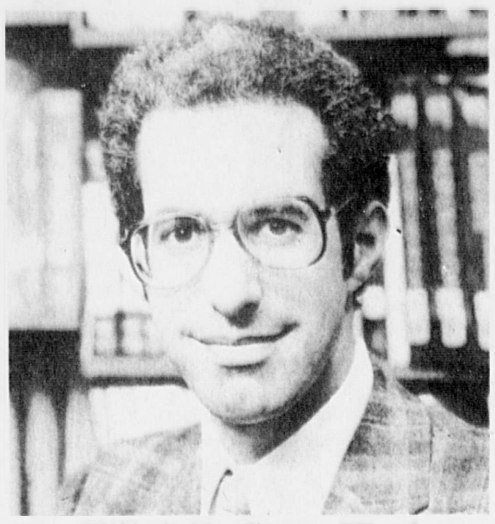

The workshop will be held on four consecutive Tuesday evenings beginning Nov. 3 and continuing on Nov. 10, 17 and 24. Each session of the workshop will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Newton/Highlands Library, 20 Hartford St., Newton Highlands.

Anyone interested in attending the workshop can enroll any time, including the first session, but should enroll early because the workshop is limited to 18 people. The cost is $20 per person.

Those interested can call Sam Cohen, the workshop facilitator and a member of the Newton/Wellesley ACS Unit public education committee, at 965-1653.

Cohen says nearly half the participants in such workshops are still off cigarettes a year later.

Dr. Evelyn S. Picker of Newton, a specialist in internal medicine, recently opened an office at 110 Francis Street in Boston, adjacent to the New England Deaconess Hospital.

Picker currently serves on the staffs of the New England Deaconess Hospital, Brookline Hospital and the New England Baptist Hospital. She is a graduate of Tufts University and the Medical College of Pennsylvania; and completed her training as a Resident in Internal Medicine at the New England Deaconess Hospital.

Valerie Holmes of Newton, is one of several children chosen to perform in "King Midas and the Golden Touch," which is playing now through Nov. 7 at the New England Life Hall, Boston.

"King Midas," which is performed each Saturday at 2 p.m. is being presented by the Boston Children's Theater, Brookline.

"King Midas" is based on the children's tt story by Nathaniel Hawthorne. It is the story of a King who wishes that everything he touches may turn to gold. When the wish is granted, he inadvertently touches his daughter. Overwhelmed by grief, he gropes his way to the simple truth that breaks the spell.

For information and reservations, call the Boston Children's Theater at 277-3277.

Electronics firm started in Newton

NEWTON — Bytex Corporation, a Newton firm specializing in electronic tech control products for data communications applications has been founded by President Dr. Steven G. Finn, Executive Vice President Bang-woel Lu, and Marketing Vice President Alan D. Greenfield.

Major areas of concentration will include electronic switching, patching, real time monitoring and alarming. Bytex' initial product offering will be in the general class of microprocessor-based matrix switches, projected for release first quarter 1982.

According to company spokesman Greenfield, Bytex is targeting its products at the "gap" between traditional electromechanical devices with their inherent limitations, and costly high end electronic systems.

Bytex is backed by venture capital firms including the Charles River Partnership of Boston and Jamieson & Co. of Menlo Park, Ca. The firm's founders are all former departmental directors of Codex Corporation.

Summons by publication

David J. Mintz and Robert O. Cummings, Executors of the will of Mary E. Tennis, Plaintiffs

vs.

Dorothy Unsworth, the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Francis X. Bellotti, as he is Attorney General of Massachusetts,
Defendants.

To the above-name Defendants:

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon John J. Roche, plaintiff's attorney, whose address is Hale and Dorr, 60 State St., Boston, MA 02109 an answer to the complaint which is filed in said Court and demands which appear in this summons within 20 days after November 2, 1981. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you. You are also required to file your answer to the complaint in the office of the Register of this Court at Cambridge either before service upon plaintiff's attorney or within a reasonable time thereafter. DEMANDS OF SAID COMPLAINT:

1. That this Court determine whether said Dorothy Unsworth has ceased to occupy the premises at 86 Allerton Road, Newton, Mass., as her principal residence within the meaning of Clause Fourth of the will of Mary E. Tennis and whether, pursuant to Clause Fourth, title to said real estate shall revert to the estate of said Mary E. Tennis to be disposed of as part of the residue according to the provisions of Clause Sixth of said will.

2. That the plaintiffs be allowed from the estate their reasonable costs of this action, including attorney's fees.

3. That this Court grant such other and further relief as it deems appropriate in the circumstances.

Unless otherwise provided by Rule 13 (a), Mass. R.Civ.P., your answer must state as a counterclaim any claim which you may have against the plaintiff which arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of plaintiff's claim or you will thereafter be barred from making such claim in any other action.

Sgt. John Foley

NEWTON — A Pro-Burial Mass was held for John W. Foley, Jr., at St. Bernard's Church on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Sgt. Foley died after a long illness in Negril, Jamaica Sept. 23. The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Gerard Barry, who as an old friend stated in his remarks that Sgt. Foley was "faithful to his family, his community and his church. He was an outstanding civil servant who young and old will remember for his friendly manner."

Fr. Barry reminded the assembled members of Sgt. Foley's family, friends and co-workers that he grew up in Kerry Cross (Four Corners), Newton. Sgt. Foley and Rev. Barry were both associated with the post office and in their spare time devoted considerable time to the Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre.

Sgt. Foley was known to many Newton residents as "The Walking Sergeant" because he walked an average of 15 miles daily for 27 years. At his retirement, Sgt. Foley estimated he had walked a distance equal to crossing the U.S. seven times.

Sgt. Foley was also popularily known as "Plug" Foley, a name derived from his willingness to work.

He started working at the Washington Park Pharmacy as a soda fountain attendant when he was 15. He took both the State Police and Newton Police Exams, passed both, and joined the Newton Police in September, 1940 as a working reserve officer. He was appointed a regular officer in May, 1941 and a sergeant in November, 1951. In all, he served 37 years, and was working in the Special Service Bureau at the time of his retirement.

Capt. Walter Drew and Robert Mahoney led a delegation of Newton police officers and traffic supervisors at the Mass. Senior Retired Officer Joseph Greeley led a delegation of retired officers.

Also present were many close neighbors and friends.

Janet M. Melnick, 32

WEST NEWTON — Janet L. (McMahon) Melnick, of West Newton, died suddenly on Monday in her home after a long illness. She was 32.

Mrs. Melnick was born in Newton, and attended St. Bernard's School and Aquinas Jr. College. She had worked as a secretary for the Department of Public Works in Newton City Hall.

She leaves her husband, John Melnick; her father, George L. McMahon; two brothers, Waltham Police Officer George L. McMahon of Waltham, and Eugene McMahon of West Newton; and one sister, Gail McMahon of West Newton.

A Funeral Mass will be celebrated on Friday at 10:30 in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. Interment will be in the family lot, Newton Cemetery. Arrangements are by the T.J. Lyons Funeral Home, West Newton.

Henry Edward Stanton, 52

NEWTON UPPER FALLS — Henry Edward Stanton, 52, of Newton Upper Falls, died Tuesday.

A late member of the Newton Fire Department, Station 7, Newton Upper Falls, Mr. Stanton had been a firefighter since 1953.

He was member of the International Association of Firefighters, the State Permanent Firefighters Association, the Newton Firefighters Welfare Association, and the Newton Firefighters Relief Association.

He leaves his wife, Geraldine F. (Smith); a son, Martin K. of Newton; two daughters, Lynn-Marie Oropallo, of Framingham, and Karen A. Taylor of Baltimore; a sister, Marie McCallion of Buzzards Bay; and five grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the Martin E. Conroy and Son Funeral Home, 439 Washington St., Newton, Friday at 9 a.m., with a Funeral Mass in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church at 10 a.m.

Muriel E Champagne, 66

NEWTON — Muriel E. (Piper) Champagne, 66, of Newton, died Sunday in the Framingham Union Hospital after a brief illness. She was a resident of Newton for over 35 years.

Mrs. Champagne was a registered nurse at the Mt. Auburn Hospital.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph E. Champagne; one son, Joseph P. of Ashland; and one daughter, Muriel A. Mazzarini of Waltham. Also survived by seven grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held on Wednesday at 9:15 a.m. from the Andrew J. Magni Funeral Home, 365 Watertown St., Newton, followed by a 10 o'clock Funeral Mass in St. Jean's Church, Newton. Interment in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Few showed up for candidates' debate

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — For those politicians who enjoy listening to themselves, Grace Episcopal Church in Newton Corner Sunday evening provided the perfect forum.

Almost everyone, including five invited aldermen, decided to stay at home.

Fewer than 10 residents attended the Ward 1 Democratic Committee sponsored Candidate's Night featuring the candidates for citywide alderman-at-large, mayoral hopeful Bruce Marquis and Mayor Theodore Mann.

Several incumbent aldermen also snubbed the debate. Ward 4 incumbents Richard McGrath and Donald Budge, Dominick Taglienti of Ward 7, Paul Daley - formerly the alderman-at-large from Ward 5 and now vying for the Ward 3 seat - and Ward 2 hopeful Patricia Ciccone were all conspicuously absent.

As a result of the sparse crowd (which induced Marquis to leave early so that he could attend another gathering) and Mann's late arrival, the two mayoral candidates did not debate.

Perhaps the night's only sparks came when Ward 1 Alderman-at-Large Bruce Carmichael was forced to defend his vote against the Druker proposal for Newton Corner. Carmichael, Glenn Morris and Sandra Shick are vying for two seats, including the one now occupied by veteran Alderman Robert Gaynor.

The $38 million revitalization project, which was rejected by aldermen in early August after 18 months of negotiations, called for one nine-story, 110,000 sqaure foot office building, 301 housing units and a 500-car parking garage on the site of the Gorin and Leeder building.

Carmichael, seeking a second term on the board, said he objected to the project because it "was completely out of scope with the area."

"The issue was three-fold," added Carmichael, "Druker's inability to work within city guidelines, the density of the project, and the developer's attitude that we either accept the proposal as presented or accept a four-story office building in its place."

Morris and Shick felt that Carmichael's vote against Druker was unjustified when looking at the city's inadeqaute housing stock.

Morris, an architect by trade and a member of the Newton Corner Community Task Force, said the rejected proposal, because of its architectural design, would actually "have been smaller" than the office building now being proposed.

He noted that the alternative, which aldermen do not have to approve, provides the city with no additional housing and the tenants of the complex with no relocation money. Morris said he would be commited toward the preservation of the city's current rental housing stock and the construction of additional rental housing.

Shick admitted she had problems with the project but added it was the "best alternative." A practicing lawyer in Newton Centre, Shick used the opportunity to note she was one of the authors of the city's 10 percent ordinance while involved with the League of Women Voters. The law requires developers to commit 10 percent of the units in a new project to low-income and elderly housing.

In the Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large race, challengers Mark Golden and Lane Sofman sqaured-off as McGrath and Budge stayed away. McGrath, who outpolled his closest opponent by almost 2,000 votes in the September preliminary, should win again in November. Budge, however, could be in trouble as indicated by his slim 300 vote margin over Sofman and 400 vote differential between himself and Golden.

Golden, a sales representative of Needlework Products, brought "ideas rather than rhetoric" to the platform. Some of his ideas included the installation of solar collectors on municipal buildings to provide hot water, the employment of a person who would act stickly as a lobbyist for federal funds, the implementation of a charge for false fire and police alarms, and the use of the Pine St. dump as a city tree nursery.

Sofman, a dentist by trade, said he wanted to see that all city departments operate at a "high level of efficiency." He then made the comparison of his own dentist business with the business of running the city noting that his customers as well as residents want to retain a high level of service without increasing costs.

In Ward 5, where three incumbent aldermen are vying for two citywide seats, Alderman James Miller admitted that he has attended less than 50 percent of his committee meetings over the past two years because of personal conflicts and previous commitments. He noted, however, that if "any information exists, he has read it."

Miller said that over the next two years, the relationship between the board of aldermen and the school committee could become a battleground and people should be watchful.

Alderman Paul Coletti said he recently voted for the release of the city's revalutaion figues - the release of which may be challenged in court by the firm conducting revaluation - and is commited to the attendence of board meetings.

"I'm being asked to be there," said Coletti of his obligation. "Not only to bring information, but also to bring it back to my constituiency."

Vern Vance, candidate for Ward 7 Alderman-at-Large, said he "took the big plunge" into local politics "largely over his concern of the financing of the public school system."

A practicing attorney and graduate of Harvard Law School, Vance said the city must find ways to expand its tax base without destroying village life and try to amend Proposition 2½ which caps a community's growth at 2½ percent despite an annual inflation rate of 10 percent.

Eve Ross, along with Vance, is vying for the seat now held by four-term alderman Mark White. Veteren Alderman Dominick Taglienti, who stayed away last night, should outdistance each of his opponents for the other seat.

Ross, also an attorney, received a masters degree from Harvard University in city planning and feels she can bring this expertise to the board. She favored the Druker proposal (which Taglienti voted against) for the addition of rental housing, the "sub-standard" condition of the Gorin and Leeder building, and the tax monies the proposal would have returned to the city.

Incumbent Ward 2 Aldermen Terry Morris and Edward Richmond arrived at different times and subsequently failed to debate. They are opposed by Patricia Ciccone.

Upper Falls residents have Block Grant ideas

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

UPPER FALLS — An addition to the Emerson Community Center and improvements to streets throughout the village are some of the proposals that were discussed last night with Upper Falls residents and members of the Planning and Developement Department.

Some 12 proposals were mentioned during a meeting of Community Developement Block Grant (CDBC) funds, through which the federal government makes available to communities money for improvement projects to low income areas.

According to Diane Schore, Director of Community Developement, the City of Newton will have approximately $700,000 less to work with this year, as a result of federal budget cuts. She warned residents to be cautious in making proposals for use of community improvement funds.

"There's not much room for error," Schore told residents last night at the Upper Falls Depot, addding that Upper Falls residents had to" set priorities" and "make some tight decisions."

For the next fiscal year,which begins July 1,1982,the United States Department of Housing and Urban Developement (HUD) has made available to Newton $1.7 million, according to Schore. HUD previously made available to Newton $2.275 for this fiscal year, which began last July 1.

The Planning Department, along with some 12 improvement proposals for Upper Falls, has made dozens of recommendations for improvements in Newton Corner, Nonantum, West Newton and Newtonville. Meetings with residents of those communities will take place until Oct. 21. A public hearing concerning all the proposals will be held at Newton City Hall on Oct. 27.

In addition to planning department proposals, some Upper Falls residents also made recommendations at the meeting. One resident proposed building an additional room at the Emerson Community Center, where, he said, 170 senior citizens crowd into the corridor to view films. Ken Newcomb, who is a member of the Upper Falls senior citizens group, said the addition is needed by the seniors, but could also be used by local youth when it isn't being used by the seniors.

Residents seemed interested in the idea and suggested that a feasibility study be done concerning the addition. One resident suggested that if the proposal was not funded through CDBG, Upper Falls should still consider initiating the project.

Improvements to streets and curbs were also discussed, including traffic and landscape designs on Chestnut and Ellis Streets, and curb and walk improvements to Winter and Elliot Streets,all of which were written into the proposal by the planning department. But residents stressed that Hyde Street, which residents noted was once the entrance to Upper Falls, is in desperate need of repair.

"It was once the most beautiful street," one resident said.According to residents, Hyde Street walks are cracked and the landscaping needs a facelift. "I would really like to see Hyde Street look attractive," one woman said, as she reminded others that the street should be maintained because it is a historic area.

Larry Hasenfus, Youth Coordinator, reminded residents that as a result of federal cuts, his annual budget has been reduced by 35 percent, which cut his budget to $20,000 this year.Hasenfus, who said several youth programs were stopped as a result of the cuts,is seeking an additional $10,000 he told residents.

Other CDBG propsals include $20,000 for operational support of the Emerson Community Center for the next fiscal year, $1,089 for signs designation historic areas of Upper Falls and $59,500 for historic rehabilitation in the next fiscal year.

The total cost of the Upper Falls proposals alone is $1,367,534.00.

Nursing services expand to Newton

NEWTON — The Newton-Wellesley Visiting Nurse Association and the Weston Visiting Nurse Association recently became a unified organization serving. a population of 125,000 with home health care services.

The Newton VNA was organized in 1898 with a nurse calling on 10 to 12 patients each day by bicycle. The cost of a visit was fifty cents.

In 1974, the Wellesley Friendly Aid Association's visiting nurse program joined with the Newton group.

Today, the Newton-Wellesley-Weston VNA has a nursing staff of 18. In addition, there are 6 staff members specializing in speech, occupational and physical therapy, serving patients.

Working closely with physicians, the VNA staff aims at assisting patients achieve independence as quickly as possible.

"Although our nurses may visit a patient as often as twice a day or, more likely, once a week, we do not linit our services to direct patient care," states Carolyn Glenn, R.N., agency executive director. A family is also taught how to give proper care and attention to a patient.

The agency specializes in post-hospital care so that when a patient is discharged there is a continuing plan for services in the home. "This often means that patients can return home more quickly," adds Glenn.

The VNA also maintains clinic services at its offices in Waban and is currently administering a flu vaccine program to the employees of local businesses.

As a nonprofit agency with a $1 million budget, the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Visting Nurse Association is governed by a board of directors with representatives from its three communities.

Library joins BSO celebration

NEWTON — The Newton Free Library will join in the celebration of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's first 100 years, "A Century of Change and Continuity," with a display at the Main Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, now through the end of the month.

From the first conductor, to the Orchestra's present conductor, Seiji Ozawa, there have been 13 music directors and conductors of the orchestra. Many of the musicians who play for the Boston Symphony Orchestra live in Newton, including concertmaster Joseph Silverstein. Silverstein is also the assistant conductor of the Orchestra. He appears regularly as a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as well as with other orchestras. Silverstein is the first violinist and music director of the Boston Symphony Chamber Players.

Emanuel Borok, the assistant concertmaster, and violinists Cecylia Arzewski, Fredy Ostrovsky and Gerald Gelbloom are Newton residents.

Other Boston Symphony Orchestra musicians who live in Newton include second violinists Marylou Speaker, Ronald Knudson, Laszlo Nagy, Harvey Seigel and Sheila Fiekowsky and violists Burton Fine, Eugene Lehner, Robert Barnes, Jerome Lipson and Bernard Kadinoff. Also, cellists Mischa Nieland, Robert Ripley, Joel Moershel and Martha Babcock, oboeists Ralph Gomberg and Alfred Genovese, and clarinetist Harold Wright. Bassonist Matthew Ruggiero makes his home in Newton, as do horn players Daniel Katzen and Richard Mackey, trombonists Ronald Barron and Gordon Ballberg, percussion player Arthur Press and Victor Alpert, the librarian.

City signs agreement on Weeks' conversion

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In an attempt to help ease the housing pinch in the city, the Newton Community Development Corporation (NCDF) has signed a 65-year lease with the city to convert the former John W. Weeks Junior High School into 75 units of mixed-income rental housing.

Mayor Theodore Mann made the announcement Thursday noting that the lease arrangement will help the city meet its goal of "providing affordable housing for persons of all ages and incomes."

The junior high school was vacated in July when the School Committee voted to close the school because of declining enrollment.

NCDF, a non-profit organization, is currently completing construction of a 43-unit complex on Sumner Street in Newton Centre. Work on the project, including delays caused by masonry and carpenter strikes this summer, has taken about a year.

Under the agreement, NCDF will pay the city $25,000 upon execution of the lease, $500,000 in two payments within the first calendar year and $80,000 annually for each year thereafter. The contract also entitles the city to a share of syndication proceeds and 20 percent of any rent increase on a yearly basis.

According to Planning and Development Director Barry Canner, a lease agreement allows the city to work around the 2½ percent growth tax-cap imposed by Proposition 2½ as well as avoid city charter regulations that would make it necessary to place sale monies into a surplus building account. By way of a lease, the monies are not targeted and may be placed in the city's general fund account.

Planning and Development Director Barry Canner said Thursday details on a sale agreement involving the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls should be ironed out next week.

The school, which has been vacant for two years, will be converted into 27 to 29 condominiums starting at $85,000, according to Canner.

Rick Bohn, Executive Director of NCDF, said 34 of the units will be subsidized housing for the elderly and another eight units will be subsidized for low-income families.

Under Department of Housing and Development (HUD) guidelines, people eligible for subisidized housing are required to pay 25 percent of their income for rent. The remaining costs are picked up by HUD if the agency approves the project.

Although NCDF has yet to receive a commitment from HUD, Bohn appeared confident the foundation would receive federal backing.

The Peirce School is the only other public building to have been leased by the city. Claflin Hall, Peabody School, Bigelow House and Hamilton School were all sold to private developers.

Mayor Mann has edge

Marquis tries to narrow gap

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Bruce Marquis probably enjoyed both his greatest victory and biggest disappointment in his first try for public office the night he defeated Alderman Mark White in the preliminary.

Although Marquis won the right to do battle with Mayor Theodore Mann, some judged White the winner.

Given the preliminary as a barometer, in which Mann garnered 60 percent of the more than 12,000 votes cast, Marquis' campaign since the run-off election has been nothing but an uphill battle. Marquis earned 22 percent of the vote in the preliminary election. He has not only had to smile despite the disheartening numbers but has had to fight voter apathy.

Election Commissioner Alan Licarie has predicted that voter turnout on Nov. 4 will hover about the 20,000 figure. Marquis has said a showing of 25,000 would give him a good chance of upsetting Mann.

In 1977, Mann's last mayoral race, he defeated former state Rep. Peter Harrington by 3,000 votes as 25,000 people went to the polls.

Marquis, however, remains optimistic on the dawn of his eight-month campaign and is determined to challenge Mann until the final vote is cast on Tuesday.

The fresh face that entered the Newton political scene on March 16 is no longer an unknown. With a advertising blitz worth more than $21,000, $15,000 of which was spent prior to the preliminary, Marquis, a 37-year-old insurance salesman and father of two, has established himself as a political entity despite a lack of in-house experience.

Marquis has had trouble, however, finding an issue that would surface as a campaign leader. His attacks on the implementation of user fees, the delay surrounding revaluation, or the lack of smoke detectors in city buildings have failed to catch the public eye.

Instead of baiting the challenger, Mann decided early to rest on the laurels of his administration.

While Marquis tried to close the visibility gap between himself and NEWTON — A powerful Mayor Theodore Mann has outspent Waban insurance salesman Bruce Marquis by nearly a 3 to 1 margin in the critical last weeks of the mayoral campaign.

Mann spent $18,000 for the period from Sept. 5 to Oct. 16, according to campaign finance reports filed with the City Election Office Monday afternoon. Marquis spent approximately $6,700 for the same period.

Mann has apparently had little trouble raising funds in the wake of his impressive showing in the preliminary Sept. 22. It has been a different story for the challenger.

Marquis, a virtual political unknown six months ago, has not come close to raising the funds he did in the three-way preliminary race. Marquis spent more than either Mann or Alderman Mark White in the six-month period before the preliminary.

The former Director of Corporate Affairs for the National Easter Seals Society spent $15,000 and waged an extensive advertising and media blitz before the preliminary. Mann spent $10,200 before the preliminary.

Mann has $16,000 left in his campaign war chest - some of which will no doubt be spent in the last week of the campaign. Marquis, however, has only $200 left in his campaign coffers according to the campaign reports.

Mann has sent out color postcards of his family to voters throughout the city, advertised in local newspapers and enjoyed other advantages of regular media exposure from day-to-day city functions. The Marquis campaign, however, has been forced to spend its funds cautiously since the preliminary.

Mann claimed the fundraising was indicative of his support throughout the city. "The response from all over the city in terms of donations ranging from $5 and up has been overwhelming," he said.

Marquis, however, downplayed the financial blitz by Mann. "I don't think it will hurt me that much," Marquis said. "We leafleted twice." He said that he did not expect to outspend the incumbent.

In a jab at Mann, Marquis sarcastically quipped: "I'm glad I didn't outspend him. I wouldn't want to embarrass our beloved mayor."

Marquis criticizes city's user fees

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayoral candidate Bruce Marquis Monday charged that the Mann administration has "turned its back" on the 20,000 Newton voters who favored Proposition 2½ by implementing a wide range of user fees.

He said the user fees initiated by Mayor Theodore Mann for recreational activities, licenses and other city services are "regressive and hurting the people who can least afford to pay them."

Mann discarded the charges in an interview Monday. Responding to the latest criticism from the Marquis camp, Mann asked: "Is that all he has to say?" Mann contends the user fees were necessary to avoid deeper budget cuts in the wake of Proposition 2½.

Marquis also charged that the administration has been "sloppy" in collecting fees. He said the Department of Public Works has not collected a weekly 10 cent fee from businesses in the city for the pickup of ashes and shrubbery (for every container in excess of two) for the past several years.

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charlie Thomas claimed that the small fee did not amount to more than the cost of administering the charge so it was eliminated many years ago.

Marquis said the administration should have "cut the fat" out of the municipal budget rather than implement the user fees. He called the user fees an "insult to the intelligence of Newton citizens." The municipal budget recommended by Mann resulted in the elimination of 300 municipal positions.

School Committee race boasts two contests

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON - The poor turnout of candidates in the eight School Committee races has been attributed by some political observers to the loss of bottom line power of the purse to the aldermen under Proposition 2 ½.

There are only two contested races this year. Of the two, there was only one preliminary bout, a three— way race for the Ward 1 seat vacated this summer by Howard Spergel. The winner in this race will begin his term in mid-November.

Seeking the Ward 1 spot are Leonard Gentile of 20 Emerald St. and Jonathan Brant of 33 Maple Lane. In the second race, Ward 2 incumbent Katherine Jones of 1087 Commonwealth Ave. is being challenged by Kenneth Hartford of 30 Clarendon St.

Incumbents Nancy Mann (Ward 3), Susan Silbey (Ward 4), current Chairman Ann Berwick (Ward 6) and Robert Ricles (Ward 8) are running unopposed. Newcomers Marcia Mitchell of 62 Gammons Rd. (Ward 5) and James Mnookin of 40 Woodchester Dr. (Ward 7) will be elected with the luxury of running as two unopposed non-incumbents.

In the Ward 1 preliminary, Gentile's sweep on the north side of the city was impressive, but he also garnered strong support on the south side, Brant's stronghold, by falling only slightly behind in Ward 6-8 and capturing Ward 5.

Gentile's north side victory is evidence that he is supported by a substantial number of voters who appear to feel alienated by the school consolidations falling on their side of the city. The formation of the West Side Educational Association on the heels of the School Committee vote to close Warren Junior High rose out of the desire on that side of the city to gain greater representation.

Both Gentile and Brant see the need for improved communication between the School Committee and the Board of Aldermen in light of the bottom line budget control now held by the Board of Aldermen.

Brant, a graduate of Harvard Law School and practicing attorney, has said the committee's role with the Board should be as "the conduit of information about school matters, particularly budgetary matters, and must be a forceful advocate for necessary funding for the schools."

Brant said one way communication can be insured is by having School Committee members act as liasons with the aldermen from his or her ward.

Gentile, an administrative aide to Rep. Joseph DeNucci, feels professionalism must be maintained between the two bodies and that issues should not become personal.

"I just look forward to sitting down with the aldermen leading up to and during the budget process and working things out in the best interests of the taxpayers and kids of Newton," Gentile said. "I think they (the aldermen) are very reasonable people and when presented with reasonable arguments will come to the proper decision."

When asked how the search for a new superintendent should be conducted, Brant, who teaches law at the New England School of Law, said a nationwide search should begin as "quickly as possible" with "an aggressive networking effort to generate quality candidates both from here or afar."

According to Gentile, who worked for one year as a substitute teacher in Newton and for two years as a teacher aide combined with two years as a full-time teacher in Maine, the "most important thing" is that the membership of the search committee reflect "a large amount of community representation."

"I'm a little concerned that it might be a little top heavy with school people and adminstration," Gentile said.

Of the new superintendent, Gentile said he is seeking someone who will "fall somewhere in middle" of supporting "total creative thinking and basic classroom skills" and will recognize "the delicate balance" between the two. Gentile also wants a superintendent who will support a wide range of teaching techniques with renewed emphasis on writing skills.

The new superintendent must recognize "the importance of insuring ability on all levels," Gentile said, "which improves faith and community support of the schools."

Being 'choked up'isn't always funny

By Richard K. Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTONVILLE — Philip and Diane Jasset know that sometimes, being "all choked up" is not a laughing matter.

It's a matter of life or death.

Last year Philip saved his wife's life by his quick response and application of a simple emergency anti-choking remedy when she choked on a piece of meat in a Boston restaurant. Last Thursday night he got his just reward.

Philip Jasset is one of 40 Massachusetts residents honored by Blue Cross, Blue Shield as "choke savers" for saving lives of food choking accident victims over the past year.

For Jasset, a vice-president of New England Concrete Pipe Corporation in Newton Upper Falls, the award has even more meaning since it was a technique, called the Heimlich Maneuver, which he never expected to have to use.

As Mrs. Jasset recalled last week, the couple was attending a reception last year for Paul Guzzi of Newton at Anthony's Pier 4 restaurant in Boston. When a small sliver of meat became lodged in her throat she looked helplessly around the room, unable to breath or speak.

"I couldn't breath, I couldn't talk, I couldn't do anything," Mrs. Jasett recalled. "It's the most terrifying feeling in the world."

Mrs. Jasset said she looked at her husband and pointed at her throat, trying to indicate her predicament.

Philip Jasset stepped behind his wife, wrapped his arms around her and squeezed inward and up, forcing the air and the obstruction from his wife's windpipe.

"It was over just like that," she recalled.

"I never believed anything like that really worked," she said last week.

Although demonstrations of the Heimlich Maneuver are sometimes offered to the public by hospitals and fire departments, Philip Jasset learned how to perform the move one night while watching television.

A brief public service commercial came on the television and, as Mrs. Jasset recalled, "He just happened to watch it. It was just one of those ads that come on."

Although the actual feeling of choking was the gravest surprise to Mrs. Jasset, she didn't actaully know, when she pointed to her throat that night at Anthony's, that her husband knew the techique.

But now that both have benefited from the simple anti-choking technique the Jassets are eager promoters of the method.

"I'll tell anybody I know what happened," she said. "The number of lives it saves is fantastic."

Local couple promotes awareness of refugees

By Richard Lodge

NEWTONVILLE - The African nation of Somalia is a long way off for most people but it's close to the hearts of Mary and Ross Mitchell of Newtonville.

Now the couple wants to bring Somalia - the eighth poorest country in the world - closer to everyone.

An ongoing border war with neighboring Ethiopia has virtually ravaged the tiny, semi-arid savannah country of Somalia, creating what many feel is one of the worst incidents of mass starvation and refugee movements in recent memory.

Although the plights of INdo-Chinese refugees and Haitians fleeing the oppression of their homeland have been regularly covered by the media, Somalia seems to be almost invisible, the Mitchells say.

"This is the biggest relief crisis in the world today," Mary Mitchell told The Graphic last week. "This crisis in Somalia is bigger than Cambodia at the height of its problems."

Reports coming out of the war-torn country on the southern tip of Africa indicate as many as 100 children may be starving to death every day.

For many people, such news seems to bring natural pity for fellow human beings but little idea of what can be done to stop the tragedy.

So this past summer Ross and Mary Mitchell decided to do something about it and the result of that brief organizing period will be on Nov. 13 - the day declared by Governor Edward King as Mass Action in Support of Somalia Day.

As Gov. King noted in his declaration of the day to highlight the tragedy in Somalia, "All the world's children represent the hope of mankind for peace and prosperity tomorrow.

"Today," the governor wrote, "the refugee children of Somalia know only hunger, pain, fear and uncertainty, and are apt to perish or become forever diminished if they do not receive a share of our prosperity."

"We want to increase awareness of what really is going on instead of people seeing just another picture of a big-bellied kid in the paper. We want them to get involved."

King's declaration, Mary Mitchell said, was one major reassurance to her husband and her that their efforts to increase everyone's awareness of the Somalian problem was on the right track.

In publicizing the Nov. 13 Mass Action day the Mitchells have received extensive assistance from the Save the Children Fund, since one of the more heart-rending results of the massive movement of refugees within the country has been the toll taken on children.

Leading up to Mass Action Day, Save the Children and Mass Action in Support of Somalia have joined forces in sending out some 3,000 educational packets to every elementary and high school in the state. Students at Brandeis University and Bentley College in Waltham have also pledged activities to both raise money for relief efforts, and to raise awareness in general.

Mass Action has also compiled a list of virtually every type of charity which is working to feed and provide for Somalian refugees.

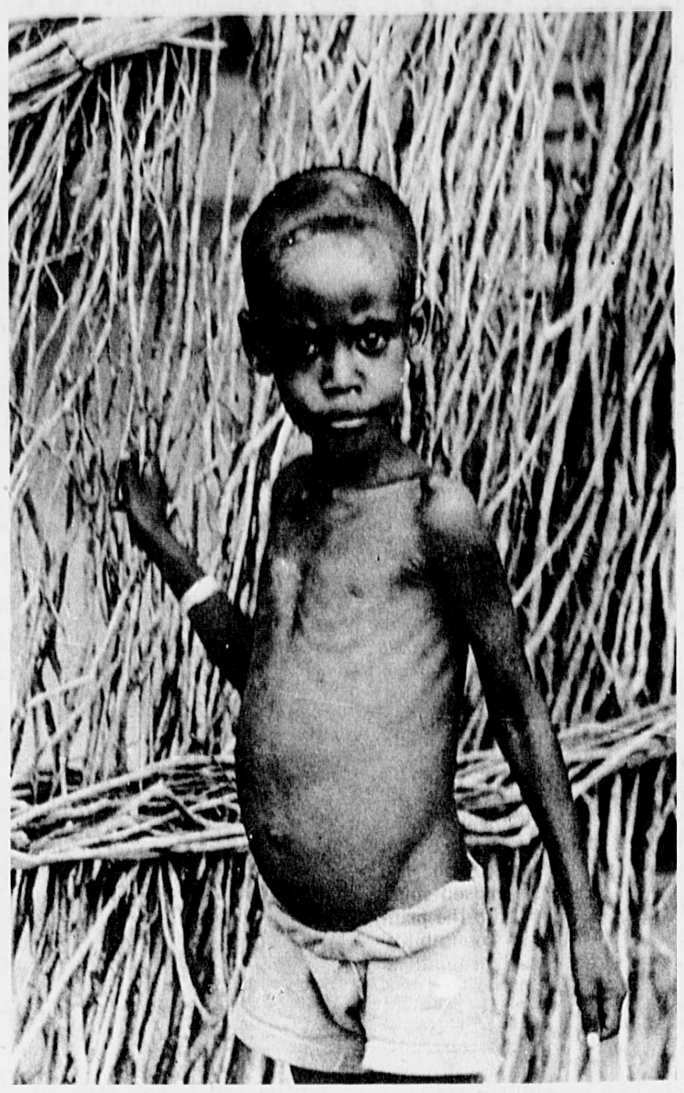

The Mitchells hope thgat the state-wide recognition of Nov. 13 brings about many types of community-sponsored fund-raising activities - from bake sales and walk-a-thons to more unique ways to raise money.

From a personal standpoint Mrs. Mitchell has been turning her paychecks from substitute teaching over to the relief effort.

"You need to have a reason to sub," she noted as one who has good-naturedly dealt with the problems of teaching full-time in the city of Chicago and, locally, in area schools.

"And this type of thing may be one of the ways we can encourage people to help, if they can recognize the Somalian problem and make their own personal contribution.

"We want to increase awareness of what really is going on," she said, "instead of people seeing just another picture of a big-bellied kid in the paper. We want them to get involved."

Adult program set

NEWTON — The Young Adult Group of the United Methodist Church of Newton, 430 Walnut St., Newtonville, has announced their fall program schedule. The meetings are open to all single, married, and divorced men and women in their 20s, 30s, and 40s.

Following the morning worship service and coffee hour on Sunday, Oct. 18, there will be a discussion on "Being a Methodist and a Churchgoer in the 80s." This will center on where the church as an institution is making its commitments and why individuals are attracted to such a community.

"A Look at the Hunger Issue" is the topic for discussion at 9:15 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 8. The participants will take a beginning look at this world problem, with special consideration of how they, as affluent members of global society, are affected by and can affect world hunger.

A vegetarian potluck dinner will be held on Sunday, Nov. 22, following the morning worship service and coffee hour. This program is a continuation of the exploration of the hunger issue and how to learn to eat more consciously.

A social event will be held on Saturday, Dec. 12. Plans are not completed for this at present.

Sunday evenings during the Advent season, at 7 p.m., the group will study 1 Corinthians and Paul's thinking about living a Christian life.

Judith Copeland, student assistant at the church is advisor to the group. Any one wishing further information may call 244-0275.

Cable TV firm officially opens its doors to public

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — About 100 people last Friday attended the ribbon-cutting ceremony at Continental Cablevision, an event which marked the official opening of the city's first cable TV company.

In several weeks, Cablevision will begin programming, as well as training workshops for residents who are interested in participating in public access programming.

"Workshops will be starting in the near future," said Michael Musen, Cablevision director, who added that he was very excited about Friday's event. "It's a big accomplishment," he said, calling the gathering "great fun."

Musen spoke briefly to spectators inside the first-floor television studio, where Mayor Theodore Mann cut the ribbon, marking the completion of the $600,000 project.

"In only 10 short months, we've made some very extensive progress," said Musen, who noted that the completion is five months ahead of schedule. He told guests that several public access channels would be available to the city, and called Cablevision "a showcase for the community."

Mayor Mann called the Cablevision project "fantastic", and stressed that the cultural advantages, such as televising the Newton Symphony Orchestra, would be beneficial to the city.

"Cable tv and the way the city has approached it is the most dramatic entry into the 21st century," said the mayor.

Monsignor William Granville, of Sacred Heart Parish, also spoke briefly to the crowd.

"We look forward to all kinds of benefits for the community," he said.

Guests were treated to a wine and cheese reception, as Cablevision employees guided tours of the facility. The three-story facility features a television studio with $150,000 of studio equipment, several business offices and a customer service area, a base for Cablevision technicians.

The Cablevision van, with four cameras, has both editing and production capabilities.

Cablevision purchased the structure, located on Centre Street, for $200,000, according to Musen, who added that the company also invested $250,000 in improvements to the building, which was previously occupied by the Newton School of Music.

Teresa Doucette and Evelyn McKenna, who live next door to the Cablevision offices, said they are happy about the addition to their neighborhood.

"It's a great improvememnt," said Doucette. McKenna also agreed that Cablevision is "great."

Lillian Gallivan, of Newton Centre said she is definitely in favor of the project. "I think it's beautiful," she said.

Cablevision has been conducting meetings with residents to determine what type of public access programming they would be interested in. Musen said the company would continue "the outreach and information gathering."

School enrichment program succeeds

NEWTON — When South High began its open campus program in 1971, the school decided to go into competition with off-campus fast food burgers and fries and offer the on-campus "enrichment" alternative.

Recently, through the Enrichment Program, School Committee candidates were invited to speak to students as part of the social studies curriculum. With different classes and students in their free periods, five meetings were scheduled with the candidates in each race.

Although the Enrichment Program originally offered speakers and activities geared to making open campus more productive, the program, still under the direction of its original coordinator, Phyllis Monderer, has evolved into an outstanding resource for both student and teachers. According to South principal, Ernest Van Seasholes, the program is now considered as more of an extension to the classroom experience than as an adjunct to open campus.

There is even an Enrichment Program course offered as part of the regular school curriculum which focuses on the planning, publicity and organizational work behind coordinating something like a "Political Week" or an upcoming series on breaking down myths about the handicapped or disabled.

According to Monderer, the program brings to the the school about 180 speakers and other events each year. The list of local talent and nationally known leaders who have participated is long and includes Gray Panther's founder, Maggie Kuhn, and Congressman Barney Frank.

Talks by artists, businessman and musicians and series on topics ranging from obcession with food to the effects of television on behavior are planned by the students in the Enrichment Program course. The students, according to the new part-time co-coordinator, Selma Crevoshay, learn through the course how to plan, develop and present programs which are carefully tied into regular curriculum and appeal to a wide range of students.

Students are responsible for inviting the speakers, introducing them and following up by analyzing the effectiveness of the event, Monderer said.

Someone who will be responsive to the community and will possess "leadership and administrative skills to put the philosophy into place" were other qualities Gentile is seeking.

"I look for a superintendent who is a strong, almost charismatic, leader," Brant said. "Someone who understands budgetary and fiscal matters, who had an ability to relate to kids, parents and the community and can provide leadership to the staff."

When asked what he viewed as the strengths and weaknesses of the system, Brant said, "I think the strengths are the ability to provide quality education within a highly diverse, pluralistic community."

"Most of all, I want to preserve the tradition of excellence in classroom teaching," Brant said. "I see the greatest need is to examine the junior high schools and I see the transition to a two-year junior high as the opportunity for improving the quality of the junior highs."

Gentile, responding to the same question, said, "I see the wide and varied course offerings as being the strengths of the system. I'm most interested in keeping the direct services to children in place and that means manageable classroom sizes."

"A lot of parents feel that they want to see their children challenged a little bit more on the whole," Gentile said. "Most parents I've talked to would like to see a little bit of a tightening up as far as discipline and attendance."

As far as his accessibility if elected, Gentile said, "The most important function of any public official is to be accessible and responsive to the community. At the statehouse I deal with constituents on a daily basis and I realize the importance of that. I expect and encourage constitutents to let me hear from them."

"I expect to be a very visible member of the committee," Brant said, "accessible both a private functions and for those who wish to speak to me privately."

WARD 2 CONTEST

As the Ward 2 committee member for four years, Katherine Jones has voted against the closing of Warren Junior High and recently supported student representation on the superintendent search committee.

While her challenger, Kenneth Hartford, describes himself as a "consumer" of public education, Jones' background, in addition to having eight children attend the Newton schools, represents a career in education.

Beginning as a teacher in Boston, Jones has taught in other systems and also worked for 10 years as the METCO coordinator for Newton. She recently received her Phd. in education from Harvard University.

Of relations between the School Committee and the aldermen, Jones said, "There are certain kinds of tensions that exist between two governmental bodies that have jurisdiction over some of the same things. When something happens which shifts this kind of power, there is a period of readjustment and equilibrium and that is where I see us right now."

"The communication has to be open between the two groups and I think that there has to be some sense of trust between the two bodies. I think that the Board of Aldermen has to see the School Committee as a body that has done a responsible job in formulating the budget," Jones said.

Hartford, who consistently attends School Committee meetings and has three children in the schools, said, "The relationship with the Board of Aldermen over the past 10 years has not been any where near what it should have been. Someone like myself who has attended a number of aldermanic meetings, including committee meetings, and built up a relationship with a number of the aldermen, would be very beneficial in helping to explain and defend the school budget."

Of the way the search for a new superintendent should be conducted, Hartford, manager of program planning for Raytheon at their Bedford Laboratories, called the present plans for the search committee "unbalanced" with too many "professionals." "A public committee should be a public committee," he said.

In the new superintendent, Hartford said he is looking "first and foremost for an educator with leadership qualities to inspire the staff." The person chosen must also "work closely with the principals in providing accountability by using meaningful evaluations of teacher performance and student achievements."

Other qualities high on Hartford's list are: someone with high expectations for all students; someone who will provide leadership in program, curriculum and staff development; and who will display a willingness to be open with the public and address their concerns.

Jones agreed that community involvement on the search committee was important, although she did not elaborate. "I also believe that this group will be able to conduct a meaningful search," Jones said. "Essentially the final decision will be in the hands of the School Committee."

"The person chosen to be superintendent has to be able to sustain morale of people within the system," Jones said, "and has to provide leadership and vision at a difficult time when there is less money to do things."

"I think that the person has to be able to work with people from divergent viewpoints in a meaningful way," she said.

Other qualities for the new superintendent important to Jones are: a proven record of experience in fiscal management of a school budget; and "respect and appreciation" of diverse teaching methods and styles.

As far as accessibility, Hartford, a lifelong resident who is president of the Newton Republican Club and was a member of the Scan 2 ½ education subcommittee, said, "My telephone number has always been in the book and will continue to be. Any problems that people have with the school system should be addressed."

Jones, who resigned from her job in the Cambridge schools under Prop 2 ½, said, in regard to availability, "I'm here. I'm home at this point. I'm always willing to talk to people about their concerns and will follow up on them. I think that is an important aspect of my role."

Marquis, Mann eye City Hall office

the incumbent, Mann claimed credit for the economic vitality enjoyed by the city, an expanded tax base, the continued escalation of city realty values, and the neighborhood revitalizations that have taken place over the past decade.

Mann, who enjoys a city-wide base of support, particularly on the south side, raised $44,000 for the election and has spent $28,000, $18,000 of which was spent since Sept. 4. Marquis could only raise an additional $6,700 since that time, an indication of his failure to add support to his camp.

Mann, a three-term incumbent, registered 4,714 votes on the city's south side (wards 5-8) in the preliminary compared to 2,136 for both his challengers. It is this bastion of support, which includes a large population of conscientious Jewish voters and a solid liberal, democratic base which should carry the 59-year-old Mann again.

Marquis said Monday he expects to do well in wards 1 through 5, particularly wards 1, 2 and 3. In the preliminary, Marquis defeated both his opponents in Ward 1 and finished a close second in Ward 3.

Marquis said he expected to get two-thirds of the White vote which he labled as anti-Mann. White and Mann have said otherwise, noting the similarities between the alderman and the mayor.

Mann was unimpressed, however, noting, "If Mickey Mouse was on the ballot, he would have received the same number of votes as Bruce Marquis."

Even if Marquis' prophecy holds true, he remains 2,800 votes behind Mann.

"I suspect most of the people who supported White will vote for me," said a confident Mann Monday afternoon. White, in what Marquis has charged as a less than above water endorsement, publically announced his support for Mann after falling in the preliminary.

White is one of eight aldermen who have publically endorsed the mayor. Marquis, on the other hand, has failed in repeated attempts to gain any aldermanic support.

"It was my biggest disappointment," said Marquis of the lack of board endorsements. "Certain people who before the preliminary election told me if I beat Mark White they would support me and very few people did."

"Endorsements in this campaign underline the fact that the present administration would owe favors if elected again," he added. Marquis said recently that certain aldermen feared retribution from the mayor and could therefore not endorse the newcomer.

"One of the important things in my campaign that I have said all along is that I'm not connected to anyone nor do I owe any political favors," Marquis said.

Marquis, who worked as the excutive director of the National Spinal Cord Foundation and before that as the director of corporate affairs for the National Easter Seals Society, has said throughout the campaign that his experience in budget proceedings and management is suited for the fiscally tight times that face the city in the future.

NEWTON—Ticket sellers are canvassing Newton with tickets for the annual Newton Police Memorial Association's Grand Ball, which will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 2 at Nonantum Post 440, American Legion, 297 California St. Donation is $5 per couple.

The ball offers dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight. Dress will be semi-formal and a cash bar will be available.

The Newton Police Memorial Association was organized in 1938 to provide benefits and assistance in cases of sickness or death to a member; to erect and maintain a plaque commemorating the lives of Newton Police Officers killed in performance of duty; to provide an annual service for all the deceased members of the association; to provide flowers for deceased members and their immediate families and to provide an annual a scholarship for a deserving recipient.

The Grand Ball is the only source of revenue other than monthly dues of the association. To buy a ball ticket or to contribute to the cause, call Sgt. John Roman or Detective Rocco Marzilli at Newton Police Headquarters, 552-7240.

Newton anti-nuke effort bombs

NEWTON — What some area advocates for a nuclear weapons freeze have failed to realize is that before they send a "message" to Washington, they must garner support at the local level.

Since the Board of Aldermen passed a resolution on June 1 calling for a worldwide freeze on the proliferation of nuclear arms, the local grassroots movement has picked up nothing but dew.

Although a non-binding question paralleling the resolution will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot, it will unquestionably suffer as a result of the lack of attention.

The lobbying, which pressed the board to pass the resolution 22 to 1, has died in the wake of the resolution's passage. Almost unexplainably, very few of the 3,800 people who signed the referendum petition have given additional time to the cause.

Rohna Shoul, one of the members of Newton for Nuclear Weapons Freeze, is organizing people to stand at the polls on election day. They will hand out leaflets, which people did this weekend at area supermarkets, and post placards at each of the polls.

Shoul said she "doesn't really know why," but "nobody did anything" to promote the movement since June.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan, who pushed the resolution through the board, said the resolution should "give people an issue" to go to the polls.

Former Alderman Harry Crosby said last week the group lost some of its "psych" when the resolution went through the board of aldermen. On May 20 in front of the Legislation and Rules Committee, Crosby said an "action by this board may be the very catalyst to begin a movement by other communities. It is probably the most important contribution any of us could make."

Crosby, along with William and Helen Caldicott, some of the lobby's key people, had to leave Newton soon thereafter. Without their leadership, others failed to take charge.

Ken Fellows said it would have been beneficial if the group had more time to plan for the election and that the question was on the ballot in a national election year. However, as he noted, "Just getting people to think about the problem is beneficial."

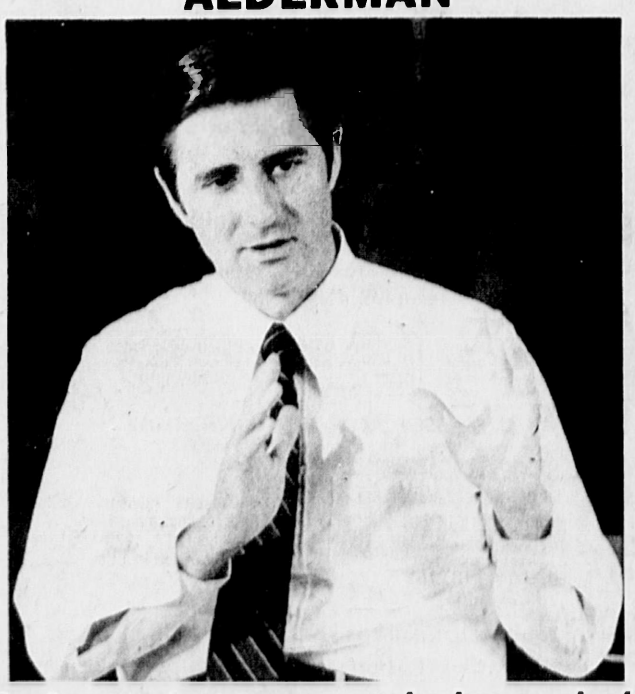

Crosby added that people advocating a nuclear weapons freeze at the state and national levels are "Understandably perturbed because if it bombs (the resolution), it would be a terrible setback."

He also said that people in the city will not vote for the resolution if they do not understand it. As worded, and without publicity, it is possible that a lot of people who would have voted for the resolution may not, according to Crosby.

"I'm afraid the blanks will win and since the blanks will be taken from the potential positives, the negatives could win," said Crosby. "It's a very upsetting thing."

Nov. 3 election; a time for decisions, votes

There are 100 rhetorical phrases one can apply to an election year.

One person, one vote. The future of the city is in the voters' hands. Voting - the right and obligation of every citizen.

But when it comes right down to it, there are really only two choices in an election year. The first, and most important, is the choice Newton residents must make about whether to vote or not, whether to take time off from work to go to the polls, or get up early on election day to pull the levers before heading off to the office.

The second choice is as multi-faceted and as individual as the number of candidates on the ballot.

Who would do the best job as my alderman? Who most mirrors the concerns of the taxpayers? How can the School Committee best address the future for our children?

The first choice should be addressed by every voter in this city. The right to vote for those who steer this city and mould the future is something that should be held precious.

The second choice can really only come once the curtain is closed at the voting booth.

Either way, residents should take advantage of the right to choose.

In an effort to help in making the decisions of which men and women would be best suited for the variety of jobs on the ballot, The Graphic offers the following:

For mayor: Mann

Our choice for mayor is Theodore Mann.

Experience, political chutzpah, and his vast knowledge of the city compels us to give the nod to the three-term incumbent over challenger Bruce Marquis.

In spite of the shortcomings of Proposition 2 1/2, Newton remains fiscally sound and the realty values in the city continue to escalate. The great scare previously envisioned has yet to materialize as the city remains an attractive place to live.

Mann, as chief executive officer, deserves a lot of the credit. As holder of the city's most prestigious seat, it is Mann's privilege to accept credit for the city's highs as he must face the consequences of the lows.

Bruce Marquis, a political neophyte prior to the election, has grown with the fight, but lacks the political know-how of his seasoned opponent.

Marquis has raised some eyebrows, particularly when he defeated veteran Alderman Mark White in the preliminary. We do agree that long-range planning for the city could be improved.

However, in a time of fiscal constraints, Mann's background is something the city can ill afford to vote away.

Ward 1: DePasquale

Alderman Joseph DePasquale, elected in 1978, is our choice in the Ward 1 aldermen's contest.

DePasquale knows the needs and concerns of his ward. He listens to his constituents, has the knowledge of municipal issues and he has the experience which is a must for a seat on the board representing Ward 1.

Opponent John McDermott is a Boston College senior whose youth and eager approach to the campaign has been refreshing.

McDermott could bring vigor and enthusiasm to the board, but he simply cannot match up to the hard-knocks experience of municipal issues and economics which DePasquale has amassed.

It is good to see one of McDermott's age take the giant step of running for municipal office but this time, DePasquale should get the nod.

Ward 3: Bullwinkle

Richard Bullwinkle, who returns to his old haunts with this year's election, is our choice for Ward 3. A four-term alderman prior to his run for the mayor's seat four years ago, Bullwinkle's raspy political style and willingness to question would be a welcomed addition to the current board.

A stickler for budget review, Bullwinkle's watchful eye and plan for a periodical system of inventory control could effectively cut and re-channel unnecessary funding.

Paul Snyder is a thinking man who would like to see the board act "more professionally" in its dealings. "Leadership," says Snyder, must be more prominent. We agree.

Snyder, an attorney for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has experience in the housing field and that would be a definite plus.

He dislikes what he sees as a "what the taxpayer does not pay out of his left pocket, he pays out of his right pocket" attitude on the present board, pointing specifically to implementation of user fees.

It's a tough choice in this race, with two qualified candidates aiming for the same seat. If Snyder fails this time around, it is hoped he will be heard from again.

Ward 6: Levinsky

In Ward 6, we must pass the torch to the younger Harold Levinsky.

Ernest Dietz, a 10-term incumbent, has lost much of his effectiveness. Even if this next term is a learning ground for the 23-year-old challenger, Levinsky will mature with time.

Levinsky, a journalist by trade, has pressed for the preservation of the neighborhood structure throughout the campaign. This includes the preservation of open space which "cannot be replaced" once it is altered. We agree.

Dietz, the veteran, is wary of the neglected capital improvements which the city will be forced to face over the next few years and favors the adaptation of a priority list to systematically take care of these improvements.

Dietz is the current chairman of Administration and Planning and in that position has fought to preserve the character of Newton Centre with his recent opposition to the expansion plans of Volvo Village.

In spite of his high regard for long-range planning and maintenance, which we firmly believe must be addressed, it is time for new blood on the Board of Aldermen.

Ward 8: Tough choice

In Ward 8, Robert Katz has learned a lot in two years as he finishes his first term.

He is truly responsive to the ward and has strong ties to the community. He is accessible to residents and appears to bring their concerns, coupled with his own thoughts on issues, before the board.

He has one of the best attendance records on the Board of Aldermen and could develop into a fine statesman.

His opponent is Marcy Richmond, an attorney for the state Department of Elder Affairs.

Richmond has extensive experience in state government which could be an asset when dealing, on the city level, with state grants and state bureaucracies.

She is a progressive candidate whose background could be helpful in solving the difficult problems Newton will surely face in the future.

Both Robert Katz and Marcy Richmond are good candidates. It is a tough choice in this race but voters will most likely not go wrong, no matter which lever they pull.

For School Committee: Gentile and Jones

The Newton schools are in the midst of times which call for School Committee represetnatives to be aggressive advocates and communicators.

We support Leonard Gentile, candidate for the Ward 1 seat vacated by Howard Spergel, as the better man for the job over his opponent, Jonathan Brant.

While Brant's sincere interest in education cannot be doubted, Gentile's teaching experience in the Newton public schools and the Maine public school system would be an asset to the committee in dealing with both parents and teachers. Gentile also appears to be the candidate most willing to open up communications between the School Committee and the Board of Aldermen who now have bottom-line budget control.

Brant's experience in the field of law as an attorney, professor and assistant attorney general, handling children's rights cases for five years, would surely contribute to the committee, but another factor which separates the two candidates is that Gentile's votes in the three-way primary race showed strong support from both the north and south sides of the city

Brant's stronghold was clearly the south side. The ability to draw support from a broader constituency is something which should not be overlooked in a period of declining enrollment for the schools.

The Ward 2 race, which like all School Committee contests, is an at-large race, is a tough one to call, although incumbent Katherine Jones' four years experience and career in education at all levels gives her an edge.

Kenneth Hartford, the challenger, attends committee meetings more regularly than some committee members over the last several years, although Jones rarely misses a meeting.

Hartford's attendance, combined with his involvement with the Cabot PTA, a principal search committee and others, makes him a serious contender.

Although Jones has not stood out as one of the more aggressive speakers, she has demonstrated an ability to analyze issues and offer new insights.

She has given careful attention to issues and stated her concerns with conviction.

Ward 1, at-large: Carmichael 1st choice

Alderman Bruce Carmichael, seeking his second term, has worked to maintain the character of Newton's villages.

He is extremely responsive to community needs and constituents. He is a respected alderman.

He was in the forefront of the movement to retain the Fire Department ambulance and voted against the Druker proposal because of opposition from the neighborhood - not because he is anti-housing.

Carmichael is our first choice in the Ward 1 contest.

Choosing the second of three candidates vying for two seats is not so easy.

Glen Morris' planning and development expertise and committment to housing would be a tremendous asset to the board. As chairman of the Newton Corner Development Foundation, he was a driving force behind the Druker proposal which could have provided the city with much-needed low and moderate income housing.

Sondra Shick, a Newton attorney, has been an active participant in community affairs. As a member of the League of Women Voters she drafted an amendment to Newton zoning ordinances providing that developers set aside 10 percent of new housing units for subsidized housing.

Her experience in organizing people of diverse interests could help solve many problems in the city.

Both Morris and Shick are good candidates for Ward 1 alderman-at-large.

Ward 2 at-large: Morris and Richmond

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris, a candidate for reelection, is our first choice for one of the two Ward 2, at-large seats.

Morris had done more to develop a coherent and consistent land-use policy than any alderman on the board.

His commitment to maintaining Newton's village character, along with his desire for reasonable development, is unmatched.

Morris' land-use expertise is essential to the board.

Also running in Ward 2 is Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond, a 10-year veteran. He is a strong chairman, willing to make difficult cuts and ask questions about expenditures from department heads.

Richmond was instrumental in implementing the Newton Farmers' Market and the Newton Arts Center in Newtonville - programs which help make Newton unique.

His fiscal sense and commitment to the taxpayers are assets to the board.

Patricia Ciccone, wife and daughter of police officers, is a maverick - always willing to speak her mind even if it means bucking the system.

She has promised to improve public safety and senior citizens' services. Those are honorable vows but not necessarily unique considerations nor easily enacted at a time when Proposition 2 1/2 stands firm in Massachusetts.

In these tough fiscal times, Richmond's money management is invaluable.

In Ward 2, at-large, we back Terry Morris and Edward Richmond.

Ward 4, at-large: McGrath, best of 4

Alderman Richard McGrath, a fiercely independent voice on the board, is our first choice.

He is a skilled politician, quizzes department heads vigorously on all matters and his knowledge of municipal issues has helped correct more than a few problems at City Hall.

Although McGrath often looks for press, he has the best interests of the people at heart.

Alderman Donald Budge, seeking his fourth term, is an alderman's alderman.

Budge takes his duties seriously and does his homework but he is not always the most independent of voices on the board. He voted for the Druker proposal and against the movement to retain the Fire Department ambulance service.

Lane Sofman, a local dentist, has promised to deal with the problems created by Proposition 2 1/2. He has campaigned to take a moderate approach in examining the School Department budget.

Mark Golden is the fourth candidate for one of the two spots.

Golden, a local sales representative, is committed to maintaining public safety in the Garden City. Golden has campaigned to implement some innovative ideas such as solar collectors on municipal buildings and a new position at City Hall to bring in federal funds.

All four candidates have their strong points. Only McGrath rises clearly above the rest.

Ward 5, at-large: Coletti and Daley

This race is a rare one where three incumbents are vying for two spots on the board.

Our first choice is two-term alderman Paul Coletti. A member of both the Public Facilities and Finance Committees, Coletti's review of the budget this past year was both earnest and objective.

A consistent performer, his level-headedness and track record put him above his competition.

Paul Daley, the incumbent Ward 3 alderman, is our second choice.

Although Daley's attendance has been poor, his commitment to the Land Use Committee has been respectable. A city realtor, Daley advocates the development of a comprehensive program that will meet the demand for housing, both for the elderly and the young. We agree.

A soft-spoken alderman, Daley was in the forefront of the fight to keep the Fire Department ambulance service.

The third candidate is James Miller, an incumbent and two-term alderman.

Miller has neglected his committee duties, missing more than 50 percent of his meetings over the past two years.

As a result of this delinquency he has forfeited his input on each of the three committees on which he sits. This lack of interaction and alienation from his fellow board members makes Miller an ineffectual member of the Board of Aldermen.

Ward 7, at-large: Taglienti runs first

Our first nod for the Ward 7 at-large seat goes to two-term incumbent Dominick Taglienti. A thoughtful listener and a man who votes on conscience, Taglienti never detracts from the board's stream of thought.

As a developer and Newton apartment owner, Taglienti's expertise has been used effectively on the Land Use Committee and should be utilized in the future to tackle the city's problems of an inadequate rental housing stock. Taglienti is respected throughout the city as well as by his peers on the board.

Our second choice here goes to Verne Vance, a Harvard Law graduate whose primary interests are education and the preservation of the city's various village characters.

Vance's experience with education is something the board needs now that the School Department has lost fiscal autonomy.

The third candidate is Eve Ross, an attorney whose expertise is in the field of city planning. Her background in traffic and building rehabilitation would be useful in formulating any comprehensive plan for Newton's future.

However, Vance's greater sense of presense during this campaign makes him best as a second choice in a close race.

Newton fire reports

NEWTON—The Newton Fire Department reported several brush fires this weekend in West Newton and Newtonville.

On Saturday, engines two and four responded to a brush fire on Myrtle St. in West Newton, behind the Warren Junior High School. A pile of leaves in a wooded area behind the school caught fire, according to Private Dana Flynn.

Also on Saturday, at 6:38 p.m., engine four responded to a brush fire at 285 Newtonville Avenue, Newtonville. According to Flynn, a pile of leaves in a residents' yard had caught fire.

Several hours later, at 11:15 p.m., engine two went to scene of another brush fire at 185 Temple St. in West Newton.

Temple St. was the site of another fire at 7:08 on Sunday. Engine two went to the site, where leaves were on fire.

According to fire officials, both Temple St. fires occured in the wooded area between Warren Junior High School and Temple Shalom.

Officials speculated that both fires were deliberately set by someone.

The Sawmill Brook Parkway in Oak Hill was the scene of another brush fire. According to fire officials, the fire occured at 1:27 p.m. on Monday, in a wooded area near residents' homes.

Engines two, three, six and nine responded to a fire at 9:34 last Wednesday, when a a fire from food on a stove on the fourth floor of the Hillside Dorms at Boston College, Chestnut Hill was reported.

On Friday, at 4:30 p.m., engine four responded to a fire at 80 Hatfield Rd. That fire was also the result of food on the stove.

Engine four responded to a car transmission fire at 5:09 p.m. of Friday. The fire occured at 9 Washington Pk. in Newtonville.

A dumper fire was reported at 27 Christina Rd. in Upper Falls. Engine seven went to the scene of the fire, which occured at 11:57 p.m. on Saturday.

On Sunday morning, engines two, five and seven went to the scene of a fire at 248 Windsor Rd. in Waban. The fire occured at 1:06 p.m. inside the fuse box of the home.

Fire officials also reported a rubbish fire at 227 Needham St., Upper Falls. Engine seven went to the scene at 8:40 p.m. on Friday..

Last Wednesday at 9:10 p.m., engine seven went to the scene of an automobile accident at 926 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill.

Engine two also went to the scene of an automobile accident at Beacon and Washington St., Upper Falls on Thursday morning.

The intersection of Homer and Walnut Sts. in Newtonville was the site of another automobile accident on Saturday at 11:59 p.m., when engines three, six and nine responded to the emergency.

Early the next morning, at 12:47 a.m., engine five went to Highland and Valentine Sts. to wash away gas following an automobile accident.

Taxpayer notes concerns in 'critical times' as election nears

To the editor:

As election day approaches this taxpayer is concerned along with most others in the city about these critical times and the direction in which we are heading.

I'm fearful of small, seemingly invincible political coalitions attempting to ennhance their power over the majority of the citizenry when the present voter apathy exists.

In my opinion this constitutes a serious and potentially hazardour situation!

One sees very clearly an attempt to establish an endless tenure of office which could perpetuate subsequent administrations headed by "handpicked" successors (certainly not in keeping with the principles of a truly democratic government).

If we look beyond the self-serving political rhetorical platitutdes asking us to vote for a "job well done" we must come to grips with salient discrepancies which must be considered in an honest attempt to cast our vote in a direction most beneficial to all.

Most citizens abhor reading about the graft, corruption and inefficiencies that have been evidenced and reported in most newspapers throughout the country at different levels of government, during recent years.

Accordingly, there follows an unjust but natural suspicion of all politicians – even the honest ones, genuinely dedicated to our cause.

Whether we like ti or not government is here to stay. Therefore we must be most prudent in voting for our representation lest we succumb to special interest pressure and unwittingly vote against our own collective best interest.

I have supported the incumbent mayor in the past. I have observed many aldermanic board and committee meetings concerning issues which I considered important to me as a taxpayer.

I have addressed citizen and aldermanic committees voicing my opinion at public hearings. I have compiled information factually by personally interviewing mayors of other cities, the staff of our incumbent mayor and department heads. I have also researched public information.

After careful deliberation I cannot rationalize and reconcile my opposition to reelecting the mayor for the following reasons: 1) The lack of direct consturctive communication with department heads by the mayor, personally; 2) Over-excessive support salaries for assistants with noted turnover during past administrations; 3) Questionable qualifications or expertise in dealing with intricate financial budgetary decisions of highly paid assistants; 4) Failure to respond to hand-delivered written commuinication by low bidder requesting written reason for denial of traffic control maintenance contract with the city. The end result being a law suit against the city for an additional $50,000.

And furthermore: 5) Failure to expedite revaluation informing property owners what their bill would be before the election; 6) Present controversy reqarding the publication of assessments, refusal of firm and another potential law suit; 7) Failure to install smoke detedtors sooner; 8) Layoffs at bottom of laddeer while attempts by some aldermen and others to challenge our non-partisan "blue ribbon" citizens' committee's recommendations the pay raise were made repeatedly; 9) Conspicuous absenteeism of my ward 6 alderman, dereliction of representation and noted lack of direct communication to the citizens in Ward 6 regarding the Brentwood Avenue traffic circle fiasco by the other two aldermen as well; 10) Similar failure to communicate and attempt to solve the serious inequities, dangers and health hazards created by sewerage backing up into homes around the Hyde Brook area; 11) A huge surplus everyone seeking appropriations and little or no tax relief.

The most significantly inexcusable negligence in my opinion was the careless mismanagement of an alleged $24,000 over a 44-month period or longer, which some say could be substantially more. This personal error subjected innocent people to suspicion. The mayor's credibility was impugned at the trial as reported in the Aug. 21, 1980, edition of The Graphic. The citizens were subjected to adverse publicity about our fair city (which will cause us further embarassment if we reelect him).

The pressure of the election and the lawsuit with its notoriety might well affect the health of any man approaching 60 years of age. What then?

The recent user fees for recreation facilities, parking meter increases and refuse collection fees for homeowners again exemplify taxing the people who can least afford it.

Is it time for a change?

Reader cites apathy column, says some have taken a stand

To the editor:

I am responding to the article by Jonathan Greenspan entitled, "Who said it's an Election Year," in which he says....."Newton is throwing a citywide election and almost everyone has decided to stay at home."

Lack of an issue, specifically in the race for mayor, is apparently the reason why people are disinterested, come from Alan Licarie, Election Commissioner. Yet, Greenspan goes on to say that "there are issues breathing between the walls of City Hall, and Bruce Marquis, candidate for mayor has raised many of them. Yet, the press has not paid enough attention to these key issues or helped create voter interest in them. So, part of the blame for apathy must be laid at the doorstep of the press.

For example: Bruce Marquis raised the question of why the mayor refused to put smoke detectors in school and public buildings two years ago. Smoke detectors are early warning devices before a fire erupts. The Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance requiring them in dwelling units two years ago. We have had two major school fires, subsequent to this ordinance, which caused millions of dollars worth of damage; but only at the pleading of the School Committee did the mayor respond and then only this June.

The newspapers reported the issue with comments by the mayor that the buildings had heat detectors. There were lives at stake in both the Hyde School and Brown Junior High fires. But the reporting of the issues made a legitimate issue into a non-issue.

Another example: Marquis has consistently hammered away at the increased user fees (sewer tax, recreation user fees) since the Spring in his literature and at debates. Increased user fees have been the administrations response to Proposition 2½ Marquis has said. Greenspan mentioned that he personally becomes infuriated when he reaches in his pocket for another quarter to pay for parking in Neewton Centre. Quarter parking is another of the administration's responses to 2½. It was done quickly, quietly, and it surprised a lot of people.

Greenspan said in his article, "Monday night at the full board meeting veteran Alderman Robert Tennant called these fee increased "backdoor taxes" criticising department heads for increasing fees to make up for lost revenue. Hats off to Mr. Tennant." Why weren't the newspapers playing up user fees furing the campaign? It's never too late and user fees are certainly an issue. So thank you Mr. Greenspan for responding now.

Greenspan said, "Complacency, a lack of oppostion, breeds corruption. Aside from being apathetic, it's dangerous." I agree wholeheartedly with this statement because good government begins at a local level with involved people committed to having a well-run city. When people share in the democratic process, abuses in government are not tolerated. When people shrung their shoulders and feel what difference will their individual vote make, then we are all the worse for it.

Greenspan is to be commended for a thought-provoking column.

Resident is concerned over Reagan's 'emergency' powers

To the editor:

I must protest the hypocrisy of the Reagan administration's attempt to increase its emergency powers in order to prevent a recurrendce of last year's influx of so-called illegal aliens from Haiti and Cuba.

The arrival of people from Haiti and Cuba is a situation in large part created by the United States. The President-For-Life of Haiti, Duvalier, is supplied with dollars and arms bu the U.S. and is thus enabled to reign economic and political terror on the people of Haiti, who, in order to attempt to suvive starvation and in the ope of attaining at least a minimum of political rights, attempt the dangerous sea journey to Florida.

The Cuban refugees did what the masses of any financially-strapped developing country would do: they responded to the offer of political status and welfare payments to come here. I lived for two years in Bolivia in the 1960s and know that that nation of 3½ million people would be over half empty in less than one year if the people were offered the same benefits as the Cubans.

Furthermore, the Cuban refugee situation was a media event created and manipulated by the U.S. government in order to attempt to make Fidel Castro look bad. The fact is that over one million Cubans demonstrated their support of the Cuban government, a situation that would not be replicated in Haiti, El Salvador, or Bolivia.

The U.S. government is always ready to give political status to right wing individuals from socialist countries, while denying such status to those from U.S. supported right wing regimes.

In the name of fairplay for all and in order to preserve our rights promised by the Constitution, we must not allow the Reagan administration to increase what would in effect be unchecked emergency police powers to be used to deny citizens of the U.S. and other countries their basic human rights.

Oak Hill PTA members write to praise some 'fine' workers

(The following is an open letter to Mayor Theodore Mann from members of the Oak Hill School P.T.A.).

Dear Mayor Mann:

The Oak Hill School P.T.A. has decided to erect a garden in memory of Sandra Podolsky. Sandy had devoted many hours of her time to the children of Newton and especially to the Newton Community School Program. This garden is to be a living memorial to a wonderful woman whom everyone affectionately called "The Plant Lady."

This letter is to inform you of our enthusiasm for this project and also to commend some fine men who are employed by the City of Newton. Richard Metro, of the Forestry Department, and his assistants, Bill Bove, Jimmy Carroll and Eddie Saunders came to our school on Friday, Oct. 23, and did an outstanding job of creating our Memorial Garden. We would like to publicly thank them for their conscientiousness, kindness and courtesy and to also thank Anthony Forte, Wayne Prescott, Adam Satela and Nick Vassalotti, from the Highway Department, for their efforts on behalf of the Oak Hill School Community. All of these men deserve praise for a job well done!

Samuel A. Turner, our principal, joins us in extending our heartfelt thanks to all who ehlped to make our plans become a reality.

Most sincerely,
Pat Burdick and Gail Epstein

League voices concerns about search committee for new superintendent

To the editor:

The following letter has been sent to each member of the Newton School Committee:

We are increasingly concerned about the composition of the screening committee which will help to select a new superintendent. As we stated in our letter of September 25, the process of selection itself will have something to say about how the schools are run and how the community relates to them.

It appears that the screening committee already has nine places occupied by representatives of the school department, studfents and the PTA council. We urge you to fill the remaining places with the broadest representation of the Newton community.

Now that the School Committee has lost fiscal autonomy, including members of the general public on the screening committee will help to increase support for public education.

The League would like to see the screening committee broadened, however this committee must begin its work as soon as possible so that the choices for superintendent will not be narrowed.

Therefore we urge the School Committee to select the members of this important group with dispatch.

Ward 1 at-large: McGrath hopeful, Budge troubled

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Alderman Richard McGrath's impressive preliminary showing almost assures his reelection in the city-wide contest for one of the two Ward 4 alderman-at-large seats.

However, incumbent Donald Budge, seeking his fourth term, is attempting to turn back strong challenges to retain his seat.

Budge, 52, an attorney and certified accountant, finished only 306 votes ahead of political newcomer Lane Sofman, a dentist, in the preliminary. Mark Golden, a sales representative, finished 427 votes behind Budge.

Both Budge and McGrath did little campaigning for the preliminary. McGrath, a former state representative, has also not campaigned for the final.

McGrath, 45, captured an impressive 30 percent of the vote in the preliminary - 1,831 votes in front of Budge. An irrigation contractor, McGrath said he feels campaigning is important, but has not had the time.

"If I was vulnerable, it would have been shown in the primary," he noted. McGrath, often a critic of the Mann administration, has consistently questioned revaluation and the administration's decision to eliminate the Fire Department operated ambulance service.

Budge, who has seemed indifferent to the campaign at times, has hit the streets since the preliminary. When asked if he feels vulnerable, Budge responded: "I don't know."

The six-year veteran alderman, however, is basically standing on his experience. He stressed that neither Sofman or Golden can match his background in municipal government.

Both Sofman and Golden are making their first bids for municipal office. "What's a dentist know about municipal government?" Budge asked. "Neither one (Sofman or Golden) has any business background when it comes to financial matters."

Budge, a graduate of Northeastern University Law School, recently voted for the Druker proposal for the redevelopment of Newton Corner. In addition, he supported Mayor Mann's decision to allow a private firm to take over the emergency ambulance service.

Budge, a self described fiscal conservative, is a member of the Finance Committee and has consistently questioned municipal department heads on financial matters. He is also chairman of the aldermanic Data Processing Subcommittee which has saved taxpayers money by eliminating positions and offering greater efficiency.

Sofman, 38, a Temple University graduate, believes the major problem facing the city is overcoming the financial squeeze imposed by Proposition 2½. Sofman is in favor of any action to "repeal" Proposition 2½.

"We live in a community where people want services," he explained, noting that the repeal of the controversial tax-cutting measure appears unlikely.

Sofman said that aldermen must attempt to maintain municipal services and the school system in the wake of the new law.

"I would try and look at new management techniques to find ways of consolidating and getting different departments working together rather than looking for cuts," he said.

Sofman, a volunteer in the Recreation Department's special needs program, has also emphasized that there must be more cooperation between aldermen and the School Department in the budget process.

He maintains that the board should not do an item by item analysis of the school budget, but also should not be a rubber stamp. "We have a good school system," he said. "I am supportive of the schools. I think the school system is one, if not the, major service we have." Sofman has spent about $2,000 in the campaign.

Sofman said that his management experience in his dentist's business is an assett. "I would like to offer my management experience," he said. "I manage an office and make financial decisions every single day that I have to live with."

Running a dentist's office, Sofman said he has been forced to provide patients with the same level of services at the same cost despite inflation. "We have the exact same problems in the city," he said. "We must provide the same level of services with a relatively fixed income."

Golden, 31, a Nichols College graduate and a member of the Fire Department Alumni Association, has promised to attempt to implement several innovative ideas if elected. He has campaigned to save tax dollars by installing solar collectors on municipal buildings and promoting energy conservation.

He noted, for example, that substantial savings can be attained by shutting hot water off when not in use. He has also campaigned to add an employee to the City Hall payroll to seek federal funds.

"If we pay that person $25,000 and he or she brings in $500,000, we are well ahead of the game," he said.

Golden, who has spent about $900 for leaflets and other campaign expenses, also believes that the School Department should get the largest portion of the municipal budget.

He has also campaigned to expand the Police Department's home burglar proofing program and increasing the Fire Department's school fire safety program to make students aware of the dangers of false alarms.

Golden stressed that he is the only candidate in the race that has cited tax savings programs. "I am the only one putting forward positive ideas about how we can save money," he said. "I don't use campaign rhetoric."

Ward 2 at-large race is three-way contest

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The two incumbents in the city-wide Ward 2 Aldermen at Large race, Terry Morris and Edward Richmond, have done little campaigning for the Nov. 3 election.

Morris, chairman of the Land Use Committee, and Richmond, chairman of the Finance Committee, appear to be the favorites to retain their seats.

Patricia Ciccone, a maverick who is campaigning to improve public safety and elderly services, finished a distant fourth in the last election against the incumbents.

Morris, seeking his fifth term, has developed a land use policy for the city based on preserving the character and scale of the city's villages. He recently led the fight against the Druker development of Newton Corner and the Marriott Hotel expansion.

"Clearly my service on the board of aldermen has focused on developing a particular expertise - land use," he explained. "I don't profess to be a jack of all trades."

The eight-year veteran alderman, who is deputy director of the Massachusetts Commission against Discrimination, was a driving force behind the purchase of the Chestnut Hill Country Club for the city.

Morris, who is in his third year at Suffolk Law School, believes that in the coming years "intensification of land use" will be a major issue.

"I think we will see developers trying to take a piece of land already built up and attempt to redevelop it at a higher intensity," he noted. Morris promised to continue to preserve the village character of the city.

Richmond, a local attorney seeking his sixth term, has been Finance Committee chairman for the last six years. Richmond, 55, has quizzed municipal department heads vigorously during the budget process.

During the recent budget hearings, Richmond claimed he was integral in setting up meetings between the Mayor Mann, aldermen and School Committee members.

Richmond wrote the ordinance creating the Newton Cultural Affairs Center and Newton Arts Center. "This has become one of the major cultural institutions of the city," he noted. Richmond also implemented the Farmer's Market.

"It's all behind the scenes work,but it is critical to City Hall," he said. Richmond said that the major problem facing the city in the coming year is revaluation.

"The big crunch will be the trauma of revaluation," he said. "We have got to get through appeals and the entire process." Richmond has met with assessors throughout the revaluation process to monitor the program.

Ciccone, wife of former Newton Police Union President Allan Ciccone, said her major priority as an aldermen would be public safety and increased services for senior citizens.

Ciccone, 38, president of a restaurant development corporation, has campaigned to increase police protection. She claimed that there is no police protection in Nonantum Square, Newtonville and Auburndale from 11:30 p.m. - 7:30 a.m.

"Protection in ward 2 is ridiculous," she snapped. "I want to see my tax-dollars going in the right hands...Where the hell is the protection?" Ciccone, whose son was recently stabbed, has also stressed the need to keep teenagers off the streets.

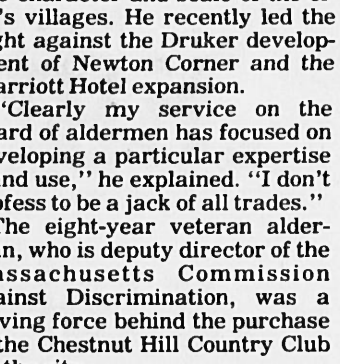

"There should be more attention given to public safety," Ciccone said. "The only time it comes up is budget time or after some terrible tragedy. I don't want to wait for a tragedy."

Ciccone opposes new low and moderate income housing in the city, but has campaigned for increased housing for senior citizens.

"Public safety and senor citizens are my priorities," she added. Ciccone, who has been sick recently, has spent no money in the ward 2 city-wide contest.

In the last contest for the ward 2 city-wide race, Ciccone received 2,526 votes. Richmond topped the ticket with 5,962 votes and Morris received 5,825 votes.

Nov. 12 is reported target date for Cable TV

By James Giesser

NEWTON — On Oct. 24, the state's most ambitious operating cable television system yet opened its main studio at 1349 Centre St., beginning a far-reaching and unpredictable experiment in business and communication for the city of Newton.

Cable TV is booming throughout the United States, with some experts predicting that more than 40 million TV viewers will have access to cable in a few years. And that's a low estimate. Other industry experts have estimated that some 100 million TV viewers will have access to cable by 1985, raising the possibility that someday the entire country may well be wired, causing unprecendented changes in television's impact.

Newton's franchise, run by Continental Cablevision Inc., is still in the process of construction. However Michael Musen, Continental's Newton manager, says that Thursday, Nov. 12 stands as the target for initial turn-on of the cable system.

The franchise has already laid more than 200 of a planned 300-mile cable network. As apartments are being prewired, the company is completing negotiations with the Board of Aldermen to determine the site of its satelite receiving station. Such a station—including massive dish antennas, microwave pickup equipment and transmitters—is designated for completion by mid-November. Once this equipment is in place, the system will begin transmission.

Continental won the Newton cable contract in a final decision by Mayor Theodore Mann in May of 1980 that mirrored an earlier, overwhelming recommendation by the city's Advisory Commission. The company has also obtained licenses in Saugus, Winchester, Reading, Beverly, Watertown, Lawrence, North Andover, Methuen, North Hampton and Springfield. Now, having won the Newton franchise after more than a year of research, analysis and public debate, Continental has planned an unprecedented network bringing Newton to the cutting edge in cable technology. The plan includes public access channels, educational services and eventual expansion to 104 channels.

Although one other 52 channel system is operating in Winchester, the Newton system will serve an area and population more than three times the size of that town.

Assistant Manager Barbara Striebert says that by turn-on some 50 subscribers will be wired into the system, with 50 additional subscribers wired each week thereafter. Initially, subscribers will have access to 44 channels. But in March, the company hopes to fill the network's 52-channel capacity. Customer hook-up is then expected to increase to the point where close to 11,000 subscribers will be connected within a year. Striebert feels that it would be impossible, at this time, to make any accurate projections beyond the first year of operation.

According to the Newton contract, Continental retains its license until August 1995, providing that it "substantially complies" with city regulations.

Such regulations contain some of the most exhaustive prescriptions ever applied to a cable franchise in Massachusetts. Focusing on areas which range from services to be rendered to insurance concerns, rules have been set down for business activities, equipment specifications and even the right to privacy. The license further requires that in the event of termination any properties not removed from public areas could be confiscated by the city after six months.

Yet because the cable industry is causing an unprecedented revolution in television communication, no one can be certain which specific regulation will be needed.

According to Musen, however, the primary danger for cable companies may not be in the realm of regulation, but in actual hardware. As the cable business explodes, some fear the cable industry may not be able to produce enough connectors to provide expanding viewerships with broadcast signals. Musen believes the problem may inhibit the Newton system in its initial attempts to provide adequate service for viewers. In effect, cable television could find itself growing too quickly for its own good.

To guard against such problems Continental Cablevision plans to spend almost $1.5 million on operational costs alone during the next five years. Such an effort will result in an estimated 13,000 Newton residents tied into the system. If all goes well, the corporation planned that, customer demand being sufficient, expansion to 104 channels will be accomplished by 1986.

Service offered to subscribers will range from a simple package of 10 informational channels to an expanded package of 52 channels. Consumers will also have the option of buying additional channels.

Informational channels will include local programming, news, stock reports and children's programming at a cost of $33 per year. The expanded 52-channel service will cost some $95 per year, with pay tv boosting that total to nearly $400.

Pay television will include Home Box Office; Cinemax, a twenty-four-hour movie station and Showtime, which will feature specials and comedy shows. These stations have the advantage of showing no commercials.

In addition, Continental is required by the Newton charter to provide some five channels of public access programming. Such programming will be funded solely by Continental. This plan will include a channel dedicated to local origination productions in Newton, a channel offering library information, a family health channel and finally, a channel for use by various religious groups. A fifth public access channel will be dedicated to senior citizens' interests. To this end, low income and elderly housing projects will receive 52 channel installation free of charge in common rooms.

Thus far Continental plans to hire only local people to run the Newton franchise. According to Steven Feldman, Director of local programming, this employment procedure is founded on the assumption that citizens of the community will be best suited to empathize with Newton's individual needs.

Local input will not be limited, however, to those employed by Continental. In his final acceptance letter, Mayor Mann praised Continental for its dedication to amateur production. To this end, Continental offers a $75,000 local origination budget which will finance a 14-week production training course for Newton residents.

The Graphic policy on weddings, engagements

The Newton Graphic is happy to accept wedding or engagement announcements when one or both of the partners are from Newton.

There is no charge.

Weddings, accompanied by a black and white photo of the bride or couple, should arrive within two months of the date of the ceremony in order to be considered for publication.

Wedding forms are available at the Newton Graphic office, 1157 Walnut St., Newton Highlands. Call 965-6300 if you would like to have one mailed to you.

Engagement announcements must be sent well in advance of the wedding date. We do not have an engagement form, but suggest you follow the style used in the paper when writing one.

Engagements should be accompanied by a black and white photo of the bride-to-be only.

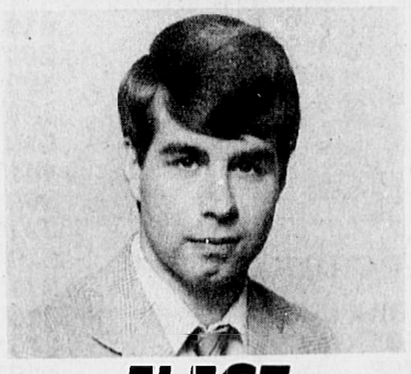

The deadline is Friday at noon for the following week's paper. Photos are returned if an self-addressed stamped envelope is provided. Photos can be picked up at the Graphic office after they have appeared in the paper.

If you have any questions, contact Ann Carter at 965-6300 on Thursdays or Fridays.

The mailing address of the Newton Graphic is: Newton Graphic, P.O. Box 341, Newton, Mass. 02161.

Carmichael strong in Ward 1 at-large race

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — Alderman Bruce Carmichael, finishing his first term, is the frontrunner in the three-person field for the two city wide ward 1 seats.

With the resignation of Alderman Robert Gaynor, one of the seats has opened up for a newcomer. Gaynor, a veteran alderman, announced that he will not seek another term in order to devote more time to his law practice several months ago.

Carmichael, who runs a local limousine service, has stressed his commitment to Newton's villages in the campaign. "The strength of the city lies in it's commitment to the villages," he explained. "I feel I have been sensitive to the needs of the villages."

Carmichael, 29, cited his opposition to the closing of branch libraries and Volvo Village's expansion in Newton Centre as evidence of his support for villages.

Serving as vice chairman of the Finance Committee during the budget hearings, Carmichael fought to maintain youth services including an outreach worker and job bank program. He also was one of several alderman that battled Mayor Theodore Mann's decision to eliminate the Fire Department operated emergency ambulance service.

If elected again, Carmichael promised to work for energy conservation improvements and a long term planning approach to land use.

"There should be a comprehensive plan for the entire city rather than a piecemeal land use approach," he said.

Carmichael, who came under fire during the campaign for opposing the Druker revitalization of Newton Corner, defended his vote and emphasized the need for developers who will work with the community to provide new rental housing. Carmichael said the Druker proposal was out of scale with the community. Carmichael estimated he spent $1,500 in the campaign.

Sondra Shick, 43, a local attorney, believes her political experience and activism can be put to good use as an alderman.

Shick, who has campaigned as an advocate committed to preserving the Newton school system, is no newcomer to Newton politics. She served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton League of Women Voter's and helped to draft the zoning amendment requiring developers to set aside 10 percent of new units for subsidized housing. Shick also supported the Druker proposal and promised to work for new rental housing if elected.

Shick is expected to be strong in the predominately liberal South side of the city. "I think I'm very good at getting to the heart of the matter, asking questions and organizing people," said the mother of three children. "As an alderman, I would be a responsible advocate for quality in public higher education."

Shick, who describes herself as an "activist in the old sense," cites her part in the formation of a fair housing group in Florida in 1968 and a Food Co-Op in Newton Corner as proof of her political commitment.

Shick, a Northeastern University Law School graduate, has garnered the support of many local liberals including Harry Crosby and David Cohen. Shick has spent about $3,000 in the campaign.

Shick said that the city can survive the fiscal squeeze imposed by Proposition 2½ by increasing volunterism and user fees.

Glen Morris, a local architect who made an unsuccessful bid for the seat two years ago, has stressed the urgent need for additional rental housing throughout the campaign.

As chairman of the Newton Corner Community Development Corporation, Morris lobbied strongly for the proposal which would have provided much needed rental housing.

"I am constantly surprised in going around the city at the depth of feeling for the Druker proposal," said Morris. The 34-year-old member of the Housing Coalition for Newton has also proposed a revision to the city zoning ordinances to encourage rental housing.

Morris said the proposal provides an incentive to developers to build mixed income rental housing in business districts - primarily village centers. With the severe shortage of rental housing in Newton, Morris' campaign has hit hard.

Morris also believes that the city should finish the asbestos removal at Newton North High School as soon as possible. "I am somewhat disheartened that we have not dealt with the removal of asbestos full-force," he explained. "I don't think we want to be exposing our children to a long term problem. I think we will be very upset if kids start having problems a number of years from now."

Morris also feels that Newton should have the opportunity to override Proposition 2½. In addition, he has emphasized the need for long term planning in the city.

Said Morris: "I think we desperately need an overall plan- a set of goals as to where we want to be in terms of production of rental housing, revitalization, taxes and financing of services." Morris has spent about $1,700 in the campaign.

Lighter moment in the Turtle Lane Playhouse production of "Side by Side by Sondheim" is protrayed by Bobsie Mitton. The musical runs Wednesday through Sunday evenings through Nov. 13.

Smoking materials blamed in blaze

NEWTON CORNER — A fire inside a three-story building at 23 Pembrook Street was reported last weekend by the Newton Fire Depoartment. Engines one, five, and nine and ladder three responded at 7:26 Friday morning to the blaze, which staried in a second floor bedroom, the result of careless smoking and improper disposal of a cigarette. The rear porch, fooring and wall siding were damaged by the fire.

At 12:20 on Friday, engine four went to the scene of a rubbish fire at 923 Walnut Street, Newtonville.

At 2:26 p.m., engine two and ladder one went to the scene of an automobile accident at 2010 Washington Street, Lower Falls.

Also on Friday, engine two went to the scene of a stove fire at 175 Chestnut Street, West Newton.

At 2:16 a.m. on Saturday, 128 North Street, Lower Falls was the scene of a truck fire. Engine two and ladder one responded to fire.

On Saturday morning, fire officials responded to an outdoor fire at Heatherand Road in Newton Highlands.

The intersection of Watertown and Walnut Street in Newtonville was the scene of an auto accident on Sunday at 2:57 a.m. Engine one, five four and five and ladder one went to the scene.

Charles Street in Auburndale was the scene of another auto accident at 9:15 a.m. on Sunday.

Food on the stove resulted in a fire at 100 Commonwealth Ave. in Chestnut Hill on Saturday.

In Waban, food on the stove also resulted in a fire at 35 Amhearst Road. Engine two responded.

Taglienti appears strong in 7; Ross, Vance battle

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The incumbent Ward 7 Alderman-at-Large Dominic Taglienti should sail into the number one slot here as challengers Eve Ross and Verne Vance battle it out for the seat vacated by four-term alderman Mark White.

Both challengers admitted that the White vacancy was in part, reason for their entry into this year's race.

While Taglienti, 64, has rested on his citywide visibility and three-term aldermanic track record, his opposition has been scrambling to spread their names about the city.

While Ross has been "Bullish on Newton," Vance has billed himself as "All Newton can vote for." Ross has funneled her monies into media advertising as Vance has put much of his resources into the printing of a smart-looking leaflet.

They have both been campaigning hard and have confessed the race boils down to a two-candidate election.

Vance, a graduate of Harvard Law and former official of the US State Department, said "realistically, one has to expect someone who is an incumbent will retain his seat."

The former chairman of the Massachusetts Advisory Council on Education, Vance, 49, is a "firm believer" in public education. As an attorney, he has experience in the areas of urban renewal, public utilities and the environment.

Ross, 30, is a practicing attorney in Newton and a graduate of Boston College Law. She also holds a Master in City Planning from Harvard University and an undergraduate degree from Bradford College Institute of Urban Studies.

"I've always been civic minded," said Ross of her candidacy. "I just have an interest in government and there was an open seat."

She noted that her city planning backround gives her expertise in land use, planning, municipal finance and housing.

Taglienti, a developer and Newton apartment owner sits on the Land Use and Public Facilities committees. Although he opposed the Druker proposal for Newton Corner, which would have provided 301 units of rental housing, he believes that the the lack of affordable rental housing is the biggest facing the city.

Taglienti said the city should employ someone who is well versed with housing. "When you're hot on a subject such as housing, you should be right on its tail and build housing and make sure you get the money," he said.

"In the aftermath of Druker, all the housing uproar we had at the time is now on the backburner," Taglienti added. "It will be revived again when the Sidney Hill property comes before the board."

Ross, who said she would have voted for Druker, noted the city "must make up for the loss of rental housing stock, possibly through rehabilitation" of existing properties.

Vance said he favored the preservation of village character yet noted the city must permit some new development to expand the tax base and the rental housing stock.

The three candidates questioned the wide implementation of user fees for the use of city services.

"They're never going to get the money they think they're going to get," said Taglienti, who voted against the fees. "I think they have gone too far on this whole thing, especially with trash."

Vance said he "seriously doubted if user fees are going to be a source of new revenue," and admitted that he had problems with many of the new fees.

Ross called the fees, which were implemented in the wake of Proposition 2½, a form of "hidden taxation."

Three incumbents vying for two Ward 5 at-large openings

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In an unusual race, three incumbents are squaring off for two citywide seats from ward 5.

Incumbent Ward 5 Aldermen-at-Large Paul Coletti and James Miller find themselves faced with fending off fellow board member Paul Daley. All three candidates are two-term incumbents.

Daley, a real estate broker and appraiser, formerly represented ward 3 but has since taken up residency in ward 5. Despite the move and entry into his first citywide election, Daley does not believe he will suffer any type of exposure problem.

"I originally came from Ward 5," explained Daley. "The fact that I'm third generation I won't have a problem."

To improve his citywide visibility, Daley has financed half page adds in local newspapers. Coletti, who has appeared with Miller on several citywide election ballots, has placed quarter page adds and has built roofracks. Miller has comparatively done less campaigning than either of his opposition.

Daley's entry into the fray could hurt Coletti more than it does Miller because of Coletti's strength in ward 3, Daley's old ward, as shown in the last municipal election. Coletti, who topped the ward 5 at-large ticket in 1979 by less than 200 votes, picked up 300 more votes than Miller in ward 3.

However, Daley, who totaled 1,183 votes in his ward 3 race two years ago, could pick up a considerable amount of the Coletti vote here. How much Daley garners citywide remains to be seen.

Coletti, vice-chairman of the Finance committee, has noted in his adds that his commitment to the board and attendance record is "twice as good as any challenger."

Despite the entry of a third incumbent into the race, Coletti said he felt secure. "My commitment was much more than both of my opponents," he said.

Miller, a project manager for Data General, sits on three committees but has neglected to attend 41 of 68 committee meetings over the past two years. He said personal conflicts and personal obligations has kept him away from his committee responsibilities. However, Miller did not believe that his absences hindered his ability to perform as an alderman noting that "if anything is in writing," he "has read it."

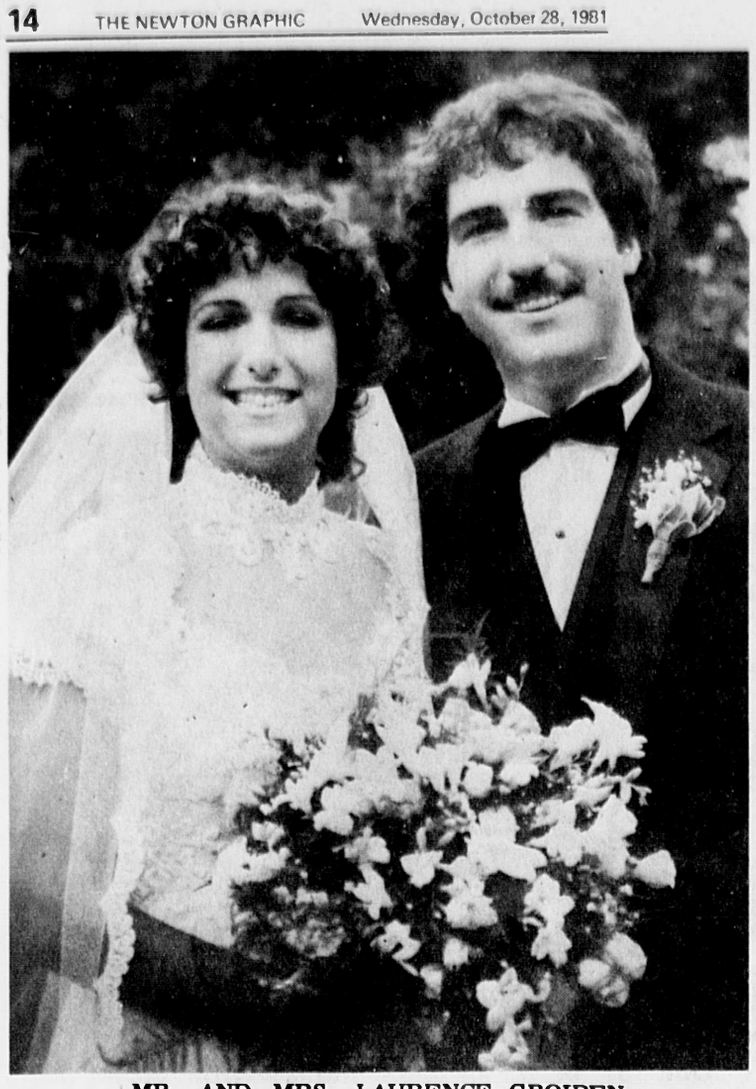

After each committee meeting and before each full board meeting, the actions of the committee meetings are put in writing.

Daley, who criticized Miller for "being remise" in his duties, failed to attend 30 of 77 meetings over the same two-year period. Coletti missed just 13 of 66 meetings in comparison.

Miller has cast himself a "representative vote," whose primary interests, especially in regard to land use projects, will be representative of the neighborhood concerns.

Coletti, said the city must work to expand its tax base either by encouraging new development or revitalization. He also said the city must "maximize utilization" through the consolidation and merging of muncipal services.

Daley, a member of the Land Use Committee, said Newton must work to improve its rental housing stock both for the young and the elderly. "We don't have enough units to supply demand in this city," added Daley. "The city has an obligation to provide for these people, both young and old."

New programs for local senior citizens

NEWTON — As of this past Monday, seniors in Thompsonville began enjoying an expanded array of programs as they begin their second season at the Thompsonville Senior Forum.

Every Monday, 11:30 a.m. — 2 p.m. programs will be held at the Filippo Corsi Club, corner Jackson St. and Langley Rd. All Thompsonville seniors may attend the forum free of charge, as the program is made possible by a grant from the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Planned in cooperation with Newton Community Schools, the Thompsonville Senior Planning Committee has developed the following exciting activities with the special interests of seniors in mind: Oct. 26, Open House celebration with Mayor Theodore D. Mann; Nov. 2, Health Maintenance Clinic, cosponsored with the Newton Health Department; Nov. 9, Bus trip to Quincy Market; Nov. 16, Discussion Group on Newton's Revaluation Program with Harold Brady, Newton Assessor's Office; Nov. 23, 30, Holiday Crafts Potpourri with Sheila Singer; Dec. 7, Circle and Line Dancing with Susan Rosen; Dec. 14, Film Presentation on Canada presented by the Canadian Consulate General Film Library; and Dec. 21, Holiday Party.

Seniors are invited to bring their lunches every Monday and enjoy card playing and socializing before the scheduled activity. For more information on the Forum and other senior programs sponsored by Community Schools, or to share your ideas for future programming, call the Newton Community Schools office, 552-7118.

'It's a shock': Boy recalls terror of being stabbed

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — It was two minutes of terror — a knife slashing madly in the night, a brief struggle and finally escape for the 16-year-old son of a Newton cop.

Allan "Jay" Ciccone Jr., who was slashed with a knife repeatedly and escaped serious injury, had gone to the Albemarle Playground on Watertown Street to watch a baseball game on Sept. 2, but ended up in a struggle for his life. Albermarle Park is one of the most frequented evening hang-outs for local youths in the city.

Ciccone Jr. was treated and released at Newton Wellesley Hospital that same night for minor knife wounds including several stitches in his right hand.

"It's not really scary," Ciccone Jr. said yesterday, recalling the vicious knife attack. "It's a shock. You see something and you just don't know how to react. I didn't know how to react."

Police deny that the stabbing, which occured almost seven weeks ago, was covered up. However, the stabbing was not reported by any local newspaper, including The Graphic, which obtains the police news regularly.

Lt. Charles Feeley, who heads the Community Service Division, said the police station computer, which compiles the daily police log, may have been broken. Such a breakdown could have resulted in the failure to disclose the information.

The wild nightmare began at approximately 11:45 p.m. when three car loads of teenagers came to a screeching halt on Watertown Street as Ciccone Jr. was beginning his several block walk home.

A 17 or 18-year-old assailant jumped from the first car - a 1972 blue LTD - and demanded to know if Ciccone Jr. was a member of the "Cunning gang."

When Ciccone Jr. responded by saying he knew "Cunning," the assailant leaped madly forward with a black handled knife and slashed at the youth's chest.

The shocked Ciccone Jr. raised his right hand to deflect the blow and was cut.

"He had no look on his face whatsoever," noted Ciccone Jr. "He looked like he had done this before. He was coming for my chest and I just whacked him as hard as I could." The crazed assailant then came at him a second time.

"He came around and tried to get me in the stomach, but I kicked the knife out of his hand," he explained. "I kicked him in the wrist."

With the knife knocked out of the assailant's hand, Ciccone Jr. and the attacker jousted and soon two more teenagers had jumped into the fray in an attempt to aid the assailant.

One of the youths pulled at Ciccone Jr's hair and another attempted to pull him off the assailant. The victim swung at the two youths attempting to wrestle him to the ground and then ran for his life.

"As soon as I hit the ground I just rolled and took off," he said. "I didn't look to see if they were coming. I just got up and started running!"

Ciccone Jr., who has played football at the playground for many years, said he never expected the ruthless attack. "It's kind of weird," he noted. "I have been hanging around there all my life."

Feeley said that police have no leads in the stabbing case.

Ciccone Jr. said that he recognized the assailant from Newton Corner, but did not know his name or identity. Allan's mother, Patricia, a candidate for Ward 2 Alderman-at-Large, charged that the police have no thoroughly investigated the case.

"The only leads they followed up are what my son and I gave them," said Ciccone. "This department has done nothing to investigate this matter."

Ciccone's father is former Police Union President Allan Ciccone Sr. who resigned under pressure this year after charging that there was "fat" in the Police Department's budget and the taxpayers money was being wasted.

Ciccone, who is not currently being paid by the department as a result of orders from Police Chief William Quinn, is presently involved in a legal dispute with the department involving a back injury.

Man arrested following auto accident

NEWTON — A Waltham man was arrested Wednesday night on hit and run charges following an auto accident with a West Newton man at the intersection of Lowell Ave. and Washington St. No injuries were reported, police said.

Gary L. Schoener of Waltham was arrested shortly after the incident which occured around 7 p.m. and charged with leaving the scene of an accident and operating under the influence of alcohol.

Although no citations were issued, John Tobin of Newton told police he fell ill while driving and collided with four cars traveling in the 600 block of Dedham St. Wednesday around 7:30 p.m.

Tobin's car ended up slamming into a stone wall. Tobin, the only injury, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by Chaulk Rescue Two.

NEWTON — A brown Toyota Celica was reported stolen from a Park St. resident Thursday. A 1980 model, the car was discovered missing around 7 a.m.

NEWTON — Hunger appears to have been the only motive behind a break-in of Dare Inc. of the 300 block of Commonwealth Ave.

After forcing open a front window, thieves cooked some food, sat down and ate and then left. Nothing appears to be missing, according to police.

An antique clock and jewelry were heisted from a Faxon St. home sometime Wednesday, according to police. The theft was discovered around 6:30 p.m., police said, and entrance was through a side window.

A Thurston Rd. home was the target of a second break-in late Wednesday which was discovered around the same time as the Faxon St. housebreak.

According to police, thieves apparently entered through an unlocked window and stole a cassette recorder, European coins of unknown value and a Texas Instrument "Speak and Spell."

Hit and run reported at Commonwealth Ave.

NEWTON — A Vail, Colo., resident reported being struck by an unknown driver at the intersection of Commonwealth Ave. and Walnut St. early Tuesday.

Although no injuries were reported, the driver said he was headed west on Commonwealth Ave. when the other car did a U-turn in the middle of the intersection and struck his car on the right rear bumper. The unknown driver then left the scene.

Crash hurts 9-month-old child

NEWTON — A two-car accident Monday at the intersection of Walnut and Beacon Sts. sent one nine-month— old Waltham boy to the hospital for minor injuries.

The entire right side of the car driven by Sandra Melanson of Waltham was damaged after her car collided with a car driven by Jeffrey Kase of Newton around 11:30 a.m. The right front end of Kase's car suffered damage.

The boy, a passenger in Melanson's car, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by Chaulk Rescue Two.

Jewelry valued at $10,500 was stolen

NEWTON — A gold watch and chain valued at $10,500 was stolen from a Waverly Ave. home Wednesday and the theft was discovered around 2 p.m.

According to police, there was no sign of forced entry into the home. The watch is described as a Rollex gold watch, which alone is valued at $8,000. In addition to the chain, a gold bracelet of unknown value is missing.

NEWTON — A Chapel St. woman raking her front yard Wednesday around noon heard noises coming from the vicinity of her cellar.

She called the police and later found in the cellartwo boxes of legal papers which had been taken from her bedroom down to the cellar. However, nothing appeared to be missing.

NEWTON — A 1968 Mercury Cougar was reported stolen from the 100 block of Commonwealth Ave. Tuesday. Police said the car was discovered stolen around 8:30 p.m.

A Raleigh bike valued at $150 was reported stolen from the side of a home on Forrest St. around 5 p.m. Tuesday. The color of the bike is light and dark blue.

DePasquale, McDermott in tough Ward 1 battle

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Alderman Joseph Depasquale, a second-term alderman (elected in 1977), was shocked when he was topped in the preliminary race for the ward 1 seat.

John McDermott, a 21-year-old political science major, said his one- vote preliminary victory gives him momentum for the Nov. 3 finale. McDermott's strong showing was perhaps the most surprising in the preliminary contests.

DePasquale, however, claimed the political neophyte's impressive showing was a fluke and the final results will show it.

The ward, composed of the conservative Newton Corner and Nonantum, has a large Italian population,which could figure into the voting. The overwhelming traffic in the area and lack of parking appear to be the dominant concerns of ward 1 residents.

McDermott, a Newton North graduate who works part-time at Edward's Supermarket in Watertown, has taken to the streets - campaigning hard. He has also been quick to criticize the incumbent.

McDermott has argued that DePasquale has been "inaccessible and insensitive" to the needs of local residents. He has also rapped DePasquale's attendance record. He claims that the preliminary is evidence of the voter's dissatisfaction with the incumbent.

"I think we have the momentum," said McDermott. "That one vote meant a lot to people."

DePasquale, 28, has missed two board meetings and 11 of 63 committee meetings which is about average for an alderman. He has characterized McDermott's charges as "lies and mudslinging." DePasquale was unopposed in the last election.

"There have been some questions as to my character and responsibility," explained DePasquale. "If people have any doubt just ask a neighbor."

McDermott has promised to attempt to alleviate parking problems in the ward by implementing a parking permit system for local residents.

Since the preliminary, DePasquale, who works at DePasquale's Grocery in the ward, seems to have tightened up his campaign organization. He maintains that McDermott has received all the support he is going to get.

"It won't happen again," Depasquale recently said. "There is no question we will win this one."

DePasquale has promised to work for the final implementation of traffic improvements for the ward. He has also pointed to his two years of experience as a big plus.

DePasquale was in the forefront of the move to retain the Fire Department operated ambulance service. He also opposed the recent Druker development and was instrumental in maintaining the licensing commission under Carleton Merrill.

"The experience I have as well as the respect I have from members of the board and throughout the city makes me the better candidate," said DePasquale.

"McDermott does not know the issues," he charged. "He has not brought up one issue to date." McDermott, however, has claimed he can bring new vigor and ideas to the board.

Bullwinkle faces Snyder in Ward 3 aldermen's race

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Although Richard Bullwinkle has formally been out of Newton politics for four years, his candidacy may be the one to beat in Ward 3.

Without hesitation, the four-term alderman, from 1973 to 1978, can still call the ward his own.

Even his opposition, Paul Snyder, a newcomer to the political scene, admits that the "recognition" of his opponent's name is the toughest thing he must overcome. Incumbent Ward 3 Alderman Paul Daley has moved to Ward 5 thus opening the seat for a new face in January.

Despite losing in 1979 in his bid to unseat Ward 3-at-large incumbents Matthew Jefferson and Robert Tennant, the 53-year-old Bullwinkle took Ward 3 with 1199 votes.

Snyder, an attorney for the US Department of Housing and Urban Development, decided to run for alderman when the board, he felt, ignored community protests against the move of the West Newton Branch Library to the Davis Community School.

Much of the impetus behind Snyder's political motivation also comes from what he sees is "a lack of leadership" on the present 24-member board and a "lack of a professional" ambiance.

"We need people who possess the ability to disagree without taking it personally," said Snyder, 37, a graduate of Boston University Law.

Bullwinkle, like Snyder, finds fault with the attitude of the current board. "I don't think it is as mature as it was when I was on it," noted the marketing administrator.

Described by some as the "board's conscience" when active, Bullwinkle was a major proponent of the Open Meeting Law.

A fiscal conservative, Bullwinkle advocated the tedious scrutinization of the city's budget during his first tenure. Today he envisions a system of periodical "inventory control," to "see where department expenses are going."

Bullwinkle also feels that the city should set up an office of Economic Development which would work toward inducing businesses to come into the city.

Another avenue, which Bullwinkle believes the city could get additional revenue, is by reviewing the taxes paid by area businesses. "Utilities in the city are getting away with murder," he said.

Snyder, like his opponent, considers himself a fiscal conservative. He would like to see the establishment of a post-audit sub-committee, which would include an outside accountant, to oversee the work of the Finance Committee.

"Where at a period when people are starting to realize there is no free lunch," said Snyder. "We have Proposition 2½ and we have to be fiscally responsible."

Snyder also noted there is "only one taxpayer," who is being forced to pay out of new pockets despite Proposition 2½. "I don't think there are any new sources of revenue, it's just a different pocket," Snyder said. He proceeded to denounce the implementation of user fees, the wooing of additional industry to broaden the tax base and the further taxation of public utilities - who he claims just assess their customers.

Both candidates also had some strong words for the city's school closing policies, particularly the scheduled shutdown of the Warren School at the end of this school year.

"I would rather see these closings by a master plan than piecemeal," said Bullwinkle. "I would like to see the Warren school remain open although it may be fait accomplis."

Snyder called the rash of closings and the subsequent conversion of vacant school buildings a case of "short-sightedness."

"If interest rates come down in five years, people are going to need housing," added Snyder. "It is very conceivable that there is going to be an influx if housing becomes affordable."

Bullwinkle also addressed the city's housing problems which he says is contributing to the city's stratification. "There is no place for young people to live," he noted. "The city has to address this on a long-term basis.

"We're really shutting out young people," added Bullwinkle. "It is as good a reason our schools are empty as the pill." He said the city must attempt to get a large block of housing for its elderly rather than the small blocks it now gets.

Rose Art Museum plans pre-Columbian exhibit

WALTHAM — An exhibition of pre-Columbian art, consisting for the most part of pieces never before put on public display, will be shown at the Rose Art Museum on the Brandeis University campus from Nov. 7 through Dec. 20. A reception and preview of the exhibition will take place on Saturday, Nov. 7, between 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

The exhibit, entitled "Ancient American Art: An Aesthetic View," will differ from most showings of pre-Columbian art which generally emphasize the historical contexts in which the objects were made and explain ancient cultures through them.

The Rose Art Museum exhibition makes no attempt to discount the importance of these anthropological considerations, but seeks to draw primary attention instead to the aesthetic sculptural qualities of the objects without reference to their function or cultural origin. This emphasis has typically been a concern among private collectors, art historians, and dealers, but it has rarely been the focus of museum exhibitions.

"Ancient American Art: An Aesthetic View" includes many objects which may be considered "off-beat" in relation to their cultures. They have been chosen because of the conviction that less typical examples often express the artistic freedom which is sculpturally significant without regard to time or place. Through these choices, the exhibition purposefully challenges our expected notions of pre-Columbian art. Those viewers familiar with pre-Columbian art are in for many surprises. Those unfamiliar with the field can make a provocative discovery about an artistic tradition that ranks with any in the history of art.

The Rose Art Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m. and there is no charge for admission. For further information call 647-2403.

Turtle Lane presents Side By Side By Sondheim

NEWTON — Newton's Turtle Lane Playhouse is presently presenting the musical revue, Side By Side By Sondhem. The show will be performed Wednesday through Sunday evenings through November 13.

The musical is inspired by Stephen Sondheim, the award winning composer who wrote some of Broadway's best known musicals including West Side Story, Gypsy, A Little Night Music, Company and A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

Beginning with the production the theater is offering a complete dinner theater package on Friday and Saturday evenings at 6:30 p.m. Cabaret seating will be offered on Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday evenings. The performance begins at 8 p.m. on all evenings. For information call: 244-0169.

Incumbent Katz is Ward 8 underdog

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Ward 8 Alderman Robert Katz is the only incumbent who is considered an underdog in the Nov. 3 election.

Katz finished 322 votes behind challenger Marcy Richmond in the preliminary election Sept. 22. Although Richmond has never held public office, she has experience in both federal and state government positions.

Katz, the youngest alderman ever elected, was also considered an underdog two years ago when he defeated former School Committee member Alvin Mandell by a slim 87 votes to win the ward 8 seat.

The 28-year-old Richmond, who has garnered the support of many local public officials, has waged an extensive door knocking campaign and has spent more than $2,000 in an effort to convince voters that she can do a better job than Katz.

Ward 8 is primarily made up of Oak Hill and Newton Centre.

Katz, assistant production manager for a Boston firm, has attempted to battle back, but with a low turnout expected will have a hard time making up the 300 vote margin.

Richmond swept every precinct in the preliminary including Katz's home precinct (4) by 137 votes. An attorney for the state Department of Elder Affairs, Richmond said she is anything but overconfident.

"I am working as hard as I possibly can," she explained. "I can't take anything for granted...I certainly haven't let up."

Richmond has pointed to her broad experience in government as qualifications for taking over in ward 8. The Suffolk University Law School Graduate is a former legislative aide to Congressman Michael Harrington and a former voluntary prosecutor for the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office.

Katz, however, has argued that Richmond has no experience at the local level. He is quick to ask where has Richmond been while he has been serving local residents. He also claims to have done more for the community.

Richmond counters that her impressive primary win in her first try for public office is evidence of how closely she has worked with the community.

"I have worked closely with people from every neighborhood in the ward," she says. "The preliminary was evidence of their response to that."

Richmond has campaigned to establish long range approaches to land use, education, and other aspects of municipal government.

"I would like to see a more farsighted approach to land use rather than a reactive one," Richmond said.

She has also campaigned to expand the Police Deaprtment's Neighborhood Watch bruglary prevention program.

Katz, who has spent about $750 in the campaign, has stressed his experience in the preliminary and repeatedly refers to his community involvement.

"I have been involved with the community and know the community needs," says the Northeastern University Graduate. "I'm telling people there is no need for a change."

He adds: "I am letting people know that if they vote for me when it comes Jan. 1 to start making decisions for the next two years they will have somebody there who knows there concerns from day one."

Many voters, however, have apparently decided that Richmond has the ability to handle the job. The support of Newton state Representatives Susan Schur (D) and David Cohen (D) and Newton Lieutenant Governor hopeful Lois Pines has surely helped establish Richmond as a viable candidate.

Katz has received support from former Newton state Rep. David Cohen and Board of Aldermen President Matthew Jefferson.

Schur blasts rape sentence

NEWTON — Rep. Susan D. Schur (D-Newton) had expressed shock and outrage with Judge Herbert Abrams, a Norfolk Superior Court judge who imposed a lenient sentence on five men guilty of raping a Whitman woman.

The five men, Robert J. Tarr, Mark Savoy, John Strickland, Richard Dovel, and Alexander Aldupolis pleaded guilty to charges of rape, unnatural rape and malicious destruction of property.

"Last year, members of the Women's Legislative Caucus fought long and hard to increase rape convictions by passing Chapter 459," said Rep. Schur. Chapter 459 of the Acts of 1980 amended the rape statute in Massachusetts by setting up a system of staircasing for different categories of rape.

"This law was passed," continued Schur, "believing that the judges of this commonwealth recognized the serious and vicious nature of this crime, and that they would sentence accordingly. Judge Abrams has insulted women and the law-abiding citizens of Massachusetts by sentencing admitted rapists to three-five year suspended sentences and $500 fines to be paid in $5 weekly installments. "Rape is a crime of violence which must be dealt with appropriately," she said. "Judge Abrams' disregard for the rape victim and for the intent of the statute has made a mockery of our judicial system and should be reviewed."

Levens joins consulting firm

NEWTON — Joseph D. Levens of Newton Lower Falls has accepted a position with Booz Allen & Hamilton, Inc., an international consulting firm.

Levens will work in Booz Allen & Hamilton's Management Information Systems Division office in Washington, D.C.

Levens received his masters degree from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University and his bachelor's degree from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

2 awards established in Dr. Swartz memory

The Newton Symphony Orchestra has established two annual awards in memory of Dr. Jacob Swartz, a Newton resident who was one of the founders of the Orchestra. Swartz, whose unexpected death last spring stunned his many friends in both the music and medical fields, was a violinist with the NSO through its first 15 years.

A distinguished psychiatrist and author of several books on psychiatry, Dr. Swartz was Associate Dean of Admissions at the Boston Unversity School of Medicine, and a member of the faculty of the Boston Psychoanalytic Society.

His love for music, however, was a constant all his life, and he rarely missed a Sunday evening rehearsal or concert of the Newton Symphony Orchestra, an organization for which he actively worked as founder, Board member, and musician.

The annual Jacob Swartz Memorial Award will be given to a member of the NSO whose musicianship, dedication and service to the orchestra carry on the spirit of a community musician, exemplified by Dr. Swartz. The Jacob Swartz Young Soloist's Prize, will be given each year to the young musician selected to perform with the orchestra at its annual Young Peoples' Concert, to encourage his or her musical growth and education.

The first recipients of these two awards are Mark Budd and Chizuko Matsusaka.

Budd, a resident of Newton, is also a founder of the NSO and a member of its string section for 15 years. The former owner and Director of Camp Alpine, a music camp on Cape Cod, he has lived a life of music. As a child, he studied violin with members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and later taught music privately and on the staff of the Brookline Music School. He was a member of the Peoples' Symphony Orchestra and several chamber ensembles in the 1930s. He was a choir master at Temple Ohabei Shalom in Brookline for many years, a highlight of which was a performance of the "Sacred Service" by Ernest Bloch in the presence of the composer.

Budd was principle second violin for 12 years in the NSO and is now a member of the cello section of the orchestra. For several years he was president and later served as manager of the orchestra.

Cellist Chizuko Matsusaka is a sophmore at Newton South High School, and has recently been selected to perform at the NSO's Young Peoples' Concert on Jan. 23, 1982.

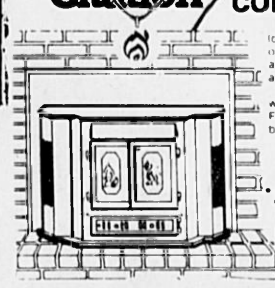

Matsusaka is the youngest of five children, and has been studying the cello since the age of six. Her first teacher was Newtonite Zoe Levenson. She currently is studying with David Fink, and with Marc Johnson of the Vermeer Quartet. She was formerly a member of the New England Conservatory Youth Chamber Orchestra, and is now a member of the Young Performers at Longy School of Music. She is also in a piano trio at the All Newton Music School.

The presentation of the Jacob Swartz Memorial Award to Mark Budd will take place at the first concert of the NSO, on Sunday, Nov. 8, at Meadowbrook Junior High. For information and reservations, call 965-2555.

A dream fulfilled for racing Newton couple

At 5:30 p.m. Sunday, as twilight began to creep over Central Park and most of Manhatten had turned its attention to watching the Yankees and Dodgers battle in the fifth game of the World Series from Los Angeles, Suzanne Emerson of Auburndale struggled across the finish line of the New York City Marathon. More than three hours after Alberto Salazar had broken the tape, Emerson completed her first attempt at the 26-mile distance. Hardly in world record time, but a personal triumph nonetheless.

Marathon-running is a funny sport. Unlike any other, the object is not to win, but to finish. Of the 16,000 runners, joggers, and in some cases, glory-seekers who entered Sunday's race, perhaps only 10 really had serious thoughts of winning. The remaining 15,990 wanted only to finish in a time set only by themselves.

David Emerson and his wife, Suzanne, were both in the latter catagory. So too was Steve Norton, a Waltham resident, although Norton's aspirations did take on a more serious tone.

For the Emersons both Waltham High graduates, this was their first marathon together. "Our dream was to cross the finish line hand-in-hand and have a picture of something we'd always remember," said 36-year old Dave. "Unfortunately, it didn't work out that way. But we both still finished and we're very proud of that."

Dave, who ran New York last fall for the first time and has participated in the Boston Marathon since 1979 as an unofficial entrant, completed the course in approximately 4½ hours. Suzanne, who became ill and was forced to stop midway through, came across an hour later.

"Suzanne began to feel weak in the stomach," said Dave. "She's a nurse so she knew she had to stop. She told me to go ahead, however, and finish the race. She said she'd meet me at the medical station at the finish line."

When Dave finished and began to look for his wife, she was nowhere to be found. As he found out later, she rested for half-an-hour, felt a burst of energy and finished the race.

"I was getting really worried when all of a sudden she stormed into the hotel room and said 'I finished the race,'" related Dave. "After resting she'd felt her energy come back and just felt she had to run the rest of the way."

For 35-year old Suzanne, a nurse at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and Dave, a teacher in the Waltham public schools, Sunday's marathon was the culmination of one full year of training. Married 13 years, they began running together five years ago as a way to stay fit. What started as simple one and two mile runs progressed slowly to five, then eight, and finally 18 mile sessions designed to prepare for the marathon.

"I started very slowly," emphasized Dave, who is quick to point out that he'll never win any marathons. "In the beginning I use to run 300 yards down a hill and then walk back. For the first year I never did more than a mile and a half. But I gradually built strength and increased my distance. When I ran New York last year, Suzanne said that she wished she could run with me. We planned right then to work toward that this year."

Their dream almost died due to a technicality. Since New York has no qualifying times for entrance, numbers are handed out on a first come-first serve basis. When Dave wrote to the marathon committee for applications this summer, he did so separately, As it turned out, Suzanne was accepted and he was rejected.

"I wrote another letter to them explaining our situation," says Dave. "They wrote back and said that due to the extenuating circumstances they would accept me into the race. It was a very nice thing for them to do. After all, they've got 16,000 people to worry about and here they were taking the time to help a guy who runs it in 4½ hours."

Thus the Emersons experienced the distinctly different thrill of running down Madison Avenue and through the streets of Harlem. Next year, with one marathon already under Suzanne's belt, they hope to fulfill their dream of crossing the finish line together.

While the Emersons were following one goal, Steve Norton was completing another. He didn't expect to win the race either, but he had a definite time in which he wanted to run it.

Norton finished in the very respectable time of 2:55, this winning a medal awarded to all those who came in under three hours. It wasn't his best, but as Norton says, "If you want to go for a personal best, don't do it in New York. There are just too many people in the race. I wanted to run a 5½ minute first mile. but it took me nine minutes because of the crowd."

But, like everyone else, Norton credited people lining the streets with providing inspiration to all the runners. "They were just great," he said. "So many gave us water and helped us along. It was a great experience. I just wish I could have gone a little faster."

Noble's Bent passes Rivers crazy, 35-20

Quarterback Eddie Bent threw for four touchdowns and more than 200 yards for the third straight week to lead Noble and Greenough to a 35-20 victory over Rivers Saturday at Waterman Field.

Three of Bent's TDs went to split end Kwane Dixon with Tim Sheehy pulling down the fourth as Noble rallied from a 6-0 deficit with 21 unanswered points in the second period.

"Again we played an excellent first period," said Redmen coach Peter Capodilupo, "but we couldn't sustain it. We've been playing on emotion a lot this year, and against teams with this kind of quality, that isn't enough sometimes."

The Redmen, now 1-3, have had a brutal schedule this season. Their defeats have come to teams with a grand total of one loss. "That's a tough way to start. It's been very difficult on the kids," said Capodilupo.

John Carlin gave Rivers that early advantage with a six-yard run, capping an impressive eight-play, 95-yard march. Halfback Kevin Sims had gotten 35 of those yards on a counter play and Ron Seeto picked up 17 more.

Brandeis invades Babson

Hot off his 100th career collegiate coaching victory, Brandeis University's Mike Coven is hoping to haunt the Babson College lair when the Judges invade the Babson Athletic Field for a Halloween day encounter with the Beavers.

Brandeis, sporting a 13-1 record, is the top-ranked team in New England and the number one squad in the United States in the latest coaches' poll. Riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak, sophomore goalie Jim Leahy (Milford, Conn.) has been one of the msot pleasant surprises.

After being shelled for five goals in a 5-2 setback to Division One Harvard, Leahy showed the mettle that he is made of, reeling off 10 straight Victories, while allowing just four goals in that stretch. Leahy has shown the ability to come up with the big save and that he can be tough at all times, as is shown by a 2-1 overtime win over Boston University, Division One power, and a 2-1 triumph over a strong Division Two St. Anselm.

Babson (9-3-1) has been struggling of late, showing three losses and a tie before winning their last outing. While the Beavers' record may not be as impressive as other years, Coach Coven is not taking the two-time defending national champion lightly.

"Babson is as good now as they have ever been," noted the ninth-year Brandeis coach, who feels Babson's win Saturday, 3-1 over Bowdoin, has finally snapped them out of their scoring doldrums and that their defense is still among the most-highly rated in the country.

An added point of interest in this classic confrontation (the heated series is all tied up at 9-9-5 with Brandeis holding a slight edge in goals scored, 39-34) are the many ties that bind the two schools.

Coven, who was the assistant coach of the U.S. soccer team that took a silver medal in this summer's Maccabiah Games, has worked at Babson's summer soccer camp, which is directed by his Babson counterpart, Bill Rogers.

Bedford puts clamps on Lions

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

Suddenly, the hopes and dreams of a 4-0 start have faded into the grim reality of two straight losses and an 0-2 record in the Dual County League. Where the Newton South Lions were able to console themselves last week with the fact that they had played well in a 21-20 defeat to Concord-Carlisle, they could find no such silver linings in Saturday's 7-0 disaster to Bedford High. The Lions played miserably and they knew it.

"We didn't do very many things right," said Lion coach Art Kojoyian, who refused to use injuries to some key offensive linemen and star wide receiver Mike Antonellis (hand infection) as an alibi. "Our offense just made too many mistakes. Joe (Spagnuolo) didn't have any time to throw."

Spagnuolo, the Lion QB who has rung up such impressive numbers all season long, was completely throttled by a gang-tackling Bedford defense. The Bucs sacked him five times for minus 32 yards and pressured him to release the ball quickly on just about every other occasion. His final figures were an abysmal 5 of 19 for 59 yards with three interceptions.

Newton South's rushing game wasn't much better. Art Walton did manage 73 yards in 18 carries, but with Spagnuolo's minus 32 added in, the Lions gained a net 55 for the afternoon.

To be honest, this wasn't a very exciting game. The Bucs, now 4-2 overall and 4-0 in the DCL, scored on their very first possession and then proceeded to blow every opportunity they had to pad the lead with costly mistakes and turnovers. Workhorse Bill Miksenas (133 yards, 16 carries) completed a six-play, 84-yard drive by breaking away for a 68-yard run on third and inches at the 42.

The Lions had taken the kickoff and moved the ball from their own 30 to the Buc 38 before being stopped. Spagnuolo's punt pinned Bedford back to the 16, but the Bucs got out of trouble on a six-yard keeper by QB Mike Montemagno and an eight-yard sweep by Miksenas.

Three plays later, with the Lions jamming the line to prevent a first down, Miksenas slipped through an opening and down the right sideline for the touchdown. Mike Ruggerio booted the PAT to complete the day's scoring.

The rest of the afternoon became a question of who would committ the next turnover. Bedford's next possession ended when Dave Hill picked off the first of Montemagno's three interceptions. But the Lions wasted that opportunity when Spagnuolo, scrambling wildly, threw a desperation pass up for grabs and had it intercepted also.

The Bucs, keeping the ball almost exclusively on the ground -- they gained 236 yards rushing and were 1 of 8 for -10 passing -- marched to the Lion 18. Whereupon Ken Russell fumbled and Bob Baker recovered.

After sacking Spagnuolo twice and forcing Newton to punt, the Bucs drove to the 12, where, on second down, Montemagno badly underthrew Dave Walsh, who was wide open in the end zone, and Steve Anglin intercepted.

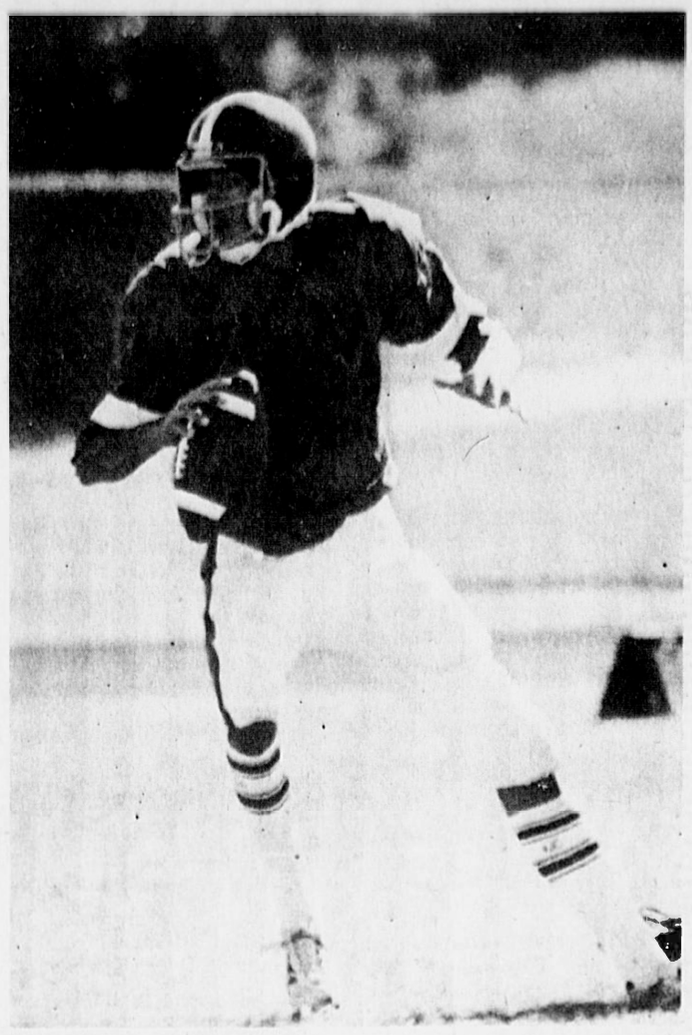

"We should have been ahead by a couple of touchdowns at the half, but we killed ourselves," admitted Bedford mentor Armand Sabourin.

The Lions, meanwhile, could do absolutely nothing on offense to get themselves back into the game. Their only threat of any sort came with eight minutes to go in the third quarter when they marched from the 24 into Bedford territory.

Spagnuolo hit Steve Anglin for 18 yards and Walton gained 10 on two rushes to give them a first at the 48. After an incomplete pass, Walton picked up four more to move to the Buc 48. But a third down pass fell incomplete and the Lions were forced to punt.

The next time they got the ball they were forced to start at their three after a 48-yard punt. In their final possession, they moved from the 20 to the 33 before Spagnuolo was intercepted again with just over one minute remaining.

"We controlled the ball on the ground the way we wanted," said Sabourin, "and our defense played tremendous. We felt we had to stop Newton's running first in order to put pressure on Spagnuolo and we achieved that."

North girls cop 10th

The Newton North volleyball team tuned up for its show down with Cambridge Rindge and Latin by defeating Arlington, 2-1, Monday in a non-league contest at Newton.

Newton North, which is 8-2 in the Suburban League, is tied with Cambridge for first place and the two will meet on Wednesday to determine the top spot. North is 10-3 overall on the season.

The Tigers had to take care of Arlington first and they did by hanging on in the third game. Newton North won the first game, 15-6, and Arlington won the second game, 15-6.

In the third game, The Tigers behind the serves of Amy Merritt broke out to a 10-3 lead, but Arlington fought back and tie the score at 13-13. The Tigers came up with two straight points to win the game and the match.

The win avenges a loss the Tigers suffered to Arlington a week ago. Ginger Zukowski led the Tigers in the first game with a six-point effort.

Shields new head of college hoop group

Al Shields, the athletic director at Bentley College, has been elcted president of the Eastern College Basketball Association, it was announced today.

The governing body for ECAC college basketball, the ECBA is comprised of 213 ECAC-member schools.

The honor is the latest in a long line that Shields has been accorded. He currently serves on the ECAC Executive Council and is the commissioner of the Northeast-8 Conference.

Shields, a 1959 graduate of Northeastern University, is the only athletic director in Bentley history and was the college's first basketball coach. During his tenure, the Falcons won 258 games while losing just 106, a winning percentage of 71 percent. Under his direction, they appeared in five NCAA Regional Tournaments, twice finished the regular season ranked number one in New England (Division II) and received top 20 national recognition three times.

Shields received Coach of the Year honors twice during his career. After the 1971-72 season, he was named Coach of the Year by the UPI, the College Sports Information Directors of America and the National Association of Basketball Coaches. During that year, Shields led the Falcons to a New England record 26 consecutive wins while posting a 26-2 record.

He also received postseason honors after the 1974-75 campaign when he was named District One Coach of the Year by the NABC, UPI and AP.

A native of Somerville, Shields now resides in Burlington.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

STABLE WORK--JOB SECURITY
WALTHAM PRECISION INSTRUMENTS, INC.

Manufacturer of high quality timing instruments, requires skilled individuals for openings in the following positions:

PRECISION MECH. ASSEMBLERS: Experience preferred in primarily small general mechanical assembly using tweezers & eyeloop in a clean bench work type atmosphere. Any background in clock or watch type repair & assembly would be most beneficial.

A/R MACHINISTS: Capable of working to very close tolerances with a minimum of supervision & 1-3 years' minimum experience with lathes, grinders, millers, tools & tooling. Knowledge of blueprints & metrics helpful.

PUNCH PRESS SET-UP OPERATOR(S): These positions require the ability to set up small bench or floor model presses to first piece quality, produce piece parts, & maintain the production with little supervision.

ELECTRONIC SOLDERER/ASSEMBLER: Small bench soldering using hand solderers & a magnifying lamp. Good eyesight, patience, and a steady hand a must.

TOOL & DIE MAKERS: Expert knowledge & 3-5 years' experience for manufacturer & repair of tools, jigs, fixtures, & dies. Also must be able to utilize all machine shop equipment at your command & have technical knowledge of different types of math, material selection & treatment techniques. Some experimental development work, metric & blueprint knowledge helpful.

SWISS SCREW SET-UP PEOPLE: Minimum 5 years' experience on variety of single spindle automatics on all operations. Must be able to grind form tools & manufacture small precision parts such as wheels, pinions, arbors, staffs & screws. Also required to diagnose & remedy problems with adapting standard cams & tooling as well as plan & layout of intricate work.

SMALL BENCH MACHINE OPERATORS: Experienced or trainee with mechanical adeptness. These machines produce small clock parts.

TOOL CRIB ATTENDANT: Complete knowledge of tooling, their properties, & their uses. This is a good job for a retired or semi-retired machinist. Responsibilities include tooling inventory & distribution.

CHIEF INSPECTOR: Must be experienced in layouts, jig tool, fixture inspection. Capable of performing calibration of gauge & inspection equipment. Metric measuring experience preferred. Must be experienced in satisfying quality assurance requirements of government specs & wide range commercial standards.

SUPERVISORY POSITION: Of small sub-division of larger company with necessary background in machining, mechanical assembly, testing, record keeping & requisition parts as needed. Minimum 5 years' experience, ability to read blueprints & understand metric as well as some electrical background would be advantageous.

MECH. DRAFTER: 2-5 years' experience with ability to generate detail drawings from design & layouts with minimal supervision. A background of machining materials & material treatments, metrics, & up to date state-of-the-art drafting knowledge helpful.

Your No. 1 Guide For All Your Transportation and Service Needs

Auto Smarts

By BRAD SEARS

Dear Brad,

I have two questions you may have the answers to:

1. Does a 1980 Citation, 4-cylinder, manual be rustproofed by a system like "Rusty Jones" or Ziebart or is the rustproofing done at the factory or is it an added extra when one purchases the car?

2. The CItation's four cylinders, running rather hot in the warm seasons and without airconditioning rather uncomfortable, is there anything on the market like a windbreak for the car windows, with open windows the noise of the windstream and/or insects while driving can be lessened?

Hugo Grass

Dear Hugo,

Any automobile, irregardless of make or number of cylinders, should have some sort of rustproofing here in New England. That is if you plan to keep the automobile for more than sixty days. Oh ya, factory rustproofing does take care of the car durin;g the first three years of ownership, with the factory picking up the tab on any problems created through rust that have gone to the perforation point.

This means that you have to have a hole in your automobile due to rust before the factory will pick up the tab. But what happens after the three years? This is where Rusty Jones, Ziebart or any other good rustproofing processes take over. In shopping for a rustproofing for my new automobile, I would certainly read the manufacturer's warranty. And I think that the manufacturer's warranty for the rustproofing would mean as much to me as the actual application of the rustproofing itself. I would pick a good dealer, or a good independent applier of the rustproofing process, make sure that the warranty covers the car for at least five years, and has a renewable clause, that means that the rustproofing protection can be extended almost indefinitely. This then makes the rustproofing a worthwhile investment on your automobile.

As far as Question #2 goes, all small cars are hotter inside than are their larger counterparts. Most people think that the small cars don't need air conditioning, and that small cars will be cooler in the summer. This is a misconception, due to the fact that the passenger compartment is closer to the engine, radiator, the catalytic converter and exhaust system, and the heat of the road itself. The inside of a small engine can rapidly heat up, due to the fact there is less cubic space of air to absorb the heat taken from outside sources. Windows wide open on a small car can rapidly destroy fuel economy, and that is the reason you bought a small car to begin with. Air conditioning is almost essential on these hot running small automobiles, otherwise the driver can end up with fried brains.

There are some windbrakes on the market for the car windows so that the windows can be opened and the noises and windstream lessened to almost a bearable point. I would suggest that you check with a good automobile accessory house, who can probably provide these for you. But, not only does the windbreak keep the noise down, it reduces the effect of opening the window, making the inside of the car hot. My suggestion? – Have an airconditioner installed in the vehicle if the heat bothers you, you will save money, energy and temper in the long run.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS LAND COURT
Middlesex, ss.
No. 100-938

Respectfully represents Barry Blumberg and Janice Blumberg of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; that they are owners of a certain lot of land with the buildings thereon, situate in Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows: The premises known as and numbered 45 Village Circle, Newton, Massachusetts, with the buildings thereon shown as Lot 434 on a plan entitled: "Plan of Land in Newton, Mass. Belonging to Arnold Hartmann," dated October, 1945, drawn by Rowland H. Barnes & Co., C.E., recorded with Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds at the End of Record Book 6910. Containing 10,037 square feet according to said plan.

That the record title to said lot of land is clouded by a mortgage given by Bernard Schneider and Selma W. Schneider, to Fox Meadow Corporation, a Massachusetts corporation (of Newton, Middlesex County, Massachusetts) dated May 8, 1950, and duly recorded Book 7577, Page 243, purporting to secure a note for $2,340.00 payable "in one note of even date" which mortgage appears to be undischarged, unassigned and unforeclosed on and by the record:

That for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited for the full performance of said condition no payment has been made and no other act done in recognition of said mortgage; and

That the mortgagors named in said mortgage and those claiming under them have been in uninterrupted possession of said land for more than twenty years after the expiration of time limited in said mortgage for the full performance of the condition thereof.

WHEREFORE your petitioners pray that after appropriate notices a decree may be entered on the foregoing allegations as authorized by Section 15, Chapter 240 of the General Laws as amended by Chapter 20, of the Acts of 1924.

On this 31st day of October, 1980, personally appeared before me the within named Barry Blumberg and Janice Blumberg known to me to be the signer of the foregoing petition, and made oath, that the statements therein contained so far as made of their own knowledge are true and so far as made upon information and belief that they believe them to be true.

Summons by publication

David J. Mintz and Robert O. Cummings, Executors of the will of Mary E. Tennis, Plaintiffs

vs.

Dorothy Unsworth, the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Francis X. Bellotti, as he is Attorney General of Massachusetts,
Defendants.

To the above-name Defendants:

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon John J. Roche, plaintiff's attorney, whose address is Hale and Dorr, 60 State St., Boston, MA 02109 an answer to the complaint which is filed in said Court and demands which appear in this summons within 20 days after November 2, 1981. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you. You are also required to file your answer to the complaint in the office of the Register of this Court at Cambridge either before service upon plaintiff's attorney or within a reasonable time thereafter.

DEMANDS OF SAID COMPLAINT:

1. That this Court determine whether said Dorothy Unsworth has ceased to occupy the premises at 86 Allerton Road, Newton, Mass., as her principal residence within the meaning of Clause Fourth of the will of Mary E. Tennis and whether, pursuant to Clause Fourth, title to said real estate shall revert to the estate of said Mary E. Tennis to be disposed of as part of the residue according to the provisions of Clause Sixth of said will.

2. That the plaintiffs be allowed from the estate their reasonable costs of this action, including attorney's fees.

3. That this Court grant such other and further relief as it deems appropriate in the circumstances.

Unless otherwise provided by Rule 13 (a), Mass. R.Civ.P., your answer must state as a counterclaim any claim which you may have against the plaintiff which arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of plaintiff's claim or you will thereafter be barred from making such claim in any other action.

Police Chief Quinn issues Halloween tips

NEWTON - Newton Police Chief William Quinn issued his annual Halloween advisory this week, encouraging local trick or treaters to enjoy themselves, but to use caution in the process.

Chief Quinn reminds parents that now that Daylight Savings Time is over, drivers should be more careful Oct. 31 since many young children will be out collecting treats.

The chief also stressed that, for sanitary reasons, children should only accept treats which are encased in wrappers and should only go to homes within their own neighborhoods.

An extra caution parents might take is to dress children in lighter colored costumes which help to make them more visible to motorists.

Obituaries

George E. Mead, 66

WEST NEWTON — George E. Mead, Sr., of West Newton, died Monday evening at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a long illness. He was 66

Mr. Mead was born in Boston, and later made his home in West Newton. He worked at Boston Edison for 37 years, retiring as an assistant division head. He was a 12-year member of the National District Heating Association, and past president of Newton West Little League and St. Bernard's Holy Name Society. He was also a longtime member and served on the board of directors of the Newton Knights of Columbus, Council 167, West Newton.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian M. (Bemis) Mead; two sons, George E. Mead, Jr. of Auburndale, and John F. Mead of West Newton; one daughter, Maureen Kendall of Watertown; one brother, Ralph Mead of Brighton; and 11 grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the T.J. Lyons Funeral Home, 1479 Washington St., West Newton, on Friday at 10 a.m., followed by a Funeral Mass in St. Bernard's Church at 11 a.m. Interment will follow in Newton Cemetery.

'Concern' group playing an active role in election

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Much to the dismay of some candidates and the delight of others, CONCERN, a powerful grass-roots organization committed to education, is endorsing a number of aldermanic and school committee candidates in the Nov. 3 election.

With impressive results, the group has targeted candidates in past elections. This year, CONCERN has spent $1,119 (from Sept. 5 to Oct. 16) promoting candidates, according to a campaign finance report filed Monday.

The organization, which has endorsed School Committee candidates in the past, is planning on sending out a slate card to Newton voters supporting aldermanic and school committee candidates.

Alderman Mark White called the organization the most impressive and successful organization ever backing candidates in the city. "They are a very powerful organization," he said. "There is no question about it."

Several aldermen have complained that the organization did not interview incumbents - allowing them to explain their stand on the school issues, especially the alderman's role in the budget process with the School Committee's loss of fiscal autonomy.

Jane Rutan, chairman of the organization, refused to release the names of the candidates that the organization will endorse. If past elections are any indication, the handpicked candidates will especially do well on the liberal south side of the city.

Rutan said the organization is not endorsing any incumbent aldermen. In the first election since the School Committee lost its fiscal autonomy, Rutan said many aldermen did not bother to attend any hearings on the school budget to "find out how the school budget differs from the city budget."

Rutan also refused to release how many members are in the organization or how many people make the decision on what candidates the group will endorse. "It's a policy we have," she explained when refusing to release the information. "It's part of our mystique. Why should we tell everything?"

Rutan said that membership "varies based on people's time, interest and issues." However, she indicated that the organization presently has less than 50 members and has representation from all wards of the city.

She said that the group does not vote on who to endorse, but "comes to a consensus."

The liberal organization was organized in 1977 to unseat a primarily conservative School Committee that received widespread support from a political organization called VOICE. Rutan said the organization was "formed out of the concern for the maintenance of a good quality public school system."

Some have criticized CONCERN for its mailing sent out just prior to that election. In a past election, the organization labeled some School Committee candidates as "a serious threat to our schools."

Rutan said that incumbent aldermen were not interviewed because "they have their own track record to run on."

"We are looking for candidates who feel public education in Newton is important and a good investment," she explained.

Rutan, who was campaign manager for state Rep. David Cohen (D-Newton), also denied the that the organization is made up only of liberal Democrats.

Rutan said the group is "not that formal" and does not have formal dues or membership drives to recruit new members. "People who wish to support us do so," she noted.

With its success in the past, CONCERN has come to be viewed by some as friend and others as villain. "There is always criticism when people don't agree with the choices that have been made by a political organization or group of people," admitted Rutan.

Many aldermen seem to welcome the group into the political arena. "I wish that we had more groups that pressed for their viewpoints," said Alderman Ethel Sheehan.

"Anything that gets people involved is good," agreed Alderman Richard McGrath, adding that he wished he was interviewed by the organization.

"I certainly feel left out since no one bothered to interview me as to what my positions are," he said. "I'd have no problem explaining my positions and I'd like the opportunity to do that."

Halloween: A little bit of fantasy for many in Newton area

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

Halloween. The word conjures up images of haunting evil spirits, screaming witches and mysterious black cats.

Maybe you don't believe the ancient Celtic druids, who thought on that night, the Lord of the Dead calls forth all the evil spirits.

But for many of us, traces of the Roman tradition, by which Halloween was a harvest festival, have survived their appeal. Ducking for apples in a tub of water, carving pumpkins to resemble grotesque faces that come alive with a lighted candle and dressing in disguise still highlight Halloween.

Residents throughout Newton haven't forgotten traditions either. Children, parents and even senior citizens are getting ready for an enchanting evening. And it seems that dressing up to surprise or frighten friends isn't only for children. Adults also like to indulge in a little fantasy once in a while.

When Merle Schrieber, of Chestnut Hill, accompanies her 6-year-old son, Jason, on an evening of trick or treating, Schrieber will join in the fun, too.

"I'm going to dress up as a tramp," says Schrieber, who'll masquerade in a bewitching black gown adorned with furs, while her son will be disquised as an inconspicuous black cat.

Katherine Saxby is overjoyed that her mom will also wear a costume on Halloween might. 'Yes, I guess I'll get dressed up," Ann Saxby assures her daughter. The younger Saxby will venture through Newton Centre on Allhallows eve, transformed into one of her favorite heroes, courageous Daniel Boone' complete with a suede fringed jacket and coon-skin hat. Halloween isn't just for kids, insists Jim Wade, 62, who's going to a masquerade party that night. "It's good for elderly people too," says Wade, who spent last weekend searching for a costume to wear for the event.

Whatever you believe happens on Halloween night, why not join the rest who haven't forgotten the fun and terror of the annual night of mystery. Indulge in a fantasy, put on a mask and beware of black cats.

Nominations open now for scholarships

NEWTON — Nominations may now be made prior to Oct. 30 for the Second Annual Cecil DeVarennes Memorial Award, established in honor of the last Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce Executive Assistant and Needham resident, according to Chamber Prsident Dr. Bryan Carlson.

The award consists of a certificate and cash award of $200 to a Needham student, now in his or her senior year in any high school who has demonstrated a distinguished record of outstanding community service. The student will be selected by a panel of local judges.

Cecil DeVarennes was formerly Executive Director of the Needham Chamber of Commerce following his retirement from General Electric Company and then, following the 1969 merger of the Newton and Needham Chambers of Commerce continued as Executive Assistant until December, 1979.

The Award will be presented at the Chamber's 23rd Annual Achievement Dinner on Nov. 5 at Sidney Hill Country Club by Mrs. Robert Lanigan, the former Doris DeVarennes Barlow, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Devarennes. She will be introduced by Colin G. Nadeau, the 1980 Chamber President.

The award was established by the Chamber's Board of Directors as a means of keeping alive his memory by recognizing that community service is performed by persons of all ages and needs to be encouraged among our youth, by providinmg recognition. Last year's winner was Karen Ann Patterson.

Voters' guide

Presented by the League of Women Voters and The Newton Graphic

Questions for mayoral candidates

1. What capital improvements would you implement as mayor?

2. Given the continued restraints of Proposition 2 1/2, in which specific areas would you cut the city's budget? Where do you think it should be increased?

3. With federal and state cutbacks in education, would you be in favor of a larger proportion of local tax revenue going to Newton's schools?

4. In view of the recent defeat of the Drucker proposal and the very real need for rental housing in Newton, what will your administration do to solve the rental housing problem?

5. What are Newton's two largest problems, and what specific recommendations would you make to solve them?

Theodore Mann

Theodore Mann
21 Littlefield Road
Newton Centre
Candidate for Mayor

Biographical data: Present Mayor; Former Alderman; State Representative; 25 years business executive; honorary Doctorate in Public Administration, New England School of Law; President, Massachusetts Mayors' Association; Veteran.

RESPONSES:

1. In April 1981, I submitted to the Board of Aldermen a Capital Improvement Program for FY 82-87. While the program which I submitted is comprehensive, my priorities are threefold:

— Public safety issues, such as asbestos removal and an improved public safety conmunication system.

— Capital investments that will reduce operating costs, for example, energy, conservation measures, and water meter replacements.

— Cost avoidance measures such as street reconstruction and drain and sewer improvements.

2. The challenge facing our City government is reducing the budget while at the same time continuing to provide quality services. This administration's approach in providing emergency ambulance service is an excellent example of how this can be done. The potential for cost reduction in the following areas must be explored: state and country assessments; administrative consolidations in City departments, for example, Public Works functions, Health and Human Services areas, and financial-administrative services. At this time, the primary task is to continue to provide quality services in a more cost effective manner with the resources currently available, and it does not appear that we will be in a position to increase the budget of any municipal department.

3. I am convinced that public education must be a top priority. Due partly to continuing declining enrollment and partly to the close budgetary control and careful grants management exercised by our School Committee, I do not presently perceive a need for any dramatic change. This issue, however, will have to be re-examined on an annual basis.

4. Despite the disappointment resulting from the loss of 301 units of rental housing which would have been generated by the Druker proposal, this administration will continue to encourage the private development of rental housing both through direct support and the provision of technical assistance by the Planning Department. This administration has had a very successful program of converting surplus buildings into a variety of rental options, for example, the Peirce, Hamilton, and Weeks Schools. We will continue this effort.

5. The two largest problems facing Newton are, in reality, the two most significant challenges that must be met by the administration during the next four years.

A. Control of Property Taxes. I will continue my efforts: — to further expand the tax base through commercial and industrial development and revitalization; — to press for more equitable federal and state aid distribution formulas; — to scrutinize carefully MBTA, County, and MDC costs.

B. The delivery of quality services and the maintenance of aging physical facilities in a time of declining resources. I will continue to press for capital improvements that will reduce operating costs and make possible future cost avoidance. Moreover, I will pursue administrative and departmental consolidations which will enable service levels to be maintained while reducing operating and overhead costs.

Bruce Marquis

Bruce E. Marquis
45 Beethoven Avenue
Waban
Candidate for Mayor

Biographical data: Newton educated; B.A., M.A. (Government); 15 years management experience in business and non-profit corporations; was Easter Seals director; Instructor at Northeastern; Vice President, Massachusetts Health Council.

RESPONSES:

1. I would follow the general guidelines for expenditures as described in the Capital Improvement Program booklet published in October 1980. However, I would set the following priorities for the expenditures of those funds: (1) Police and fire equipment; (2) Sewer, water and traffic improvements; and (3) A new main library, without eliminating the branch system.

2. It will not be evident if Newton will have to cut services under Proposition 2 ½ until revaluation and amendments to the law are completed. I will institute zero-based budgeting, which establishes priorities of municipal services. This must be accomplished with substantial citizen involvement.

BRUCE MARQUIS

3. No. The proportion of the city's budget for any service can only be firmly established in a specific budget year when all pertinent data are available. However, because our public schools are the most important human service provided by our city, I will make them the highest priority for funding after police and fire protection.

4. My administration will work effectively with developers and realtors, and citizen groups to plan for the long-range housing needs of Newton residents. This effort will include discussion of further revitilization of Newton Corner and other villages of the city. Also, I would suggest that owners of rental units be offered incentives to maintain those resources.

5. Taxation, including the process of revaluation, and effective long-range planning, which effects all city services, are Newton's two largest problems. My administration will work to fairly implement 2 ½ and amend it, and we will establish a Long-range Planning Division within the Planning Department with no increase in expenditures.

Questions for Board of Aldermen

1. What factors would most influence your vote on a zoning change or special permit for development?

2. What two issues should have the highest priority for the Board of Aldermen in the next two years? Why?

3. Now that the School Committee no longer has fiscal autonomy how do you see your role in reviewing the school budget?

4. Do you fee public safety is adequate in Newton? What changes would you recommend?

5. In what areas of city government do you feel long range planning is essential? Why?

Bruce Carmichael

Bruce Carmichael
178 Linwood Avenue
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 1 Alderman-at-Large

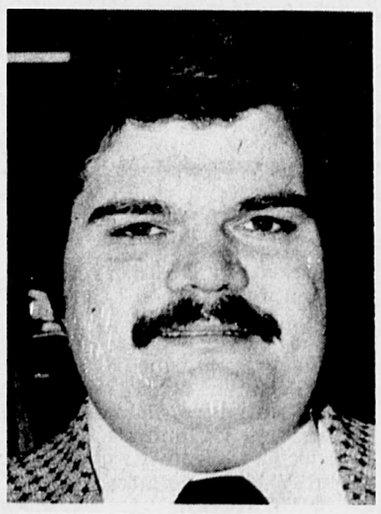

Biographical data: Alderman-at-large, Ward 1; member of committees on Finance, Legislating and Rules, and Human Services. Currently Garden City Livery limousine service owner.

RESPONSES:

1. Factors to be considered in a zone change. Density of the project, traffic impact, aestetic considerations, social benefit to the city, impact on the surrounding neighborhood and compatibility with a comprehensive plan of city development.

2. Taxes. The immediate problem of Revaluation has to be one priority, and working out a system of abatements for the hardship person and the elderly who are on fixed incomes.

Housing. Bringing in developers that will work the community to supply adequate housing stock, without destroying the neighborhood and with an eye towards restoration and revitalization.

To provide continual quality Human Services in the light of Proposition 2 ½ and a decreased budget.

3. It is the school committees charge to set forth the criteria and budgeting of educational programs while the boards responsibility lies within its authority to review the entire budget, and make judgements concerning the level of spending for the city budget as a whole. The board should not get into development of programs and line item cuts in the education budget.

4. To insure adequate Public Safety you must provide proper manning and restoration of equipment vital to Newton's Fire and Police. The Police Department is undermanned by the chief's own admission and fire is suffering from a communication systems breakdown. I supported these items on the board of alderman and will continue to support Public Safety requests vital to the citizens welfare.

5. Land Use — There should be a comprehensive plan for city development that will provide a grand scheme for the city as opposed to dealing with individual parcels on a piecemeal basis.

A capital improvement program that is adhered to, which will provide for major renovations and new constructions.

Energy — Intensive exploration of alternative sources of energy including solar, hydro-electric and wind power.

Candidate for Alderman-at-Large, Ward 1

Biographical data: Chairman, Sutphin Morris & Associates Architects, Urban & Community Planners Chairman, Newton Corner CDC; Co-Chairman, City Administration & Fiscal Policy, SCAN 2 ½; Member: Newton Conservators, Housing Coalition for Newton.

RESPONSES:

1. My vote on a zoning change or special permit would be most influenced by:

— Appropriateness to neighborhood village character.

— Impact upon open space and wetlands.

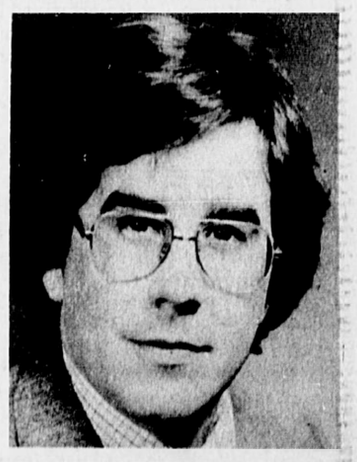

— Consistency with long-range goals such as rental housing production and neighborhood revitalization.

— Consistency with a city-wide land use plan.

— Consistency with neighborhood goals and desires.

2. Newton substantially escaped the full brunt of Prop 2 ½ this year but future years will bring greater disparity between available

Candidates for Board of Aldermen-at-large ...

Questions for Board of Aldermen

1.What factors would most influence your vote on a zoning change or special permit for development?

2. What two issues should have the highest priority for the Board of Aldermen in the next two years?Why?

3. Now that the School Committee no longer has fiscal autonomy how do you see your role in reviewing the school budget?

4. Do you fee public safety is adequate in Newton? What changes would you recommend?

5. In what areas of city government do you feel long range planning is essential? Why?

Sondra Shick

Sondra L. Shick
21 Fairview Street
Newton Corner
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 1 Alderman-at-Large

SONDRA SHICK

Biographical data: Practicing attorney, Newton Centre; Northeastern University School of Law: J.D.; League of Women Voters, Board of Directors; Newton Community Development Foundation Advisory Board; Underwood School Parent Teachers Association, Board of Directors.

QUESTIONS:

1. I believe that the priority and weight given to the following factors would depend initially upon the proposed use of the land. The factors to be considered are: overall benefit to the city, density, aesthetic impact, neighborhood impact, long term needs of the city and recommendation of the planning department.

2. Dealing with the fiscal problems created by inflation and Proposition 2 ½ and securing proper and decent funding to insure the continued provision of the high quality of our municipal services is the major issue facing the city. I would hope that this fiscal pressure would not completely overshadow dealing creatively with the city's need for additional rental housing.

3. Although the school committee no longer has fiscal autonomy, the Newton Charter provides that the alderman cannot appropriate funds nor can the Alderman exercise line item control over the school budget. While I believe that an alderman has the responsibility to balance all of Newton's budgetary needs, I would certainly be an advocate for quality public education.

4. Basically, I believe that public safety is adequate in Newton. I do believe that the communication systems of the police and fire department needs to be updated and that the police station should be modernized. I would also encourage the further development of the neighborhood watch program.

5. I believe that long range planning is always preferable. The problem is the application of the findings to a specific situation. Two particular areas where I feel there is a need are the future use of the golf courses when the present owner is ready to sell and the creative development and redevelopment of the villages.

Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 2 Alderman-at-Large

PATRICIA CICCONE

Biographical data: President of C&E Delv. Corp., High School, Newton Police Wife's Association.

RESPONSES:

1. No more low or moderate income housing.

2. Public safety and more housing for senior citizens.

3. With more emphasis on the basics of the education of our children and the special needs.

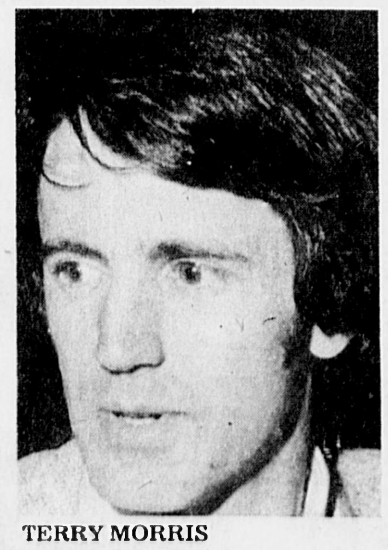

4. A. No.

B. More investigation into crimes that have already occurred. And more work to alleviate problems before they become a crime.

5. For the senior citizens of the city. Because they are entitled to something from the city. Someplace for the teenagers to go in the winter months that's supervised. And keep them off the streets.

Terry Morris

TERRY MORRIS

Biographical data: Deputy Director of Administration, Massachusetts Commission against Discrimination; B.A. Holy Cross College; J.D. Candidate Suffolk Law School; present Alderman-at-Large; Chairman Land Use Committee.

RESPONSES:

1. Zone change.

— Current zoning and existing land use patterns in the neighborhood.

— The size, shape, location and topography of the parcel.

Special permit.

— Basic elements of the zoning code which define scale (lot coverage, density standards, setbacks and height limits).

— Prior decisions of the board of aldermen to ensure consistency and equity.

— Public benefit, open space, traffic, design.

2. Land use planning: There will be increasing pressure to intensify the use of land already developed (e.g. Marriott, Newton Corner). This has ramifications for every neighborhood in the city. We should not be willing to sacrifice the interests of the neighborhood for another.

— Maximize existing financial resources: The full impact of Proposition 2 ½ is yet to be felt.

3. The school committee should continue to have primary responsibility for close scrutiny of its budget and setting priorities. Recent experience has demonstrated they are in the best position to do so and they have exercised this role responsibly. The board of aldermen should continue to review the budget in an oversight capacity.

4. Yes.

I would devote more resources to traffic enforcement since failure to do so adversely impacts the quality of life in the neighborhoods. With a large elderly population and school consolidations, more pedestrians, young and old, are bearing the brunt of increased traffic hazards.

5. — Open space acquisition: Once land is lost to development it is gone forever and with it a large part of what makes Newton a Garden City.

— Capital improvements: The infra-structure of sewers and drains. Although not a glamorous issue, if neglected, will silently erode beneath us.

— Financial management.

— Land use planning: Property values are the source of city revenue.

Biographical data: Attorney for 22 years with offices in Newton Centre. Four children, all attending Newton public schools. Veteran of WW II, former U.S. Navy Lieutenant (j.g.), Graduate of Boston College and its Law School' 10 years on Board of Aldermen. Present Chairman Finance Committee and member of L&R Committee.

RESPONSES:

1. Density, traffic flow, impact on surrounding neighborhood, character of requested change i.e. increase in housing or business use, height, opinion of abuttors, opinion of citizens citywide, tax ramifications to city, requirements for city services.

2. 1. Revaluation, because of its impact on each household. This will be one of the most important issues before the Board.

2. Impact of 2 ½, and the task of continuing to provide services in an era of shrinking financial resources.

3. I do not believe that the Board of Aldermen should interfere in educational policy or in the day to day educational decisions of the School Department or the School Committee. But I believe that all housekeeping, building and repair, and administrative decisions and expenditures should be subject to the same review as other city departments.

4. Yes. I have just voted for the changes. I would suggest; i.e. smoke detectors in all city buildings; improvements in Fire Dept. communications, and Police Dept. communications equipment.

5. Zoning and public transportation and hos housing. Newton needs to upgrade and intensify its commercially zoned land so that the city can increase its tax revenue from this source. Public transport in Newton is hardly adequate. Many areas are without service, and improvements are needed. Housing needs are changing; there are many single person and single parent households which nust be provided for.

DONALD BUDGE

Biographical data: Attorney, Certified Public Accountant, B.S. in Business Administration, J.D. Past president Newton Lower Falls Improvement Association, Member of Finance, Legislation & Rules and Administration & Planning Committees and Chairman of Data Processing Sub-Committee.

RESPONSES:

1. Neighborhood impact, needs of the citizens of the City as a whole, zone change plans, use requested, record of the petitioner on prior permits (especially if a present owner requesting expansion), and financial feasibility. The order of consideration would not necessarily be in that order, nor the same in every instance.

2. 1. Maintenance of services. Budget limitations will test the ability of City Government to maintain high quality education and public services for all residents of the City, both residential and commercial.

2. Revaluation. The impact of state mandated revaluation must result in sensitive, compassionate and equitable treatment of all taxpayers and citizens of the City.

3. The School Committee still has substantive fiscal automony. The Board of Aldermen only has authority over the total amount appropriated. Therefore, the Board cannot and should not get involved in educational program items. The Board's role should be limited to the amount of total appropriations being within the ability of the City to fund such an amount on a priority basis. Education being of a high priority along with public safety.

4. Yes. I assume adequate to mean an acceptable level. In Newton the acceptable level has always been of the highest standard of public safety protection. Continued good management with improvement in effectiveness by modern equipment and techniques.

5. All areas of City government will require long range planning to cope with mandated budget limitations. For example, instead of budgeting one year at a time the City should adopt broad long-range (5 year) operating budgeting so that top level planning and decisions can be made to set priorities, explore alternatives and seek solutions to foreseeable problems that such planning will disclose.

1. The factors that would most influence me would be: a) How would the change affect the immediate area? b) How would the change affect the city as a whole? c) Would we be setting an example for future problems? d) What sr are the long range affects?

2. The two most important issues are related. They are: a) How do we continue to maintain the high standard of living and services within the city under 2 ½? b) How do we plan for long range development of funding for the city's future? The why is simple. If we want to drop tazes, and with inflation, we need "new" money. New money not new taxes.

3. Just that way, reviewing it. The bottom line. If we can afford it, great, these are our children, they deserve the best. The schools should get the largest portion of the budget. The people elected the school committee, they are the experts, let them decide how to spend the money.

4. The public safety in Newton is among the finest anywhere. But it's not perfect. The police could start an in-home burglar-proofing program like the fire's inspection. The fire department's role in the schools could be expanded to teaching fire safety and the dangers of false alarms.

5. Long range planning must be done in every area. Specifically: a) Land use; b) revitilization of existing business areas; c) improving the tax base; d) housing — all types; e) reutilization of unused and underused city property. Basically the things any good business plans for. After all Newton is a $100 million business and the people are the stockholders.

LANE SOFMAN

Biographical data: Newton Dentist; D.D.S., Temple University (with honors); Democratic Committee member, delegate to State Convention; assistant coordinator for MORAL; volunteer, Newton Recreation Department's special needs program.

QUESTIONS:

1. The intended use for the project. Affordable housing, especially for the elderly, as in the Newton Corner proposal, would be supported. The density of the project and its impact on the surrounding neighborhood must be weighed against the advantages. I could not support the encroachment upon open space for purely commercial development.

2. Dealing with the effect of Proposition 2 ½. This includes the revaluation process as well as effectively dealing with the budget. Land use issues pertaining to conversion of vacant public buildings, and new projects providing units of affordable housing. Both of these issues affect the quality of life as we know it in Newton.

3. The School Committee and the Board of Aldermen should not be adversaries. It is not the role of the Board to do an item by item analysis of the school budget nor should it be a rubber stamp for the committee. Certain items may need to be questioned at times.

4. According to Police Chief Quinn, those areas under his purview are adequately protected. The private ambulance system is functioning well. A major concern at this time would be the installation of smoke detectors in our public buildings.

5. In ALL areas of city government a future view must be considered. Haphazard, "band-aid" remedies to problems, while sometimes necessary, often do not provide the most economical nor best long range solutions. We must keep in mind our long range needs when considering housing, available open space, and public services.

PAUL COLETTI

Biographical data: Lifelong resident of Newton, 4-year member, Board of Aldermen. Finance Committee Vice Chairman, Public Facilities, Human Services, Administration and Planning Committees. A.S.B.A. Honor Mass. Bay C.C.; Development Engineer Microwave Associates Inc.

QUESTIONS:

Zoning changes must:

1. Benefit all of the city directly.
2. Not be detrimental to abbutters and immediate neighborhood.
3. Eliminate a blighted condition.
4. Meet specific density and design criteria.

Special Permits must provide flexibility to satisfy needed rental housing, expand the tax base through revitalization of either commercial or residential areas, or provide the developer a means for private investment with a reasonable return.

2. Revaluation and the implementation of 100 percent valuation on an equitable and compassionate basis citywide so as to afford all Newton residents the means to remain in Newton while providing necessary tax receipts to offset Prop 2 ½. The preservation of municipal services, educational systems, and library services while creating additional housing and commercial investment.

3. I oppose line by line budget review by the Board of Aldermen and oppose the board's representation on the superintendent search team. I favor cooperation and mutual support to ensure capital outlay funds to restore schol school buildings, and favor level funding of the school budget with attention given to special needs.

4. No. I would direct funds to renovate and update police headquarters and its communications and computer equipment. I would guarantee a minimum of 205 police officers and initiate more neighborhood watch training programs. I would update the fire department communication system and provide special training in hazardous waste disposal and chemical and biological safety.

5. Finance — Continued updating of property values every 2 years.

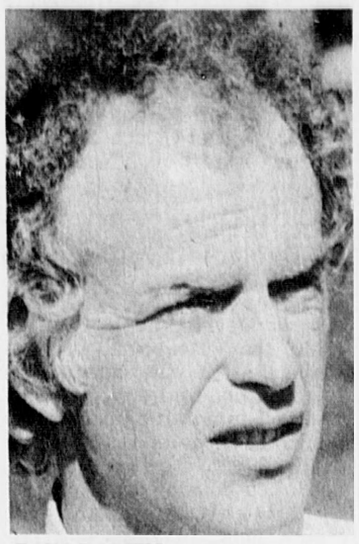

Land use — Planned acquisition of open space and creation of rental units of all types in the city.

Public safety — Provide public intra-city transportation in the event of MBTA cutbacks.

School committee — Planned maintenance and utilization of existing buildings, and creation of innovative education programs.

Paul Daley

Paul K. Daley
90 Circuit Avenue

Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 5 Alderman-at-Large

PAUL DALEY

Biographical data: Two term member of the Board of Aldermen, 4 years on Land Use. Also served terms on Public Facilities, Human Services, Legislation and Rules; Real Estate Broker and Appraiser; Education in Newton Schools, lifelong resident — of third generation family in Newton. Chairman of the Board — Centre School for the Children with Special Learning Disabilities of Newton; Past Director of the Chamber of Commerce; Member of Board of Directors — Newton Boys Club; Director, Garden City Marathon, for Prevention of Child Abuse; Owner of Daley & Associates, a Newton business for the past 16 years; recipient 1979 Newton Jaycees Distinguished Award.

RESPONSES:

1. The primary consideration is, shall the City at large and specifically the immediate area affected be substantially bettered by a change in zoning or the issuance of a special permit. Those other factors to be considered in detail are: Density relative to the surrounding community; the height, if applicable, of proposed structures; traffic considerations; drainage; the intensity of the development based on previously approved petitions in the area; the quality of construction; and the amount of open space provided.

2. Taxes and 100 percent revaluation — we shall continue to be forced with the demand to provide current services under the strains of Prop. 2 ½. As a current member of the Board of Aldermen, I have grave reservations as to the City's ability to apply the information we have gathered from the Cole, Layer & Trumble and Finnegan studies. The residential and business properties of Newton are exceptionally complex and, in my opinion, based on my overview of the process to date, "I anticipate the city encountering still greater difficulties in conforming to the mandated 100 percent valuation by the court ordered date."

The second most, or equally pressing issue for the Board shall be to develop a comprehensive program which shall meet the overpowering demand for housing. Newton is lacking in rental housing and moderate priced single family housing which is affordable for the elderly and younger couples.

3. I perceive my position as a member of the Board of Aldermen removed from the line item review system of the school budget. The responsibility I have is to consider the bottom line, gross budget request, as it relates to the total tax dollars available to run the city in any given fiscal year. The administration of the school department and the members of the school committee are the "quote" experts, and until there is evidence to the contrary the line item decisions are their responsibility.

4. Newton presently enjoys a remarkable reputation for quality in public safety. However, I strongly recommend the City retain the present Crossing Guard Program which has been jeopardized under the effects of Prop 2 ½. I feel the City had the maximum in ambulance service with its own Newton Fire Department Ambulance and would expend every effort to return the same to Newton. Newton is presently utilizing the Urban Systems Block Grant Program to improve traffic safety at crossings and in city squares and there remains a great deal of work to complete in these programs in order to provide the citizens with the maximum of safety.

5. (a) Housing.

(b) Commercial development to provide a broader tax base keeping in mind the demand to protect open space. A City wide "energy conservation system"; an overall long range Capital Improvement Program; an intercity transportation system that will rid us of our total, or partial dependency on the present Mass Bay Transportation Authority system.

QUESTIONS:

1. On zoning changes or special permits for development which affect the character or quality of life of neighborhoods, I will cast a representative vote for the residents of those neighborhoods most directly affected. In the past, residents' concerns have been about scale and density factors, e.g., Marriot Hotel and Drucker proposals.

2. Handling of the School Committee Budget and Revaluation of Property. The Board has an opportunity to put into place procedures which enhance Newton's commitment to its schools, and cleanly keep petty politics out of the school system. Revaluation of property will continue to be controversial — but we need a working system.

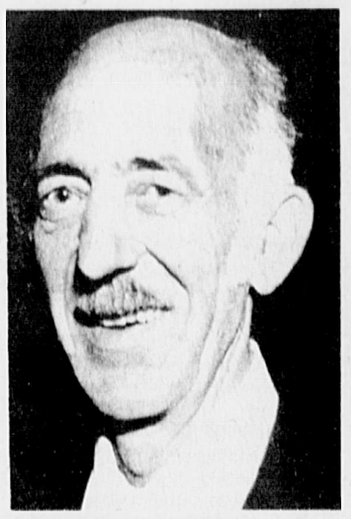

3. The School Committee is a city wide elected body and as such enjoys a public confic confidence beyond that of a subordinate political body. My roles are to recognize that fact; seek clarifications and rationales if I need them to strengthen the school budget proposal; be alert to any tampering of that budget.

4. I am not satisfied with the degree of adequacy of public safety in Newton. Recent public pronouncements by those who should know better, have needlessly demoralized and alarmed some residents. The degree of adequacy is related to the morale of the men and women who provide that service — I would improve that immediately.

5. Long range planning is essential for the Charles River boundary and the renewal of properties in transition. The Charles River is a heritage of inestimable value. The transition master plan can bring sanity instead of pressure point developments.

RESPONSES:

2. Try to stabilize city because of 2 ½.

3. Same as in the past, when I had no power in reviewing the School budget. I will depend on the School Committee for an honest budget.

4. Public safety is adequate at the moment. We will have to watch out in the near future that no one will make any changes in public safety of the city.

5. In construction of any buildings over four stories in height. Try to keep the city as homey as possible and not too commercial.

Chiropractic for Health
by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
Everyone knows that it is not healthy to be overweight. Most of the time, we connect weight problems with cardio-vascular disease. Overweight people tend to get more heart attacks, hypertension and the like. However, being overweight affects your overall health because it puts a strain on the spine through which run most nerves. The spine is held in place by muscles and ligaments and much of its health depends on it being maintained in a state of balance and tone. Excess weight and bad posture put a tremendous strain on the spine.
Your chiropractor will look at the total person and will encourage you to maintain good health and the spine's integrity with proper diet, posture, exercise, weight and rest. Many problems are occupational in nature. Regular chiropractic adjustments keep you working in comfort and can also minimize the injurious affect of sports activities. As Edison noted "The doctor of the future will give no medicine but will interest patients in the care of the spine..." The "Trick" to good health - "Treat" your spine with respect. DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington Street, Roslindale. 323-5022. Hours by appointment.
CHIRO TIP:
If you have low back pains, do not bend at the waist unless you also bend at the knees.

THE WORLD of Travel

AUSTRALIA
Only one country in the world fills a whole continent. That country is Australia. The continent it fills is Australia, too. Australia, then is both a country and a continent. It's the only continent except Antarctica that is all south of the equator. Its name means "Southland." It has summer while we have winter, and winter when we have summer. About a hundred years ago, gold was discovered in southeastern Australia. There was a great gold rush. Thousands of people went to the new land to find their fortunes. Many of the people who went to Australia to find gold found that it had other riches, also. The northeastern coast is known as the "Gold Coast" and is a tourist haven with large, modern cities and kangaroos and Koala Bears only a short distance away.
Whether or nor your vacation plans this winter include a trip to Australia or a holiday visit with the folks out west call on the professionals at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, to make all the arrangements. Extent of net financial benefit to the city.

Community sentiment, where soundly based on above criteria.

2. Preserving and enhancing the quality of city services within the constraints of Proposition 2 ½ and high inflation rates.

Preserving, and in some places enhancing, the quality of all Newton neighborhoods, while attracting new development that meets the criteria in Response No. 1. If we lose the quality of our services and neighborhoods, Newton will no longer be Newton.

3. The School Committee should determine the details of the school budget. Aldermen should understand the shape and rationale of the school budget and should consider the overall dollar request in relation to the other needs of the city. Education is one of my highest priorities, together with public safety.

4. Public safety, though not perfect, seems adequate at current staffing levels, if smoke detectors are installed in municipal buildings and a new radio is purchased for the fire department. I recommend increased efforts to (1) publicize the need for smoke detectors in all buildings; and ;2) extend the Neighborhood Watch program throughout Newton.

VERNE VANCE

5. Finance and land use. What Newton will be in the Year 2000 will depend largely on how well we plan for adequate financing of quality city services, including fair revaluation, and for the use of our land and buildings and other resources in Newton such as Massachusetts Turnpike air rights.

RESPONSES:

1. An Alderman's mandate is to create a warm, human and fiscally efficient city environment while retaining neighborhood continuity. The Community's voice(s), size, usage, aesthetics, abutters, effect upon city as a whole, rehabilitation possibilities, landscaping, traffic, safety and factors specific to particular proposal must be given weight.

2. Taxation — because it is every resident's concern. I advocate broadening the tax base; increasing state aid and altering the city's relationship to county government. Secondly, planning and implementing of well-devised dwelling units due to the loss of rental housing stock either by condominium conversion, demolition or just old age are essential

3. The School Committee is charged by the electorate with responsibility for the school system and its budget. I will rely upon and respect their expertise during the review process. I visualize my input as an added tool for the Committee in its pursuit of excellence in our schools.

4. Although public safety may be adequate in Newton, the need to maintain and strengthen safety standards is alwsay always present. I would recommend studying and altering the congested traffic patterns in certain areas of our city. Secondly, I would concentrate on maintaining and constantly strengthening the excellent quality of our crime and fire prevention services.

5. In order to balance the needs of our villages with the needs of our city all areas are essential to ensure the continuation of a Garden City such as: Education due to the , changing student population; traffic patterns due to congestion; water supply due to a future shortage; public transportation because it is lacking; and land use to ensure a proper balance of open space, housing stock and commercial and industrial development.

Joseph DePasquale

Joseph DePasquale
24 Jones Court
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 1 Alderman

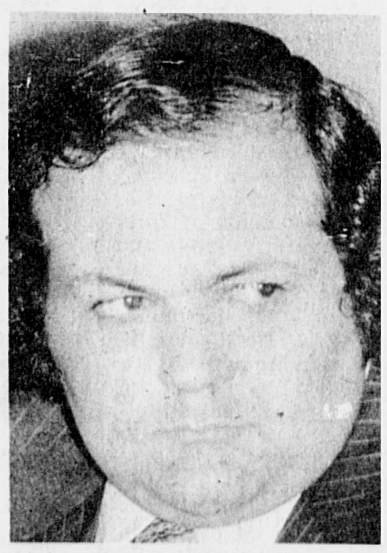

Biographical data: DePasquale's grocery, Our Lady's — Newton North, Leland Powers School of Communications, Mass. Bay Community College, Sons of Italy Lodge, Vice-chairman Public Facilities Comm., Public Safety Commission.

RESPONSES:

1. The most important factor is what will the impact be to the surrounding neighborhood. Newton's neighborhoods have always been the most important consideration in terms of developmental impact. The second factor is the proposals benefit to the City as a whole. These are the two determining factors when considering change.

2. In Ward 1, the development of Newton Corner (Gorin & Leeder Property) and the implementation on Traffic improvements — Adams, Washington St. intersection (Urban systems Project) and the Centre Ave. Loop (Topics Program). These are the areas which should receive the utmost attention during the next two years.

3. The Board's role is that of an overseer — to review the School Budget with the School Committee. Concerning educational criteria or actual programs, the

JOSEPH DEPASQUALE

School Committee is charged with that responsibility, not the Board, and they are the ones who should decide how the educational dollars are spent.

4. Newton's public safety in general is good but in the past few years we have seen the Police Department's manpower cut by 10 percent and the loss of a firepumper. These are areas where I have supported restoration and will continue to do so to assure adequate levels of protection.

5. Planning is essential in every area of city government — from public work (equipment replacement) to acquisition of open space and capital improvements. Planning for these last two is extremely important because of the availability of dollars.

Newton
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 1 Alderman

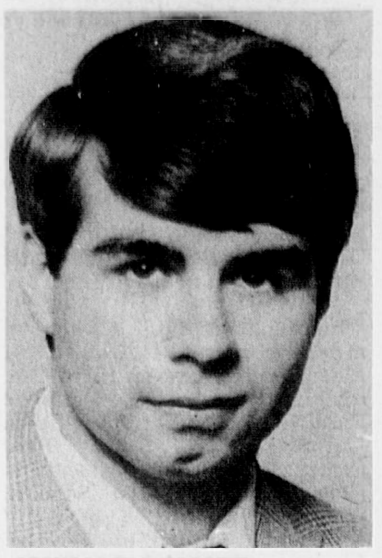

Biographical data: Graduate of Newton schools; Student, attending Boston College, BA candidate studying political science; Employment, Edwards; Member, United Food and Commercial Workers, Local 592; Committee member, Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association.

RESPONSES:

1. There are several factors that must be considered when approving zoning changes or special permits for development. These include the effect on, and its usefulness/ to the surrounding neighborhood and city. Adequate and well maintained open space should be provided as well as availability to Newton residents, i.e., in new housing development.

2. Revaluation and the maintenance of important services will be high priority issues for the Board. Revaluation is important, particularly for Ward 1 residents, because of the number of older homes which must be reassessed. The Board must meet the challenge of providing equalized assessments while not taxing the elderly and young families out of their homes. Maintaining important services, including police and fire protection as well as the quality of education in the schools, is also an important priority for the Board.

3. I feel that school budget decisions should be left to the school committee, which is elected to handle school policy. The Board should provide a certain percentage of the budget for the schools, leaving the actual budget decisions up to the school committee.

4. Yes, I feel that both the police and fire departments do a good job in providing services for city residents. But, we cannot afford to take steps backward in providing excellent services, i.e., elimination of the inhouse ambulance service. Instead, we should continue to improve such services.

5. Land use — particularly housing development, is an important area where long range planning is essential. Presently, there is a critical housing shortage partially due to the absence of long range planning. The Board must be able to plan for future needs to prevent such short falls.

Richard Bullwinkle

Richard J. Bullwinkle
15 Lindbergh Avenue
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 3 Alderman-at-Large

Biographical data: Marketing adminstrator with large electronic firm. Graduate BS/BA (cum laude) Boston College. Graduated Bentley College, BS in business administration/accounting. United Way chairman, Newton; usher and lector, St. Bernard's Church.

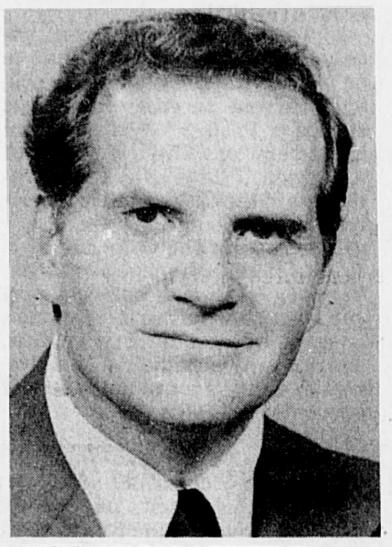

RESPONSES:

1. Community input and the need for the project in the city. The quality of life and the increase in the city's tax base would have to be measured against any significant change such projects would create in the life style of people in the city.

2. Housing and budget reviews. a) Housing because of the increase in elderly in our society and Newton in particular which has not been addressed for a long time. (Not to mention the shutting out of young Newton couples). b) When revaluation becomes fact next year, how much money we spend and where we spend it will be very critical.

3. The School Committee is elected to establish policies and budgets to implement those programs in public education. The aldermanic role is one of bottom line review and if the School Committee stays within agreed levels — one of acceptance. However, if the School Committee increased the budget significantly I would hope they would make the board aware of this so that an exchange of ideas could take place.

4. Would like to review ambulance system (after sufficient trial time). Response times, cost, effectiveness and quality of service. Police and Fire Departments are held in high regard by Newton's citizens and would continue most actions to maintain proper levels.

5. Traffic, upgrading of business areas and family recreational planning. All somewhat related to energy demands of the future and the flow of traffic into, through and around the city of Newton.

Traffic safety must be improved in central locations and the through traffic moved to city perimeters. Easier to get to local shopping areas and making them more attractive to consumers as economic fuel costs in the future keep people closer to home. For the same reasons, ways to better utilize the city's recreational facilities in much wider fashion.

Paul Snyder

Paul D. Snyder
9 Ardmore Road
West Newton
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 3 Alderman

Biographical data: B.A. — University of Notre Dame, 1966; J.D. Boston University School of Law, 1971; Attorney for the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development since 1971; member St. Vincent De Paul Society of St. Bernard's Parish; former medical corpsman United States Army; Scholarship Committee, Notre Dame Club of Boston; Past President New England Club of Notre Dame.

RESPONSES:

1. Depending on the nature and scope of a special permit or zoning change, the major factor should be the impact of the proposed construction or use on the neighborhood. The impact on the neighbors should then be weighed against the harm to the owner of the property seeking the change.

2. The highest priority issue Newton will face is the development of an adequate tax structure. With a cap on revenue and an inflation rate running around 13 percent we are on a collision course.

A management tool which I feel is the second most important priority would be for the Board to develop a post audit subcommittee to provide a legislative oversight function to review the cost and benefit of particular municipal services after the fact.

3. Since the law now requires the Board to review the school budget, I recommend that early on in the budget process the Mayor's chief financial officer, representatives from the school Administration, School Committee and the Board sit down to rough out the budget together rather than have the aldermen receive a printed budget that has already been worked out and finalized by the School Committee.

4. In terms of public safety, I would like to see the ambulance returned to the Fire Department. Where people's lives are at stake, I would rather have higher paid veteran E.M.Ts that the Fire Department would likely retain rather than a younger less experienced E.M.T. working for the lower salary of an ambulance service. I would like to see additional police in high crime areas and around school buildings evenings and on week-ends.

5. I am disappointed in the long range planning regarding the use of school buildings. A drop in interest rates or a more intensive use of existing housing in the years ahead could result in an influx of young families necessitating the construction of new schools and an increase in taxes at that time.

Ernest Dietz

Ernest F. Dietz
93 Hancock Avenue
Newton Centre
Candidate for Board of Aldermen, Ward 6 Alderman

Biographical data: Present Ward Alderman; Chairman, Administration and Planning Committee; member of Finance and Public Facilities Committees; manager of real estate; Michigan, Harvard and Boston University education.

RESPONSES:

1. I have always fought to preserve the residential and village character of Newton. Consequently, I voted for the Druker Development at Newton Corner for the increased housing and commercial upgrading it would bring. Such exceptions should be carefully weighed and would rarely be so favorable as in this case.

2. My two choices of issues are: (1) Setting spending priorities to soften the impact of restricted federal and state funding especially for education, human services, public safety and necessary capital improvements such as replacement of our leaking water system and building maintenance; (2) conscientious effort to halt confrontations between the Board, Mayor and School Committee.

3. As a member of Finance Committee, I objected to line-by-line efforts to reduce the school budget as a misinterpretation of the Board's power to cut the school budget; Proposition 2 ½ only allows a bottom line reduction when necessary to bring the school budget in line with the total city budget.

4. There is no standard of adequacy anywhere, but I am convinced that we have funded public safety wisely with the financial constraints; we should have a full complement of police and fire personnel and the capital improvements that are pending for these departments; the traffic engineer should be encouraged to continue elimination of roadway hazards.

5. Long range planning for capital improvements should be more realistic than in the past when timetables have been meaningless; planning for maintaining and improving the residential quality of Newton is a must in view of constant efforts to increase density in existing and new structures.

Harvest Festival at Baptist Home Nov. 10

NEWTON — Baptist women from 100 churches in eastern Massachusetts, and friends, are planning to attend the Baptist Home of Massachusetts, at 66 Commonwealth Ave., Newton, on Tuesday, Nov. 10, for the gala harvest festival and donation day.

Smart shoppers know from past years that the festival offers shopping at bargain prices, knowing that every dollar will be for special projects of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The Baptist Home, now marking its 90th birthday, is one of the oldest and largest of its kind in the state.

Leaders include Dorothy Shumaker and Margaret Eisnor, both of Norwood, and Mrs. William Meehan of Lexington. The latter will be heading the details for the snack bar.

HAROLD LEVINSKY

Biographical data: Civic-Tutor, Newton Schools; active in Newton politics; Occupation — journalist; Education — (B.A. Sociology, magna cum laude); Newton Public Schools (Mason-Rice, Weeks, Newton-North).

RESPONSES:

1. Because our neighborhood (village) structure is vital to the city's character, the major factor would be approval from the neighbors in the area.

Obviously, another key factor is the area's needs; specifically, if the building is in keeping with the neighborhood's character.

2. Preservation of city services, particularly school, fire, and police departments. Fresh, creative thinking can help to preserve and even enhance these vital services.

Land use. Development of a rational, responsible housing plan, considering appropriate new housing with respect for open space and neighborhoods.

3. I have a high regard for our present school committee, and for the quality of education in Newton. Therefore, I see my role as one of carefully examining the budget, with my main objective being the preservation (and improvement) of our schools, since our school system is such a vital part of our community.

4. Certainly, compared to many cities, Newton's public safety is impressive. However, this is because of the high quality of our protective services, (police, fire). Recent budget cuts threaten the stability of these services, so we must insure that any cuts not interfere with these vital services. I have also proposed improving street and playground lighting.

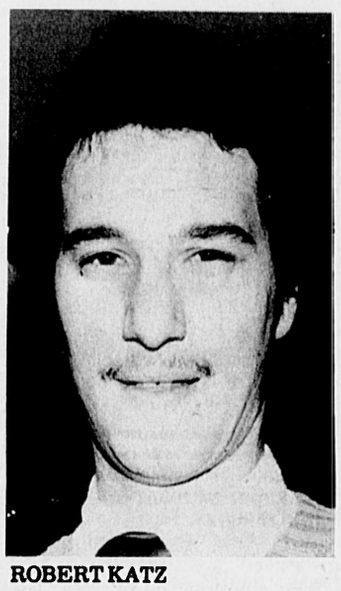

5. City planning: Because it will determine Newton's future. If the character of our neighborhoods aren't maintained, our city's precious and unique attributes will be lost.

Assessing: Without long range planning, the board will continue to be bogged down during every assessment.

Human services: With recent budget cuts, these will be the swiftest and biggest losers, unless action is taken now.

ROBERT KATZ

Biographical data: Member: Administration & Planning Committee; Public Facilities Committee; Public Safety & Transportation Committee; Mayor's Advisory Committee on Proposition 2 ½; Data Processing Subcommittee; Sub-committee on Parking.

Graduate: Memorial School; Meadowbrook Junior High; Newton South High.

Cum Laude Graduate: Northeastern University, BS degree in Political Science, minor in Sociology.

Member: Temple Beth Avodah Brotherhood; Mass. Municipal Assn.; Newton Jaycees.

Coach Newton Youth Soccer League; Newton East Little League, Newton South Little League, Newton Athletic Association Basketball.

RESPONSES:

1. Zoning changes should not be approved haphazardly, but in accord with long range planning and only after careful assessment of their impact on the neighborhood, their benefit to the public good, and the real need for the change.

2. Equitable implementation of revaluation should have high priority to make living and remaining in Newton more affordable to more people. And once the ruling from the department of Revenue is official, achieving quality education in Newton schools must become a high priority issue.

3. Aldermen are responsible to see how systems within the city can blend with the school systems to create efficiences and to allow the school structure to remain unharmed. As I've demonstrated, aldermen have an obligation to protect school funds from diversion by special interests to slush accounts for other municipal programs.

4. Our public safety protection is among the finest in the nation. Our response by police and fire departments is highly rated. My recommendations are, to place more trained, uniformed officers on patrol.

5. Both zoning and traffic are two areas where long range planning is essential. Because each change in these areas is ad-hoc and unique, they must always be weighed against plans prepared for the ultimate public good. These principles have always governed my vote, and always outweigh the political pressures that can force the board to bend.

Biographical data: Lifelong resident; Currently Attorney, Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs; Member Massachusetts Bar; Democratic City Committee; Suffolk Law, J.D.; Harvard University B.A., cum laude; Newton South, Senior Cup; Legislative Assistant, Congressman Michael Harrington; Legal Researcher, Newton Solicitor's Office; Voluntary Prosecutor, District Attorney's Office.

RESPONSES:

1. The most influential factors are the need for and merits of the proposed development and short and long term impact on the immediate neighborhood and the City. Newton must respect its zoning commitments, altering them only for important reasons. Potential for tax base expansion and/or municipal subsidy should be considered in any decision.

2. The highest priority of the Board is to maintain and improve the quality and efficiency of City services in the wake of Proposition 2 ½, particularly in areas of public safety and education. Long range planning for land use should also be a high priority.

3. I place education very high among budget priorities. Schools must run efficiently to preserve and improve Newton's tradition of quality education. Loss of fiscal autonomy demands that the Board work closely with the School Committee. While Adlermen must monitor the bottom line of the school budget, determination of priorities and programs should remain with the School Committee and School Department.

4. Newton enjoys superior police and fire departments. To preserve our record in public safety, we cannot allow fiscal restraints to erode police or fire forces. I advocate smoke detectors and protective devices in municipal buildings. We must update equipment to ensure fast and effective response to public safety needs. I support expansion of the neighborhood watch program.

5. I advocate comprehensive long range planning in municipal government, especially in the areas of land use, energy, education, building reuse, and water conservation. We must employ a positive, foresighted approach to land use, not a reactive one. We must explore innovative alternative energy resources such as establishment of a heating district utilizing energy generated by industrial waste to heat municipal buildings.

Morris

funds, and the ability to provide critical and desirable services.

I believe that we must renew our commitment to quality education and important city services while scrutinizing costs and developing alternative financing sources.

3. I believe that the Board of Alderman's role in reviewing the School Budget should be limited to coordinating the demands of the school budget with other city needs. I would object to any incursion by the Board into educational policy or interference in educational programs.

4. I believe that we have strong and capable police and fire departments in the city.

I would like to see greater emphasis placed upon long and short-range goals to upgrade equipment and facilities so that we avoid emergency expenditures and insure the greatest possible protection for our citizens.

5. Long-range planning is needed for energy conservation, equipment and capital improvements and community revitalization.

The most critical issue is planning for our outstanding unfunded pension liability.

With an older work force, that unfunded liability of 70 plus million dollars presents a critical issue facing the city in the next few years.

McGrath

creased open space through conservation restrictions.

2. My highest priorities for the next two years are: 1. The continual reorganization of the public works department. 2. Improved services despite a decreased budget; and the insurance of a fair and professional revaluation.

3. The Board of Aldermen should not interfere with the business of the School Committee.

4. Public Safety is an area which can always be improved. There shoud should be changes in the police staffing so that trained police officers who are doing clerical work are relieved to perform the police function they are trained for.

5. Capital improvements in the public works and city planning departments require long range planning. By law the city has the responsibility to prepare and submit a capital improvement report. This report has not been submitted for the past four years. Examples such as the need for housing and open space have been neglected by the current administration.

movies

blazing saddles

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) BLAZING SADDLES. Mel Brooks' third screen comedy-a hilarious, outrageous sendup of the American film western in which a black sheriff sets out to mop up a shoot-em-up town. With Cleavon Little, Harvey Korman, Slim Pickens, Madelaine Kahn (doing Marlene Dietrich to a fare-thee-well), Alex Karras and Gene Wilder as "The Waco Kid". Brooks himself plays a woman-hungry governor and an indian chief. A romp with a light-hearted brigade that ends up in an unlikely battle royal involving, among others, Dom DeLuise and a mountain of beefcake.

FRI., OCT. 30

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) HALLOWEEN. Terror! Terror! Terror! With Donald Pleasence and Jamie Lee Curtis. Whatever happened to bobbing for apples and trick or treat? Oh. This film contains elements of shock and suspense. Parental discretion is advised. Cost/earnings-wise, it is the most successful film ever made; stylistically, it's the one that all the others have since tried to emulate.

SAT., OCT. 31

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) DISNEY'S "THE LAST FLIGHT OF NOAH'S ARK" (1). Ricky Schroder and Elliott Gould star in this delightful film that sees an intrepid and unlikely band of castaways turn an old B-29 bomber into a modern Ark to escape from an unmapped tropical isle.

Genevieve Bujold, Tammy Lauren and Vincent Gardenia co-star. Conclusion next week at same time.

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) KILLING AT HELL'S GATE. Filmed along the Rogue River in Oregon, this gripping tale is about a party of river rafters whose pleasure trip turns into a whitewater nightmare. Stars Robert Urich, Deborah Raffin, Lee Purcell and Paul Burke. Rapids, whirlpools, chutes, cataracts and terror.

SUN., NOV. 1

Clint Eastwood

8-10:30PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) EVERY WHICH WAY BUT LOOSE. Clint Eastwood is an easy-going truck driver who always keeps his eyes open and his fists clenched as he defends his reputation as the best barroom brawler in southern California. With Sondra Locke, Geoffrey Lewis, Beverly D'Angelo, Ruth Gordon and 165-pound Southeast Asian orangutan "Popi", herein known as "Clyde".

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

DEATH OF A CENTERFOLD: THE DOROTHY STRATTEN STORY. A hard-hitting drama based on the true-life experiences of a Cinderella-like Canadian teenager who goes to Hollywood to find fame, fortune... and tragedy. Stars Jamie Lee Curtis, Bruce Weitz, Robert Reed and Mitchell Ryan. One of the most tragic stories in recent Hollywood history.

9-11:18PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

The Goodbye Girl

THE GOODBYE GIRL. Hello, hello! Neil Simon's multi-Academy Award-nominated hit comedy about an ambitious young actor who solves his housing problem by sharing an apartment with a beautiful gal who is stubbornly certain that their inevitable romance would be disastrous. Stars Richard Dreyfuss and Marsha Mason'll give you softening of the hearteries!

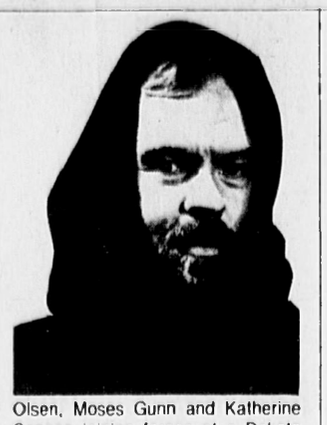

MON., NOV. 2

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) BORN TO BE SOLD. Lynda Carter portrays a social worker who attempts to expose a baby-selling operation even though it involves great personal danger. Co-starring Harold Gould, Philip Sterling, Dean Stockwell, Lloyd Haynes, Ed Nelson, Donna Wilkes and Sharon Farrell.

TUES., NOV. 3

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) FATHER MURPHY. Special premiere of a new series with Merlin

Olsen, Moses Gunn and Katherine Cannon joining forces at a Dakota Territory gold claim to fight the controls of a brutal tycoon and running into more than they bargained for. Michael Landon is creator, writer, director and executive producer of the drama.

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) THE PRINCESS AND THE CABBIE. The story of an insecure young lady who suffers from dyslexia and a feisty, self-taught cab driver who becomes her teacher-and the deep relationship that develops between the two. Stars Valerie Bertinelli and Robert Desiderio. This teleflick was rescheduled from October 27.

FRI., NOV. 6

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) THE LEGACY OF MAGGIE WALSH.

Katherine Ross, Sam Elliott and Roger Daltry in an eerie drama about a series of sinister events in an English mansion controlled by evil spirits. Better draw the blinds this October eve. (Released theatrically as just plain ole The Legacy.)

SAT., NOV. 7

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) DISNEY'S "THE LAST FLIGHT OF NOAH'S ARK." (2). Conclusion.

SUN., NOV. 8

5-6PM CBS (4 Central/Mountain) A TALE OF FOUR WISHES. Singer-actor Rick (second son of O.&H.) Nelson is a friendly stranger who helps a bewildered 13-year-old girl learn the secrets of making wishes come true. No mere wishing on a star, salt over your shoulder or pulling at a turkey bone. A Sunday special.

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) THE GAUNTLET. Clint Eastwood is a harried city detective who runs into ferocious opposition attempting to transport a key witness (Sondra Locke, of course) to a mob trial. Eastwood also directed this absurd action drama.

9-11:15PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

JOHN TRAVOLTA GREASE

GREASE. John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John at Frankie Avalon High. The '50's were never like this but who cares. Watch Stockard Channing steal the show, though a little long of tooth to be playing a teenager, she gets a lot of mileage out of this one.

MON., NOV. 9

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) FOR LADIES ONLY. An aspiring young actor fails to find work in Big Apple show biz until a friend introduces him to the world of male exotic dancing, where he's a whipper as a stripper! Gregory Harrison, Louise Lasser, Lee Grant, Patricia Davis, Dinah Manoff and Marc Singer.

specials

FRI., OCT. 30

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) SOMEDAY, YOU'LL FIND HER, CHARLIE BROWN and IT'S THE GREAT PUMPKIN, CHARLIE BROWN. A special doubleheader marking the 16th year the animated Peanuts have been on the CBS television network. "Good grief", how time flies!

8-11PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain) AMERICAN BANDSTAND'S 30TH ANNIVERSARY. Dick Clark, the world's oldest teenager, celebrates three decades as host of America's longest running and most popular teenage dance show.

SAT., OCT. 31

9-10PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) THE NASHVILLE PALACE.

TUES., NOV. 10

9-10PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) ULTRA QUIZ. (1). A two-part special with Dan Rowan and Dick Martin.

Jonathan Brant

JONATHAN BRANT

Jonathan Brant
33 Maple Avenue
Candidate for School Committee, Ward 1 Alderman

Biographical data: B.A. Brandeis University; J.D. Harvard Law School; Attorney and Associate Professor of Law, New England School of Law; former Assistant Attorney General; treasurer, Newton Toddler Program.

RESPONSES:

1. The change in structure of the junior high schools provides an opportunity to clarify the purposes of junior high as the bridge between elementary school and high school. In junior high, students must learn the importance of good study habits as well as gaining a sense of the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

2. The Superintendent must be a leader of staff and one who relates well to students and parents. In addition he or she must have familiarity with budgets and have strengths as an administrator. Most importantly, the Superintendent must have a commitment to excellence in education and be able to communicate that commitment to staff, students, and the community.

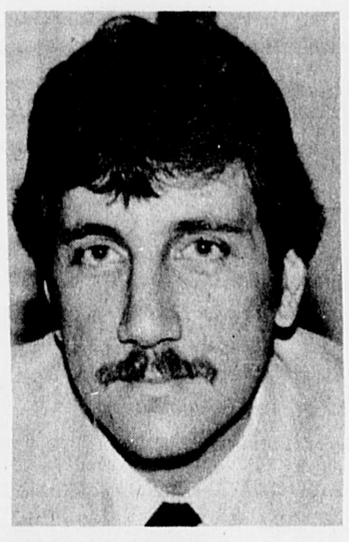

3. The School Committee should provide general oversight over curriculum development leaving the details of implementation to the administration. It is vital that the School Committee be aware of what is being taught and be willing to set policy directions when necessary.

Similarly, the implementation of teacher evaluations should be performed by the administration. The School Committee should be committed to insuring that such evaluations are conducted appropriately and used to encourage teaching excellence.

4. The current contract allows the School Committee to utilize criteria other than strict seniority if tenured teachers are laid off. Obviously any constriction of the teaching staff is painful, but if it is necessary, the School Committee should utilize the terms of the current contract to include teaching excellence among the criteria for determining who is retained.

5. There is no way that the School budget can accommodate a cut of nearly four millon dollars without dramatic changes in the quality of education offered to the children of Newton. Therefore, the School Committee must fight to preserve an adequate budget for the schools system. The School Committee and the school constitutency must work togehter with the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen to insure adequate funding. The maintenance of quality education is our duty and we cannot stray from that duty.

Leonard Gentile

LEONARD GENTILE

Leonard Gentile
20 Emerald Street

Candidate for School Committee, Ward 1

Biographical data: Administrative Assistant, Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs; graduate of Newton North; B.A. History, University of Maine; former secondary school teacher, Newton and Maine school systems.

RESPONSES:

1. (A.) The implementation of a unique junior high curriculum, maintaining (a broad variety of) new fields to explore, yet with renewed emphasis on correct study skills to prepare for the increasing responsibilities (and independence) of high school.

(B). Greater attention to the conflicts of early adolescence and the teaching of self discipline, both in personal behavior and stronger study habits.

2. Someone who (1) understands the delicate balance between innovative creative thinking and the more standard, structural classroom skills, (2) encourage a wide spectrum of teaching techniques with a renewed emphasis on writing skills, (3) possesses true responsiveness to community input, and (4) has proven leadership and administrative skills necessary to implement this philosophy.

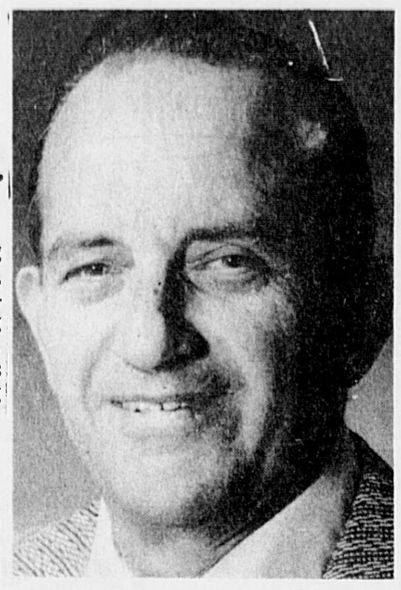

3. (In curriculum development) I would insure that community concerns are effectively communicated to the coordinators whose role is to develop the curriculum, which is implemented by the principals and department heads. In teacher evaluation, I would research different sources to effect an updated and equitable teacher evaluation form.

Administration, through constructive discussion, should use evaluations as a means to improve individual staff performance.

4. I agree with the previous efforts by the School Committee to encourage early retirement and leaves of absence in dealing with necessary tenured cutbacks. After that, our present method, which considers seniority and "the good of the system," (i.e. a need for a particular field of expertise,) should then be implemented with high regard for principals' evaluations.

5. Should this prove necessary, I would be very active in attempting to secure additional local aid funds. I am against cutting entire programs and would rather make whatever percentage cuts are possible within each area, keeping the most direct services, i.e. qualified teachers, manageable classroom sizes, specialists, aides, etc. in highest priority.

Kenneth Hartford

KENNETH HARTFORD

Kenneth R. Hartford
30 Clarendon Street
Newtonville

Candidate for School Committee, Ward 2

Biographical data: Lifelong resident, attended public schools, Newton Jr. College and Northeastern. Program Planning Manager, Raytheon, Bedford. Member SCAN 2 ½, Taxpayer's Association, Principal Screening Committee, Cabot & Day.

RESPONSES:

1. Academic growth and adolescent development in preparation for the transition from the comfort and security of neighborhood elementary schools to large and sometimes foreboding high school. Building the students confidence by this growth and development in order for them to function as responsible individuals and members of the school community.

2. A proven understanding of a similar system. An educator who will provide leadership to inspire the staff. Provide accountability through meaningful student and teacher performance evaluations. Have high expectations for all students. Leadership in program, curriculum and staff development. Accessible to parents and staff, willingness to address their concerns.

3. My role will be to provide the policy support necessary to ensure constant evaluation to be certain that the most effective curriculum and methods are utilized, that teacher evaluation criteria is clearly defined and uniformly implemented. The Administration's role is to provide the leadership and guidance to implement these policies.

4. I would strive for a R.I.F. clause that takes into consideration Professional Training/Education, Experience, Quality of Teaching Performance, System Needs and Seniority. My goal — best possible education for all studnts. I'm sure the Administration and the Teachers Association share that goal. With that baseline, we won't be far apart.

5. We must address the perceptions that brought about the conditions. We must be open and honest with parents and public about both our systems strengths and weaknesses. My guidelines will be — maintain, in order of priority, direct services to students and direct support to direct services to students.

Kathy Jones

KATHY JONES

Kathy Jones
1087 Commonwealth Ave.
Newton

Candidate for School Committee, Ward 2

Biographical data: No information submitted.

RESPONSES:

1. School Committee: Knowledgeable about all areas of curriculum; strengths and weaknesses.

Stress specific areas where additions or revisions are needed. Vote monies for development and training. Communicate concerns of parents to administration.

Administration: Responsible for implementing curriculum development; Responsible for setting priorities for curriculum development; Responsible for communicating to School Committee and Community vis-a-vis curriculum status and development; Accountability for implementation of curriculum.

School Committee: Policy decisions re: frequency and specificity of staff evaluation; Approval of evaluation format based on recommendation of administration; Demand accountability of administration for effective evaluations.

Administration: Support meaningful evaluation process: Train administrators to update evaluation skills; Demand accountability for realistic assessments of performance.

2. Criteria for maintaining diversity of staff retained in contract language reflected in meeting "needs of the system." Seniority should not be sole determining factor in layoff. All of us want the best teaching staff possible. Pride in the profession represented by the NTA wants to maintaining the excellence of teachers in the system. We all have a common goal.

3. Additional cuts in the school department budget will have negative long term effects on the education of children in this system. If we were forced to reduce the budget by 10 percent I would support cuts across the board in all areas of program rather than the elimination of specific programs.

4. Strength of the two year junior high school program should be a challenging and interesting curriculum that demands effort from students in developing skills. The learning environment should be supportive and responsive to the needs of early adolescent people for structure and limits. A strong guidance component is important. Increased articulation between departments in the junior high schools is essential.

5. The Superintendent should be able to bring diverse groups of people together for effective and open communication and planning (citizens, municipal officials, school staff etc.)

Proven administrative ability; Proven fiscal management skills; Support diversity of teaching styles within school system; Demand accountability for academic performance of students from all socio-economic and racial groups; Support inservice training for staff; Be accessible to staff and community; Be receptive to new ideas; Support racial and sex representation in administrative and teaching positions.
